STOP PRESS:

The Marine and Coastal Access Act 2009 makes provision in relation to marine functions and activities; makes provision about migratory and freshwater fish; makes provision for and in connection with the establishment of an English coastal walking route and of rights of access to land near the English coast; enables the making of Assembly Measures in relation to Welsh coastal routes for recreational journeys and rights of access to land near the Welsh coast; makes further provision in relation to Natural England and the Countryside Council for Wales; makes provision in relation to works which are detrimental to navigation; and amends the Harbours Act 1964. The Act received the royal assent on 12 November 2009 and the following provisions came into force on that day: ss 316-320, 322-325, Sch 5 (in part). Further provisions came into force on 12 January 2010: ss 1-3, 14-22, 24, 26-28, 31, 32-40, 42-64, 65-84 (England), 190-216, 217 (in part), 220-222, 223 (in part), 224-232, 233 (in part), 235, 237-239, 243-262, 264-313, 315, 321 (in part), Schs 1-3, 16 (in part), 17, 18, 21, 22 (in part): s 324, SI 2009/3345. Further provisions come into force on 1 January 2011, so far as not already in force: ss 215-233, Sch 16 and Sch 22 Pt 5 (SI 2010/298). The remaining provisions come into force on a day or days to be appointed. For details of commencement, see the COMMENCEMENT OF STATUTES table in the Current Service Noter-up booklet.

Part 1 (ss 1-40) The Marine Management Organisation

Chapter 1 (ss 1-3) Establishment

Section 1 establishes a body to be known as the Marine Management Organisation ('MMO'), and introduces Schs 1, 2, which make further provision as to the status and constitution of the MMO. The MMO is to act as the United Kingdom Government's strategic delivery body in the marine area, and s 2 sets out the MMO's general objective in relation to its marine functions, which is to ensure that activity in its marine area is managed, regulated and controlled with the objective of making a contribution to the achievement of sustainable development. The Secretary of State is to set objectives and performance indicators for the MMO which it must endeavour to meet: s 3.

Chapter 2 (ss 4-13) Licensing of fishing boats

Section 4 transfers to the MMO the function of the Secretary of State in relation to the granting of fishing licences within British fishery limits. Section 5 provides for the MMO to be subject to a duty to vary a licence following a successful appeal against certain provisions in the licence restricting the amount of time that a vessel may spend at sea. The functions of the Secretary of State in licensing vessels involved in the trans-shipment of fish are also transferred to the MMO by virtue of s 6. Section 7 makes provision supplementary to ss 4 and 6. The functions of the Secretary of State relating to the authorisation of fishing operations for scientific and other purposes are transferred to the MMO by s 8, and the functions of the Secretary of State in granting licences in England and the English inshore region for the killing or taking of seals are transferred to the MMO by s 9. Section 10 provides that the powers under the Wildlife and Countryside Act 1981 s 16 to grant licences in certain circumstances for otherwise prohibited activities are to be exercised by the MMO, instead of the Secretary of State or Natural England, in the case of any such activities in the sea adjacent to England that lies seaward of mean low water mark out to 12 nautical miles. The 2009 Act s 11 amends the Sea Fisheries (Wildlife Conservation) Act 1992, to place the MMO under the same duty as the Secretary of State, when discharging any sea fisheries functions, to have regard to the conservation of marine flora and fauna and to try to achieve a reasonable balance between that consideration and any other considerations to which it is required to have regard. By virtue of s 12, certain of the functions of the Secretary of State in issuing consents under the Electricity Act 1989 s 36 relating to the construction, extension and use of offshore generating stations are also transferred to the MMO, and by virtue of the 2009 Act s 13, the MMO will also be able to issue notices under the Energy Act 2004 s 95 declaring safety zones around those offshore generating stations (described as renewable energy installations) for which it issues those consents.

Chapter 3 (ss 14-22) Agreements involving the MMO for the exercise of functions

Section 14 allows the Secretary of State to enter into agreements with the MMO authorising the MMO to perform marine functions currently performed by the Secretary of State. With the approval of the Secretary of State, s 15 enables the MMO, to make agreements with bodies listed in s 16 authorising those bodies to perform the MMO's functions on its behalf. Those functions which may not be delegated to the MMO or an eligible body are set out in s 17. By virtue of s 18, the maximum amount of time that an agreement between the Secretary of State and the MMO or an agreement between the MMO and an eligible body may last is 20 years. Section 19 provides that an agreement may still be entered into with a body which is already involved with the function in some way. Additional provision in relation to agreements with harbour authorities which are local authorities is made by s 20. Section 21 makes supplementary provision with respect to agreements, and s 22 is interpretational.

Chapter 4 (ss 23-40) Miscellaneous, general and supplemental provisions

Section 23 amends certain sections of the Planning Act 2008 to set out the MMO's role in relation to development consents. The MMO has powers, by virtue of the 2009 Act s 24, to undertake research on matters relevant to its functions or its general objective, either by itself or in association with others, and to commission or support others to undertake such research. The MMO's duties and powers to provide advice and assistance, and the use of training facilities, to the Secretary of State, public bodies and any other person, are specified by s 25. Section 26 enables the MMO to publish documents and provide information about anything relating to its general objective or any of its functions, and s 27 enables the MMO to make a reasonable charge for any services it provides (on a cost-recovery basis). The MMO is to be accountable to the Secretary of State, who will from time to time require, in writing, information from the MMO relating to the performance of its functions: s 28. The MMO is to have responsibilities for enforcement in the marine area, including bringing prosecutions where appropriate, and s 29 makes provision with respect to the powers of the MMO to pursue criminal proceedings and proceedings for the recovery of monetary penalties imposed under the Act. By virtue of s 30, the MMO may continue prosecutions that have already been started by the Secretary of State, including prosecutions started by the Marine and Fisheries Agency, where those prosecutions are for offences related to functions transferred to the MMO or are for offences under fisheries legislation. Section 31 allows the MMO to take action which will help it to exercise its functions and meet its general objective, such as borrowing money, holding property, and investing money. Section 32 enables the Secretary of State to make the appropriate funds available to the MMO by way of grant, and s 33 allows the MMO to borrow money as necessary to enable it to carry out its functions. By virtue of s 34, the MMO's ability to borrow is limited to £20m, although the Secretary of State may increase this (up to £80m) by order, subject to approval by the House of Commons. Section 35 enables the Secretary of State to lend money to the MMO and makes the loan subject to any appropriate repayment conditions. The Secretary of State may guarantee loans, interest and other financial obligations of the MMO: s 36. Under s 37, the Secretary of State may, following consultation, give general or specific directions to the MMO regarding the exercise of its functions, including directions in relation to international agreements to which the United Kingdom or European Union is a party. Section 38 provides for the Secretary of State to issue guidance to the MMO regarding the exercise of its functions, and the MMO must have regard to any guidance issued. Section 39, Sch 3 enable the Secretary of State to make schemes to transfer to the MMO property, rights and liabilities of the Department for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs (including those of the Marine and Fisheries Agency), other government departments, ministers and statutory bodies, and also allows the transfer of any property, rights and liabilities from the MMO to ministers, government departments and statutory bodies. The Secretary of State may require a government department, minister or other statutory body to make staff, premises or other facilities available to the MMO on a temporary basis: s 40.

Part 2 (ss 41-43) Exclusive Economic Zone, UK marine area and Welsh zone

Section 41, Sch 4 allow for the declaration of an Exclusive Economic Zone to replace the existing zones, namely the areas within British fishery limits, the Renewable Energy Zone, the Pollution Zone, and the Gas Importation and Storage Zone, in order to simplify the management of the United Kingdom's offshore maritime areas. Section 42 defines the UK marine area for the purposes of managing the United Kingdom's maritime space; it includes those areas of the sea and seabed over which the United Kingdom enjoys sovereignty in addition to those offshore areas over which the United Kingdom is able to assert its sovereign rights. The Government of Wales Act 2006 s 158(1) is amended by the 2009 Act s 43 to insert a definition of the Welsh zone.

Part 3 (ss 44-64) Marine planning

Chapter 1 (ss 44-48) Marine policy statement

Section 44 describes what is meant by a 'marine policy statement' ('MPS') and defines the MPS as a document that is prepared and adopted by the policy authorities, in accordance with the process laid down in Sch 5, and which sets out their policies for contributing to the sustainable development of the UK marine area. By virtue of s 45, the policy authorities may prepare an MPS by acting jointly; an MPS may also be adopted by the Secretary of State acting jointly with only one or two of the other policy authorities, or alone if necessary. Policy authorities must review the MPS whenever they consider it appropriate to do so: s 46. Section 47 enables an MPS to be amended, but only the policy authorities which originally prepared and adopted an MPS may amend it. If any one of the policy authorities which originally adopted an MPS comes to the conclusion that the MPS no longer reflects their policy, and that authority does not want to, or cannot, correct the problem by making an amendment to the MPS, s 48 enables the authority to withdraw from the MPS by first notifying the other policy authorities of their intention, and then placing a notice in the London, Belfast and Edinburgh Gazettes.

Chapter 2 (ss 49-54) Marine plans

Section 49 identifies each of the component 'regions' within the UK marine area for the purposes of identifying who will be responsible for planning in that region, and s 50 sets out which marine plan authorities are to have responsibility for the different regions of the UK marine area. Provision is made by s 51 for the creation of marine plans, and certain basic requirements as to their content and the way in which they are to be prepared are set out. A marine plan authority may amend a marine plan, and any such amendment must be prepared and adopted in accordance with Sch 6 in exactly the same way as the original plan: s 52. If the marine plan authority comes to the conclusion that there is a problem with the plan which it does not want to, or cannot, rectify by making an amendment, a marine plan may be withdrawn: s 53. Section 54 requires the marine plan authorities to keep under review matters which may affect their functions of identifying marine plan areas, and preparing plans for them.

Chapter 3 (ss 55-57) Delegation of functions relating to marine plans

Section 55 enables a marine plan authority to direct another public body to carry out some of its marine planning functions, by giving it a direction, and s 56 contains a number of additional rules about directions issued under s 55. Where a marine plan authority has delegated some of its planning functions by directions under s 55, s 57 enables the marine plan authority to give further directions to a public body to which it has delegated functions, setting out how those functions should be performed.

Chapter 4 (ss 58-61) Implementation and effect

Section 58 makes provision about the effect which 'the appropriate marine policy documents' are to have on the taking of certain decisions by public authorities; the documents that may be appropriate marine policy documents are the MPS and any marine plans. The rules for determining whether the MPS or any particular marine plan is an appropriate marine policy document in any article case are set out in s 59 (as read with s 60). By virtue of s 61, each marine plan authority must monitor and report on the effects and effectiveness of its existing plans, and report every six years until 2030 on the way it has used, and intends to use, its marine planning powers.

Chapter 5 (ss 62-64) Miscellaneous and general provisions

Section 62 sets out how people may challenge the content of marine policy documents, or amendments to them, in court, and s 63 sets out the powers of a court hearing a challenge to the validity of a marine policy document. Section 64 deals with interpretation.

Part 4 (ss 65-115) Marine licensing

Chapter 1 (ss 65-73) Marine licences

By virtue of s 65, anyone undertaking an activity mentioned in s 66 will need to obtain a licence from the appropriate licensing authority, subject to any exemption provided for in the Act. The licensing authority, by virtue of ss 67, 68, may specify in what form an application for a marine licence should be submitted and may charge an application fee. When determining an application for a marine licence the licensing authority must have regard to the need to protect the environment, the need to protect human health, the need to prevent interference with legitimate uses of the sea, and such other matters as the authority thinks relevant (s 69), and the appropriate licensing authority may cause an inquiry to be held in connection with the determination of an application for a marine licence (s 70). The licensing authority may, by virtue of s 71, impose conditions on any licence it grants. Under s 72, the licensing authority may vary, suspend or revoke a licence in certain cases by notice. Each appropriate licensing authority is under an obligation to establish a mechanism through which an applicant for a marine licence may appeal against its decision to refuse to grant a licence or against any of the conditions attached to one: s 73.

Chapter 2 (ss 74-84) Exemptions and special cases

By virtue of s 74, the licensing authority may, by order, either exempt activities from the need for a licence completely, or specify conditions which, if met, will mean the activity may be exempted from the need for a licence. Section 75 provides exemptions for certain dredging activities. Marine licensing as described in Pt 4 does not apply to any dredging done, in the exercise of specified functions, in the Scottish zone for the purpose of extracting minerals: s 76. Section 77 exempts from the need to obtain a marine licence certain activities licensable under the Petroleum Act 1998 or the Energy Act 2008. Where a marine licence is required and an application for a harbour order has been, or is likely to be, made, the 2009 Act s 78 provides that in such cases the authority granting, or likely to grant, the harbour order, in conjunction with the marine licensing authority, if it is a different body, may issue a notice to the applicant stating that both the application for a harbour order and the application will be subject to the same administrative procedure. Where both a marine licence and consent under the Electricity Act 1989 s 36 (in relation to offshore generating stations) are required, the 2009 Act s 79 provides that the authority to determine consent under the 1989 Act s 36, in conjunction with the marine licensing authority, if it is a different body, may issue a notice to the applicant stating that both the application for a s 36 consent and the application for a marine licence will be subject to the same administrative procedure. The 2009 Act s 80 removes the obligation for an operator to apply to the Secretary of State for a licence under the Electronic Communications Code as set out in the Telecommunications Act 1984 Sch 2. In the case of certain submarine cables, the 2009 Act s 81 restricts the application of the marine licensing regime as respects their laying or maintenance. In cases where an activity requires a licence under the Act, and would otherwise also require consent under the Water Resources Act 1991 s 109, the Environment Agency may remove the need for separate consent under the 1991 Act by issuing a notice to that effect to the applicant: 2009 Act s 82. In cases where an activity requires a licence under the 2009 Act, and would otherwise also require consent from the Admiralty under any local legislation, the Secretary of State may remove the need for that separate consent by issuing a notice to that effect: s 83. In cases where an activity requires a licence under the 2009 Act, and would otherwise also require consent from the Environment Agency under any of its byelaws under the 1991 Act Sch 25, the Environment Agency may remove the need for that separate consent by issuing a notice to that effect: 2009 Act s 84.

Chapter 3 (ss 85-97) Enforcement

By virtue of s 85, it is an offence for a person to carry out a licensable activity without a licence or to do so in a manner that breaches any conditions of a licence. However, if a person undertakes a licensable activity without a licence but does so for the purpose of securing the safety of a vessel, aircraft or structure, or for the purpose of saving life, s 86 provides a defence against a charge under s 85 provided certain conditions are fulfilled. Section 87 provides a defence against such a charge where the activity is for the purpose of carrying out emergency works to electronic communications. A further defence to the undertaking of certain activities without a licence is provided by s 88. It is an offence for a person who is applying for a new licence, or for the variation or transfer of an existing licence or who, in complying, or purporting to comply, with obligations imposed either by Pt 4 or a licence, knowingly or recklessly supplies false or misleading information, or intentionally fails to disclose any material particular: s 89. Under s 90, a person carrying on a licensed activity in a manner that breaches the conditions of the licence may be issued with a notice requiring compliance. A person who has carried on or is in the process of carrying on a licensable activity, either without a licence or with a licence but in a manner that breaches the conditions of the licence and who has caused, is causing or is likely to cause any of the results described, may be issued with a remediation notice: s 91. Section 92 provides that all compliance and remediation notices must be in writing, must be served on the person carrying on or in control of the activity in question, and may, if a licence has been granted for that activity to another person, also be served on the licensee. Section 93 enables the licensing authority by order to grant to the appropriate enforcement authority the power to issue a fixed monetary penalty to a person in relation to an offence under Pt 4. Certain minimum requirements, that the licensing authority must ensure that any fixed monetary penalty regime includes, are specified in s 94. By virtue of s 95, the licensing authority may by order grant to the appropriate enforcement authority the power to issue a variable monetary penalty to a person in relation to an offence under Pt 4. Section 96 specifies certain minimum requirements that the licensing authority must ensure that any variable monetary penalty regime includes. Further provision in relation to the civil sanctions that may be imposed under Pt 4 is made by s 97, Sch 7.

Chapter 4 (ss 98-100) Delegation

Section 98 provides that the licensing authority may by order delegate any of its delegable marine licensing functions (as defined) to such other body as the licensing authority considers appropriate, and s 99 enables further provision to be made in an order concerning the exercise of any delegated functions. Where a licensing authority has delegated any of its licensing or enforcement functions under s 98, s 100 enables the licensing authority to give further directions to a person to whom it has delegated functions, setting out how those functions should be performed.

Chapter 5 (ss 101-115) Supplementary

By virtue of s 101, each licensing authority must maintain a register of information relating to applications and licences for which it is responsible and must make the register available to the public. An enforcement authority may issue a stop notice to a person prohibiting the person from carrying on a licensable marine activity if that activity is causing or is likely to cause serious harm to the environment or to human health or is causing or is likely to cause serious interference with legitimate uses of the sea: s 102. Stop notices must be in writing, must be served on the person carrying on or in control of the activity and, if a licence has been granted for that activity to another person, may also be served on the licensee: s 103. Sections 104, 105 make provision for emergency safety notices to be issued to a person if it appears that serious interference with legitimate uses of the sea is occurring, or is likely to occur, as a result of licensable works; the notice may require the provision of lights, signals or other aids to navigation or the stationing of guard ships until the serious interference, or threat of interference, is removed. Where it appears that a licensable marine activity has been carried on without a licence or in breach of the conditions of a licence, the appropriate licensing authority may carry out any works that appear to be necessary or expedient for the purpose of protecting the environment or human health, preventing interference with legitimate uses of the sea, preventing or minimising, or remedying or mitigating the effects of, any harm to the environment or any interference with legitimate uses of the sea, or restoring the condition of any place affected by any such harm or interference: s 106. At any person's request, the licensing authority may, by virtue of s 107, perform tests on substances for their effect on the marine environment, and the authority may charge for that testing. Provision as to appeals against notices under Pt 4 is made by s 108. In any proceedings for an offence under Pt 4, it is a defence under s 109 to prove that the person charged took all reasonable precautions and exercised all due diligence to avoid the commission of the offence. Proceedings for an offence under Pt 4 may be taken, and the offence may for all incidental purposes be treated as having been committed, in any part of the United Kingdom even if it was in fact committed at sea: s 110. Section 111 deals with application to the Crown, and ss 112, 113, Schs 8, 9 make amendments and transitional provisions. Section 113 contains the rules for determining who is the appropriate licensing authority for any area, and ss 114, 115 provide definitions of terms used in Pt 4.

Part 5 (ss 116-148) Nature conservation

Chapter 1 (ss 116-147) Marine conservation zones

Section 116 provides a power for the Welsh Ministers, Scottish Ministers and the Secretary of State to designate, as the appropriate authority, areas as marine conservation zones ('MCZs') by means of local orders. Section 117 sets out the circumstances in which ministers may designate an MCZ. Further provision as to orders designating MCZs is made by s 118, including the requirement to specify the boundaries of the designated area. By virtue of s 119, ministers must carry out public consultation before designating an MCZ, and s 120 makes provision for ministers to publish notice of the making of an order. Section 121 allows ministers to hold hearings before deciding whether to make an order under s 116 to designate an MCZ, and s 122 allows an order designating an MCZ to be amended or revoked by a further order. By virtue of s 123, the appropriate authority is under a duty to designate MCZs so as to contribute to the creation of a network of marine sites. The Secretary of State, the Welsh Ministers and the Scottish Ministers must report to Parliament, the Welsh Assembly and the Scottish Parliament, as appropriate, on progress in designating a network of MCZs: s 124. Section 125 places a general duty on public authorities to carry out their functions in the manner that they consider best furthers, or least hinders, the conservation objectives set for MCZs, and s 126 requires a public authority to inform the relevant statutory nature conservation body if it believes a proposed activity will hinder the achievement of the conservation objectives of an MCZ. Powers and duties are conferred by s 127 on the statutory nature conservation bodies (Natural England, the Joint Nature Conservation Committee and the Countryside Council for Wales) to give advice or guidance to public authorities in respect of MCZs. The relevant statutory nature conservation body is able, by virtue of s 128, to obtain an explanation if it thinks a public authority has failed to exercise its functions to further, or where permissible, least hinder, the conservation objectives of an MCZ, failed to notify the appropriate conservation body where it believes that an act requiring authorisation may have a significant risk of hindering the achievement of the conservation objectives of an MCZ, or failed to act in accordance with the guidance provided by the statutory nature conservation body. Section 129 gives the MMO the power to make byelaws to protect MCZs in the English inshore region and help further their conservation objectives; there is no power to make byelaws in the offshore region. The MMO must carry out public consultation before making a byelaw (s 130), and provision is made for emergency byelaws (s 131) and interim byelaws (s 132). Section 133 sets out the administrative and notification requirements in relation to byelaws, whether they are made urgently or not, and interim byelaws. Section 134 gives the Welsh Ministers the power to make conservation orders, in order to protect MCZs in the Welsh inshore region and help further their conservation objectives, and s 135 requires the Welsh Ministers to consult before making a conservation order, and to publish notice of the making of the order and to ensure that interested individuals are aware of the publication. By virtue of s 136, the Welsh Ministers may make interim orders to protect features where there may be reasons to designate an MCZ and where there is an urgent need to protect the feature. Administrative and notification requirements in relation to Welsh conservation orders, whether made urgently or not, and interim orders, are set out in s 137. Section 138 makes provision for the Secretary of State to hold a hearing before deciding whether to confirm a byelaw or revoke an emergency or interim byelaw, and also makes provision for the Welsh Ministers to hold hearings before deciding whether to make a conservation order or an interim order. Breaching any byelaw or conservation order is an offence: s 139. Section 140 creates a general offence where a person intentionally or recklessly causes damage or harm to the protected features of an MCZ. Section 141 sets out the circumstances in which a person will not be guilty of an offence under s 139 or 140. By virtue of s 142, the Secretary of State or the Welsh Ministers may make an order which confers a power on an enforcement authority to issue fixed monetary penalties for the breach of byelaws or conservation orders. Certain minimum requirements that must be included in any fixed monetary penalty regime are set out in s 143. Section 144 gives effect to the further provisions about fixed monetary penalties set out in Sch 10. Section 145 deals with application to the Crown and s 146, Schs 11, 12 make consequential and transitional provision. Section 147 is interpretational.

Chapter 2 (s 148) Other conservation sites

Section 148 introduces Sch 13 which amends the Wildlife and Countryside Act 1981.

Part 6 (ss 149-193) Management of inshore fisheries

Chapter 1 (ss 149-186) Inshore fisheries and conservation authorities

Section 149 provides for the Secretary of State to establish inshore fisheries and conservation districts ('IFC districts') which are to be established by order and are to consist of one or more local authority areas that have a seashore. By virtue of s 150, there must be an inshore fisheries and conservation authority ('IFC authority') for every IFC district; the IFC authority is a committee, or a joint committee (in the case of more than one local authority), of the local authority or authorities falling within the district. An order establishing an IFC district must provide for the membership of the IFC authority for that district (s 151), and the Secretary of State may amend or revoke an order that established an IFC district (s 152). Each IFC authority is placed under a duty, by s 153, to manage the exploitation of sea fisheries resources in its district. Each IFC authority must exercise its powers to seek to ensure that the conservation objectives of any MCZ in its district are furthered: s 154. Section 155 provides a power for an IFC authority to make byelaws which must be observed in its district, and s 156 sets out a non-exhaustive list of the types of activities for which IFC authorities may make byelaws, including emergency byelaws, to manage sea fisheries resources in their district. By virtue of s 157, an IFC authority may make an emergency byelaw which takes effect without first being confirmed by the Secretary of State. Supplementary provision concerning byelaws is made by s 158, and s 159 allows the Secretary of State to revoke or restrict the application of any byelaw made by an IFC authority where it appears to the Secretary of State that the byelaw is unnecessary, inadequate or disproportionate. Section 160 allows the Secretary of State to make regulations about the procedure to be followed by an IFC authority when making byelaws, including emergency byelaws. Provision as to inquiries is made by s 161, and s 162 provides that the production of a signed copy of a byelaw is conclusive evidence of the byelaw. A person is guilty of an offence if he contravenes any byelaw made by an IFC authority. Where a vessel is used in contravention of a byelaw the master, owner and charterer, if any, will each be guilty of an offence, and liable on summary conviction to a maximum fine of £50,000: s 163. Where a person is convicted of an offence, the court may order forfeiture of any fishing gear used in the commission of the offence or any fish in respect of which an offence was committed: s 164. Section 165 provides that inshore fisheries and conservation officers ('IFC officers') may be appointed by IFC authorities. The enforcement powers which are available to an IFC officer and the legislation in respect of which they may be exercised are set out in s 166. Section 167 gives an IFC authority the power, with the approval of the Secretary of State, to make an agreement with an 'eligible body' (defined by s 168), authorising the body to perform any of the IFC authority's functions on its behalf. Provision for the review, variation and cancellation of agreements made between IFC authorities and eligible bodies is made by s 169. Section 170 makes provision for cases where a body that is authorised to carry out a function under an agreement is already involved with the function in some way. By virtue of s 171, agreements, and approvals for them, must be in writing and agreements must be published in such a way as to bring them to the attention of persons likely to be affected. Provision is made by s 172 for an IFC authority to take such measures as it considers necessary in order to develop any fishery for sea fisheries resources in its district. Section 173 provides for IFC authorities to enter into arrangements, with or without charge, with another person or body for the provision of services by the IFC authority to that person or body. Section 174 requires an IFC authority to take such steps as it considers appropriate to co-operate with certain other public organisations that have functions relating to the regulation and enforcement of activities in any part of the sea within the IFC district and to co-operate with other IFC authorities that share a boundary with the IFC authority. Under s 175, IFC authorities must collect certain information and provide certain information to the Secretary of State, and under s 176, IFC authorities must keep proper accounts and proper records in relation to those accounts. Every IFC authority must make and publish a plan setting out the authority's main objectives and priorities for the year (s 177), and, as soon as is reasonably practicable after the end of each financial year, must publish a report on its activities in that year (s 178). The miscellaneous powers of an IFC authority are set out in s 179 and include matters necessary for the exercise of any of its other functions and the acquisition or disposal of land or other property. Section 180 establishes the funding arrangements for IFC authorities, and s 181 provides that an IFC authority may bring proceedings under the 2009 Act in its own name as well as bringing or defending any other proceedings in its own name. By virtue of s 182, no member or employee of an IFC authority acting in good faith is liable for anything done in connection with the discharge of the authority's functions. The Secretary of State is required, by s 183, to lay a report before Parliament on the conduct and operation of IFC authorities. Section 184, Sch 14 make minor and consequential amendments, s 185 deals with application to the Crown, and s 186 is interpretational.

Chapter 2 (ss 187, 188) Local fisheries committees

Section 187 repeals the Sea Fisheries Regulation Act 1966, and the 2009 Act s 188 provides for the appropriate national authority to make any provision necessary as a consequence of the repeal of the 1966 Act, including any transitional, consequential, incidental or supplemental provision or savings.

Chapter 3 (ss 189-193) Inshore fisheries in Wales

Section 189 confers power on the Welsh Ministers to make any provision by order which the IFC authorities may make by byelaw, but only to the extent that the Welsh Ministers do not already have the power to make such provision, and s 190 provides that it is an offence for a person or vessel to contravene any provision of an order made under s 189. Section 191 confers various powers on the court following conviction of a person for an offence under s 190. By virtue of s 192, the Welsh Ministers may enter into arrangements, with or without charge, with third parties (private fishery owners and grantees of several and regulating orders) for marine enforcement officers to undertake enforcement activities within those third party fisheries. Miscellaneous amendments to the Coast Protection Act 1949 and the Wildlife and Countryside Act 1981 are made by s 193.

Part 7 (ss 194-234) Fisheries

Chapter 1 (ss 194-201) The Sea Fish (Conservation) Act 1967

The 2009 Act s 194 amends the Sea Fish (Conservation) Act 1967 s 1 to provide for all the current powers available under orders made under that provision to apply to any requirements as to size, rather than minimum size limits only, and for the prohibition on carriage to apply to all relevant British vessels. Section 3 is amended by the 2009 Act s 195 so that fishing restrictions apply equally to persons fishing from the shore of England and Wales as to persons fishing from a boat, and to create new offences for any person fishing from the shore in contravention of any such restrictions and to allow for orders to exempt persons from the restrictions imposed. Section 196 amends the 1967 Act s 4 to enable ministers to specify the amount of the charge for commercial sea fishing vessel licences, to make provision as to how the charge should be determined or to provide that in specified circumstances no charge will be payable. Section 4 is further amended by the 2009 Act s 197 to allow the imposition of conditions in fishing licences for marine environmental purposes. By virtue of amendments made by s 198 to the 1967 Act, orders made under s 5 may now be made in relation to persons fishing from the shore. The 2009 Act s 199 amends the 1967 Act in relation to the penalties for offences. Section 12 is replaced by the 2009 Act s 200 and now provides that where offences under the 1967 Act ss 1-6 have been committed by a body corporate, then any officer, as defined, of the body corporate may be found to be guilty of that offence and liable to proceedings and fines. The 2009 Act s 201, Sch 15 makes further minor and consequential amendments to the 1967 Act.

Chapter 2 (ss 202-214) The Sea Fisheries (Shellfish) Act 1967

The 2009 Act s 202 amends the Sea Fisheries (Shellfish) Act 1967 s 1 to allow for orders to be made in relation to all types of shellfish including those not already listed, without the present requirement for regulations to be made each time the Secretary of State or the Welsh Ministers wishes to add a new type of shellfish to the list. Section 1 is further amended by the 2009 Act s 203 to enable several and regulating orders to be varied or revoked in order for development of the sea shore affected by such orders to be carried out. The 1967 Act s 3 is amended by the 2009 Act s 204 to set out the powers of grantees of regulating orders who have the right to regulate the fishery, and establish that grantees may spend monies collected by way of tolls and royalties for purposes connected with the regulation of the fishery, not just for the improvement of the fishery as currently provided. Section 205 amends the 1967 Act ss 3 and 7 so that the maximum fine that may be imposed by a court is increased to £50,000 in line with that for other fisheries legislation. Section 3 is amended by the 2009 Act s 206 to provide that, where a fishing boat is used in the commission of an offence, the master, owner and charterer, if any, of the boat are each guilty of an offence. The 1967 Act s 3 is also amended by the 2009 Act s 207 to ensure that where a regulating order enables a grantee to impose restrictions or make regulations about the dredging, fishing for and taking of shellfish, the grantee is able to carry into effect and enforce those restrictions and regulations in the same way as may be done for regulations imposed by and restrictions made in the order itself. Amendments made by s 208 to the 1967 Act s 4 allow for the removal of licences from a holder after a single conviction for a breach of licence or of the provisions of the regulating order. The 2009 Act s 209 adds new provision to the 1967 Act to require grantees of regulated fisheries to hold a register of current licence-holders' names and addresses and make it available for inspection free of charge. Section 7 is amended by the 2009 Act s 210 to extend the protection afforded to private oyster beds under that provision to all privately owned shellfish beds for the particular type of shellfish to which their rights of ownership relate. Section 211 amends the 1967 Act in relation to the use of implements of fishing, and amendments made by the 2006 Act s 212 provide exemptions from the offence of taking certain edible crabs and lobsters where a person has authorisation to take such shellfish for scientific purposes. Amendments made by s 213 allow the Secretary of State or the Welsh Ministers to make an order to introduce protection for lobsters under the 1967 Act s 17 independently of any other devolved administration, and amendments made by the 2009 Act s 214 remove the requirement to appoint an inspector and provide the Secretary of State or the Welsh Ministers with a discretionary power in making decisions on the appointment of an inspector and calling public inquiries.

Chapter 3 (ss 215-233) Migratory and freshwater fish

Section 215 amends the Salmon and Freshwater Fisheries Act 1975 s 1 to add to the list of instruments the use of which is prohibited for taking fish. The 2009 Act s 216 amends the 1975 Act s 2 to extend the prohibition on the use of roe for the purpose of fishing to lampreys, smelt, shad, and to any other specified fish. Section 25 is amended by the 2009 Act s 217 so as to extend the list of kinds of fish to which the licensing system applies to include lampreys, smelt and any fish specified in an order. Amendments made by s 218 to the 1975 Act s 26 allow orders under that provision to be made in respect of any kind of licence issued under s 25. The 2009 Act s 219 adds new provisions to the 1975 Act so as to (1) give the Environment Agency power to authorise a person to use any means (other than a licensable means of fishing) to fish for salmon, trout, eels, lampreys, smelt and freshwater fish, and other specified fish; and (2) make it an offence to fish for or take fish using any means of fishing, other than an instrument for which a licence is required, without an authorisation. Amendments relating to enforcement under the 1975 Act are made by the 2009 Act s 220. New provision added by s 221 to the 1975 Act empowers the appropriate national authority to specify additional species of fish to which ss 1, 2, 25, and 27A and the Salmon Act 1986 s 32 apply, and the 2009 Act s 222 adds new provision to the 1975 Act setting out the procedure for making such an order. The 2009 Act s 223 amends the 1975 Act to give amended definitions for eels and freshwater fish and new definitions for freshwater crayfish and smelt. The Water Resources Act 1991 is amended by the 2009 Act s 224 in relation to the Environment Agency's powers to make fisheries byelaws. The 1991 Act is further amended by the 2009 Act ss 225-227 in relation to emergency procedures for making byelaws, enforcement of byelaws, and compensation for byelaws. Section 228 raises the penalty for committing the offence of taking or destroying fish under the Theft Act 1968 to £5,000. The 2009 Act s 229 extends the offence, under the Salmon Act 1986 s 32, of handling salmon or sea trout in suspicious circumstances to eels, lampreys, smelt, freshwater fish, and other specified fish. The Environment Act 1995 s 6 is amended by the 2009 Act s 230 to extend the duty of the Environment Agency to maintain, improve and develop salmon fisheries, trout fisheries, freshwater fisheries and eel fisheries to include lampreys and smelt fisheries, and fisheries of other specified fish. The Scotland Act 1998 s 111, which relates to Tweed and Esk fisheries, is amended by the 2009 Act s 231. Section 232 allows the appropriate national authority to make regulations to prohibit persons from keeping any fish, introducing any fish into inland waters or removing any fish from inland waters without prior authorisation. Consequential amendments are made by s 233.

Chapter 4 (s 234) Obsolete fisheries enactments

Section 234 repeals six redundant Acts of Parliament relating to sea fisheries and part of another such Act.

Part 8 (ss 235-295) Enforcement

Chapter 1 (ss 235-244) Enforcement officers

Section 235 allows the MMO and the Welsh Ministers to appoint marine enforcement officers ('MEOs'), and s 236 sets out the areas in which and the vessels and installations in relation to which an MEO may exercise his enforcement powers for the purposes of enforcing the marine licensing regime set out in Pt 4. The areas in which and the vessels and installations in relation to which an MEO may exercise his enforcement powers for the purposes of enforcing legislation relating to nature conservation are set out in s 237, and s 238 sets out the areas in which and the vessels and installations in relation to which an MEO may exercise his enforcement powers for the purposes of enforcing sea fisheries legislation. By virtue of s 239, MEOs are automatically made British seafishery officers ('BSFOs') on appointment but where MEOs are able to exercise common enforcement powers under the Act, they cannot use their BSFO powers. Under s 240, the Secretary of State will be able to appoint persons to enforce Pt 4, to the extent that it relates to the licensing of activities relating to various reserved matters. Section 241 allows the Department of the Environment in Northern Ireland to appoint persons for the purpose of enforcing Pt 4, and s 242 enables Scottish Ministers to appoint persons for the purposes of enforcing licensing under Pt 4 in the Scottish offshore region. Section 243 enables Scottish Ministers to appoint officers with the common powers for the purpose of enforcing s 140, which creates the offence of damaging etc protected features of MCZs, in the Scottish offshore region. Section 244 is interpretational.

Chapter 2 (ss 245-262) Common enforcement powers

Section 245 introduces the purpose of Pt 8 Ch 2, which is to set out the powers available to MEOs and other enforcement officers, and defines key terms. The powers in s 246 enable enforcement officers to board and inspect any vessels and marine installations, subject to the need for a warrant pursuant to s 249 if the vessel or installation is a dwelling, to carry out their functions. The powers in s 247 enable enforcement officers to enter and inspect any premises, subject to the need for a warrant pursuant to s 249, to carry out any relevant functions. Section 248 enables enforcement officers to enter and inspect any vehicle at any time, subject to the need for a warrant pursuant to s 249 if the vehicle is a dwelling; an officer may also require the vehicle to be taken to an appropriate place to be inspected, and may require assistance as necessary from people in the vehicle or the registered keeper. By virtue of s 249, an enforcement officer may not enter a dwelling unless a justice has issued a warrant authorising entry; Sch 17 sets out further provisions relating to warrants. The powers in s 250 allow an enforcement officer, when exercising a power of inspection, to search those premises and examine anything in it, and further allow the officer to stop someone and detain them to perform a search of anything in their possession or control. Section 251 gives enforcement officers the power to require a person on or in the relevant premises being inspected to produce documents or records that they have. An enforcement officer may seize and detain or remove anything found on premises or, where a person has been undertaking an activity in respect of which the officer has enforcement powers, any item in the person's possession or control: s 252. Further provision about seizure is made by s 253. Section 254 allows items seized during an investigation to be kept for as long as is necessary for the investigation and any trial proceedings, unless a photograph or copy would provide sufficient evidence. Under s 255, enforcement officers have powers to use any device to take visual images of anything connected with the relevant premises for evidence in the investigation of a suspected offence. If the officer believes someone has committed an offence, that person may be required to give the officer their name and address: s 256. Section 257 provides that if the officer believes someone has been undertaking an activity which needs a licence, permit, etc, the officer may require that person to show that licence. Where an officer has boarded a vessel or marine structure or entered any premises he may require the attendance of those persons listed: s 258. Section 259 gives enforcement officers the power to direct a vessel or marine installation to the port they consider to be the nearest convenient port and detain it there where an officer believes that an offence has been committed and it would not be practical to carry out their duties without first taking the vessel or marine installation to port and detaining it there, or where the officer believes that the vessel itself is evidence of the commission of an offence and the only way to preserve the evidence is to take it into port. By virtue of s 260, enforcement officers may take other people and anything necessary, including equipment and materials, to assist them in their duties, and by virtue of s 261, enforcement officers and their assistants may use reasonable force wherever necessary to carry out their functions. Section 262 is interpretational.

Chapter 3 (s 263) Licensing enforcement powers

Section 263 enables enforcement officers to require a person to give details of any substance or objects on board a vehicle, vessel, aircraft or marine structure; people may also be required to declare information about substances or objects lost or missing from a vehicle, vessel, aircraft or marine structure.

Chapter 4 (ss 264-287) Fisheries enforcement powers

Section 264 provides enforcement officers with powers to inspect any object found in the sea which it is believed has been or is being used for or in connection with fishing, and, if necessary, to lift the object out of the sea for inspection. The reporting requirements that an enforcement officer must follow after inspecting objects under s 264, are set out in s 265. Provision is made by s 266 for the retention by the relevant authority of any objects seized under s 264. Section 267 sets out arrangements for the disposal of objects seized under s 264 where the relevant authority no longer wishes to retain the object or the relevant authority is required to make the object available for collection. Under ss 268, 269, an enforcement officer may seize fish or fishing gear for the purpose of forfeiture. Section 270 creates an obligation on the enforcement officer who seizes any fish or fishing gear under s 268 or 269 to serve a written notice on every person who appears to the officer to be the owner or one of the owners at the time the fish or gear were seized, and sets out other persons on whom the notice must be served, depending on the location from which the property was seized. The relevant authority is provided with the power, by virtue of s 271, to retain any fish or fishing gear seized under s 268 or 269. Section 272 allows the owner of any property, or the owner or charterer of the vessel if the property was seized from there, seized under s 268 or 269 and being retained under s 271, to lodge a bond with the relevant authority in return for its release. By virtue of s 273, the relevant authority has the power to sell any fish it has retained under s 271. Where the relevant authority no longer wishes to retain fish or fishing gear seized under s 268 or 269, or where it is required to make such property available for collection under s 271, s 274 requires a notice of collection to be served on every person who appears to be the owner, or owners, of the property. Section 275 provides a power for certain fishing gear seized by an enforcement officer to be forfeited to the relevant authority for disposal. A forfeiture power in respect of fish that fail to meet size requirements which corresponds to the forfeiture power in respect of fishing gear in s 275, is provided by s 276. Section 277, Sch 18 make detailed provision in respect of the forfeiture under s 275 or 276 of gear or fish which fail to meet size requirements. Where, after a successful prosecution under fisheries legislation, the court orders the forfeiture of the fish or gear in respect of which the offence was committed, s 278 provides that the relevant authority will be ordered to take possession of the property and may dispose of it as it sees fit; the proceeds of any sale may be retained by the relevant authority and the court may order the defendant to pay the costs of the relevant authority in storing the property. By virtue of s 279, an enforcement officer may detain a vessel to ensure the attendance of the alleged offenders in court and the payment of any fine on conviction. Provision is made by s 280 for the release of a vessel which is being detained under s 279. Where a vessel has been detained under s 279, s 281 provides a power for the court to order the release of the vessel if it is satisfied that the continued detention of the vessel is no longer necessary. Section 282 gives the relevant authority power to enter into an agreement with the owner or charterer of the vessel, or any of the owners or charterers of the vessel, to release a vessel detained under s 279 when a monetary security has been paid. Where a bond has been paid pursuant to s 282, and the notice of detention withdrawn, the court may order repayment of the bond to the person who provided the security if it is satisfied that the continuation of the bond is not necessary to ensure the attendance in court of the master, owner or charterer, or that, had the bond not been given, the court would not have ordered the detention of the vessel: s 283. An enforcement officer may request anybody on board a fishing boat to produce any automatic recording or transmitting equipment: s 284. Section 285 specifies the means by which notices required to be served under Pt 8 Ch 4 must be served, and s 286 establishes a means of determining when proceedings have been concluded. Section 287 deals with interpretation.

Chapter 5 (ss 288-292) Common enforcement provisions

Section 288 defines enforcement officer as someone who has powers under Pt 8, save those who have powers by virtue of being an assistant to an officer, and s 289 obliges enforcement officers who are exercising the common enforcement powers to show evidence that they have the authority to carry out their enforcement functions, when asked to do so. In conjunction with s 289, enforcement officers are also obliged to state their name, the power they are intending to use and reason for its use whenever they are requested to do so, although the officer may defer complying with the request if the immediate situation requires it: s 290. Unless an enforcement officer acts in bad faith or if there were no reasonable grounds for the officer to act in such manner, s 291 provides that enforcement officers and their assistants will be protected from liability in any civil or criminal proceedings for anything done or not done as a result of carrying out their functions. Section 292 provides for a number of offences that may be committed in relation to enforcement officers or people assisting them.

Chapter 6 (ss 293-295) Miscellaneous and supplementary

Section 293 amends the Fisheries Act 1981 s 30 so that it applies both to enforceable Community restrictions and enforceable Community obligations. The 2009 Act s 293 introduces powers for the Secretary of State (in relation to England or vessels outside the Welsh zone) or the Welsh Ministers (in relation to Wales or vessels within the Welsh Zone) to apply Fixed Administrative Penalties to domestic fisheries offences, namely offences which do not originate in Community law. Section 295 deals with application to the Crown.

Part 9 (ss 296-310) Coastal access

Section 296 imposes a duty, described as the 'coastal access duty', on the Secretary of State and Natural England by reference to two objectives. The first objective is that there is a route around the whole of the English coast consisting of one or more long-distance routes and available to the public for recreational journeys on foot or by ferry. The second objective, is that there is a margin of land along the length of the coast which the public may enjoy. Section 297 sets out the requirements imposed on Natural England and the Secretary of State as regards considerations that they have to take into account in discharging the coastal access duty. Under ss 298, 299, Natural England must draw up a scheme setting out the approach it will take when discharging its coastal access duty, and must review the coastal access scheme from time to time. Section 300 defines the English coast for these purposes by reference to its adjacency to the sea. Where the coast is interrupted by a river, s 301 provides that Natural England may treat the relevant upstream waters of any river as if they were the sea. New provisions, which all refer to the coastal access duty and reports prepared pursuant to that duty, are added to the National Parks and Access to the Countryside Act 1949 by the 2009 Act s 302, Sch 19. Section 303 makes provision with regard to access to the coastal margin. Section 304, Sch 20 make further provision about the establishment and maintenance of the English coastal route. Section 305 makes clear that Natural England does not have unlimited responsibility for the safety of people who choose to use the route or associated access land. Provision is made by s 306 for the exclusion of occupiers' liability. Section 307 relates to the application of the Act to the Isles of Scilly, and s 309 deals with application to the Crown. Interpretation of Pt 9 is dealt with by s 309. Section 310 amends the Government of Wales Act 2006 to confer legislative competence on the National Assembly for Wales.

Part 10 (ss 311-315) Miscellaneous

Section 311 amends the Natural Environment and Rural Communities Act 2006 s 1 in order to clarify the area over which Natural England may exercise its functions. The Civil Contingencies Act 2004 is amended by the 2009 Act s 312 in order to remove Natural England from the lists of category 1 responders. Section 313 amends the Environmental Protection Act 1990 in order to clarify the area over which the Countryside Council for Wales may exercise its functions. The 2009 Act s 314 inserts a new navigational consenting regime into the Energy Act 2008 and provides a variety of powers for the enforcement of that regime. A number of miscellaneous amendments of the Harbours Act 1964 are set out in the 2009 Act s 315, Sch 21.

Part 11 (ss 316-325) Supplementary provisions

Section 316 contains general provisions for making regulations and orders, and s 317 contains details for making directions. Section 318 provides for individual liability in some cases where there is also corporate liability. By virtue of s 319, the Territorial Waters Jurisdiction Act 1878 s 3, which provides that a person who is not a British subject may not be prosecuted for an indictable offence committed in the territorial sea without the consent of the Secretary of State, is disapplied in relation to proceedings for offences committed under the 2009 Act. Section 320 allows the Secretary of State to make, by order, transitional provisions and savings. Section 321 gives effect to Sch 22, which makes various repeals. Section 322 deals with interpretation, s 323 deals with extent, and s 324 makes provision concerning commencement. Section 325 specifies the short title.

(2) LEGISLATION AND ADMINISTRATION

(i) European Community Legislation

7. The Water Framework Directive.

The Water Framework Directive<sup>1</sup> establishes a framework for Community action in the field of water policy. As set out in the EC treaty<sup>2</sup> and rehearsed in the preamble to the Directive<sup>3</sup>, the Community policy on the environment is to contribute to pursuit of the objectives of preserving, protecting and improving the quality of the environment, in prudent and rational utilisation of natural resources, and to be based on the precautionary principle and on the principles that preventive action should be taken, environmental damage should, as a priority, be rectified at source and that the polluter should pay<sup>4</sup>.

The purpose of the Directive is to establish a framework for the protection of inland surface waters<sup>5</sup>, transitional waters<sup>6</sup>, coastal waters<sup>7</sup> and groundwater<sup>8</sup> which:

- 1 (1) prevents further deterioration and protects and enhances the status of aquatic ecosystems and, with regard to their water needs, terrestrial ecosystems and wetlands directly depending on the aquatic ecosystems;
- 2 (2) promotes sustainable water use based on a long-term protection of available water resources;
- 3 (3) aims at enhanced protection and improvement of the aquatic environment, inter alia, through specific measures for the progressive reduction of discharges, emissions and losses of priority substances<sup>9</sup> and the cessation or phasing-out of discharges, emissions and losses of the priority hazardous substances<sup>10</sup>;
- 4 (4) ensures the progressive reduction of pollution<sup>11</sup> of groundwater and prevents its further pollution; and
- 5 (5) contributes to mitigating the effects of floods and droughts, and thereby contributes to: (a) the provision of the sufficient supply of good quality surface water and groundwater as needed for sustainable, balanced and equitable water use; (b) a significant reduction in pollution of groundwater; (c) the protection of territorial and marine waters, and (d) achieving the objectives of relevant international agreements<sup>12</sup>.

Member states must establish a programme of measures for each river basin<sup>13</sup> which will implement the environmental objectives set out in the Directive<sup>14</sup>. Specific objectives are set in relation to surface waters<sup>15</sup>, groundwater<sup>16</sup> and protected areas<sup>17</sup>. Where more than one such objective relates to a given body of water, the most stringent is to apply<sup>18</sup>; but member states may aim to achieve less stringent objectives than those required for specific bodies of water in certain circumstances<sup>19</sup>. Member states must ensure that for each river basin district<sup>20</sup> or for the portion of an international river basin district falling within their territory, an analysis of its characteristics, a review of the impact of human activity on the status of surface waters and on groundwater, and an economic analysis of water use is undertaken<sup>21</sup>. They must also ensure the establishment of a register or registers of all areas lying within each river basin district which have been designated as requiring special protection under specific Community legislation for the protection of their surface water and groundwater or for the conservation of habitats and species directly depending on water<sup>22</sup>.

Member states must identify, within each river basin district, all bodies of water used for the abstraction of water intended for human consumption providing more than 10 cubic metres a day as an average or serving more than 50 persons, and those bodies of water intended for such future use<sup>23</sup>. They must monitor<sup>24</sup> those bodies of water which provide more than 100 cubic metres a day as an average<sup>25</sup>. For each body of water so identified, in addition to meeting the environmental objectives<sup>26</sup>, member states must ensure that under the water treatment regime applied, and in accordance with Community legislation, the resulting water will meet the relevant water quality standards<sup>27</sup>. They must also ensure the necessary protection for the bodies of water identified with the aim of avoiding deterioration in their quality in order to reduce the level of purification treatment required in the production of drinking water; and may establish safeguard zones for those bodies of water<sup>28</sup>.

Member states must ensure the establishment of programmes for the monitoring of water status in order to establish a coherent and comprehensive overview of water status within each river basin district<sup>29</sup>. They must take account of the principle of recovery of the costs of water services, including environmental and resource costs<sup>30</sup>, and in accordance in particular with the polluter pays principle<sup>31</sup>. They must ensure by 2010 that water-pricing policies provide adequate incentives for users to use water resources efficiently, and thereby contribute to the environmental objectives of the Water Framework Directive; they must also ensure an adequate contribution of the different water uses, disaggregated into at least industry, households and agriculture, to the recovery of the costs of water services<sup>32</sup>; in so doing they may have regard to the social, environmental and economic effects of the recovery as well as the geographic and climatic conditions of the region or regions affected<sup>33</sup>.

Provision is made for the control of discharges into surface waters<sup>34</sup>. Each member state must ensure the establishment for each river basin district, or for the part of an international river basin district within its territory, of a programme of measures<sup>35</sup> in order to achieve the environmental objectives of the Directive<sup>36</sup>. It must also ensure that a river basin management plan is produced for each river basin district lying entirely within its territory<sup>37</sup>. Copies of the river basin management plans and all subsequent updates must be sent to the European Commission and to any other member state concerned within three months of their publication<sup>38</sup>. Member states must encourage the active involvement of all interested parties in the implementation of the Water Framework Directive, in particular in the production, review and updating of the river basin management plans<sup>39</sup>.

The Directive provides for the European Parliament and the Council to adopt specific measures against pollution of water by individual pollutants or groups of pollutants presenting a significant risk to or via the aquatic environment, including such risks to waters used for the abstraction of drinking water<sup>40</sup>, and specific measures to prevent and control groundwater pollution<sup>41</sup>. A number of the existing European Directives dealing with water pollution are prospectively repealed, subject to transitional provisions<sup>42</sup>.

Member states must determine penalties applicable to breaches of the national provisions adopted pursuant to the Water Framework Directive and such penalties must be effective, proportionate and dissuasive<sup>43</sup>.

The domestic laws, regulations and administrative provisions necessary to comply with the Directive were to be brought into force by 22 December 2003<sup>44</sup>. In the United Kingdom, the Water Environment (Water Framework Directive) (England and Wales) Regulations 2003<sup>45</sup>, the Water Environment (Water Framework Directive) (Northumbria River Basin District) Regulations 2003<sup>46</sup>, and the Water Environment (Water Framework Directive) (Solway Tweed River Basin District) Regulations 2004<sup>47</sup>, have been made for the purpose of implementing the Directive. These regulations are discussed in a later part of this title<sup>48</sup>.

6 'Transitional waters' are bodies of surface water in the vicinity of river mouths which are partly saline in character as a result of their proximity to coastal waters but which are substantially influenced by freshwater flows: European Parliament and EC Council Directive 2000/60 (OJ L327, 22.12.2000, p 01) art 2(6).

7 'Coastal water' means surface water on the landward side of a line, every point of which is at a distance of one nautical mile on the seaward side from the nearest point of the baseline from which the breadth of territorial waters is measured, extending where appropriate up to the outer limit of transitional waters: European Parliament and EC Council Directive 2000/60 (OJ L327, 22.12.2000, p 01) art 2(7).

8 'Groundwater' means all water which is below the surface of the ground in the saturation zone and in direct contact with the ground or subsoil: European Parliament and EC Council Directive 2000/60 (OJ L327, 22.12.2000, p 01) art 2(2).

10 'Priority hazardous substances' means substances identified in accordance with European Parliament and EC Council Directive 2000/60 (OJ L327, 22.12.2000, p 01) art 16(3), (6) for which measures have to be taken in accordance with art 16(1), (8); and 'hazardous substances' means substances or groups of substances that are toxic, persistent and liable to bio-accumulate, and other substances or groups of substances which give rise to an equivalent level of concern. art 2(29), (30).

11 'Pollution' means the direct or indirect introduction, as a result of human activity, of substances or heat into the air, water or land which may be harmful to human health or the quality of aquatic ecosystems or terrestrial ecosystems directly depending on aquatic ecosystems, which result in damage to material property, or which impair or interfere with amenities and other legitimate uses of the environment: European Parliament and EC Council Directive 2000/60 (OJ L327, 22.12.2000, p 01) art 2(33). As to water pollution see further PARA 25 et seq.

12 European Parliament and EC Council Directive 2000/60 (OJ L327, 22.12.2000, p 01) art 1. The international agreements mentioned in head (d) in the text include those which aim to prevent and eliminate pollution of the marine environment, by Community action under art 16(3) (adoption of specific measures against pollution of water) to cease or phase out discharges, emissions and losses of priority hazardous substances, with the ultimate aim of achieving concentrations in the marine environment near background values for naturally occurring substances and close to zero for man-made synthetic substances: see art 1.

13 'River' means a body of inland water flowing for the most part on the surface of the land but which may flow underground for part of its course; and 'river basin' means the area of land from which all surface run-off flows through a sequence of streams, rivers and, possibly, lakes into the sea at a single river mouth, estuary or delta: European Parliament and EC Council Directive 2000/60 (OJ L327, 22.12.2000, p 01) art 2(4), (13). 'Lake' means a body of standing inland surface water; and 'body of surface water' means a discrete and significant element of surface water such as a lake, a reservoir, a stream, river or canal, part of a stream, river or canal, a transitional water or a stretch of coastal water: art 2(5), (10).

15 In making operational the programmes of measures specified in the river basin management plans for surface waters (see European Parliament and EC Council Directive 2000/60 (OJ L327, 22.12.2000, p 01) arts 11, 13; and the text to notes 35-37), member states must: (1) implement the necessary measures to prevent deterioration of the status of all bodies of surface water, subject to the application of art 4(6), (7) (see note 19) and without prejudice to art 4(8) (see note 19); (2) protect, enhance and restore all bodies of surface water, subject to the application of head (3) for artificial and heavily modified bodies of water, with the aim of achieving good surface water status at the latest 15 years after the date of entry into force of the Water Framework Directive (ie 22 December 2003: see art 25), in accordance with the provisions laid down in Annex V, subject to the application of extensions determined in accordance with art 4(4) (see note 18) and to the application of art 4(5)-(7) without prejudice to art 4(8); (3) protect and enhance all artificial and heavily modified bodies of water, with the aim of achieving good ecological potential and good surface water chemical status at the latest 15 years from the date of entry into force of the Directive (ie 22 December 2003: see art 25), in accordance with the provisions laid down in Annex V, subject to the application of extensions determined in accordance with art 4(4) and to the application of art 4(5)-(7) without prejudice to art 4(8); (4) implement the necessary measures in accordance with art 16(1), (8), with the aim of progressively reducing pollution from priority substances and ceasing or phasing out emissions, discharges and losses of priority hazardous substances, without prejudice to the relevant international agreements referred to in art 1 for the parties concerned: art 4(1)(a). 'Artificial water body' means a body of surface water created by human activity; and 'heavily modified water body' means a body of surface water which as a result of physical alterations by human activity is substantially changed in character, as designated by the member state in accordance with the provisions of Annex II: art 2(8), (9). 'Good ecological potential' is the status of a heavily modified or an artificial body of water, so classified in accordance with the relevant provisions of Annex V; 'surface water status' is the general expression of the status of a body of surface water, determined by the poorer of its ecological status and its chemical status; 'good surface water status' means the status achieved by a surface water body when both its ecological status and its chemical status are at least 'good'; and 'good surface water chemical status' means the chemical status required to meet the environmental objectives for surface waters established in art 4(1)(a), ie the chemical status achieved by a body of surface water in which concentrations of pollutants do not exceed the environmental quality standards established in Annex IX and under art 16(7), and under other relevant Community legislation setting environmental quality standards at Community level: art 2(17), (18), (23), (24). 'Ecological status' is an expression of the quality of the structure and functioning of aquatic ecosystems associated with surface waters, classified in accordance with Annex V; and 'good ecological status' is the status of a body of surface water, so classified in accordance with Annex V: art 2(21), (22). Member states may designate a body of surface water as artificial or heavily modified, when the changes to the hydromorphological characteristics of that body which would be necessary for achieving good ecological status would have significant adverse effects on: (a) the wider environment; (b) navigation, including port facilities, or recreation; (c) activities for the purposes of which water is stored, such as drinking-water supply, power generation or irrigation; (d) water regulation, flood protection, land drainage; or (e) other equally important sustainable human development activities; and when the beneficial objectives served by the artificial or modified characteristics of the water body cannot, for reasons of technical feasibility or disproportionate costs, reasonably be achieved by other means, which are a significantly better environmental option: art 4(3). Such designation and the reasons for it must be specifically mentioned in the river basin management plans required under art 13 and reviewed every six years: art 4(3).

16 In making operational the programmes of measures specified in the river basin management plans for groundwater, member states must: (1) implement the measures necessary to prevent or limit the input of pollutants into groundwater and to prevent the deterioration of the status of all bodies of groundwater, subject to the application of European Parliament and EC Council Directive 2000/60 (OJ L327, 22.12.2000, p 01) art 4(6), (7) and without prejudice to art 4(8) (see note 19) and subject to the application of art 11(3)(j); (2) protect, enhance and restore all bodies of groundwater, ensure a balance between abstraction and recharge of groundwater, with the aim of achieving good groundwater status at the latest 15 years after the date of entry into force of the Directive (ie 22 December 2003: see art 25), in accordance with the provisions laid down in Annex V, subject to the application of extensions determined in accordance with art 4(4) (see note 18) and to the application of art 4(5)-(7) without prejudice to art 4(8) and subject to the application of art 11(3)(j); (3) implement the measures necessary to reverse any significant and sustained upward trend in the concentration of any pollutant resulting from the impact of human activity in order progressively to reduce pollution of groundwater; and measures to achieve trend reversal must be implemented in accordance with art 17(2), (4), (5) (see the text to note 41), taking into account the applicable standards set out in relevant Community legislation, subject to the application of art 4(6), (7) and without prejudice to art 4(8): art 4(1)(b).

'Body of groundwater' means a distinct volume of groundwater within an aquifer or aquifers; and 'aquifer' means a subsurface layer or layers of rock or other geological strata of sufficient porosity and permeability to allow either a significant flow of groundwater or the abstraction of significant quantities of groundwater: art 2(11), (12). 'Groundwater status' is the general expression of the status of a body of groundwater, determined by the poorer of its quantitative status and its chemical status; and 'good groundwater status' means the status achieved by a groundwater body when both its quantitative status and its chemical status are at least 'good': art 2(19), (20). 'Good groundwater chemical status' is the chemical status of a body of groundwater, which meets all the conditions set out in Annex V table 2.3.2: art 2(25). 'Quantitative status' is an expression of the degree to which a body of groundwater is affected by direct and indirect abstractions; and 'good quantitative status' is the status defined in Annex V table 2.1.2: art 2(26), (28).

17 In making operational the programmes of measures specified in the river basin management plans for protected areas (as to which see European Parliament and EC Council Directive 2000/60 (OJ L327, 22.12.2000, p 01) art 6; and the text to note 22), member states must achieve compliance with any standards and objectives at the latest 15 years after the date of entry into force of the Directive (ie 22 December 2003: see art 25), unless otherwise specified in the Community legislation under which the individual protected areas have been established: art 4(1)(c).

18 European Parliament and EC Council Directive 2000/60 (OJ L327, 22.12.2000, p 01) art 4(2). The deadlines established under art 4(1) (see notes 15-17) may be extended for the purposes of phased achievement of the objectives for bodies of water, provided that no further deterioration occurs in the status of the affected body of water when all of the following conditions are met: (1) member states determine that all necessary improvements in the status of bodies of water cannot reasonably be achieved within the timescales there set out for at least one of the following reasons: (a) the scale of improvements required can only be achieved in phases exceeding the timescale, for reasons of technical feasibility; (b) completing the improvements within the timescale would be disproportionately expensive; (c) natural conditions do not allow timely improvement in the status of the body of water; (2) extension of the deadline, and the reasons for it, are specifically set out and explained in the river basin management plan required under art 13 (see the text to note 37); (3) extensions are to be limited to a maximum of two further updates of the river basin management plan except in cases where the natural conditions are such that the objectives cannot be achieved within this period; (4) a summary of the measures required under art 11 (see the text to note 36) which are envisaged as necessary to bring the bodies of water progressively to the required status by the extended deadline, the reasons for any significant delay in making these measures operational, and the expected timetable for their implementation are set out in the river basin management plan.

A review of the implementation of these measures and a summary of any additional measures must be included in updates of the river basin management plan: art 4(4).

19 Member states may aim to achieve less stringent environmental objectives than those required under European Parliament and EC Council Directive 2000/60 (OJ L327, 22.12.2000, p 01) art 4(1) (see notes 15-17) for specific bodies of water when they are so affected by human activity, as determined in accordance with art 5(1) (see the text to note 21), or their natural condition is such that the achievement of these objectives would be infeasible or disproportionately expensive, and all the following conditions are met: (1) the environmental and socio-economic needs served by such human activity cannot be achieved by other means, which are a significantly better environmental option not entailing disproportionate costs; (2) member states ensure, for surface water, the highest ecological and chemical status possible is achieved, given impacts that could not reasonably have been avoided due to the nature of the human activity or pollution; for groundwater, the least possible changes to good groundwater status, given impacts that could not reasonably have been avoided due to the nature of the human activity or pollution; (3) no further deterioration occurs in the status of the affected body of water; (4) the establishment of less stringent environmental objectives, and the reasons for it, are specifically mentioned in the river basin management plan required under art 13 (see the text to note 37) and those objectives are reviewed every six years: art 4(5). Temporary deterioration in the status of bodies of water is not to be in breach of the requirements of the Directive if this is the result of circumstances of natural cause or force majeure which are exceptional or could not reasonably have been foreseen, in particular extreme floods and prolonged droughts, or the result of circumstances due to accidents which could not reasonably have been foreseen, when all of the following conditions have been met: (a) all practicable steps are taken to prevent further deterioration in status and in order not to compromise the achievement of the objectives of the Directive in other bodies of water not affected by those circumstances; (b) the conditions under which circumstances that are exceptional or that could not reasonably have been foreseen may be declared, including the adoption of the appropriate indicators, are stated in the river basin management plan; (c) the measures to be taken under such exceptional circumstances are included in the programme of measures and will not compromise the recovery of the quality of the body of water once the circumstances are over; (d) the effects of the circumstances that are exceptional or that could not reasonably have been foreseen are reviewed annually and, subject to the reasons set out in art 4(4)(a) (see note 18), all practicable measures are taken with the aim of restoring the body of water to its status prior to the effects of those circumstances as soon as reasonably practicable; and (e) a summary of the effects of the circumstances and of such measures taken or to be taken in accordance with heads (a) and (d) above are included in the next update of the river basin management plan: art 4(6). Nor will member states be in breach of the Directive when failure to achieve good groundwater status, good ecological status or, where relevant, good ecological potential or to prevent deterioration in the status of a body of surface water or groundwater is the result of new modifications to the physical characteristics of a surface water body or alterations to the level of bodies of groundwater, or failure to prevent deterioration from high status to good status of a body of surface water is the result of new sustainable human development activities, and all the following conditions are met: (i) all practicable steps are taken to mitigate the adverse impact on the status of the body of water; (ii) the reasons for those modifications or alterations are specifically set out and explained in the river basin management plan required under art 13 and the objectives are reviewed every six years; (iii) the reasons for those modifications or alterations are of overriding public interest and/or the benefits to the environment and to society of achieving the objectives set out in art 4(1) are outweighed by the benefits of the new modifications or alterations to human health, to the maintenance of human safety or to sustainable development, and (iv) the beneficial objectives served by those modifications or alterations of the water body cannot for reasons of technical feasibility or disproportionate cost be achieved by other means, which are a significantly better environmental option: art 4(7). When applying art 4(3)-(7), a member state must ensure that the application does not permanently exclude or compromise the achievement of the objectives of the Directive in other bodies of water within the same river basin district and is consistent with the implementation of other Community environmental legislation: art 4(8). Steps must be taken to ensure that the application of the new provisions, including the application of art 4(3)-(7), guarantees at least the same level of protection as the existing Community legislation: art 4(9).

20 'River basin district' means the area of land and sea, made up of one or more neighbouring river basins together with their associated groundwaters and coastal waters, which is identified under European Parliament and EC Council Directive 2000/60 (OJ L327, 22.12.2000, p 01) art 3(1) (see the text to note 14) as the main unit for management of river basins: art 2(15).

34 Member states must ensure that all discharges referred to in European Parliament and EC Council Directive 2000/60 (OJ L327, 22.12.2000, p 01) art 10(2) into surface waters are controlled according to the combined approach set out in art 10: art 10(1). They must ensure the establishment and/or implementation of: (1) the emission controls based on best available techniques; or (2) the relevant emission limit values; or (3) in the case of diffuse impacts the controls including, as appropriate, best environmental practices, set out in: (a) EC Council Directive 96/61 (OJ L257, 10.10.96, p 26) concerning integrated pollution prevention and control (see ENVIRONMENTAL QUALITY AND PUBLIC HEALTH vol 45 (2010) PARA 23); (b) EC Council Directive 91/271 (OJ L135, 30.05.91, p 40) concerning urban waste-water treatment (see ENVIRONMENTAL QUALITY AND PUBLIC HEALTH vol 45 (2010) PARA 30); (c) EC Council Directive 91/676 (OJ L375, 31.12.91, p 01) concerning the protection of waters against pollution caused by nitrates from agricultural sources (see ENVIRONMENTAL QUALITY AND PUBLIC HEALTH vol 45 (2010) PARA 31); (d) the Directives adopted pursuant to European Parliament and EC Council Directive 2000/60 (OJ L327, 22.12.2000, p 01) art 16 (see the text to note 40); (e) the Directives listed in Annex IX; (f) any other relevant Community legislation, at the latest 12 years after the date of entry into force of the Water Framework Directive (ie 22 December 2003: see art 25), unless otherwise specified in the legislation concerned: art 10(2). Where a quality objective or quality standard, whether established pursuant to the Water Framework Directive, in the Directives listed in Annex IX, or pursuant to any other Community legislation, requires stricter conditions than those which would result from the application of art 10(2), more stringent emission controls must be set accordingly: art 10(3).

There are a number of European Directives directly concerned with or having an impact on water resources<sup>1</sup>, water supply<sup>2</sup>, pollution<sup>3</sup>, the water environment<sup>4</sup>, and flood risks<sup>5</sup>. The relevant Directives are discussed below in the appropriate parts of this title<sup>6</sup>.

The protective measures adopted pursuant to the EC Treaty to achieve the Community's environmental objectives<sup>7</sup> do not prevent any member state from maintaining or introducing more stringent protective measures<sup>8</sup>. Such measures must be compatible with the Treaty, and must be notified to the European Commission<sup>9</sup>.

9. Strategic environmental assessment of plans and programmes.

The Directive on the Assessment of the Effects of Certain Plans and Programmes on the Environment (the 'Strategic Environmental Assessment Directive')<sup>1</sup> aims to provide for a high level of protection of the environment and to contribute to the integration of environmental considerations into the preparation and adoption of plans and programmes<sup>2</sup> with a view to promoting sustainable development, by ensuring that, in accordance with the Directive, an environmental assessment<sup>3</sup> is carried out of certain plans and programmes which are likely to have significant effects on the environment<sup>4</sup>.

Regulations have been made for the purpose of implementing the Directive<sup>5</sup>. These provide that a responsible authority must carry out, or secure the carrying out of, an environmental assessment, in accordance with the regulations, during the preparation of certain plans or programmes and before their adoption or submission to the legislative procedure<sup>6</sup>. Such plans and programmes include those prepared for water management<sup>7</sup>, and those which, in view of the likely effect on sites, has been determined to require an assessment<sup>8</sup> pursuant to the Habitats Directive<sup>9</sup>. The position as to which water management plans and programmes may require assessment pursuant to the regulations is, as yet, unclear and may depend, in any event, on the precise content of the plan or programme concerned. However, the following may require assessment: river basin management plans<sup>10</sup>, flood plans for reservoirs<sup>11</sup>, water resources management plans<sup>12</sup>, drought plans<sup>13</sup>, shoreline management plans<sup>14</sup>, water level management plans<sup>15</sup>, forward work programmes prepared by the Water Services Regulation Authority<sup>16</sup> and the Consumer Council for Water<sup>17</sup>, and asset management plans<sup>18</sup>.

1    Ie European Parliament and EC Council Directive 2001/42 (OJ L197, 21.07.2001, p 30).

2    'Plans and programmes' means plans and programmes, including those co-financed by the European Community, as well as any modifications to them, which (1) are subject to preparation and/or adoption by an authority at national, regional or local level or which are prepared by an authority for adoption, through a legislative procedure by Parliament or Government; and (2) are required by legislative, regulatory or administrative provisions: European Parliament and EC Council Directive 2001/42 (OJ L197, 21.07.2001, p 30) art 2.

3    'Environmental assessment' means the preparation of an environmental report, the carrying out of consultations, the taking into account of the environmental report and the results of the consultations in decision-making and the provision of information on the decision in accordance with European Parliament and EC Council Directive 2001/42 (OJ L197, 21.07.2001, p 30) arts 4-9; and 'environmental report' means the part of the plan or programme documentation containing the information required in art 5 and Annex I: art 2.

4    European Parliament and EC Council Directive 2001/42 (OJ L197, 21.07.2001, p 30) art 1.1. An environmental assessment must be carried out for the following plans and programmes which are likely to have significant environmental effects: art 3.1. Subject to art 3.3, an environmental assessment must be carried out for all plans and programmes: (1) which are prepared for agriculture, forestry, fisheries, energy, industry, transport, waste management, water management, telecommunications, tourism, town and country planning or land use and which set the framework for future development consent of projects listed in EC Council Directive 85/337 (OJ L175, 05.07.85, p 40) (the 'EIA Directive') Annexes I and II (see PARA 10); or (2) which, in view of the likely effect on sites, have been determined to require an assessment pursuant to EC Council Directive 92/43 (OJ L206, 22.07.92, p 07) (the 'Habitats Directive') art 6 or 7 (see PARA 11); European Parliament and EC Council Directive 2001/42 (OJ L197, 21.07.2001, p 30) art 3.2. Plans and programmes referred to in art 3.2 which determine the use of small areas at local level and minor modifications to plans and programmes referred to in art 3.2 require an environmental assessment only where the member states determine that they are likely to have significant environmental effects: art 3.3. Member states must determine whether plans and programmes, other than those referred to in art 3.2, which set the framework for future development consent of projects, are likely to have significant environmental effects: art 3.4. Member states must determine whether plans or programmes referred to in arts 3.3 and 3.4 are likely to have significant environmental effects either through case-by-case examination or by specifying types of plans and programmes or by combining both approaches. For this purpose member states must in all cases take into account specified relevant criteria, in order to ensure that plans and programmes with likely significant effects on the environment are covered by the Directive: art 3.5. The specified relevant criteria are:

- 1 (a) the characteristics of plans and programmes, having regard, in particular, to (i) the degree to which the plan or programme sets a framework for projects and other activities, either with regard to the location, nature, size and operating conditions or by allocating resources; (ii) the degree to which the plan or programme influences other plans and programmes including those in a hierarchy; (iii) the relevance of the plan or programme for the integration of environmental considerations in particular with a view to promoting sustainable development; (iv) environmental problems relevant to the plan or programme; (v) the relevance of the plan or programme for the implementation of Community legislation on the environment (eg plans and programmes linked to waste-management or water protection);
- 2 (b) characteristics of the effects and of the area likely to be affected, having regard, in particular, to: (i) the probability, duration, frequency and reversibility of the effects; (ii) the cumulative nature of the effects; (iii) the transboundary nature of the effects; (iv) the risks to human health or the environment (eg due to accidents); (v) the magnitude and spatial extent of the effects (geographical area and size of the population likely to be affected); (vi) the value and vulnerability of the area likely to be affected due to: (A) special natural characteristics or cultural heritage; (B) exceeded environmental quality standards or limit values; (C) intensive land-use; (D) the effects on areas or landscapes which have a recognised national, Community or international protection status: Annex II.

In the case-by-case examination and in specifying types of plans and programmes in accordance with art 3.5, the authorities which must be consulted are those authorities designated by member states which, by reason of their specific environmental responsibilities, are likely to be concerned by the environmental effects of implementing plans and programmes: see arts 3.6, 6.3. Member states must ensure that their conclusions pursuant to art 3.5, including the reasons for not requiring an environmental assessment pursuant to arts 4-9, are made available to the public: art 3.7. The following plans and programmes are not subject to the Directive: (aa) plans and programmes the sole purpose of which is to serve national defence or civil emergency; (bb) financial or budget plans and programmes: art 3.8. The Directive does not apply to plans and programmes co-financed under certain other Directives: see art 3.9.

10. Environmental impact assessment.

The Environmental Impact Directive<sup>1</sup> applies to the assessment of the environmental effects of those public and private projects which are likely to have significant effects on the environment<sup>2</sup>, and requires member states to adopt measures necessary to ensure that, before consent is given, projects likely to have significant effects on the environment by virtue inter alia, of their nature, size or location are made subject to an environmental impact assessment with regard to their effects<sup>3</sup>.

Regulations have been made for the purpose of implementing the Directive in England and Wales<sup>4</sup> whereby planning permission for development of the types referred to in the Directive may not be granted without consideration of environmental information<sup>5</sup>. Specific provision has also been made requiring an environmental impact assessment to be carried out before consent may be given for certain water management projects for agriculture<sup>6</sup>, and before the carrying out by a drainage body of improvement works<sup>7</sup>.

3    (1)   (a) groundwater abstraction or artificial groundwater recharge schemes where the annual volume of water abstracted or recharged is equivalent to or exceeds 10 million cubic metres; (b) works for the transfer of water resources other than piped drinking water (i) between river basins where the transfer aims at preventing possible shortages of water and where the amount of water transferred exceeds 100 million cubic metres per year; and (ii) in all other cases, between river basins where the multi-annual average flow of the basin of abstraction exceeds 2,000 million cubic metres per year and where the amount of water transferred exceeds 5% of this flow; (c) dams and other installations designed for the holding back or permanent storage of water, where a new or additional amount of water held back or stored exceeds 10 million cubic metres (see the Town and Country Planning (Environmental Impact Assessment) (England and Wales) Regulations 1999, SI 1999/293, Sch 1; and TOWN AND COUNTRY PLANNING vol 46(1) (Reissue) PARA 489); and

4    (2)   where the development is likely to have significant effects on the environment by virtue of factors such as its nature, size or location: (a) inland-waterway construction not included in head (1) above, canalisation and flood-relief works, where the area of the works exceeds 1 hectare; (b) dams and other installations designed to hold water or store it on a long-term basis, unless included in head 1 (above), where the area of the works exceeds 1 hectare; (c) installations of long-distance aqueducts, where the area of the works exceeds 1 hectare; (d) all development consisting of coastal work to combat erosion and maritime works capable of altering the coast through the construction, for example, of dykes, moles, jetties and other sea defence works, excluding the maintenance and reconstruction of such works; (e) groundwater abstraction and artificial groundwater recharge schemes not included in head (1) above, where the area of the works exceeds 1 hectare; (f) works for the transfer of water resources between river basins not included in head (1) above, where the area of the works exceeds 1 hectare (see the Town and Country Planning (Environmental Impact Assessment) (England and Wales) Regulations 1999, SI 1999/293, Sch 2; and TOWN AND COUNTRY PLANNING vol 46(1) (Reissue) PARA 490).

UPDATE

10 Environmental impact assessment

NOTE 1--Directive 85/337 further amended: European Parliament and EC Council Directive 2009/31 (OJ L140, 5.6.2009, p 114).

Halsbury's Laws of England/WATER AND WATERWAYS (VOLUME 100 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-452; VOLUME 101 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 453-851)/1. INTRODUCTION/(2) LEGISLATION AND ADMINISTRATION/(i) European Community Legislation/11. European Community conservation obligations.

11. European Community conservation obligations.

The Habitats Directive<sup>1</sup> aims to contribute towards ensuring bio-diversity through the conservation of natural habitats and of wild fauna and flora in the European territory of the member states<sup>2</sup>. Regulations have been made for the purpose of implementing the Directive and these are covered in detail elsewhere in this work<sup>3</sup>.

The regulations impose a duty on the Secretary of State<sup>4</sup> and the Welsh Ministers<sup>5</sup> to exercise their functions relating to nature conservation so as to secure compliance with the requirements of the Habitats Directive<sup>6</sup>; and they and every other competent authority<sup>7</sup> in the exercise of any of their functions generally, must have regard to the requirements of the Directive so far as they may be affected by the exercise of those functions<sup>8</sup>.

The Directive provides that, in relation to special areas of conservation established in member states, any plan or project<sup>9</sup> not directly connected with or necessary to the management of the site but likely to have a significant effect thereon, either individually or in combination with other plans or projects, must be subject to appropriate assessment of its implications for the site in view of the site's conservation objectives<sup>10</sup>. A competent authority, before deciding to undertake, or give any consent, permission or other authorisation for, a plan or project which is likely to have a significant effect on protected conservation sites (either alone or in combination with other plans or projects), and is not directly connected with or necessary to the management of the site, must make an appropriate assessment of the implications for the site in view of that site's conservation objectives<sup>11</sup>. Thus plans or projects relating to water management<sup>12</sup>, flood defence and land drainage<sup>13</sup> or coast protection<sup>14</sup> may require assessment of their implications for conservation sites, and a failure to undertake such an assessment may invalidate the undertaking or authorisation of the plan or project<sup>15</sup>.

As to the meaning of 'person' see PARA 13 note 29. As to the meaning of 'United Kingdom' see PARA 22 note 5. 'Public body' includes any local authority, joint board or joint committee; and 'public office' means an office under Her Majesty, an office created or continued in existence by a public general Act of Parliament, or an office the remuneration in respect of which is paid out of money provided by Parliament or money paid out of the Scottish Consolidated Fund: reg 6(2) (amended by SI 1999/1820). 'Local authority' means, in relation to (1) England, a county council, district council or London borough council, the Common Council of the City of London, the Sub-treasurer of the Inner Temple, the Under-treasurer of the Middle Temple or a parish council; (2) Wales, a county council, county borough council or community council or a National Park authority: Conservation (Natural Habitats etc) Regulations 1994, SI 1994/2716, reg 6(3) (amended by SI 1996/525). 'Joint board' means a joint planning board within the meaning of the Town and Country Planning Act 1990 s 2 (see TOWN AND COUNTRY PLANNING vol 46(1) (Reissue) PARA 30); and 'joint committee' means a joint committee appointed under the Local Government Act 1972 s 102(1)(b) (see LOCAL GOVERNMENT vol 69 (2009) PARA 371); Conservation (Natural Habitats etc) Regulations 1994, SI 1994/2716, reg 6(3) (amended by virtue of SI 1996/534). The functions of a minister of the Crown as the competent authority, so far as exercisable in relation to Wales, were transferred to the National Assembly for Wales, by the National Assembly for Wales (Transfer of Functions) Order 1999, SI 1999/672, art 2, Sch 1. These functions are now vested in the Welsh Ministers: see the Government of Wales Act 2006 s 162(1), Sch 11 para 30. As to the meaning of 'Wales' see PARA 16 note 2. 9 An activity such as mechanical cockle fishing is covered by the concept of plan or project set out in EC Council Directive 92/43 (OJ L206, 22.07.92, p 07) art 6.3. The fact that the activity has been carried on periodically for several years on the site concerned and that a licence has to be obtained for it every year, each new issuance of which requires an assessment both of the possibility of carrying on that activity and of the site where it may be carried on, does not in itself constitute an obstacle to considering it, at the time of each application, as a distinct plan or project within the meaning of the Habitats Directive: Case C-127/02 Landelijke Vereniging tot Behoud van de Waddenzee v Staatssecretaris van Landbouw (Coöperatieve Producentenorganisatie van de Nederlandse Kokkelvisserij UA, interveniend) [2005] All ER (EC) 353, [2004] All ER (D) 50 (Sep), ECJ. A 'project' is (among other things) an intervention in the natural surroundings and landscape; and a 'plan' is a formal statement of an intended course of future action in respect of the authorisation of such interventions: see R (on the application of Boggis) v Natural England [2008] EWHC 2954 (Admin), (2009) Times, 25 February, [2009] All ER (D) 26 (Jan).

10 See EC Council Directive 92/43 (OJ L206, 22.07.92, p 07) art 6.3. In the light of the conclusions of the assessment of the implications for the site and subject to the provisions of art 6.4, the competent national authorities must agree to the plan or project only after having ascertained that it will not adversely affect the integrity of the site concerned and, if appropriate, after having obtained the opinion of the general public: see art 6.3. If, in spite of a negative assessment of the implications for the site and in the absence of alternative solutions, a plan or project must nevertheless be carried out for imperative reasons of overriding public interest, including those of a social or economic nature, the member state must take all compensatory measures necessary to ensure that the overall coherence of Natura 2000 is protected: see art 6.4. 'Natura 2000' is a coherent European ecological network of special areas of conservation: see art 3.

A plan or project not directly connected with or necessary to the management of the site is to be subject to an appropriate assessment of its implications for the site in view of the site's conservation objectives if it cannot be excluded, on the basis of objective information, that it will have a significant effect on that site, either individually or in combination with other plans or projects. EC Council Directive 92/43 (OJ L206, 22.07.92, p 07) art 6.3 subordinates the requirement for an appropriate assessment of the implications of a plan or project to the condition that there be a probability or a risk that the latter will have significant effects on the site concerned. In the light, in particular, of the precautionary principle by reference to which the Directive must be interpreted, such a risk exists if it cannot be excluded on the basis of objective information that the plan or project will have significant effects on the site concerned: Case C-127/02 Landelijke Vereniging tot Behoud van de Waddenzee v Staatssecretaris van Landbouw (Coöperatieve Producentenorganisatie van de Nederlandse Kokkelvisserij UA, interveniend) [2005] All ER (EC) 353, [2004] All ER (D) 50 (Sep), ECJ.

12. The 1991 legislation and subsequent amending legislation.

The Water Industry Act 1991, the Water Resources Act 1991, the Statutory Water Companies Act 1991 and the Land Drainage Act 1991 consolidate the previous enactments relating to water<sup>1</sup>. The consolidation legislation came into force on 1 December 1991 and has since been substantially amended, in particular by the Competition and Service (Utilities) Act 1992, the Land Drainage Act 1994, the Environment Act 1995, the Water Industry Act 1999, the Enterprise Act 2002 and the Water Act 2003<sup>2</sup>. Coast protection, however, was not included in the 1991 legislation and continues to be subject to the Coast Protection Act 1949, as subsequently amended<sup>3</sup>; and the provisions of the Reservoirs Act 1975, as subsequently amended, continue to apply to reservoirs<sup>4</sup>.

The Water Industry Act 1991 is mainly concerned with the regulation of water supply<sup>5</sup> and the Water Resources Act 1991 with the regulation of water resources<sup>6</sup>, while the Land Drainage Act 1991 deals with flood defence (but not with coastal erosion) and with land drainage<sup>7</sup>. The Statutory Water Companies Act 1991 is concerned with the powers of certain companies holding appointments as water undertakers<sup>8</sup> which were authorised to supply water under previous legislation and with their conversion to registered limited companies<sup>9</sup>.

The Environment Act 1995 established the Environment Agency, which replaced the former National Rivers Authority<sup>10</sup>, and makes numerous amendments, particularly to the Water Resources Act 1991 and the Land Drainage Act 1991, in the light of the Agency's establishment and functions. The 1995 Act sets out the Agency's general and specific functions, including those in relation to flood defence<sup>11</sup> and the control of pollution<sup>12</sup>.

The Water Industry Act 1999 provides new entitlements for water customers, in particular by prohibiting the disconnection of the water supply to homes, and certain other premises, for reasons of non-payment<sup>13</sup>. Many customers were given new rights to choose the basis on which they are charged for water and sewerage services<sup>14</sup> and the use of rateable value as a basis of unmeasured charging, which was, under the 1991 legislation, to have been discontinued after 31 March 2000<sup>15</sup>, is now permitted to continue<sup>16</sup>. The 1999 Act also enables regulations to be made concerning particular charges to be applied to particular groups of customers<sup>17</sup>.

1   le including certain provisions of the Public Health Act 1936, the Public Health (Drainage of Trade Premises) Act 1937, the Public Health Act 1961, the Water Resources Act 1963, the Land Drainage Act 1976, the Water (Fluoridation) Act 1985, the Water Act 1989, and related enactments, with amendments to give effect to recommendations of the Law Commission made in their Report on the Consolidation of the Legislation Relating to Water (Law Com No 198; Cm 1483). Provision for repeals, consequential amendments, transitional matters and savings is made by the Water Consolidation (Consequential Provisions) Act 1991.

13. The Water Act 2003.

The Water Act 2003 amends and supplements the 1991 legislation<sup>1</sup>. The explanatory notes to the 2003 Act produced by the Department for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs summarise the four broad aims of the Act as: (1) the sustainable use of water resources; (2) strengthening the voice of consumers; (3) a measured increase in competition; and (4) the promotion of water conservation<sup>2</sup>.

The Water Act 2003 amends the Water Resources Act 1991 in order to improve long-term water resource management<sup>3</sup>; and the Water Industry Act 1991 so that water companies are given a duty to prepare and publicise drought plans<sup>4</sup>, are placed under a duty to agree and publicise water resources management plans<sup>5</sup>, and are placed under an enforceable duty to further water conservation<sup>6</sup>.

The 2003 Act introduces provisions for the better operation and regulation of the water industry by amending the Water Industry Act 1991 to: (a) replace the Director General of Water Services with a regulatory authority known as the Water Services Regulation Authority<sup>7</sup>; (b) set up a new independent Consumer Council for Water<sup>8</sup>; (c) require the Authority and the Council to consult on and publish forward work programmes and annual reports<sup>9</sup>; (d) give both the Authority and Council a new duty to contribute to sustainable development<sup>10</sup>; and (e) give the Authority a duty to further the consumer objective wherever appropriate, through promoting effective competition<sup>11</sup>.

The Water Act 2003 includes provisions which aim to increase the opportunities for competition in the supply of water services, by setting up a system to license new entrants to supply water to large commercial and industrial customers based on a water consumption threshold and providing the Water Services Regulation Authority with new regulatory powers to administer the competition framework<sup>12</sup>. The 2003 Act also amends the Water Industry Act 1991 to include a new statutory obligation for water companies to accede to requests from strategic health authorities (in relation to England) and the Welsh Ministers<sup>13</sup> (in relation to Wales) to enter into arrangements to fluoridate water supplies, thereby transferring responsibility for the decision to fluoridate from the undertaker to the strategic health authority and the Welsh Ministers, in consultation with local communities<sup>14</sup>.

To further the principles of sustainable use of water resources, better regulation of the water industry, competition and water conservation, the Water Act 2003 contains a number of miscellaneous provisions<sup>15</sup>. To further water conservation the Act contains new provisions to place a duty on the Secretary of State<sup>16</sup> and the Welsh Ministers to take appropriate steps to encourage water conservation<sup>17</sup>, and to place a duty on public authorities to take into account the desirability of conserving water supplies to premises<sup>18</sup>. The Act amends the Water Industry Act 1991 to: (i) require fire authorities or owners of commercial or industrial premises to pay for replacement fire hydrants removed during water mains renewal or refurbishment work<sup>19</sup>; and (ii) allow developers to enter into an agreement with water undertakers to lay water mains and communication pipes in accordance with standards set by the undertaker<sup>20</sup>.

The Water Act 2003 enhances reservoir safety by amending the Reservoirs Act 1975 to transfer enforcement powers from local authorities to the Environment Agency in England and Wales<sup>21</sup> and to empower the Secretary of State and the Welsh Ministers to direct owners of large raised reservoirs to prepare and maintain flood plans<sup>22</sup>. The Water Act 2003 includes various amendments to facilitate arrangements for flood defence organisation and funding by:

- 6 (A) including powers to revoke local flood defence schemes and allow the creation of additional regional flood defence committees<sup>23</sup>;
- 7 (B) enabling ministers to make block grants to the Environment Agency for flood defence works and flood warning schemes<sup>24</sup>;
- 8 (C) reinstating the power of the internal drainage boards to borrow to fund contributions to the Environment Agency<sup>25</sup>; and
- 9 (D) enabling the Welsh Ministers to make provisions regarding the membership of Welsh regional flood defence committees<sup>26</sup>.

Additionally, the Water Act 2003 provides new powers under the Coal Industry Act 1994 for the Coal Authority to take action to prevent and clean up mine water pollution from abandoned coal mines<sup>27</sup>.

The Secretary of State may by regulations<sup>28</sup> make such supplementary, incidental or consequential provision, or such transitory, transitional or saving provision, as he considers necessary or expedient for the purposes of, in consequence of, or for giving full effect to any provision of the Water Act 2003<sup>29</sup>; and nothing in that Act is to be read as affecting the generality of that provision<sup>30</sup>. The power to make such regulations is also exercisable by the Welsh Ministers, in relation to provision dealing with matters with respect to which functions are exercisable by them<sup>31</sup>.

The provision which may be made under s 103(1) includes provision: (1) amending or repealing any enactment, instrument or document (including in particular any instrument appointing a company to be a water or sewerage undertaker); (2) conferring functions, powers or duties on any person: s 103(2). The provision which may be so made also includes, in particular, provision for or in relation to the payment by the Environment Agency of compensation to any person who: (a) before the coming into force of any provision of the Water Act 2003 was not required by or by virtue of the Water Resources Act 1991 to have a licence under Pt II Ch II (ss 24-72) (see PARA 227 et seq) in respect of any abstraction; (b) following the coming into force of any provision of the Water Act 2003 does require such a licence in respect of that abstraction; and (c) has suffered loss or damage as a result of his having been (i) refused such a licence in respect of that abstraction; or (ii) granted such a licence, but in respect of an abstraction of more limited extent than that of the abstraction he was carrying out before the coming into force of the provision in question, or who is a person who falls within s 103(4): s 103(3). A person falls within s 103(4) if he satisfies the Agency of the following: (A) that the nature of his operations, or proposed operations, requires him to make plans about the abstraction of water; (B) that before the coming into force of any provision of the Water Act 2003 he would not have required a licence under the Water Resources Act 1991 Pt II Ch II in respect of any such abstraction for which he had reasonably planned (or, if there has already been such an abstraction, he did not require such a licence in respect of it); (C) that following the coming into force of any such provision he does require such a licence in respect of it; and (D) that he has suffered loss or damage as a result of his having been (aa) refused a licence under the Water Resources Act 1991 Pt II Ch II in respect of that abstraction; or (bb) granted such a licence, but in respect of an abstraction of more limited extent than he had reasonably applied for, and he applies for compensation before any deadline provided for in the regulations under the Water Act 2003 s 103(1): s 103(4). 'Person', unless the contrary intention appears, includes a body of persons corporate or unincorporate: Interpretation Act 1978 s 5, Sch 1. As to bodies corporate and unincorporate see COMPANIES; CORPORATIONS.
- The provision which may be made under s 103(1) also includes, in particular, provision for or in relation to the payment by the Water Services Regulation Authority of compensation to any person who: (i) before 31 July 2002 was carrying on any activities in respect of the supply of water; (ii) following the coming into force of any provision of the Water Act 2003 is unable to continue to carry on those activities as a result of their having been prohibited, is unable to continue to carry on those activities as a result of a licence under the Water Industry Act 1991 Pt II Ch 1A (ss 17A-17R) (see PARA 152 et seq) having been required in respect of them and his not having applied for, or his having been refused, a licence, or is unable to continue to carry on those activities in the same manner as a result of his having been granted a licence the effect of which is to restrict the carrying on of the activities; and (iii) has suffered loss or damage as a result of those activities having been prohibited, a licence not having been granted, or those activities having been restricted: Water Act 2003 s 103(5). The following regulations have been made: the Water Act 2003 (Consequential and Supplementary Provisions) Regulations 2005, SI 2005/2035; the Unfair Terms in Consumer Contracts (Amendment) and Water Act 2003 (Transitional Provision) Regulations 2006, SI 2006/523; the Water Supply (Water Quality) Regulations 2001 (Amendment) Regulations 2007, SI 2007/3374. #### 14. Local legislation.

Many local enactments made before 1989 are still in force<sup>1</sup>. There is no longer any need for many of these enactments and their interaction with the Water Act 1989<sup>2</sup> and the 1991 consolidation legislation<sup>3</sup> is complex<sup>4</sup>.

Since 1989, water undertakers<sup>5</sup> have not needed the power of a statutory order before carrying out waterworks, therefore far fewer orders relating to water supply have been made since that date<sup>6</sup>. Some works do, however, need the power of an Act<sup>7</sup>. As companies<sup>8</sup>, water undertakers have power to promote local bills<sup>9</sup>.

If it appears to the Secretary of State<sup>10</sup> or, in relation to Wales, the Welsh Ministers<sup>11</sup>, to be appropriate to do so: (1) for the purposes of, or in consequence of, the coming into force of any enactment contained in the Environment Act 1995; or (2) in consequence of the effect or operation at any time after the transfer date<sup>12</sup> of any such enactment or of anything done under any such enactment, he or they may by order<sup>13</sup> repeal<sup>14</sup>, amend or re-enact, with or without modifications, any local statutory provision<sup>15</sup>. An order so made may:

- 10 (a) make provision applying generally in relation to local statutory provisions of a description specified in the order<sup>16</sup>;
- 11 (b) make different provision for different cases, including different provision in relation to different persons<sup>17</sup>, circumstances or localities<sup>18</sup>;
- 12 (c) contain such supplemental, consequential and transitional provisions as the Secretary of State or, as the case may be the Welsh Ministers, considers appropriate<sup>19</sup>; and
- 13 (d) in the case of an order made after the transfer date, require provision contained in the order to be treated as if it came into force on that date<sup>20</sup>.

Nothing in any such order may, however, abrogate or curtail the effect of so much of any local statutory provision as confers any right of way or confers on or preserves for the public any right of enjoyment of air, exercise or recreation on land<sup>21</sup> or any right of access to land for the purposes of exercise or recreation<sup>22</sup>.

Subject to any provision to the contrary<sup>23</sup>, nothing in any local statutory provision<sup>24</sup> passed or made before 1 September 1989 is to be construed as relieving any relevant undertaker<sup>25</sup> from any liability arising<sup>26</sup> in respect of any act or omission occurring on or after that date<sup>27</sup>.

The Secretary of State or, in relation to Wales, the Welsh Ministers<sup>28</sup>, by whom an order is made under certain provisions relating to the abstraction and impounding of water<sup>29</sup> also has specific powers by order<sup>30</sup> to repeal, amend or adapt any local enactment<sup>31</sup> passed or made before the relevant date<sup>32</sup> to such extent, or in such manner, as he or they may consider appropriate if it appears to him or them that that local enactment is inconsistent with any of the provisions of the order made by him or them, or that it requires to be amended or adapted, having regard to any of the provisions of that order<sup>33</sup>. Such an order modifying any local enactment may include such transitional, incidental, supplementary and consequential provisions as the Secretary of State or the Welsh Ministers may consider necessary or expedient<sup>34</sup>. These specific powers have effect without prejudice to the exercise of any other power to repeal, amend or adapt local enactments which is conferred by any other enactment<sup>35</sup>.

The powers under the Coast Protection Act 1949 to repeal local enactments are discussed in a later part of this title<sup>36</sup>. There is also a general power to repeal enactments when making an order or regulations under the Water Act 2003<sup>37</sup>.

1 Local enactments relating to water supply were divisible into local Acts of Parliament conferring special statutory powers upon water companies, local authorities and other water undertakers, provisional orders made under the Gas and Water Works Facilities Act 1870 (repealed), statutory orders under the Water Act 1945 (repealed), and orders under the Water Act 1973 (repealed). Also relevant were orders under the Water Resources Acts 1963 and 1971 (repealed) and the Land Drainage Acts 1930 and 1961 (repealed) and the Land Drainage Act 1976 (substantially repealed). As to the classification of legislation see PARLIAMENT vol 34 (Reissue) PARA 728 et seq.

2 Ie the privatisation legislation: see PARA 108.

3 As to the 1991 legislation see PARA 12.

4 Detailed consideration of specific local enactments is outside the scope of this title, although enactments relating to the London area and the River Thames are discussed briefly. Practitioners are, however, advised to check with the undertakers for the area in question or with the Environment Agency as to the existence and application of any relevant local legislation. The status of individual provisions may also be checked in the Chronological Tables of Local Acts which are published on the Office of Public Sector Information website at www.opsi.gov.uk.

9 The procedure for promoting a local Bill is governed by the standing orders of each House of Parliament: see generally PARLIAMENT vol 78 (2010) PARAS 849, 929. A number of the standing orders have particular application to Bills concerning water supply or affecting water undertakers: see the HL Standing Orders (Private Business) (2005); HC Standing Orders (Private Business) (2005). As to the powers of the Welsh Ministers to promote and oppose private Bills see the Government of Wales Act 2006 s 65. As to the Welsh Ministers see PARA 16 note 5.

10 The Environment Act 1995 s 121 refers to 'the Secretary of State or the Minister', 'the Minister' being defined as meaning the Minister of Agriculture, Fisheries and Food: see s 121(1), (7). The Ministry of Agriculture, Fisheries and Food has been dissolved and the functions of the Minister of Agriculture, Fisheries and Food transferred to the Secretary of State: see the Ministry of Agriculture, Fisheries and Food (Dissolution) Order 2002, SI 2002/794, art 2. As to the Secretary of State see PARA 15 note 1.

11 The functions of the Secretary of State and the Minister under the Environment Act 1995 s 121 and of the Secretary of State under the Water Resources Act 1991 s 71 (see the text to notes 28-35), so far as exercisable in relation to Wales, were transferred to the National Assembly for Wales: see the National Assembly for Wales (Transfer of Functions) Order 1999, SI 1999/672, art 2, Sch 1. They are now exercisable by the Welsh Ministers by virtue of the Government of Wales Act 2006 s 162(1), Sch 11 para 30. As to the meaning of 'Wales' see PARA 16 note 2. As to the power of the Secretary of State to intervene in relation to functions exercisable by the Welsh Ministers where any particular case might have a serious adverse impact on water resources, water supply, or the quality of water in England see PARA 16.

12 Ie 1 April 1996: see the Environment Act 1995 ss 2, 56(1); and ENVIRONMENTAL QUALITY AND PUBLIC HEALTH vol 45 (2010) PARA 70.

13 In relation to the Secretary of State, the power to make such an order is exercisable by statutory instrument subject to annulment in pursuance of a resolution of either House of Parliament, and is without prejudice to any power conferred by any other provision of the Environment Act 1995: s 121(5), (6). As to the procedure in relation to subordinate legislation made by the Welsh Ministers see the Government of Wales Act 2006 Sch 11 paras 33-35; and CONSTITUTIONAL LAW AND HUMAN RIGHTS.

14 The power to repeal or amend a local statutory provision includes power to modify the effect, in relation to any local statutory provision, of any provision of the Environment Act 1995 s 120(2), Sch 23 (transitional provisions): s 121(3). 'Local statutory provision' means: (1) a provision of a local Act, including an Act confirming a provisional order; (2) a provision of so much of any public general Act as has effect with respect to a particular area, with respect to particular persons or works or with respect to particular provisions falling within any of head (1) above, this head and heads (3)-(4) below; (3) a provision of an instrument made under any provision falling within head (1) or (2) above; or (4) a provision of any other instrument which is in the nature of a local enactment: s 121(7).

15 Environment Act 1995 s 121(1). The provisions that may be so repealed, amended or re-enacted include, in the case of an order by virtue of head (2) in the text, a provision amended by virtue of head (1) in the text: s 121(1). A similar power is contained in the Water Act 1989 enabling the Secretary of State to repeal, amend or re-enact any local statutory provision for the purposes of, or in consequence of, the coming into force of any enactment contained therein or in consequence of the effect or operation at any time after the transfer date of any such enactment or of anything done under any such enactment: see s 191(1). The power is exercisable by statutory instrument subject to annulment in pursuance of a resolution of either House of Parliament, and includes power to modify the effect, in relation to any local statutory provision, of any provision of s 190, Sch 26 (transitional provisions): see s 191(3), (5). The transfer date for these purposes is 1 September 1989: see PARA 108.

16 Environment Act 1995 s 121(2)(a); and see also the Water Act 1989 s 191(2)(a).

20 Environment Act 1995 s 121(2)(d); and see also the Water Act 1989 s 191(2)(d).

21 In any Act, unless the contrary intention appears, 'land' includes buildings and other structures, land covered with water, and any estate, interest, easement, servitude or right in or over land: Interpretation Act 1978 s 5, Sch 1.

22 Environment Act 1995 s 121(4); and see also the Water Act 1989 s 191(4). As to water amenity and recreation see PARA 683 et seq. As to rights of navigation see PARA 688 et seq.

23 It is contained in the Water Act 1989 Sch 26 or in the Water Consolidation (Consequential Provisions) Act 1991: Water Industry Act 1991 s 220.

24 'Local statutory provision' means a provision: (1) of a local Act, including an Act confirming a provisional order; (2) of so much of a public general Act as has effect with respect to a particular area, with respect to particular persons or works or with respect to particular provisions falling within any of this head, head (1) above or heads (3)-(4) below; (3) of an instrument made under any provision falling within head (1) or (2) above; or (4) of any other instrument which is in the nature of a local enactment: Water Industry Act 1991 s 219(1); Water Resources Act 1991 s 221(1).

25 As to the meaning of 'relevant undertaker' see PARA 137 note 8.

26 It is by virtue of the Water Industry Act 1991: see PARA 137 et seq.

27 Water Industry Act 1991 s 220; and see also the Water Act 1989 s 191(6).

28 See note 11.

29 It is under the Water Resources Act 1991 s 33 (repealed), s 66 (see PARAS 229, 233) and s 72(5) (see PARA 262): s 71(4). As from a day to be appointed the reference to s 33 is omitted: s 71(4) (prospectively amended by the Water Act 2003 s 101, Sch 7 Pt 1, paras 1, 9, Sch 9 Pt 3). At the date at which this volume states the law no such day had been appointed.

30 In relation to the Secretary of State, this power is exercisable by statutory instrument subject to annulment in pursuance of a resolution of either House of Parliament: Water Resources Act 1991 s 71(3). As to the procedure in relation to Wales see note 13. Such orders, being local in effect, are not recorded in this work.

31 For these purposes, 'local enactment' means: (1) a local or private Act; (2) a public general Act relating to London; (3) an order or scheme made under an Act, confirmed by Parliament or brought into operation in accordance with special parliamentary procedure; or (4) an enactment in a public general Act amending a local or private Act or any such order or scheme: Water Resources Act 1991 s 71(5). 'Enactment' includes an enactment contained in the Water Resources Act 1991 or in any Act passed after that Act: s 221(1). In the Water Industry Act 1991 'enactment' includes an enactment contained in the Water Industry Act 1991 or in any Act passed after that Act: s 219(1). In any Act, unless the contrary intention appears, 'enactment' does not include an enactment comprised in, or in an instrument made under, an Act of the Scottish Parliament; and 'Act' means an Act of Parliament: Interpretation Act 1978 s 5, Sch 1 (definitions added by the Scotland Act 1998 s 125, Sch 8 para 16(3)). As to the Scottish Parliament see CONSTITUTIONAL LAW AND HUMAN RIGHTS.

32 For these purposes, 'relevant date' means the date which was the second appointed day for the purposes of the Water Resources Act 1963 s 133 (repealed) (ie 1 April 1965: see ss 3(4), 135(1) (repealed)): Water Resources Act 1991 s 71(5).

(iii) Central Administration

15. The Secretary of State.

At the date at which this title states the law, the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs is the Secretary of State principally concerned with the regulation of matters relating to water<sup>1</sup>, and for the formulation of policy relating to flood defence and land drainage<sup>2</sup>. Under the Water Industry Act 1991, the regulatory functions relating to the water industry are shared between the Secretary of State and the Water Services Regulation Authority<sup>3</sup>. The Secretary of State is also responsible for the establishment of coast protection authorities<sup>4</sup> and for overseeing the performance by them of their duties<sup>5</sup>.

In exercising any power conferred by virtue of the Environment Act 1995, the Water Resources Act 1991, the Land Drainage Act 1991, the Water Industry Act 1991 or the Water Act 1989 in relation to, or to decisions of, the Environment Agency<sup>6</sup>, or any power which would fall to be exercised by the Agency but for a ministerial direction, it is the duty of the Secretary of State to take into account the Agency's general duty with respect to the water industry<sup>7</sup>. Under the Environment Act 1995, the Secretary of State has power to give directions of a general or specific character to the Agency with respect to the carrying out of any of its functions<sup>8</sup>.

In relation to Wales, the functions of the Secretary of State may be exercisable by him, or exercisable jointly with, or transferred to, the Welsh Ministers as discussed below<sup>9</sup>.

The specific powers and duties of the Secretary of State are considered in detail as they occur in this title.

1 In any enactment, 'Secretary of State' means one of Her Majesty's principal secretaries of state: see the Interpretation Act 1978 s 5, Sch 1. In the Water Resources Act 1991 the expressions 'the Minister', meaning the Minister of Agriculture, Fisheries and Food, and 'the Ministers', meaning the Secretary of State and the Minister, are used. The Ministry of Agriculture, Fisheries and Food has been dissolved and the functions of the Minister of Agriculture, Fisheries and Food transferred to the Secretary of State (see PARA 14 note 10) and in this title when referring to any functions given under the Water Resources Act 1991 to either the Minister or the Ministers the expression the Secretary of State is used.

As to the office of Secretary of State see CONSTITUTIONAL LAW AND HUMAN RIGHTS vol 8(2) (Reissue) PARA 355. In relation to navigation, the Secretary of State concerned is in some cases the Secretary of State for Transport. For current responsibilities see the most recent edition of the Civil Service Yearbook.

2 See PARA 558.

3 As to the Water Services Regulation Authority see PARA 109.

4 See PARA 508.

5 See PARA 507.

6 As to the Environment Agency see PARA 17.

7 See the Water Resources Act 1991 s 15(2) (amended by the Environment Act 1995 s 120(1), Sch 22 paras 128, 130). As to the Agency's general duty with respect to the water industry see the Water Resources Act 1991 s 15(1); and PARA 17.

8 See the Environment Act 1995 s 40; and ENVIRONMENTAL QUALITY AND PUBLIC HEALTH vol 45 (2010) PARA 74.

15-18 Central Administration

The Marine and Coastal Access Act 2009 Pt 1 (ss 1-40) establishes an independent body, the Marine Management Organisation which is to discharge a number of marine functions on behalf of the UK Government. For provision as to marine management generally see PARAS 30A-30E. As to marine enforcement officers see PARA 30F. For provision as to common enforcement powers see PARA 30G; as to licensing enforcement powers see PARA 30H; and as to common enforcement provisions see PARA 30I.

Halsbury's Laws of England/WATER AND WATERWAYS (VOLUME 100 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-452; VOLUME 101 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 453-851)/1. INTRODUCTION/(2) LEGISLATION AND ADMINISTRATION/(iii) Central Administration/16. Wales.

16. Wales.

Under the arrangements originally made<sup>1</sup> for devolved government in Wales<sup>2</sup>, various ministerial functions relating to water, coast protection and flood defence were transferred, subject to prescribed exceptions and qualifications, to the National Assembly for Wales<sup>3</sup>, while certain other functions were made exercisable by the Secretary of State only after consultation with, or with the agreement of, the Assembly<sup>4</sup>. Following the re-organisation of devolved government in Wales under the Government of Wales Act 2006, the functions transferred to the Assembly are now exercisable by the Welsh Ministers, whilst any requirement as to consultation or agreement requires consultation with, or the agreement of, the Welsh Ministers<sup>5</sup>.

Her Majesty may by Order in Council: (1) provide for the transfer to the Welsh Ministers, the First Minister or the Counsel General of any function so far as exercisable by a Minister of the Crown in relation to Wales; (2) direct that any function so far as so exercisable is to be exercisable by the Welsh Ministers, the First Minister or the Counsel General concurrently with the Minister of the Crown; or (3) direct that any function so far as exercisable by a Minister of the Crown in relation to Wales is to be exercisable by the Minister of the Crown only with the agreement of, or after consultation with, the Welsh Ministers, the First Minister or the Counsel General<sup>6</sup>.

Where it appears to the Secretary of State that the exercise of a relevant function<sup>7</sup> (or the failure to exercise a relevant function) in any particular case might have a serious adverse impact on:

- 14 (a) water resources in England<sup>8</sup>;
- 15 (b) water supply in England<sup>9</sup>; or
- 16 (c) the quality of water in England<sup>10</sup>, the Secretary of State may intervene in that case, so that he may in that case exercise the function<sup>11</sup> and the person or persons on whom the function is conferred or imposed may not in that case exercise the function<sup>12</sup>. An intervention by the Secretary of State in relation to a function is to be made by giving notice to the person or persons on whom it is conferred or imposed<sup>13</sup>. Where an intervention has been made in a case, the Secretary of State must, in addition to that notice, give notice to: (i) any person who has previously been given notice of any steps taken, or proposed to be taken, in the case<sup>14</sup>; (ii) the Environment Agency<sup>15</sup>, if concerned in the case<sup>16</sup>; and (iii) any water undertaker or sewerage undertaker<sup>17</sup> concerned in the case<sup>18</sup>.

1 le under the Government of Wales Act 1998.

2 'Wales' means the combined area of the counties which were created by the Local Government Act 1972 s 20 (as originally enacted) (see LOCAL GOVERNMENT vol 69 (2009) PARAS 5, 37), but subject to any alteration made under s 73 (consequential alteration of boundary following alteration of watercourse) (see LOCAL GOVERNMENT vol 69 (2009) PARA 90): Interpretation Act 1978 Sch 1 (definition substituted by the Local Government (Wales) Act 1994 s 1(3), Sch 2 PARA 9). As to local government areas see LOCAL GOVERNMENT vol 69 (2009) PARA 22 et seq; and as to boundary changes see LOCAL GOVERNMENT vol 69 (2009) PARA 56 et seq.

For the purposes of the Government of Wales Act 2006 (see the text to note 5), 'Wales' includes the sea adjacent to Wales out as far as the seaward boundary of the territorial sea: s 158(1). The Secretary of State may by order determine, or make provision for determining, for the purposes of this definition of 'Wales' any boundary between the parts of the sea which are to be treated as adjacent to Wales, and those which are not: s 158(3). For the purposes of this definition the boundary between those parts of the sea within the Severn and Dee Estuaries which are to be treated as adjacent to Wales and those which are not is, in each case, a line drawn between the co-ordinates set out in the National Assembly for Wales (Transfer of Functions) Order 1999, SI 1999/672, Sch 3: art 6; Government of Wales Act 2006 Sch 11 para 26. An Order in Council transferring ministerial functions under the Government of Wales Act 2006 s 58 (see the text to note 6) may include any provision that may be included in an order under s 158(3): s 158(4). No order is to be made under s 158(3) unless a draft of the statutory instrument containing it has been laid before, and approved by a resolution of, each House of Parliament: s 158(5). As to territorial waters see PARA 31. As to the Secretary of State see PARA 15 note 1. As to the laying of documents before Parliament see PARLIAMENT vol 34 (Reissue) PARA 941.

3 See the National Assembly for Wales (Transfer of Functions) Order 1999, SI 1999/672, art 2, Sch 1. As to the National Assembly for Wales see CONSTITUTIONAL LAW AND HUMAN RIGHTS.

4 See the National Assembly for Wales (Transfer of Functions) Order 1999, SI 1999/672, art 5, Sch 2 (amended for these purposes by the Water Act 2003 s 100(3)).

5 See the Government of Wales Act 2006 s 162(1), Sch 11 para 30. 'Welsh Ministers' means the First Minister and the Welsh Ministers appointed under the Government of Wales Act 2006 s 48: see s 45(2). Where any function is transferred to the Welsh Ministers, or where the exercise of any function requires that they be consulted or their agreement, this is referred to in the specific paragraph or paragraphs dealing with that function in this title. As to the First Minister and the Welsh Ministers see the Government of Wales Act 2006 ss 46-48; and CONSTITUTIONAL LAW AND HUMAN RIGHTS. As to devolved government in Wales generally see CONSTITUTIONAL LAW AND HUMAN RIGHTS. As to the exercise of transferred functions and the bringing of subordinate legislation made by the Welsh Ministers before the National Assembly for Wales see Sch 11 paras 33-35 (in the case of functions transferred to the Assembly by Order in Council under the Government of Wales Act 1998 s 22) or the Government of Wales Act 2006 Sch 3 para 9 (in the case of functions transferred to the Welsh Ministers by Order in Council under s 58); and CONSTITUTIONAL LAW AND HUMAN RIGHTS.

6 See the Government of Wales Act 2006 s 58, Sch 3; and CONSTITUTIONAL LAW AND HUMAN RIGHTS. See also note 2.

7 'Relevant function' means: (1) a function conferred or imposed on any person by or under an Assembly Measure or Act of the Assembly; or (2) a function which is not so conferred or imposed but is exercisable by the Welsh Ministers, the First Minister or the Counsel General: Government of Wales Act 2006 s 152(3). 'Function' means power or duty: s 158(1). As to the meaning of 'person' see PARA 13 note 29. As to Assembly Measures and Acts of the Assembly see CONSTITUTIONAL LAW AND HUMAN RIGHTS.

12 Government of Wales Act 2006 s 152(2)(b).

13 Government of Wales Act 2006 s 152(4). The notice: (1) must state the reason for the Secretary of State's intervention (s 152(5)(a)); (2) may make provision about the effect of any steps previously taken by the person or persons on whom the function is conferred or imposed (s 152(5)(b)); and (3) may extend the time for the taking of any steps by the Secretary of State or any other person (even if the time for taking them would otherwise have expired before the notice is given) (s 152(5)(c)).

(iv) Other Relevant Provision

19. Powers to apply water legislation to the Isles of Scilly.

Subject to the provisions of any order made by the Secretary of State<sup>1</sup>, the Water Industry Act 1991, the Water Resources Act 1991 and the Land Drainage Act 1991 do not apply in relation to the Isles of Scilly<sup>2</sup>. The Secretary of State may, after consultation with the Council of the Isles of Scilly<sup>3</sup>, by order<sup>4</sup> provide for the application of any provisions of those Acts to the Isles of Scilly; and any such order may provide for the application of those provisions to those Isles with such modifications as may be specified in the order<sup>5</sup>.

The Secretary of State may, on the application of the Council of the Isles of Scilly, by order<sup>10</sup> make provision with respect to the carrying out in those Isles of functions falling under the Act to be carried out in relation to other parts of England and Wales by the Environment Agency, by a water undertaker or by a sewerage undertaker; and, without prejudice to the generality of that power, such an order may apply any provision of the Act in relation to the Isles of Scilly with or without modifications<sup>11</sup>.

20. Application of water legislation to the Crown.

The Water Industry Act 1991 and the Water Resources Act 1991<sup>1</sup>, with the exception of the flood defence provisions<sup>2</sup>, bind the Crown<sup>3</sup>, as does the Environment Act 1995<sup>4</sup>. No contravention<sup>5</sup> by the Crown of any provision made by or under those Acts makes the Crown criminally liable, but the High Court<sup>6</sup> may, on the application of the Environment Agency, declare unlawful any act or omission of the Crown which constitutes such a contravention<sup>7</sup>. Any provision made by or under those Acts, however, applies<sup>8</sup> to persons in the public service of the Crown as it applies to other persons<sup>9</sup>. If the Secretary of State<sup>10</sup> certifies or, in relation to Wales, the Welsh Ministers<sup>11</sup> certify that it appears to him or to them, as respects any Crown premises<sup>12</sup> and any powers of entry exercisable in relation to them specified in the certificate, that it is requisite or expedient that, in the interest of national security, the powers should not be exercisable in relation to those premises, those powers are not exercisable in relation to those premises<sup>13</sup>. Nothing in these provisions is to be taken as in any way affecting Her Majesty in her private capacity<sup>14</sup>.

Subject as otherwise expressly provided in the Land Drainage Act 1991, that Act and the flood defence provisions of the Water Resources Act 1991<sup>15</sup> apply to land belonging to Her Majesty in right of the Crown or the Duchy of Lancaster, to land belonging to the Duchy of Cornwall and to land belonging to a government department<sup>16</sup>. However, nothing in those provisions:

- 17 (1) authorises the compulsory acquisition of any land belonging to Her Majesty in right of the Crown or the Duchy of Lancaster, or of any land belonging to the Duchy of Cornwall or a government department<sup>17</sup>;
- 18 (2) operates as a grant (a) by or on behalf of Her Majesty as owner (whether in right of the Crown or of the Duchy of Lancaster) of any tidal lands<sup>18</sup>; or (b) by or on behalf of the Duchy of Cornwall as owner of any such lands<sup>19</sup>, of any estate or interest in or right over any of those lands or any part of them<sup>20</sup>;
- 19 (3) authorises any person to do any work on, over or under, or to use for any purpose, any tidal lands or any lands belonging to Her Majesty in right of the Crown or of the Duchy of Lancaster, to the Duchy of Cornwall, or to any government department, except with the consent of the owner of the land<sup>21</sup> or, in the case of tidal lands, of the owner of the land and of the Secretary of State or, in relation to Wales, the Welsh Ministers<sup>22</sup>; and in accordance with the approved plans and sections and subject to the prescribed restrictions and conditions<sup>23</sup>; or
- 20 (4) confers any power of levying drainage rates in respect of tidal lands<sup>24</sup>.

Subject to the following provisions, the Reservoirs Act 1975 binds the Crown<sup>25</sup>. No contravention by the Crown of any provision made by or under the Act makes the Crown criminally liable; but the High Court may, on the application of the Environment Agency, declare unlawful any act or omission of the Crown which constitutes such a contravention<sup>26</sup>; and notwithstanding anything in the above provision, the provisions of the Act apply to persons in the public service of the Crown as they apply to other persons<sup>27</sup>. If the Secretary of State certifies or, in relation to Wales, the Welsh Ministers<sup>28</sup> certify that it appears to him or to them, as respects any Crown premises<sup>29</sup> and any power of entry exercisable in relation to them specified in the certificate, that it is requisite or expedient that, in the interests of national security, the powers should not be exercisable in relation to those premises, those powers are not exercisable in relation to those premises<sup>30</sup>. Nothing in these provisions, however, is to be taken as in any way affecting Her Majesty in her private capacity<sup>31</sup>.

The provisions of the Coast Protection Act 1949 are binding on the Crown and apply in relation to any Crown land as they apply in relation to any other land<sup>32</sup>.

1 The Water Resources Act 1991 s 222 is substituted by the Environment Act 1995 Sch 21 para 2(1), (4), except for the purposes of the application of the substituted Water Resources Act 1991 s 222 to Pt II (ss 20-81) (see PARA 196 et seq) to which s 222 (as originally enacted; and amended by the Environment Act 1995 s 120(1), Sch 22 para 18) continues to apply until a day to be appointed: see the Environment Act 1995 (Commencement No 9 and Transitional Provisions) Order 1997, SI 1997/1626, art 2. At the date at which this volume states the law no such day had been appointed. For so long as the Water Resources Act 1991 s 222 (as substituted) does not apply to Pt II, s 222 as in force immediately before the substitution (see below) applies to (or in relation to) the Water Act 2003 ss 3, 4, and 10 (see PARAS 216, 226) as it applies to the Water Resources Act 1991 Pt II or, as the case may be, Pt II Ch 2 (ss 24-72): see the Water Act 2003 s 33.

In relation to the Water Resources Act 1991 Pt II (ss 20-81) the following provisions continue to apply: (1) the provisions of the Water Resources Act 1991 have effect in relation to land in which there is a Crown or Duchy interest as they have effect in relation to land in which there is no such interest: s 222(1) (as originally enacted). (2) Pt II Ch II (ss 24-72) (see PARA 214 et seq) and the related water resources provisions (as to the meaning of which see PARA 188 note 15) do not apply to anything done by or on behalf of the Crown, or to any land which is in the occupation of a government department or any other land in which there is a Crown or Duchy interest and which is occupied in right of that interest: s 222(2) (as originally enacted). (3) Nothing in the Act, as read with the other provisions of s 222 (as originally enacted), must be construed as conferring any power of levying drainage charges in respect of lands below the high-water mark of ordinary spring tides, or as authorising the Environment Agency to require the Crown to make any payment to the Agency in respect of any premises: s 222(3) (as originally enacted; and amended by the Environment Act 1995 s 120(1), Sch 22 para 18). (4) Subject to the Water Resources Act 1991 s 222(2), (3) above and to s 222(5) below, where a power is conferred in relation to land by or under any provision of the Act other than one of the flood defence provisions (as to the meaning of which see note 2) that power is exercisable in relation to any land in which there is a Crown or Duchy interest only with the consent of the appropriate authority, and a consent for these purposes may be given on such financial and other conditions as the appropriate authority giving the consent may consider appropriate (s 222(4) (as originally enacted)); but this provision does not require any consent to be given for the exercise of any power in relation to any land in which there is a Crown or Duchy interest to the extent that that power would be so exercisable apart from s 222(1) above, or for the purposes of any provision having effect by virtue of so much of s 168 and Sch 19 (see PARAS 455-459, 469, 686) as relates to the granting of authority for discharges of water (s 222(5) (as originally enacted)). (5) The Land Drainage Act 1991 s 74 (Crown application: see the text to notes 15-24), so far as it relates to land in which there is a Crown or Duchy interest, applies in relation to the flood defence provisions of the Water Resources Act 1991 as it applies in relation to that Act; but nothing in this provision affects any power conferred by the Water Resources Act 1991 for the purposes both of the Environment Agency's functions under those provisions and of other functions of the Agency: s 222(6) (as originally enacted; and amended by the Environment Act 1995 s 120(1), Sch 22 para 18). (6) The provisions of the Town and Country Planning Act 1990 s 293(3) (questions relating to Crown application: see TOWN AND COUNTRY PLANNING vol 46(1) (Reissue) PARA 14) as to the determination of questions applies for the purposes of the Water Resources Act 1991 s 222: s 222(8) (as originally enacted). (7) Nothing in s 222 must be construed as requiring any provision of the Water Resources Act 1991 having effect otherwise than in relation to land to be construed as imposing any liability on the Crown to which the Crown would not be subject apart from that section: s 222(9) (as originally enacted).

As to the meaning of 'land' see PARA 14 note 21. As to the Environment Agency see PARA 17. 'Appropriate authority' has the same meaning as in the Town and Country Planning Act 1990 s 293 (see TOWN AND COUNTRY PLANNING vol 46(1) (Reissue) PARA 14); and 'Crown or Duchy interest' means an interest belonging to Her Majesty in right of the Crown or of the Duchy of Lancaster, or to the Duchy of Cornwall, or belonging to a government department or held in trust for Her Majesty for the purposes of a government department: Water Resources Act 1991 s 222(7) (as originally enacted). As to the Crown see CONSTITUTIONAL LAW AND HUMAN RIGHTS vol 8(2) (Reissue) PARA 353; CROWN AND ROYAL FAMILY vol 12(1) (Reissue) PARA 1 et seq. As to Crown property see CROWN PROPERTY vol 12(1) (Reissue) PARA 1 et seq. As to the Duchy of Lancaster see CROWN PROPERTY vol 12(1) (Reissue) PARA 300 et seq. As to the Duchy of Cornwall see CROWN PROPERTY vol 12(1) (Reissue) PARA 318 et seq.

2 The Land Drainage Act 1991 s 74 (Crown application: see the text to notes 15-24), so far as it relates to land in which there is a Crown or Duchy interest, applies in relation to the flood defence provisions of the Water Resources Act 1991 as it applies in relation to the Land Drainage Act 1991; but nothing in this provision affects any power conferred by the Water Resources Act 1991 for the purposes both of the Environment Agency's functions under those provisions and of other functions of the Agency: s 222(8) (as substituted: see note 1). Nothing in the Water Resources Act 1991, as read with the other provisions of s 222, must be construed as conferring any power of levying drainage charges in respect of lands below the high-water mark of ordinary spring tides: s 222(7) (as so substituted). 'Crown or Duchy interest' means an interest which belongs to Her Majesty in right of the Crown or of the Duchy of Lancaster, or to the Duchy of Cornwall, or belonging to a government department or held in trust for Her Majesty for the purposes of a government department: s 222(9) (as so substituted); Water Industry Act 1991 s 221(7) (s 221 substituted by the Environment Act 1995 s 116, Sch 21 para 1).

'Flood defence provisions' means: (1) any of the provisions of the Water Resources Act 1991 Pt IV (ss 105-113); ss 133-141 (including Sch 15) (see PARAS 612-625); s 143 (see PARA 710); s 155 (see PARA 610); ss 165-167 (see PARAS 589-590, 596-597); s 180 (see PARA 604); ss 193, 194 (see PARA 574), Sch 25 para 5 (see PARA 605); (2) any of the provisions of Environment Act 1995 s 6(4) (general supervision of flood defence: see PARA 573), s 53 (inquiries and other hearings: see ENVIRONMENTAL QUALITY AND PUBLIC HEALTH vol 45 (2010) PARA 89); and Sch 5 (membership and proceedings of regional and local flood defence committees: see PARA 561 et seq); and (3) any other provision of the Water Resources Act 1991 or the Environment Act 1995 so far as it relates to a provision falling within head (1) or head (2) above: Water Resources Act 1991 s 221(1) (definition substituted by the Environment Act 1995 Sch 22 para 177(8); amended by the Water Act 2003 ss 69(4), 101(2), Sch 9 Pt 3).

3 Water Industry Act 1991 s 221(1) (as substituted: see note 2); Water Resources Act 1991 s 222(1) (as substituted: see note 1). The Water Resources Act 1991 s 222 (as so substituted) applies in relation to the Water Act 2003 ss 3, 4, 10 (see PARAS 216, 226) as it applies in relation to the provisions of the Water Resources Act 1991: s 222(11) (s 222 as so substituted; s 222(11) added by the Water Act 2003 s 101(1), Sch 7 Pt 1 paras 1, 13).

Until a day to be appointed the following provisions have effect: the Water Resources Act 1991 Pt II Ch II (ss 24-72) (see PARA 214 et seq) and the related water resources provisions do not apply: (1) to anything done by a member of a visiting force in his capacity as a member of that force; or (2) to any land occupied by or for the purposes of a visiting force; and for these purposes, 'visiting force' means any such body, contingent or detachment of the forces of any country as is a visiting force for the purposes of any of the provisions of the Visiting Forces Act 1952 (see ARMED FORCES vol 2(2) (Reissue) PARA 140): Water Resources Act 1991 s 223(1), (2) (prospectively repealed by the Water Act 2003 ss 32, 101(2), Sch 9 Pt 1). At the date at which this volume states the law no such day had been appointed.

4 Environment Act 1995 s 115(1). Part III (ss 61-79) (National Parks: see OPEN SPACES AND COUNTRYSIDE vol 78 (2010) PARA 526 et seq) and any amendments, repeals and revocations made by other provisions of the Environment Act 1995 (other than those made by Sch 21, which bind the Crown) bind the Crown to the extent that the enactments to which they relate bind the Crown: s 115(2).

5 'Contravention' includes a failure to comply, and cognate expressions must be construed accordingly: Water Industry Act 1991 s 219(1); Water Resources Act 1991 s 221(1). The term is not defined in the Environment Act 1995.

6 As to the High Court of Justice in England and Wales see COURTS vol 10 (Reissue) PARA 602 et seq.

7 Water Industry Act 1991 s 221(2) (as substituted: see note 2); Water Resources Act 1991 s 222(2) (as substituted: see note 1); Environment Act 1995 s 115(3). In relation to a contravention of provisions of the Water Industry Act 1991, such application may also be made by a water undertaker or a sewerage undertaker: s 221(2) (as so substituted). As to the meanings of 'water undertaker' and 'sewerage undertaker' see PARA 137 note 4.

8 Ie notwithstanding anything in the Water Industry Act 1991 s 221(2), the Water Resources Act 1991 s 222(2) or the Environment Act 1995 s 115(3): see the text to notes 5-7.

9 Water Industry Act 1991 s 221(3) (as substituted: see note 2); Water Resources Act 1991 s 222(3) (as substituted: see note 1); Environment Act 1995 s 115(4). As to the meaning of 'person' see PARA 13 note 29.

10 As to the Secretary of State see PARA 15 note 1.

11 Functions of the Secretary of State under the Water Industry Act 1991 s 221(4), the Water Resources Act 1991 s 222(4) and the Environment Act 1995 s 115(5), so far as exercisable in relation to Wales, were transferred to the National Assembly for Wales and are now exercisable by the Welsh Ministers: see the National Assembly for Wales (Transfer of Functions) Order 1999, SI 1999/672, art 2, Sch 1; Government of Wales Act 2006 s 162(1), Sch 11 para 30. As to the Welsh Ministers see PARA 16 note 5. As to the meaning of 'Wales' see PARA 16 note 2. As to the power of the Secretary of State to intervene in relation to functions exercisable by the Welsh Ministers where any particular case might have a serious adverse impact on water resources, water supply, or the quality of water in England see PARA 16.

12 In the Water Industry Act 1991 and the Water Resources Act 1991, 'Crown premises' means premises held by or on behalf of the Crown: s 222(9) (as substituted: see note 1); Water Industry Act 1991 s 221(7) (as substituted: see note 2). In the Environment Act 1995, 'Crown premises' means premises held or used by or on behalf of the Crown: see s 115(5).

13 Water Industry Act 1991 s 221(4) (as substituted: see note 2); Water Resources Act 1991 s 222(4) (as substituted: see note 1); Environment Act 1995 s 115(5). Subject to this, the powers conferred by the Water Industry Act 1991 ss 155, 159, 161(2), 167 (see PARA 453 et seq) and by the Water Resources Act 1991 ss 154, 156, 160, 162(3), 168 (see PARA 453 et seq) are exercisable in relation to land in which there is a Crown or Duchy interest only with the consent of the appropriate authority: Water Industry Act 1991 s 221(6); Water Resources Act 1991 s 222(5) (both as so substituted). 'Appropriate authority' has the same meaning as it has in the Town and Country Planning Act 1990 Pt XIII (ss 293-302) by virtue of s 293(2) (see TOWN AND COUNTRY PLANNING vol 46(1) (Reissue) PARA 14); Water Industry Act 1991 s 221(7); Water Resources Act 1991 s 222(9) (both as so substituted). The provisions of the Town and Country Planning Act 1990 s 293(3) (questions relating to Crown application: see TOWN AND COUNTRY PLANNING vol 46(1) (Reissue) PARA 14) as to the determination of questions apply for the purposes of the Water Industry Act 1991 s 221 and the Water Resources Act 1991 s 222: s 222(10), Water Industry Act 1991 s 221(8) (both as so substituted). As to powers of entry see further PARA 476 et seq.

14 See the Water Industry Act 1991 s 221(5) (as substituted: see note 2); Water Resources Act 1991 s 222(6) (as substituted: see note 1); Environment Act 1995 s 115(6). These provisions are to be construed as if the Crown Proceedings Act 1947 s 38(3) (interpretation of references to Her Majesty in her private capacity) were contained in the respective Acts: Water Industry Act 1991 s 221(5); Water Resources Act 1991 s 222(6) (both as so substituted); Environment Act 1995 s 115(6). Any reference to Her Majesty in her private capacity must be construed as including a reference to Her Majesty in right of her Duchy of Lancaster and to the Duke of Cornwall: Crown Proceedings Act 1947 s 38(3). As to the Duchy of Lancaster see CROWN PROPERTY vol 12(1) (Reissue) PARA 300 et seq. As to the Duchy of Cornwall see CROWN PROPERTY vol 12(1) (Reissue) PARA 318 et seq.

15 As to the application of the Land Drainage Act 1991 s 74 to the flood defence provisions of the Water Resources Act 1991 see note 2.

16 Land Drainage Act 1991 s 74(1). The Water Resources Act 1991 s 222 (see the text to notes 1-14) has effect in relation to the provisions of the Land Drainage Act 1991 so far as they confer powers on the Environment Agency as it applies in relation to the provisions of the Water Resources Act 1991: Land Drainage Act 1991 s 74(5) (amended by the Environment Act 1995 s 120, Sch 22 para 191).

17 Land Drainage Act 1991 s 74(3)(a). As to compulsory acquisition of land generally see COMPULSORY ACQUISITION OF LAND.

18 Land Drainage Act 1991 s 74(3)(b)(i). 'Tidal lands' means land below the high-water mark of ordinary spring tides, but for the purposes of head (3) in the text does not include any lands which are protected, by means of walls, embankments or otherwise, from the incursion of the tides: s 74(6).

As to the Crown Estate Commissioners see CROWN PROPERTY vol 12(1) (Reissue) PARA 280 et seq. The functions of the Secretary of State under s 74, so far as exercisable in relation to Wales, were transferred to the National Assembly for Wales: see the National Assembly for Wales (Transfer of Functions) Order 1999, SI 1999/672, art 2, Sch 1. As to the Welsh Ministers see PARA 16 note 5. 23 Land Drainage Act 1991 s 74(3)(c)(ii). 'Approved' and 'prescribed' mean, respectively, approved and prescribed by the Secretary of State or, in relation to Wales, the Welsh Ministers or, as the case may be, the owner of the lands, before the commencement of the work in question: s 74(6). Nothing in the Land Drainage Act 1991 s 74(3)(c) applies to work done in maintaining existing works on tidal lands, or on land not in occupation of Her Majesty, the Duke of Cornwall or a government department: s 74(4).

25 Reservoirs Act 1975 s 27A(1) (s 27A added by the Water Act 2003 s 80). The provisions of the Town and Country Planning Act 1990 s 293(3) (questions relating to Crown application: see TOWN AND COUNTRY PLANNING vol 46(1) (Reissue) PARA 14) as to the determination of questions apply for the purposes of the Reservoirs Act 1975 s 27A: s 27A(8) (as so added).

27 Reservoirs Act 1975 s 27A(3) (as added: see note 25).

28 Functions of the Secretary of State under the Reservoirs Act 1975, so far as exercisable in relation to Wales, were transferred to the National Assembly for Wales and are now exercisable by the Welsh Ministers: see the National Assembly for Wales (Transfer of Functions) Order 1999, SI 1999/672, art 2, Sch 1; Government of Wales Act 2006 s 162(1), Sch 11 para 30.

29 'Crown premises' means premises held by or on behalf of the Crown: Reservoirs Act 1975 s 27A(7) (as added: see note 25).

30 Reservoirs Act 1975 s 27A(4) (as added: see note 25). Subject to s 27A(4), the power conferred by s 17 (see PARA 294) is exercisable in relation to land in which there is a Crown or Duchy interest only with the consent of the appropriate authority: s 27A(5) (as so added). 'Appropriate authority' has the same meaning as it has in the Town and Country Planning Act 1990 Pt XIII by virtue of s 293(2) (see TOWN AND COUNTRY PLANNING vol 46(1) (Reissue) PARA 14); and 'Crown or Duchy interest' means an interest which belongs to Her Majesty in right of the Crown or of the Duchy of Lancaster, or to the Duchy of Cornwall, or belonging to a government department or held in trust for Her Majesty for the purposes of a government department: Reservoirs Act 1975 s 27A(7) (as so added).

31 Reservoirs Act 1975 s 27A(6) (as added: see note 25). Section 27A(6) is to be construed as if the Crown Proceedings Act 1947 s 38(3) (interpretation of references to Her Majesty in her private capacity: see note 14) were contained in the Reservoirs Act 1975: s 27A(6) (as so added).

21. Exercise of power to make orders or regulations.

The powers of the Secretary of State<sup>1</sup> or where applicable, in relation to Wales, of the Welsh Ministers<sup>2</sup>, to make regulations under the Water Industry Act 1991 and to make regulations under any provision of the Water Resources Act 1991, are exercisable by statutory instrument, subject in most instances<sup>3</sup>, in the case of those made by the Secretary of State, to annulment in pursuance of a resolution of either House of Parliament<sup>4</sup>. The provisions of any regulations so made may include:

- 21 (1) provision for any duty or other requirement imposed by them on a water undertaker or sewerage undertaker<sup>5</sup> or on a licensed water supplier<sup>6</sup> to be enforceable<sup>7</sup> by the Secretary of State or, where applicable, the Welsh Ministers, by the Water Services Regulation Authority<sup>8</sup>, or by either of them<sup>9</sup>;
- 22 (2) provision, where such a duty or requirement is so enforceable by either of them, for enforcement by the Water Services Regulation Authority to be subject to such consent or authorisation as may be prescribed by the regulations<sup>10</sup>;
- 23 (3) provision in relation to the furnishing of any information or the making of any application under the regulations which makes corresponding provision to the statutory prohibitions<sup>11</sup> on the giving of false information<sup>12</sup>;
- 24 (4) provision for anything that may be prescribed by the regulations to be determined under them and for anything falling to be so determined to be determined by such persons<sup>13</sup>, in accordance with such procedure and by reference to such matters, and to the opinion of such persons, as may be so prescribed<sup>14</sup>;
- 25 (5) different provision for different cases, including different provision in relation to different persons, circumstances or localities<sup>15</sup>; and
- 26 (6) such supplemental, consequential and transitional provision as the Secretary of State considers or, where applicable, the Welsh Ministers consider appropriate<sup>16</sup>.

In addition, regulations made under the Water Industry Act 1991 may include provision:

- 27 (a) for the determination of questions of fact or of law which may arise in giving effect to them<sup>17</sup>;
- 28 (b) for regulating, otherwise than in relation to any court proceedings, any matters relating to the practice and procedure to be followed in connection with the determination of such questions<sup>18</sup>;
- 29 (c) as to the mode of proof of any matter<sup>19</sup>;
- 30 (d) as to the parties and their representation<sup>20</sup>; and
- 31 (e) for the right to appear before and be heard by the Secretary of State or, where applicable, the Welsh Ministers, the Water Services Regulation Authority and other authorities<sup>21</sup>,
- 32 (f) as to awarding costs or expenses of proceedings in any determination under them, including the amount of the costs or expenses and the enforcement of the awards<sup>22</sup>; and any such regulations which prescribe a period within which things are to be done may provide for extending the period so prescribed<sup>23</sup>.

The powers to make regulations under the Land Drainage Act 1991 are discussed in a later part of this title<sup>24</sup>.

Any power under the Water Act 2003 to make any order or regulations is exercisable by statutory instrument<sup>25</sup>. A statutory instrument containing an order or regulations made by the Secretary of State<sup>26</sup> and which contains (or contain) provision amending or repealing any enactment<sup>27</sup>, may not be made unless a draft of the instrument has been laid before, and approved by a resolution of, each House of Parliament<sup>28</sup>. Otherwise, a statutory instrument containing any order or regulations made by the Secretary of State under the Act, other than a commencement order<sup>29</sup>, is subject to annulment in pursuance of a resolution of either House of Parliament<sup>30</sup>. Any power under the Water Act 2003 to make any order or regulations may be exercised:

- 33 (i) either in relation to all cases to which the power extends, or in relation to those cases subject to specified exceptions, or in relation to any specified cases or classes of case<sup>31</sup>;
- 34 (ii) so as to make, as respects the cases in relation to which it is exercised:
    1. (A) the full provision to which the power extends or any less provision (whether by way of exception or otherwise)<sup>32</sup>;
    2. (B) the same provision for all cases in relation to which the power is exercised, or different provision for different cases or different classes of case or different provision as respects the same case or class of case for different purposes of the Act<sup>33</sup>;
    3. (C) any such provision either unconditionally or subject to any specified condition<sup>34</sup>.

Where any such power is expressed to be exercisable for alternative purposes it may be exercised in relation to the same case for all or any of those purposes<sup>35</sup>. Any such power includes power to make such incidental, supplementary, consequential, saving or transitional provision, including provision amending, repealing or revoking enactments or provisions of subordinate legislation<sup>36</sup>, as the authority making the order or regulations considers to be expedient<sup>37</sup>, and to provide for a person to exercise a discretion in dealing with any matter<sup>38</sup>; and nothing in the Act is to be read as affecting the generality of this provision<sup>39</sup>.

1 As to the Secretary of State see PARA 15 note 1.

2 The functions of the Secretary of State under the Water Industry Act 1991 s 213 and the Water Resources Act 1991 s 219, so far as exercisable in relation to Wales, were transferred to the National Assembly for Wales, so as to be exercisable, in the case of the Water Industry Act 1991 s 213, by the Assembly to the same extent as the powers, duties and other provisions to which that section applies were exercisable by the Assembly: see the National Assembly for Wales (Transfer of Functions) Order 1999, SI 1999/672, art 2, Sch 1. These functions are now vested in the Welsh Ministers: see the Government of Wales Act 2006 s 162(1), Sch 11 para 30. As to the meaning of 'Wales' see PARA 16 note 2. As to the Welsh Ministers see PARA 16 note 5. 6 (2) made by virtue of the Water Resources Act 1991 Sch 15 para 1(3) (see PARA 619) (s 219(1)).

On the occasion of the first exercise by the Secretary of State of the power to make regulations under each of the Water Industry Act 1991 ss 89 and 90 (see PARAS 411, 414), the instrument containing the regulations must not be made unless a draft of the instrument has been laid before, and approved by a resolution of, each House of Parliament: s 213(1A) (added by the Water Act 2003 s 58(1), (8)). As from a day to be appointed, the power of the Welsh Ministers to make regulations under the Water Industry Act 1991 s 89 is exercisable by statutory instrument: s 213(1B) (prospectively added by the Water Act 2003 s 58(1), (8)). At the date at which this volume states the law no such day had been appointed. As to the laying of documents before Parliament see PARLIAMENT vol 34 (Reissue) PARA 941. ## 22. Service of documents and notices.

Any document or notice<sup>1</sup> required or authorised by virtue of the Water Industry Act 1991, the Water Resources Act 1991, the Land Drainage Act 1991, the Statutory Water Companies Act 1991<sup>2</sup>, the Reservoirs Act 1975<sup>3</sup> or the Environment Act 1995 to be served<sup>4</sup> on any person may be served:

- 35 (1) by delivering it to him or by leaving it at his proper address<sup>5</sup> or by sending it by post to him at that address<sup>6</sup>; or
- 36 (2) if the person is a body corporate, by serving it in accordance with head (1) above on the secretary or clerk of that body<sup>7</sup>; or
- 37 (3) if the person is a partnership, by serving it in accordance with head (1) above on a partner or a person having the control or management of the partnership business<sup>8</sup>.

Where any document or notice is required to be served on the owner<sup>9</sup>, on a lessee or on the occupier of any premises<sup>10</sup> then if the name or address of that owner, lessee or occupier cannot after reasonable inquiry be ascertained, or, in the case of service on the occupier, if the premises appear to be, or are, unoccupied, that document or notice may be served either by leaving it in the hands of a person who is or appears to be resident or employed on the land or by leaving it conspicuously affixed to some building or object on the land<sup>11</sup>.

The above provisions do not apply to any document or notice in relation to the service of which provision is made by rules of court<sup>12</sup>.

Where, under any provision of the Water Resources Act 1991 relating to the abstraction and impounding of water<sup>13</sup>, a document is required to be served on an owner of land and the land is ecclesiastical property<sup>14</sup>, a copy of the document must be served on the Diocesan Board of Finance for the diocese in which the land is situated<sup>15</sup>.

Any notice or other document which is required or authorised by or under the Coast Protection Act 1949 to be served on any person may be served:

- 38 (a) by delivering it to that person, or leaving it or sending it in a prepaid letter to him at his usual or last-known address<sup>16</sup>; or
- 39 (b) in the case of the council of a county, county borough or district<sup>17</sup>, or an incorporated company or body, including the Environment Agency and an internal drainage board<sup>18</sup>, or a coast protection board<sup>19</sup>, local fisheries committee<sup>20</sup>, conservancy authority<sup>21</sup>, highway authority<sup>22</sup>, navigation authority<sup>23</sup>, harbour authority<sup>24</sup> or sea defence commissioners<sup>25</sup>, not being an incorporated body, by delivering it to its clerk or secretary at its registered or principal office, or by sending it in a prepaid letter addressed to him at that office<sup>26</sup>; or
- 40 (c) in the case of a notice or document to be served on any person as having any interest in land<sup>27</sup>, if it is not practicable after reasonable inquiry to ascertain his name and address, by addressing it to him by the description of the person having that interest in the land (naming it), and delivering it to some responsible person on the land or affixing it, or a copy of it, to some conspicuous object on the land<sup>28</sup>.

These provisions do not, however, apply to the service of certain notices<sup>29</sup> in connection with the acquisition of land<sup>30</sup>.

1 The provisions of the Environment Act 1995 s 123 apply to the service of 'notices' and of 'documents': see s 123(1), (7). The Water Industry Act 1991 s 216, the Water Resources Act 1991 s 220, the Land Drainage Act 1991 s 71, and the Statutory Water Companies Act 1991 s 15(4) are expressed to apply to the service of 'documents'. None of those Acts defines 'document'; but under those Acts and also under the Environment Act 1995, 'notice' means notice in writing: see the Water Industry Act 1991 s 219(1); the Water Resources Act 1991 s 221(1); the Land Drainage Act 1991 s 71(1); the Statutory Water Companies Act 1991 s 15(1); the Environment Act 1995 s 124(1). 'Writing' includes typing, printing, lithography, photography and other modes of representing or reproducing words in a visible form, and expressions referring to writing are construed accordingly: Interpretation Act 1978 s 5, Sch 1.

The Water Resources Act 1991 s 220 applies to documents required or authorised by virtue of any of the Water Act 2003 ss 3, 4, 10 (see PARAS 216, 226) to be served on any person as it applies to documents required or authorised to be served by virtue of the Water Resources Act 1991: Water Act 2003 s 33(4). As to the meaning of 'person' see PARA 13 note 29.

2 The Water Industry Act 1991 s 216 applies in relation to the service of any document by virtue of the Statutory Water Companies Act 1991 as it applies in relation to the service of any document by virtue of the Water Industry Act 1991: Statutory Water Companies Act 1991 s 15(4).

3 The Environment Act 1995 s 123 applies to any document authorised or required by virtue of any provision of the Reservoirs Act 1975 to be served or given by the Environment Agency as if it were authorised or required to be served or given by or under the Environment Act 1995: Reservoirs Act 1975 s 22A (added by the Water Act 2003 s 76(2)). As to the Environment Agency see PARA 17.

4 In the Environment Act 1995 s 123 'serve' must be construed as such whether the expression 'serve' or the expression 'give' or 'send' or any other expression is used: s 123(1), (8).

5 For these purposes, and the purposes of the Interpretation Act 1978 s 7 (service of documents by post: see below) in its application to these provisions, the proper address of any person on whom any such document or notice is to be served is his last-known address, except that: (1) in the case of a body corporate or its secretary or clerk, it is the address of the registered or principal office of that body; (2) in the case of a partnership or person having the control or the management of the partnership business, it is the address of the principal office of the partnership; and for these purposes the principal office of a company registered outside the United Kingdom or of a partnership carrying business outside the United Kingdom is its principal office within the United Kingdom: Water Industry Act 1991 s 216(2); Water Resources Act 1991 s 220(2); Land Drainage Act 1991 s 71(3); Environment Act 1995 s 123(3). If a person to be served with any document or notice by another has specified to that other an address within the United Kingdom other than his proper address as so determined as the one at which he or someone on his behalf will accept documents or notices of the same description as that document or notice, that address is also to be treated as his proper address for these purposes and for the purposes of the Interpretation Act 1978 s 7 in its application thereto: Water Industry Act 1991 s 216(3); Water Resources Act 1991 s 220(3); Land Drainage Act 1991 s 71(4); Environment Act 1995 s 123(4). 'United Kingdom' means Great Britain and Northern Ireland: Interpretation Act 1978 s 5, Sch 1. 'Great Britain' means England, Scotland and Wales: Union with Scotland Act 1706, preamble art I; Interpretation Act 1978 s 22(1), Sch 2 para 5(a). Neither the Isle of Man nor the Channel Islands are within the United Kingdom. As to the meaning of 'England' see PARA 19 note 8. As to the meaning of 'Wales' see PARA 16 note 2. As to the registered office of a company see COMPANIES vol 14 (2009) PARA 129.

Where an Act authorises or requires any document to be served by post (whether the expression 'serve' or the expression 'give' or 'send' or any other expression is used) then, unless the contrary intention appears, the service is deemed to be effected by properly addressing, pre-paying and posting a letter containing the document and, unless the contrary is proved, to have been effected at the time at which the letter would be delivered in the ordinary course of post: Interpretation Act 1978 s 7. See further STATUTES vol 44(1) (Reissue) PARA 1388. As to the meaning of 'Act' see PARA 21 note 36. A requirement to send a document by post is not confined to sending it by the Post Office postal system: see the Postal Services Act 2000 s 127(4), Sch 8 Pt 1; and POST OFFICE.

9 For the purposes of the Water Industry Act 1991 and the Water Resources Act 1991, 'owner', in relation to any premises, means the person who: (1) is for the time being receiving the rack rent of the premises, whether on his own account or as agent or as trustee for another person; or (2) would receive the rack rent if the premises were let at a rack rent, and cognate expressions are to be construed accordingly: Water Industry Act 1991 s 219(1); Water Resources Act 1991 s 221(1).

10 For the purposes of the Environment Act 1995 s 123, 'premises' includes any land, vehicle, vessel or mobile plant: s 123(8). As to the meaning of 'land' see PARA 14 note 21.

11 Water Industry Act 1991 s 216(4); Water Resources Act 1991 s 220(4); Land Drainage Act 1991 s 71(5); and see the Environment Act 1995 s 123(5) (which refers to a person resident or employed, and a building or object, on the premises). 13 In the Water Resources Act 1991 Pt II Ch II (ss 24-72): see PARA 214 et seq.

14 For these purposes, 'ecclesiastical property' means land which: (1) belongs to an ecclesiastical benefice of the Church of England; (2) is or forms part of a church subject to the jurisdiction of the bishop of any diocese of the Church of England or the site of a church so subject; or (3) is or forms part of a burial ground so subject: Water Resources Act 1991 s 67(8). ### 23. Procedures for awarding supply and works contracts relating to water.

Under European Community law, member states are required to coordinate the procurement procedures of entities operating in the water, energy, transport and postal services sectors<sup>1</sup>, and to coordinate the laws, regulations and administrative provisions relating to the application of Community rules in respect thereof<sup>2</sup>. In England and Wales<sup>3</sup>, the Utilities Contracts Regulations 2006 have been made for the purpose of implementing these requirements<sup>4</sup>. The regulations specify the procedures to be followed in relation to the award of supply contracts, works contracts and services contracts<sup>5</sup> by utilities for the purpose of carrying out activities in, inter alia, the water sector, and provide remedies for breaches of the regulations<sup>6</sup>. The utilities affected include:

- 41 (1) a company holding an appointment as a water undertaker or a sewerage undertaker<sup>7</sup> under the Water Industry Act 1991 in relation to:
4. (a) the provision or operation of a fixed network which provides or will provide a service to the public in connection with the production, transport or distribution of drinking water;
5. (b) hydraulic engineering, irrigation or land drainage, but only if more than 20 per cent of the total volume of water made available by such activity is intended for the supply of drinking water;
6. (c) the disposal or treatment of sewage<sup>8</sup>;
- 42 (2) a relevant person not specified in head (3) below, in relation to the supply of drinking water to a network referred to in head (1)(a) above<sup>9</sup>;
- 43 (3) a relevant person other than a contracting authority who produces drinking water because its consumption is necessary for the purpose of carrying out an activity not specified in heads (1) or (2) above and who supplies only the excess to a network which is referred to in head (1)(a) above, in relation to the supply of drinking water to such a network but only if the drinking water supplied in the period of 36 months<sup>10</sup> ending at the relevant time has exceeded 30 per cent of the total produced by the utility in that period<sup>11</sup>.

A number of contracts are excluded or exempted from the application of the regulations<sup>12</sup>, and, in any event, the value of the contract must exceed the specified threshold for the type of contract in question<sup>13</sup>.

Detailed provision is made as to the laying down of technical specifications<sup>14</sup>, the procedures to be followed in letting a contract<sup>15</sup>, the qualification and selection of bidders<sup>16</sup>, and awarding a contract<sup>17</sup>. When the regulations apply, a utility must not treat a person<sup>18</sup> who is not a national of a relevant state<sup>19</sup> and established in a relevant state more favourably than one who is<sup>20</sup>, must treat economic operators<sup>21</sup> equally and in a non-discriminatory way, and act in a transparent way<sup>22</sup>.

The obligation on a utility to comply with the provisions of the regulations is a duty owed to an economic operator a breach of which is actionable in the High Court by any economic operator which, in consequence suffers, or risks suffering, loss or damage<sup>23</sup>.

'Nationally significant infrastructure project' means a project which consists of any of the statutory descriptions of relevant projects in the fields of energy, transport, water, waste water and waste<sup>3</sup>, and includes the construction<sup>4</sup> or alteration<sup>5</sup> of a dam or reservoir<sup>6</sup>, and development relating to the transfer of water resources<sup>7</sup>.

These provisions are covered in detail elsewhere in this work<sup>8</sup>.

2 See the Planning Act 2008 Pts 4-7 (ss 31-159).

3 See the Planning Act 2008 s 14.

4 The construction of a dam or reservoir is within the Planning Act 2008 s 14(1)(m) only if the dam or reservoir (when constructed) will be in England, the construction will be carried out by one or more water undertakers, and the volume of water to be held back by the dam or stored in the reservoir is expected to exceed 10 million cubic metres: s 27(1). As to the meaning of 'England' see PARA 19 note 8. 'Water undertaker' means a company appointed as a water undertaker under the Water Industry Act 1991: Planning Act 2008 s 27(3). As to the appointment of water undertakers see PARA 137 et seq.

5 The alteration of a dam or reservoir is within the Planning Act 2008 s 14(1)(m) only if the dam or reservoir is in England, the alteration will be carried out by one or more water undertakers, and the additional volume of water to be held back by the dam or stored in the reservoir as a result of the alteration is expected to exceed 10 million cubic metres: s 27(2).

25. Control of pollution under European Community legislation.

The control of pollution of water is covered in detail elsewhere in this work<sup>1</sup>.

European Community legislation is of increasing importance in relation to the control of pollution of water. Of particular relevance are the Aquatic Environment Directive dealing with the discharge of certain dangerous substances into the aquatic environment<sup>2</sup>, the Urban Waste Water Treatment Directive dealing with urban waste-water treatment<sup>3</sup>, the Freshwater Fish Life Directive dealing with the quality of fresh waters in order to support fish life<sup>4</sup>, the Shellfish Waters Directive dealing with the quality of shellfish waters<sup>5</sup>, the Groundwater Directives dealing with the protection of ground water against pollution<sup>6</sup>, the Bathing Water Directive dealing with the quality of bathing waters<sup>7</sup>, and the Nitrates Directive dealing with the protection of waters against pollution caused by nitrates from agricultural sources<sup>8</sup>.

The Secretary of State<sup>9</sup> has power to provide by regulations<sup>10</sup> that the water pollution provisions<sup>11</sup> of the Water Resources Act 1991 have effect with such modifications<sup>12</sup> as may be prescribed by the regulations for the purpose of enabling Her Majesty's government in the United Kingdom<sup>13</sup> to give effect to any Community obligations<sup>14</sup> or to any international agreement to which the United Kingdom is for the time being a party<sup>15</sup>.

26. Legislation to prevent pollution.

The control of pollution of water is covered in detail elsewhere in this work<sup>1</sup>.

The principal Act concerned with the control of pollution of the water environment is the Water Resources Act 1991<sup>2</sup>. Numerous other enactments contain provision prohibiting or controlling pollution. On a general level, the Pollution Prevention and Control Act 1999 makes provision for the implementation of a system of integrated pollution prevention and control, the regulation of activities which are capable of causing any environmental pollution, and the prevention or control of emissions capable of causing any such pollution<sup>3</sup>. Other legislation contains many provisions relating to pollution whether caused by particular things or materials or derived from particular sources, such as the unauthorised or harmful deposit of waste, agricultural chemicals, deposits at sea, the manufacture of gas, radioactive waste, discharges of oil from land, and escapes from pipelines, or affecting particular places, such as the countryside, fisheries and harbours, or affecting the public water supply<sup>4</sup>. Also of relevance is the legislation directed to the abatement of public nuisances<sup>5</sup>, that regulating contaminated land<sup>6</sup>, and that relating to public health<sup>7</sup>.

(B) THE

27. Quality objectives.

The Water Resources Act 1991 makes provision for the control of pollution of water resources<sup>1</sup>. The Secretary of State<sup>2</sup> or, in relation to Wales, the Welsh Ministers<sup>3</sup> may prescribe a system for the classification of the quality of controlled waters<sup>4</sup> by reference to one or more of the following criteria: (1) general requirements as to the purposes for which the waters to which the classification is applied are to be suitable; (2) specific requirements as to the substances that are to be present in or absent from the water and as to the concentrations of substances which are or are required to be present in the water; (3) specific requirements as to other characteristics of those waters<sup>5</sup>. For the purpose of maintaining and improving the quality of such waters the Secretary of State or, as the case may be, the Welsh Ministers may, by serving a notice on the Environment Agency<sup>6</sup>, establish the water quality objectives for any waters which are, or are included in, waters of a prescribed description<sup>7</sup>. Duties are imposed on the Secretary of State, the Welsh Ministers and the Agency to exercise powers conferred on them by the Act in relation to water pollution so as to achieve water quality objectives<sup>8</sup>.

2 As to the Secretary of State see PARA 15 note 1.

3 The functions of the Secretary of State under the Water Resources Act 1991 ss 82-84, so far as exercisable in relation to Wales (except in the case of s 82 so far as exercisable in relation to those parts of Wales which are within the catchment areas of the rivers Dee, Wye and Severn) were transferred to the National Assembly for Wales: see the National Assembly for Wales (Transfer of Functions) Order 1999, SI 1999/672, art 2, Sch 1. These functions are now vested in the Welsh Ministers: see the Government of Wales Act 2006 s 162(1), Sch 11 para 30. As to the meaning of 'Wales' see PARA 16 note 2. As to the Welsh Ministers see PARA 16 note 5. ## 28. Pollution offences.

The Water Resources Act 1991 makes it an offence to pollute controlled waters, and to interfere with river beds or cut vegetation in inland waters, subject to certain defences<sup>1</sup>. Provision is made for the Environment Agency<sup>2</sup> to grant consents authorising discharges, deposits and other activities in the water environment, and to enforce conditions to such consents<sup>3</sup>.

29. Powers to prevent and control pollution.

The Water Resources Act 1991 contains powers to prevent and control pollution of water.

The Secretary of State<sup>1</sup> or, in relation to Wales, the Welsh Ministers<sup>2</sup> may make regulations governing the storage of matter which would pollute waters if it entered them<sup>3</sup>. and may establish water protection zones within which specified activities capable of giving rise to pollution may be prohibited or restricted<sup>4</sup>. The Secretary of State or, as the case may be, the Welsh Ministers may designate areas of land as nitrate sensitive areas for the purpose of preventing or controlling the entry of nitrate into controlled waters<sup>5</sup>; and also have powers to make provision as to nitrate vulnerable areas<sup>6</sup>. The Secretary of State and the Welsh Ministers may approve codes of good agricultural practice issued for the purpose of giving guidance in respect of potentially polluting activities with the aim of avoiding or minimising the pollution of any waters<sup>7</sup>.

The Environment Agency<sup>8</sup> has powers to carry out certain anti-pollution works and operations and to deal with foul water and pollution<sup>9</sup>. The Agency must maintain registers containing prescribed information regarding pollution control and has other powers and duties relating to the collection and giving of information<sup>10</sup>.

2 The functions of the Secretary of State under the Water Resources Act 1991 ss 92-94, 97 and Schs 11, 12, so far as exercisable in relation to Wales, were transferred to the National Assembly for Wales, save that functions under s 92 were transferred to the Assembly only in relation to those parts of Wales which are outside the catchment areas of the rivers Dee, Wye and Severn and in relation to those parts of Wales which are within those catchment areas it was directed that the functions under s 92 were to be exercisable by the Assembly concurrently with the Secretary of State: see the National Assembly for Wales (Transfer of Functions) Order 1999, SI 1999/672, art 2, Sch 1. These functions are now vested in the Welsh Ministers: see the Government of Wales Act 2006 s 162(1), Sch 11 para 30. As to the meaning of 'Wales' see PARA 16 note 2. As to the Welsh Ministers see PARA 16 note 5. As to the power of the Secretary of State to intervene in relation to functions exercisable by the Welsh Ministers where any particular case might have a serious adverse impact on water resources, water supply, or the quality of water in England see PARA 16.

C. COMMON LAW

30. Pollution at common law.

The common law relating to water pollution is covered in detail elsewhere in this work<sup>1</sup>.

The common law meaning of 'pollution' is the doing of something which changes the natural qualities or properties of water, whether chemically or in its temperature or otherwise<sup>2</sup>. Any interference with the natural quantity or quality of the water may be actionable at common law as an infringement of proprietary rights, such as riparian rights<sup>3</sup> or a right to take underground water or an easement to a flow of water<sup>4</sup>, or may be actionable under the common law relating to nuisance<sup>5</sup> or under the rule in Rylands v Fletcher<sup>6</sup>. Other common law claims may also be available such as a claim in trespass or in negligence<sup>7</sup>. There is in general no right to pollute a natural watercourse, although a right to pollute water, and thus a defence to a claim, may be acquired by statute, express grant, implication of law or prescription<sup>8</sup>.

1A. MARINE MANAGEMENT

30A. The Marine Management Organisation.

The Marine and Coastal Access Act 2009 Pt 1 (ss 1-40) establishes an independent body, the Marine Management Organisation which is to discharge a number of marine functions on behalf of the UK Government.

1. The Marine Management Organisation: establishment

There is to be a body known as the Marine Management Organisation ('the MMO'): Marine and Coastal Access Act 2009 s 1(1). The MMO is to have the functions conferred on it by or under the Marine and Coastal Access Act 2009 or any other enactment: s 1(2). Further provision about the MMO is made: see Marine and Coastal Access Act 2009 s 1(3), Sch 1.

It is the duty of the MMO to secure that the MMO functions are so exercised that the carrying on of activities by persons in the MMO's area is managed, regulated or controlled (1) with the objective of making a contribution to the achievement of sustainable development (see Marine and Coastal Access Act 2009 s 2(2) and (4)-(11)), (2) taking account of all relevant facts and matters (see s 2(3)), and (3) in a manner which is consistent and co-ordinated (see s 2(12)): Marine and Coastal Access Act 2009 s 2(1). Any reference in the Marine and Coastal Access Act 2009 to the MMO's 'general objective' is a reference to the duty imposed on the MMO by s 2(1): s 2(1). In s 2 'MMO functions' means functions exercisable by or on behalf of the MMO; and 'the MMO's area' means those parts of the UK marine area (see PARA 30B.2), or of the United Kingdom, where MMO functions are exercisable: s 2(12). In pursuit of its general objective, the MMO may take any action which it considers necessary or expedient for the purpose of furthering any social, economic or environmental purposes: s 2(2). For the purposes of head (2), the facts and matters that may be taken into account include each of the following (a) scientific evidence, whether available to, or reasonably obtainable by, the MMO; (b) other evidence so available or obtainable relating to the social, economic or environmental elements of sustainable development; (c) such facts or matters not falling within head (a) or (b) as the MMO may consider appropriate: s 2(3). In s 2 'evidence' includes predictions and other opinions resulting from the consideration of evidence by any person: s 2(12). See also Marine and Coastal Access Act 2009 s 24 (powers of MMO in relation to research: see PARA 30A.4). The Secretary of State is to give the MMO guidance as to the manner in which the MMO is to seek to secure that the contribution to the achievement of sustainable development mentioned in head (1) is made (and see also the Marine and Coastal Access Act 2009 s 38 (guidance: see PARA 30A.6)). In preparing any such guidance the Secretary of State must take into consideration (i) the functions of the MMO, and (ii) the resources available, or likely to be available, to the MMO: s 2(5). For further provision with respect to guidance see s 2(6)-(11).

The MMO is to use its best endeavours to meet such objectives as the Secretary of State may from time to time set with regard to the quality and effectiveness of its performance: Marine and Coastal Access Act 2009 s 3(1). The Legislative and Regulatory Reform Act 2006 s 24(6) (consultation) does not apply in relation to an order under s 24(2) specifying regulatory functions of the MMO as functions to which the Legislative and Regulatory Reform Act 2006 ss 21 and 22 (principles and code of practice) apply: Marine and Coastal Access Act 2009 s 3(2). See further COMPETITION.

2. The Marine Management Organisation: transfer of functions

The Marine and Coastal Access Act 2009 Pt 1 Ch 2 (ss 4-13) provides for the transfer of a number of existing functions to the Marine Management Organisation (see PARA 30A.1), including certain functions under the Sea Fish (Conservation) Act 1967, certain functions relating to nature conservation and certain functions relating to generating and renewable energy installations. See further AGRICULTURE AND FISHERIES; FUEL AND ENERGY.

3. Agreements involving the Marine Management Organisation for the exercise of functions

The Secretary of State may enter into an agreement with the Marine Management Organisation ('the MMO': see PARA 30A.1) authorising the MMO to perform any marine function of the Secretary of State (1) either in relation to the UK marine area (see PARA 30B.2) or in relation to specified parts of that area; (2) subject to head (1), either generally or in specified cases: Marine and Coastal Access Act 2009 s 14(1). 'Specified' means specified in the agreement: s 14(1). For the purposes of the Marine and Coastal Access Act 2009 Pt 1 Ch 3 (ss 14-22), a 'marine function' is any function which relates to, or whose exercise is capable of affecting, the whole or any part of the UK marine area: s 14(2). For the purposes of Pt 1 Ch 3, any reference to a marine function of the Secretary of State includes a reference to a marine function exercisable by a person (a) authorised or appointed by the Secretary of State, or (b) employed in the civil service of the State (but see s 14(4)). An agreement under s 14 may be cancelled by the Secretary of State at any time, and does not prevent the Secretary of State from performing a function to which the agreement relates: s 14(5). Section 14 is subject to the Marine and Coastal Access Act 2009 ss 17 and 18 (non-delegable functions and maximum duration of agreement): s 14(6).

The MMO may, with the approval of the Secretary of State, enter into an agreement with an eligible body (see Marine and Coastal Access Act 2009 s 16) authorising the eligible body to perform any function of the MMO (i) either in relation to the UK marine area or in relation to specified parts of that area; (ii) subject to head (i), either generally or in specified cases: Marine and Coastal Access Act 2009 s 15(1). 'Specified' means specified in the agreement: s 15(1). For the purposes of the Marine and Coastal Access Act 2009 Pt 1 Ch 3 any reference to a function of the MMO includes a reference to a function exercisable by a person authorised, appointed or employed by the MMO: s 15(2). The Secretary of State's approval may be given (A) in relation to a particular agreement or in relation to a description of agreements; (B) unconditionally or subject to conditions specified in the approval: s 15(3). Subject to s 15(6), the Secretary of State must review an agreement under s 15 no later than the end of the period of five years beginning with the date on which the agreement was entered into or was last reviewed by the Secretary of State, and if it appears appropriate to do so in the light of the review, may cancel the agreement: s 15(4). Subject to s 15(6), an agreement under s 15 may not be varied except by agreement between the MMO and the eligible body, and with the approval of the Secretary of State: s 15(5). An approval given under s 15(1) may provide that s 15(4) or (5) does not apply (or that both of them do not apply): s 15(6). Section 15 is subject to ss 17 and 18 (non-delegable functions and maximum duration of agreement): s 15(7).

Supplementary provision is made, including provision relating to particular powers (see Marine and Coastal Access Act 2009 s 19); additional provision in relation to agreements with harbour authorities which are local authorities (see Marine and Coastal Access Act 2009 s 20); and supplementary provisions with respect to agreements (see Marine and Coastal Access Act 2009 s 21).

4. General powers and duties

The Marine Management Organisation ('the MMO': see PARA 30A.1) may (whether alone or with other bodies or persons) undertake research into any matter relating to its functions or its general objective (see PARA 30A.1), or commission or support (by financial means or otherwise) research into any such matter: see Marine and Coastal Access Act 2009 s 24.

The MMO must provide the Secretary of State with such advice and assistance as the Secretary of State may request: Marine and Coastal Access Act 2009 s 25(1). The MMO must, at the request of any public body, provide advice to that body on any matter which (1) is within the knowledge or experience of the MMO, (2) relates to any of the functions of the MMO or to its general objective, and (3) affects the performance by the public body of its functions: s 25(2). For the meaning of 'public body' see Marine and Coastal Access Act 2009 s 322(1), (2). The MMO may provide advice to any person on any matter relating to any of its functions or its general objective (a) at the request of that person, or (b) if the MMO considers it appropriate to do so, on its own initiative: s 25(3). The MMO may provide any person with assistance, or the use of training facilities, as respects any matter of which the MMO has knowledge or experience: s 25(4).

The MMO may publish documents or provide information about any matter relating to any of its functions or its general objective, or assist in the publication of such documents or the provision of such information: see Marine and Coastal Access Act 2009 s 26.

The MMO may charge such fees in respect of the cost of providing its services as appear to it to be reasonable: see Marine and Coastal Access Act 2009 s 27.

The MMO must provide the Secretary of State with all such information as the Secretary of State may reasonably require with respect to any of the following matters (i) the carrying out, or proposed carrying out, of the MMO's functions; (ii) the MMO's responsibilities generally: see Marine and Coastal Access Act 2009 s 28.

Provision is also made with respect to the power to bring proceedings (see Marine and Coastal Access Act 2009 s 29); and the continuation of certain existing prosecutions (see Marine and Coastal Access Act 2009 s 30).

The MMO may do anything which appears to it to be incidental or conducive to the carrying out of its functions or the achievement of its general objective: see Marine and Coastal Access Act 2009 s 31.

5. Financial provisions

The Secretary of State may make payments by way of grant to the Marine Management Organisation ('the MMO': see PARA 30A.1): Marine and Coastal Access Act 2009 s 32(1). Any payments under s 32(1) are to be (1) of such amounts, (2) at such times, and (3) subject to such conditions (if any), as the Secretary of State may determine: s 32(2).

The MMO may borrow money, but only in accordance with the following provisions of the Marine and Coastal Access Act 2009 s 33, and subject to the Marine and Coastal Access Act 2009 s 34 (limit on borrowing): s 33(1). The MMO may borrow such sums as it may require for meeting its obligations and carrying out its functions: s 33(2). The MMO may borrow any such sums (a) from the Secretary of State, by way of loan, or (b) from persons other than the Secretary of State, by way of overdraft or otherwise: s 33(3). The MMO may borrow by virtue of head (b) only if the Secretary of State consents: s 33(4). Any consent under s 33(4) may be given subject to conditions: s 33(5).

The aggregate amount outstanding in respect of the principal of sums borrowed by the MMO must not at any time exceed £20 million: Marine and Coastal Access Act 2009 s 34(1). The Secretary of State may by order amend s 34(1) so as to substitute for the sum for the time being there specified such sum as may be specified in the order: s 34(2). The sum specified in an order under s 34(2) must be a sum greater than £20 million, but not greater than £80 million: s 34(3). A statutory instrument containing an order under s 34(2) may not be made unless a draft of the instrument has been laid before, and approved by a resolution of, the House of Commons: s 34(4).

The Secretary of State may lend money to the MMO; such a loan may be made subject to such conditions as may be determined by, or in accordance with arrangements made by, the Secretary of State: see Marine and Coastal Access Act 2009 s 35.

The Secretary of State may guarantee (i) the repayment of the principal of any sum borrowed by the MMO from a person other than the Secretary of State; (ii) the payment of interest on any such sum; (iii) the discharge of any other financial obligation in connection with any such sum: see Marine and Coastal Access Act 2009 s 36.

6. Directions and guidance

The Secretary of State may give the Marine Management Organisation ('the MMO': see PARA 30A.1) general or specific directions with respect to the exercise of any of the MMO's functions; the Secretary of State may also give the MMO such general or specific directions as the Secretary of State considers appropriate for the implementation of any obligations of the United Kingdom under (1) the EU Treaties, or (2) any international agreement to which the United Kingdom or the European Union is for the time being a party: see Marine and Coastal Access Act 2009 s 37.

The Secretary of State may give the MMO guidance with respect to the exercise of any of the MMO's functions: Marine and Coastal Access Act 2009 s 38(1). The MMO must have regard to any guidance given to it under the Marine and Coastal Access Act 2009 by the Secretary of State: s 38(2). Before giving any such guidance, the Secretary of State must consult (a) the MMO, and (b) such other bodies or persons as the Secretary of State considers appropriate: s 38(3).

7. Transfer schemes

The Secretary of State may, in connection with the establishment of, or the transfer of any functions to, the Marine Management Organisation ('the MMO': see PARA 30A.1), make one or more schemes for the transfer to the MMO of designated property, rights or liabilities of any of the following (1) a Minister of the Crown, (2) a government department, (3) a statutory body: Marine and Coastal Access Act 2009 s 39(1). 'Designated', in relation to a scheme, means specified or described in, or determined in accordance with, the scheme; and 'statutory body' means any body or person established by or under any enactment: s 39(5). 'Minister of the Crown' has the same meaning as in the Ministers of the Crown Act 1975: Marine and Coastal Access Act 2009 s 322(1). The Secretary of State may make one or more schemes for the transfer of designated property, rights or liabilities of the MMO to any of the following (a) a Minister of the Crown, (b) a government department, (c) a statutory body: s 39(2). In connection with the efficient management for public purposes of any property, rights or liabilities, the Secretary of State may at any time make one or more schemes for the transfer of (i) designated property, rights or liabilities of the Secretary of State to the MMO, or (ii) designated property, rights or liabilities of the MMO to the Secretary of State: s 39(3). On the transfer date for any designated property, rights or liabilities, that property and those rights and liabilities are transferred and vest in accordance with the scheme: s 39(4). 'Transfer date', in relation to any property, rights or liabilities, means a date specified by a scheme as the date on which the scheme is to have effect in relation to that property or those rights or liabilities: s 39(5). The Marine and Coastal Access Act 2009 Sch 3 makes further provision relating to schemes under s 39: s 39(6).

The Secretary of State may by notice require any of the following (a) a Minister of the Crown, (b) a government department, (c) a statutory body, to provide to the MMO on a temporary basis such staff, premises or other facilities as may be specified in the notice: see Marine and Coastal Access Act 2009 s 40. 'Notice' means notice in writing: Marine and Coastal Access Act 2009 s 322(1).

Halsbury's Laws of England/WATER AND WATERWAYS (VOLUME 100 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-452; VOLUME 101 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 453-851)/1A. MARINE MANAGEMENT/30B. Exclusive Economic Zone and UK Marine Area.

30B. Exclusive Economic Zone and UK Marine Area.

The Marine and Coastal Access Act 2009 Pt 2 (ss 41-43) (partly in force: SI 2009/3345) allows an Exclusive Economic Zone to be designated and defines the UK marine area. The Exclusive Economic Zone will replace the existing zones, namely the areas within British fishery limits, the Renewable Energy Zone, the Pollution Zone, and the Gas Importation and Storage Zone, in order to simplify the management of the United Kingdom's offshore maritime areas. In addition Pt 2 creates the Welsh zone.

1. Exclusive economic zone

The following provisions are not yet in force.

The rights to which the Marine and Coastal Access Act 2009 s 41 applies have effect as rights belonging to Her Majesty by virtue of s 41: s 41(1). Section 41 applies to all rights under Part V of the Convention that are exercisable by the United Kingdom in areas outside the territorial sea: Marine and Coastal Access Act 2009 s 41(2). In s 41 'the Convention' means the United Nations Convention on the Law of the Sea (Cmnd 8941) and any modifications of that Convention agreed after the passing of the Marine and Coastal Access Act 2009 (ie 12 November 2009) that have entered into force in relation to the United Kingdom: s 41(7). For the meaning of 'territorial sea' and 'sea' see Marine and Coastal Access Act 2009 s 322(1). Her Majesty may by Order in Council designate an area as an area within which the rights to which s 41 applies are exercisable (an 'exclusive economic zone'): s 41(3). The Secretary of State may by order designate the whole or any part of the exclusive economic zone as an area in relation to which the Scottish Ministers, the Welsh Ministers or any Northern Ireland department are to have functions: s 41(4). In any enactment or instrument passed or made after the coming into force of an Order in Council made under s 41, any reference to the United Kingdom's exclusive economic zone is to be read as a reference to any area designated in the Order in Council: s 41(5). An Order in Council under s 41 may include incidental, consequential, supplementary or transitional provision or savings: s 41(6). The Marine and Coastal Access Act 2009 Sch 4 Pt 1 (which contains amendments consequential on s 41) has effect: s 41(8).

2. UK marine area

The following provisions are in force.

For the purposes of the Marine and Coastal Access Act 2009, the 'UK marine area' consists of the following (1) the area of sea within the seaward limits of the territorial sea adjacent to the United Kingdom, (2) any area of sea within the limits of the exclusive economic zone (see PARA 30B.1), (3) the area of sea within the limits of the UK sector of the continental shelf (so far as not falling within the area mentioned in head (2), and see also the Marine and Coastal Access Act 2009 s 42(2)), and includes the bed and subsoil of the sea within those areas: s 42(1). In s 42 'sea' includes (a) any area submerged at mean high water spring tide, and (b) the waters of every estuary, river or channel, so far as the tide flows at mean high water spring tide: s 42(3). For the meaning of 'territorial sea' see Marine and Coastal Access Act 2009 s 322(1). The area of sea mentioned in head (3) is to be treated as part of the UK marine area for any purpose only to the extent that such treatment for that purpose does not contravene any international obligation binding on the United Kingdom or Her Majesty's government: s 42(2). The area of sea referred to in head (a) includes waters in any area (i) which is closed, whether permanently or intermittently, by a lock or other artificial means against the regular action of the tide, but (ii) into which seawater is caused or permitted to flow, whether continuously or from time to time, and (iii) from which seawater is caused or permitted to flow, whether continuously or from time to time: s 42(4). Until the coming into force of the first Order in Council made under the Marine and Coastal Access Act 2009 s 41 (the exclusive economic zone: see PARA 30B.1), the reference in head (2) to the exclusive economic zone is to be read as a reference to a renewable energy zone: s 42(5). 'Renewable energy zone' means any area for the time being designated by an Order in Council under the Energy Act 2004 s 84(4) (see FUEL AND ENERGY): Marine and Coastal Access Act 2009 s 322(1).

Halsbury's Laws of England/WATER AND WATERWAYS (VOLUME 100 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-452; VOLUME 101 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 453-851)/1A. MARINE MANAGEMENT/30C. Marine Planning.

30C. Marine Planning.

The Marine and Coastal Access Act 2009 Pt 3 (ss 44-64) introduces a new system of marine planning.

Part 3 binds the Crown: Marine and Coastal Access Act 2009 s 64(3).

1. Marine policy statement

For the purposes of the Marine and Coastal Access Act 2009 a 'marine policy statement' (an 'MPS') is a document (1) in which the policy authorities that prepare and adopt it state general policies of theirs (however expressed) for contributing to the achievement of sustainable development in the UK marine area (see PARA 30B.2), (2) which has been prepared and adopted by those authorities in accordance with the Marine and Coastal Access Act 2009 Sch 5, and (3) which states that it has been prepared and adopted for the purposes of the Marine and Coastal Access Act 2009 s 44: s 44(1). In the Marine and Coastal Access Act 2009 Pt 3 (ss 44-64) 'policy authority' means any of the following (a) the Secretary of State; (b) the Scottish Ministers; (c) the Welsh Ministers; (d) the Department of the Environment in Northern Ireland: s 44(4). For the meaning of 'adopted' see Marine and Coastal Access Act 2009 s 64(1). Any reference in Pt 3 to an MPS being adopted by any policy authorities is a reference to the final text of the MPS being adopted by those authorities in accordance with Sch 5: s 44(5). An MPS may also include statements or information relating to policies contained in the MPS: s 44(2). If to any extent a policy stated in an MPS conflicts with any other statement or information in the MPS, that conflict must be resolved in favour of the policy: s 44(3).

Provision is made as to the preparation and coming into effect of an MPS (see Marine and Coastal Access Act 2009 s 45), the review of an MPS (see Marine and Coastal Access Act 2009 s 46), the amendment of an MPS (see Marine and Coastal Access Act 2009 s 47) and the withdrawal of, or from, an MPS (see Marine and Coastal Access Act 2009 s 48).

2. Marine plans

The UK marine area (see PARA 30B.2) comprises the following marine planning regions (1) the English inshore region; (2) the English offshore region; (3) the Scottish inshore region; (4) the Scottish offshore region; (5) the Welsh inshore region; (6) the Welsh offshore region; (7) the Northern Ireland inshore region; (8) the Northern Ireland offshore region: Marine and Coastal Access Act 2009 s 49(1). The definitions of those regions can be found in the Marine and Coastal Access Act 2009 s 322: s 49(2).

A marine plan authority (see Marine and Coastal Access Act 2009 s 50) may prepare a marine plan for an area (a 'marine plan area') consisting of the whole or any part of its marine planning region: Marine and Coastal Access Act 2009 s 51(1). Where a marine policy statement (an 'MPS': see PARA 30C.1) governs marine planning for a marine planning region, the marine plan authority for the region must seek to ensure that every part of the region is within an area for which a marine plan is in effect: s 52(2). A 'marine plan' is a document which (a) has been prepared and adopted (see Marine and Coastal Access Act 2009 s 64(1)) for a marine plan area by the appropriate marine plan authority in accordance with the Marine and Coastal Access Act 2009 Sch 6, (b) states the authority's policies (however expressed) for and in connection with the sustainable development of the area, and (c) states that it is a marine plan prepared and adopted for the purposes of s 51: s 51(3). For the purposes of s 51 'the appropriate marine plan authority' in the case of any marine plan area is the marine plan authority in whose region the marine plan area lies: s 51(4). A marine plan must identify (by means of a map or otherwise) the marine plan area for which it is a marine plan: s 51(5). A marine plan must be in conformity with any MPS which governs marine planning for the marine plan area unless relevant considerations indicate otherwise: s 51(6). For the purposes of the Marine and Coastal Access Act 2009 Pt 3 (ss 44-64), an MPS 'governs marine planning' for an area if (i) it has been adopted by the policy authority (see PARA 30C.1) which is the marine plan authority whose region consists of or includes the area, (ii) it has been published in accordance with the Marine and Coastal Access Act 2009 Sch 5 para 12, (iii) it has not been replaced or withdrawn, and (iv) the policy authority mentioned in head (i) has not withdrawn from it: s 51(7). As respects heads (iii) and (iv), see also the Marine and Coastal Access Act 2009 s 48(8) (effect of withdrawal of, or from, an MPS: see PARA 30C.1): s 51(7). Unless prepared and adopted by the Secretary of State, a marine plan must state whether it includes provision relating to retained functions (see Marine and Coastal Access Act 2009 ss 59 and 60): s 51(8). A marine plan may also include statements or information relating to policies contained in the plan: s 51(9). If to any extent a policy stated in a marine plan conflicts with any other statement or information in the plan, that conflict must be resolved in favour of the policy: s 51(10). A marine plan comes into effect when it has been published by the marine plan authority that prepared and adopted it in accordance with Sch 6: s 51(11).

Provision is made as to the amendment of a marine plan (see Marine and Coastal Access Act 2009 s 52); the withdrawal of a marine plan (see Marine and Coastal Access Act 2009 s 53); and the duty to keep relevant matters under review (see Marine and Coastal Access Act 2009 s 54).

3. Delegation of functions relating to marine plans

A marine plan authority (see PARA 30C.2) may give directions under the Marine and Coastal Access Act 2009 s 55: s 55(1). A direction under s 55 is a direction which (1) designates any of the delegable marine plan functions which would (apart from directions under s 55) be exercisable by or in relation to the authority, and (2) directs that those functions, instead of being so exercisable, are to be exercisable by or in relation to such public body, acting on behalf of the authority, as is designated in the direction: s 55(2). In s 55 'delegable marine plan functions' means (a) functions under the Marine and Coastal Access Act 2009 Pt 3 Ch 2 (marine plans: see PARA 30C.2), and (b) functions under the Marine and Coastal Access Act 2009 s 61 (monitoring etc of implementation: see PARA 30C.4), other than excepted functions (see s 55(6)): s 55(5). For the meaning of 'public body' see Marine and Coastal Access Act 2009 s 322(1), (2). An authority which gives a direction under s 55 may do so only with the consent of the public body: s 55(3). The public body (i) must comply with the direction, and (ii) is to be taken to have all the powers necessary to do so: s 55(4). No direction may be given under s 55 in respect of certain specified functions of the Secretary of State: see s 55(7).

Supplementary provision relating to directions under s 55 is made: see Marine and Coastal Access Act 2009 s 56.

A marine plan authority may give further directions to a public body to which it has delegated functions, setting out how those functions should be performed: see Marine and Coastal Access Act 2009 s 57.

4. Implementation and effect

A public authority must take any authorisation or enforcement decision in accordance with the appropriate marine policy documents (see Marine and Coastal Access Act 2009 s 59), unless relevant considerations indicate otherwise: Marine and Coastal Access Act 2009 s 58(1). For the meaning of 'public authority' see Marine and Coastal Access Act 2009 s 322(1). An 'authorisation or enforcement decision' is any of the following (1) the determination of any application (whenever made) for authorisation of the doing of any act which affects or might affect the whole or any part of the UK marine area (see PARA 30B.2), (2) any decision relating to any conditions of such an authorisation, (3) any decision about extension, replacement, variation, revocation or withdrawal of any such authorisation or any such conditions (whenever granted or imposed), (4) any decision relating to the enforcement of any such authorisation or any such conditions, (5) any decision relating to the enforcement of any prohibition or restriction (whenever imposed) on the doing of any act, or of any act of any description, falling within head (1), but does not include any decision on an application for an order granting development consent under the Planning Act 2008 (in relation to which the Marine and Coastal Access Act 2009 s 58(3) has effect accordingly): s 58(4). In s 58 'authorisation' means any approval, confirmation, consent, licence, permission or other authorisation (however described), whether special or general; and 'act' includes omission: s 58(6). If a public authority takes an authorisation or enforcement decision otherwise than in accordance with the appropriate marine policy documents, the public authority must state its reasons: s 58(2). A public authority must have regard to the appropriate marine policy documents in taking any decision (a) which relates to the exercise of any function capable of affecting the whole or any part of the UK marine area, but (b) which is not an authorisation or enforcement decision: s 58(3).

Provision is made in connection with the monitoring of, and periodical reporting on, implementation: see Marine and Coastal Access Act 2009 s 61.

5. Validity of marine policy statements and marine plans

The Marine and Coastal Access Act 2009 s 62 applies to (1) any marine policy statement (an 'MPS': see PARA 30C.1), (2) any amendment of an MPS, (3) any marine plan (see PARA 30C.2), (4) any amendment of a marine plan: s 62(1). Anything falling within the heads of s 62(1) is referred to in s 62 as a 'relevant document': s 62(2). A relevant document must not be questioned in any legal proceedings, except in so far as is provided by the following provisions of s 62: s 62(3). A person aggrieved by a relevant document may make an application to the appropriate court on any of the following grounds (a) that the document is not within the appropriate powers; (b) that a procedural requirement (see s 62(6)) has not been complied with: s 62(4). In s 62 'the appropriate court' means (i) the High Court, if the relevant document is a marine plan, or an amendment of a marine plan, for an area within the English inshore region or the Welsh inshore region; (ii) in any other case, any superior court in the United Kingdom (ie the High Court): s 62(6). 'The appropriate powers' means (A) in the case of an MPS or an amendment of an MPS, the powers conferred by the Marine and Coastal Access Act 2009 Pt 3 Ch 1 (see PARA 30C.1); (B) in the case of a marine plan or an amendment of a marine plan, the powers conferred by Pt 3 Ch 2 (see PARA 30C.2), or the Marine and Coastal Access Act 2009 s 55 (delegation: see PARA 30C.3): s 62(6). Any such application must be made not later than six weeks after the publication of the relevant document: s 62(5). For the meaning of 'English inshore region' and 'Welsh inshore region' see Marine and Coastal Access Act 2009 s 322(1).

The powers of a court hearing a challenge to the validity of an MPS are set out: see Marine and Coastal Access Act 2009 s 63.

Halsbury's Laws of England/WATER AND WATERWAYS (VOLUME 100 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-452; VOLUME 101 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 453-851)/1A. MARINE MANAGEMENT/30D. Marine Licensing.

30D. Marine Licensing.

The following provisions are not yet in force.

The Marine and Coastal Access Act 2009 Pt 4 (ss 65-115) makes detailed provision with respect to marine licensing. For transitional provision relating to Pt 4 see Marine and Coastal Access Act 2009 Sch 9. As to the enforcement of the marine licensing regime see PARA 30F.2.

1. Marine licences

No person may (1) carry on a licensable marine activity (see Marine and Coastal Access Act 2009 s 66), or (2) cause or permit any other person to carry on such an activity, except in accordance with a marine licence granted by the appropriate licensing authority: Marine and Coastal Access Act 2009 s 65(1). As to the appropriate licensing authority see Marine and Coastal Access Act 2009 s 113. For the meaning of 'licensing authority' see Marine and Coastal Access Act 2009 s 115(1). Section 65(1) is subject to any provision made by or under the Marine and Coastal Access Act 2009 ss 74-77 (exemptions: see PARA 30D.2): s 65(2).

The appropriate licensing authority may require an application for a marine licence (a) to be made in such form as the authority may determine; (b) to be accompanied by a fee: see Marine and Coastal Access Act 2009 s 67.

Having received an application for a marine licence, the appropriate licensing authority must publish notice of the application, or require the applicant to publish notice of it: see Marine and Coastal Access Act 2009 s 68. 'Notice' means notice in writing: Marine and Coastal Access Act 2009 s 322(1).

In determining an application for a marine licence (including the terms on which it is to be granted and what conditions, if any, are to be attached to it), the appropriate licensing authority must have regard to (i) the need to protect the environment, (ii) the need to protect human health, (iii) the need to prevent interference with legitimate uses of the sea, and such other matters as the authority thinks relevant: see Marine and Coastal Access Act 2009 s 69. As to references to the environment see Marine and Coastal Access Act 2009 s 115(2). For the meaning of 'sea' see Marine and Coastal Access Act 2009 s 322(1).

The appropriate licensing authority may cause an inquiry to be held in connection with the determination of an application for a marine licence: see Marine and Coastal Access Act 2009 s 70.

The appropriate licensing authority, having considered an application for a marine licence, must (A) grant the licence unconditionally, (B) grant the licence subject to such conditions as the authority thinks fit, or (C) refuse the application: see Marine and Coastal Access Act 2009 s 71.

Provision is made as to the variation, suspension, revocation and transfer of marine licences: see Marine and Coastal Access Act 2009 s 72.

The appropriate licensing authority must by regulations make provision for any person who applies for a marine licence to appeal against a decision under s 71: see Marine and Coastal Access Act 2009 s 73.

2. Exemptions and special cases

The appropriate licensing authority (see Marine and Coastal Access Act 2009 s 113) for an area may by order specify, as regards that area, activities (1) which are not to need a marine licence; (2) which are not to need a marine licence if conditions specified in the order are satisfied: Marine and Coastal Access Act 2009 s 74(1). For the meaning of 'licensing authority' see Marine and Coastal Access Act 2009 s 115(1). As to marine licences see PARA 30D.1. The conditions that may be specified in an order under s 74 include conditions enabling the authority to require a person to obtain the authority's approval before the person does anything for which a licence would be needed but for the order: s 74(2). Approval under s 74(2) may be (a) without conditions; (b) subject to such conditions as the authority considers appropriate: s 74(3). In deciding whether to make an order under s 74, the appropriate licensing authority must have regard to (i) the need to protect the environment, (ii) the need to protect human health, (iii) the need to prevent interference with legitimate uses of the sea, and such other matters as the authority thinks relevant: s 74(4). As to references to the environment see Marine and Coastal Access Act 2009 s 115(2). For the meaning of 'sea' see Marine and Coastal Access Act 2009 s 322(1). A licensing authority must consult such persons as the authority considers appropriate as to any order the authority contemplates making under s 74: s 74(5).

A marine licence is not needed for a dredging or spoil disposal activity if specified conditions are met: see Marine and Coastal Access Act 2009 s 75.

Nothing in the Marine and Coastal Access Act 2009 Pt 4 (ss 65-115) applies to anything done, in the exercise of specified functions, in relation to the extraction of minerals by dredging in the Scottish zone: see Marine and Coastal Access Act 2009 s 76. For the meaning of 'Scottish zone' see Marine and Coastal Access Act 2009 s 322(1).

Certain activities licensable under the Petroleum Act 1998 or the Energy Act 2008 are exempt from the need to obtain a marine licence: see Marine and Coastal Access Act 2009 s 77.

There is a special procedure for applications relating to harbour works (see Marine and Coastal Access Act 2009 s 78) and for applications relating to certain electricity works (see Marine and Coastal Access Act 2009 s 79).

A licensing authority must not grant a marine licence to carry on any activity which amounts to or involves the exercise of a right conferred by the Electronic Communications Code para 11 (ie the code set out in the Telecommunications Act 1984 Sch 2: see TELECOMMUNICATIONS) unless it is satisfied that adequate compensation arrangements have been made: see Marine and Coastal Access Act 2009 s 80.

Nothing in the Marine and Coastal Access Act 2009 Pt 4 applies to anything done in the course of laying or maintaining an offshore stretch of exempt submarine cable: see Marine and Coastal Access Act 2009 s 81.

If, in the case of any particular work, (A) a marine licence is needed for the carrying out of the work, (B) Admiralty consent for the carrying out of the work would also be required (apart from this provision) by virtue of any local legislation, and (C) the Secretary of State considers that, in view of the need for a marine licence, the requirement for Admiralty consent for the carrying out of the work may be dispensed with, and issues a notice to that effect, the requirement for Admiralty consent does not apply in relation to that work: see Marine and Coastal Access Act 2009 s 83.

3. Enforcement

A person who (1) contravenes the Marine and Coastal Access Act 2009 s 65(1) (see PARA 30D.1), or (2) fails to comply with any condition of a marine licence, commits an offence:

Marine and Coastal Access Act 2009 s 85(1). As to marine licences see PARA 30D.1. A person who is bound by a condition of a licence by virtue of the Marine and Coastal Access Act 2009 s 71(5) (see PARA 30D.1) is not to be taken as having failed to comply with the condition unless the requirements of s 85(3) are satisfied: s 85(2). The requirements are that (a) the appropriate licensing authority has served the person with a notice under this provision which specifies the condition together with a period (which must be a reasonable period, in all the circumstances of the case) within which the person must comply with the condition, and (b) the person has failed to comply with the condition within that period: s 85(3). As to the appropriate licensing authority see Marine and Coastal Access Act 2009 s 113. For the meaning of 'licensing authority' see Marine and Coastal Access Act 2009 s 115(1). A person guilty of an offence under s 85(1) is liable (i) on summary conviction, to a fine not exceeding £50,000; (ii) on conviction on indictment, to a fine or to imprisonment for a term not exceeding two years or to both: s 85(4).

It is a defence for a person charged with an offence under s 85(1) in relation to any activity to prove that the activity was carried out for the purpose of securing the safety of a vessel, aircraft or marine structure, or for the purpose of saving life, and the person took steps within a reasonable time to inform the appropriate licensing authority of specified matters: see Marine and Coastal Access Act 2009 s 86. For the meaning of 'vessel' and 'marine structure' see Marine and Coastal Access Act 2009 s 115(1).

It is a defence for a person charged with an offence under s 85(1) in relation to any activity to prove that for the purposes of the Electronic Communications Code para 23 (undertaker's works) (ie the code set out in the Telecommunications Act 1984 Sch 2: see TELECOMMUNICATIONS), the person is the operator or a relevant undertaker, and the activity was carried out for the purpose of executing emergency works, within the meaning of that Code: Marine and Coastal Access Act 2009 s 87.

Provision is made for a further defence to the undertaking of certain activities without a licence, namely the depositing or incineration of any substance or object, or the scuttling of a vessel or floating container, from a British vessel, aircraft or marine structure, in non-UK waters: see Marine and Coastal Access Act 2009 s 88. For the meaning of 'British vessel', 'British aircraft' and 'British marine structure' see Marine and Coastal Access Act 2009 s 115(1).

It is an offence for a person who is applying for a new licence, or for the variation or transfer of an existing licence or who, in complying, or purporting to comply, with obligations imposed either by the Marine and Coastal Access Act 2009 Pt 4 (ss 65-115) or a licence, knowingly or recklessly supplies false or misleading information, or intentionally fails to disclose any material particular: see Marine and Coastal Access Act 2009 s 89.

A person carrying on a licensed activity in a manner that breaches the conditions of the licence may be issued with a notice requiring compliance (a 'compliance notice'): see Marine and Coastal Access Act 2009 s 90. A person who has carried on or is in the process of carrying on a licensable activity either without a licence or with a licence but in a manner that breaches the conditions of the licence and who has caused, is causing or is likely to cause harm to the environment, harm to human health or interference with legitimate uses of the sea, may be issued with a remediation notice: see Marine and Coastal Access Act 2009 s 91. As to references to the environment see Marine and Coastal Access Act 2009 s 115(2). For the meaning of 'sea' see Marine and Coastal Access Act 2009 s 322(1). Further provision as to enforcement notices is made: see Marine and Coastal Access Act 2009 s 92.

The appropriate licensing authority for any area may by order make provision to confer on the appropriate enforcement authority for that area the power by notice to impose on a person in relation to an offence under the Marine and Coastal Access Act 2009 Pt 4 a fixed monetary penalty: see Marine and Coastal Access Act 2009 s 93. For the meaning of 'enforcement authority' see Marine and Coastal Access Act 2009 s 114. For the meaning of 'appropriate enforcement authority' see Marine and Coastal Access Act 2009 s 115(1). See further Marine and Coastal Access Act 2009 s 94 (fixed monetary penalties: procedure).

The appropriate licensing authority for any area may by order make provision to confer on the appropriate enforcement authority for that area the power by notice to impose on a person in relation to an offence under the Marine and Coastal Access Act 2009 Pt 4 a variable monetary penalty: see Marine and Coastal Access Act 2009 s 95. See further Marine and Coastal Access Act 2009 s 96 (variable monetary penalties: procedure).

Further provision about civil sanctions is made: see Marine and Coastal Access Act 2009 s 97, Sch 7.

4. Delegation

The appropriate licensing authority (see Marine and Coastal Access Act 2009 s 113) for an area may make an order which (1) designates any of the delegable marine licensing functions which would (apart from any order under the Marine and Coastal Access Act 2009 s 98) be exercisable by or in relation to that authority or an enforcement authority for that area, and (2) provides that those functions, instead of being so exercisable, are to be exercisable by or in relation to such person, acting on behalf of the licensing authority or (as the case may be) the enforcement authority, as is designated in the order: Marine and Coastal Access Act 2009 s 98(1). For the meaning of 'licensing authority' see Marine and Coastal Access Act 2009 s 115(1). In s 98 'delegable marine licensing functions' means (a) functions of a licensing authority under the Marine and Coastal Access Act 2009 Pt 4 (ss 65-115), other than excepted functions (see s 98(6)); (b) functions of an enforcement authority under Pt 4: s 98(5). For the meaning of 'enforcement authority' see Marine and Coastal Access Act 2009 s 114. The power to make an order under s 98 includes power to make provision in the order conferring on the person designated ('the delegate'), so far as acting on behalf of an enforcement authority, any power which the appropriate licensing authority may confer on an enforcement authority by an order under the Marine and Coastal Access Act 2009 s 93 or 95 (fixed or variable monetary penalties: see PARA 30D.3): s 98(2). An authority which makes an order under s 98 may do so only with the consent of the delegate: s 98(3). The delegate must comply with the order, and is to be taken to have all the powers necessary to do so: s 98(4).

Supplementary provision is made with respect to orders under s 98: see Marine and Coastal Access Act 2009 s 99.

Where any functions are exercisable by or in relation to a person by virtue of an order made under s 98 by a licensing authority, the authority may from time to time give directions to the person with respect to the performance of the functions: see Marine and Coastal Access Act 2009 s 100.

5. Supplementary

Each licensing authority must maintain, as respects activities in relation to which it is the appropriate licensing authority (see Marine and Coastal Access Act 2009 s 113) and licences for those activities, a register of licensing information: see Marine and Coastal Access Act 2009 s 101. For the meaning of 'licensing authority' see Marine and Coastal Access Act 2009 s 115(1).

An enforcement authority may issue a notice (a 'stop notice') to a person prohibiting the person from carrying on a licensable activity if that activity is causing or is likely to cause serious harm to the environment or to human health or is causing or is likely to cause serious interference with legitimate uses of the sea: see Marine and Coastal Access Act 2009 s 102. For the meaning of 'enforcement authority' see Marine and Coastal Access Act 2009 s 114. As to references to the environment see Marine and Coastal Access Act 2009 s 115(2). For the meaning of 'sea' see Marine and Coastal Access Act 2009 s 322(1). Further provision as to stop notices is made: see Marine and Coastal Access Act 2009 s 103.

An enforcement authority may issue a notice (an 'emergency safety notice') to a person if it appears that serious interference with legitimate uses of the sea is occurring, or is likely to occur, as a result of licensable works: see Marine and Coastal Access Act 2009 s 104. Further provision as to emergency safety notices is made: see Marine and Coastal Access Act 2009 s 105.

If it appears to the appropriate licensing authority for an area that a licensable marine activity (see PARA 30D.1) has been carried on in its area otherwise than under a licence and in accordance with its conditions, the authority may carry out any works that appear to it to be necessary or expedient for any one or more of the following purposes (1) protecting the environment; (2) protecting human health; (3) preventing interference with legitimate uses of the sea; (4) preventing or minimising, or remedying or mitigating the effects of, any specified harm or interference; (5) restoring (whether in whole or in part) the condition of any place affected by any such harm or interference to the condition, or a condition reasonably similar to the condition, in which the place would have been had the harm or interference not occurred: see Marine and Coastal Access Act 2009 s 106.

A licensing authority may, at the request of any person, conduct tests for the purpose of ascertaining the probable effect on the marine environment of using any of the following substances (a) any marine chemical treatment substance; (b) any marine oil treatment substance; (c) any marine surface fouling cleaner: see Marine and Coastal Access Act 2009 s 107.

The appropriate licensing authority must by regulations make provision for any person to whom a notice is issued under the Marine and Coastal Access Act 2009 s 72, 90, 91, 102 or 104 (see PARAS 30D.1, 3, 5) to appeal against that notice: see Marine and Coastal Access Act 2009 s 108.

In any proceedings for an offence under the Marine and Coastal Access Act 2009 Pt 4 (ss 65-115), it is a defence for the person charged ('the defendant') to prove that the defendant took all reasonable precautions and exercised all due diligence to avoid the commission of the offence: see Marine and Coastal Access Act 2009 s 109.

Proceedings for an offence under the Marine and Coastal Access Act 2009 Pt 4 may be taken, and the offence may for all incidental purposes be treated as having been committed, in any part of the United Kingdom: Marine and Coastal Access Act 2009 s 110.

Subject to specified provision, the provisions of the Marine and Coastal Access Act 2009 Pt 4 bind the Crown: see Marine and Coastal Access Act 2009 s 111.

Halsbury's Laws of England/WATER AND WATERWAYS (VOLUME 100 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-452; VOLUME 101 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 453-851)/1A. MARINE MANAGEMENT/30E. Marine Conservation Zones.

30E. Marine Conservation Zones.

The Marine and Coastal Access Act 2009 Pt 5 Ch 1 (ss 116-147) (in force in relation to England) provides a power, across most of UK waters, to designate new marine conservation zones in place of the power under the Wildlife and Countryside Act 1981 to designate marine nature reserves. For transitional provision see Marine and Coastal Access Act 2009 s 146(2), Sch 12.

1. Designation of zones

The appropriate authority (see Marine and Coastal Access Act 2009 s 116(5)) may by order designate any area falling within s 116(2) as a marine conservation zone (an 'MCZ'): Marine and Coastal Access Act 2009 s 116(1). The Marine and Coastal Access Act 2009 s 117 sets out the grounds on which such an order may be made: s 116(1). An area falls within s 116(2) if (1) it is an area of the sea within the seaward limits of the territorial sea adjacent to the United Kingdom; (2) it is an area of the sea within the limits of the exclusive economic zone (see PARA 30B.1); (3) it is an area of the sea bed or subsoil within the limits of the UK sector of the continental shelf (so far as not falling within an area mentioned in head (2)): s 116(2). For the meaning of 'sea' and 'territorial sea' see Marine and Coastal Access Act 2009 ss 147(1), (2), 322(1). For the meaning of 'UK sector of the continental shelf' see Marine and Coastal Access Act 2009 s 322(1). But an area does not fall within s 116(2) if it is in (a) the Scottish inshore region, or (b) the Northern Ireland inshore region: s 116(3). For the meaning of 'Scottish inshore region' and 'Northern Ireland inshore region' see Marine and Coastal Access Act 2009 s 322(1). Until the coming into force of the first Order in Council made under the Marine and Coastal Access Act 2009 s 41 (the exclusive economic zone: see PARA 30B.1), the reference in head (2) to the exclusive economic zone is to be read as a reference to a renewable energy zone: s 116(8). For the meaning of 'renewable energy zone' see PARA 30B.2. The Marine and Coastal Access Act 2009 s 118 makes further provision as to the areas that may be included in an MCZ: s 116(4).

The appropriate authority may make an order under s 116 if it thinks that it is desirable to do so for the purpose of conserving (i) marine flora or fauna; (ii) marine habitats or types of marine habitat; (iii) features of geological or geomorphological interest: see Marine and Coastal Access Act 2009 s 117.

The appropriate authority must carry out public consultation before designating an MCZ: see Marine and Coastal Access Act 2009 s 119. The appropriate authority must publish notice of the making of the order: see Marine and Coastal Access Act 2009 s 120. The appropriate authority may hold hearings before deciding whether to make an order under s 116 to designate an MCZ: see Marine and Coastal Access Act 2009 s 121. Provision is made as to the amendment, revocation and review of orders designating an MCZ: see Marine and Coastal Access Act 2009 s 122.

2. Duties relating to network

In order to contribute to the achievement of the objective in the Marine and Coastal Access Act 2009 s 123(2), the appropriate authority (see Marine and Coastal Access Act 2009 s 116(5)) must designate a marine conservation zone (an 'MCZ') under the Marine and Coastal Access Act 2009 s 116 (see PARA 30E.1): Marine and Coastal Access Act 2009 s 123(1). The objective is that the MCZs designated by the appropriate authority, taken together with any other MCZs designated under s 116 and any relevant conservation sites (see s 123(4)) in the UK marine area (see PARA 30B.2), form a network which satisfies the conditions in s 123(3): s 123(2). The conditions are (1) that the network contributes to the conservation or improvement of the marine environment in the UK marine area; (2) that the features which are protected by the sites comprised in the network represent the range of features present in the UK marine area; (3) that the designation of sites comprised in the network reflects the fact that the conservation of a feature may require the designation of more than one site: s 123(3). When complying with the duty imposed by s 123(1), the appropriate authority must have regard to any obligations under EU or international law that relate to the conservation or improvement of the marine environment: s 123(5). Further provision is made under s 123 relating to the creation of a network of marine sites: see s 123(6)-(9).

The appropriate authority must report to the appropriate legislature (see s 123(9)) on progress in designating a network of MCZs: see Marine and Coastal Access Act 2009 s 124.

3. Duties of public authorities

The Marine and Coastal Access Act 2009 s 125 applies to any public authority having any function the exercise of which is capable of affecting (other than insignificantly) (1) the protected features of a marine conservation zone (an 'MCZ'); (2) any ecological or geomorphological process on which the conservation of any protected feature of an MCZ is (wholly or in part) dependent: Marine and Coastal Access Act 2009 s 125(1). For the meaning of 'public authority' see Marine and Coastal Access Act 2009 s 322(1). 'Public authority' does not include a Northern Ireland Minister or Northern Ireland department: s 125(13). 'Protected feature', in relation to an MCZ or proposed MCZ, means any flora, fauna, habitat or feature which is sought to be conserved by the making of the order designating the zone: Marine and Coastal Access Act 2009 s 147(1). Every public authority to which s 125 applies must (so far as is consistent with their proper exercise) (a) exercise its functions in the manner which the authority considers best furthers the conservation objectives stated for the MCZ; (b) where it is not possible to exercise its functions in a manner which furthers those objectives, exercise them in the manner which the authority considers least hinders the achievement of those objectives: s 125(2). If a public authority considers that any of its functions is such that the exercise of the function would or might significantly hinder the achievement of the conservation objectives for an MCZ, it must inform the appropriate statutory conservation body of that fact: s 125(3). For the meaning of 'the appropriate statutory conservation body' see the Marine and Coastal Access Act 2009 s 147(1). In carrying out its duties under s 125 a public authority must have regard to any advice or guidance given by the appropriate statutory conservation body under the Marine and Coastal Access Act 2009 s 127: s 125(12). Further provision is made under s 125 relating to the general duties of public authorities.

A public authority must inform the relevant statutory nature conservation body if it believes a proposed activity will hinder the achievement of the conservation objectives of an MCZ: see Marine and Coastal Access Act 2009 s 126.

The appropriate statutory conservation body may give advice and guidance as to (i) the matters which are capable of damaging or otherwise affecting any protected feature or features; (ii) the matters which are capable of affecting any ecological or geomorphological process on which the conservation of any protected feature or features is (wholly or in part) dependent; (iii) how any conservation objectives stated for an MCZ may be furthered, or how the achievement of any such objectives may be hindered; (iv) how the effect of any activity or activities on an MCZ or MCZs may be mitigated; (v) which activities are, or are not, of equivalent environmental benefit to any particular damage to the environment: see Marine and Coastal Access Act 2009 s 127.

Provision is made with the respect to the failure to comply with specified duties: see Marine and Coastal Access Act 2009 s 128.

4. Byelaws for protection of MCZs etc: England

The Marine Management Organisation ('the MMO': see PARA 30A.1) may make one or more byelaws for the purpose of furthering the conservation objectives stated for a marine conservation zone (an 'MCZ') in England: Marine and Coastal Access Act 2009 s 129(1). 'England' includes the English inshore region: Marine and Coastal Access Act 2009 s 147(1). For the meaning of 'English inshore region' see Marine and Coastal Access Act 2009 s 322(1). A byelaw under s 129 may be made so as to apply to any area in England: s 129(2). The provision that may be made by a byelaw under s 129 includes, in particular, provision (1) prohibiting or restricting entry into, or any movement or other activity within, the MCZ by persons or animals; (2) prohibiting or restricting entry into, or any movement or other activity within, the MCZ by vessels or (where appropriate) vehicles; (3) restricting the speed at which any vessel may move in the MCZ or in any specified area outside the MCZ where that movement might hinder the conservation objectives stated for the MCZ; (4) prohibiting or restricting the anchoring of any vessel within the MCZ; (5) prohibiting or restricting the killing, taking, destruction, molestation or disturbance of animals or plants of any description in the MCZ; (6) prohibiting or restricting the doing of anything in the MCZ which would interfere with the sea bed or damage or disturb any object in the MCZ: s 129(3). 'Animal' includes any egg, larva, pupa, or other immature stage of an animal: Marine and Coastal Access Act 2009 s 147(1). 'Vessels' includes hovercraft, aircraft capable of landing on water, and any other craft capable of travelling on, in or under water, whether or not capable or carrying any person: Marine and Coastal Access Act 2009 s 147(1). 'Vehicles' includes bicycles and other non-motorised forms of transport, and hovercraft: Marine and Coastal Access Act 2009 s 147(1). In s 129 'specified' means specified in the byelaw: s 129(9). The provision that may be made by a byelaw under s 129 also includes provision prohibiting or restricting entry into, or any movement or other activity on, any part of the seashore that adjoins the MCZ by persons, animals or vehicles: s 129(4). For the meaning of 'seashore' see Marine and Coastal Access Act 2009 s 147(1). A byelaw under s 129 may provide for the MMO to issue permits authorising anything which would, apart from such a permit, be unlawful under the byelaw: s 129(5). The MMO may attach to a permit under s 129(5) any condition which the MMO thinks appropriate to attach to that permit: s 129(6). A byelaw under s 129 may be made subject to specified exceptions: s 129(7). A byelaw under s 129 may make different provision for different cases, including (in particular) (a) different parts of the MCZ; (b) different times of the year; (c) different means or methods of carrying out any activity: s 129(8).

Provision is made as to procedure (see Marine and Coastal Access Act 2009 s 130), emergency byelaws (see Marine and Coastal Access Act 2009 s 131), interim byelaws (see Marine and Coastal Access Act 2009 s 132) and further provision (see Marine and Coastal Access Act 2009 s 133).

As to the enforcement of nature conservation legislation see Marine and Coastal Access Act 2009 s 237; and PARA 30F.3.

5. Orders for protection of MCZs etc: Wales

The Welsh Ministers may make one or more orders for the purpose of furthering the conservation objectives stated for a marine conservation zone (see PARA 30E.1) in Wales: see Marine and Coastal Access Act 2009 s 134. 'Wales' includes the Welsh inshore region: Marine and Coastal Access Act 2009 s 147(1). For the meaning of 'Welsh inshore region' see Marine and Coastal Access Act 2009 s 322(1). Provision is made as to consultation regarding orders under s 134 (see Marine and Coastal Access Act 2009 s 135), interim orders (see Marine and Coastal Access Act 2009 s 136) and further provision (see Marine and Coastal Access Act 2009 s 137).

As to the enforcement of nature conservation legislation see Marine and Coastal Access Act 2009 s 237; and PARA 30F.3.

6. Hearings by Secretary of State or Welsh Ministers

The Marine and Coastal Access Act 2009 s 138 applies where the Secretary of State has the function of (1) deciding (under the Marine and Coastal Access Act 2009 s 130) whether to confirm a byelaw made under the Marine and Coastal Access Act 2009s 129; (2) deciding (under the Marine and Coastal Access Act 2009 s 131) whether to revoke an emergency byelaw; (3) deciding (under the Marine and Coastal Access Act 2009 s 132) whether to revoke an interim byelaw: s 138(1). See further PARA 30E.4. Section 138 also applies where the Welsh Ministers have the function of (a) deciding whether to make an order under the Marine and Coastal Access Act 2009 s 134; (b) deciding whether to make an interim order under the Marine and Coastal Access Act 2009 s 136: s 138(2). See further PARA 30E.5. The Secretary of State or (as the case may be) the Welsh Ministers may, before making that decision, give to any person the opportunity of (i) appearing before and being heard by a person appointed for that purpose; (ii) providing written representations to such a person: s 138(3). The Secretary of State or (as the case may be) the Welsh Ministers may make regulations providing for the procedure to be followed (including decisions as to costs) at hearings held under s 138(3): s 138(4). A person appointed under s 138(3) must make a report to the Secretary of State or (as the case may be) the Welsh Ministers of any oral or written representations made under s 138(3): s 138(5).

7. Offences

It is an offence for a person to contravene (1) any byelaw made under the Marine and Coastal Access Act 2009 s 129 or 132 (see PARA 30E.4); (2) any order made under the Marine and Coastal Access Act 2009 s 134 or 136 (see PARA 30E.5): Marine and Coastal Access Act 2009 s 139(1). In s 139 'contravene' includes fail to comply: s 139(3). A person who is guilty of an offence under s 139 is liable on summary conviction to a fine not exceeding level 5 on the standard scale: s 139(2). As to the standard scale see PARA 141. Proceedings for an offence under s 139 may be taken, and the offence may for all incidental purposes be treated as having been committed, in any part of England and Wales: s 139(4). For the meaning of 'England' and 'Wales' see Marine and Coastal Access Act 2009 s 147(1).

A person is guilty of an offence under the Marine and Coastal Access Act 2009 s 140 if (a) the person without lawful excuse does a prohibited act, (b) at the time of doing that act, the person knows, or ought to have known, that the feature to which the act relates is in, or forms part of, a marine conservation zone (an 'MCZ'), and (c) the act has significantly hindered, or may significantly hinder, the achievement of the conservation objectives stated for the MCZ: s 140(1). For the purposes of s 140(1), a person does a prohibited act if the person (i) intentionally or recklessly kills or injures any animal (see PARA 30E.4) in an MCZ which is a protected feature (see PARA 30E.3) of that MCZ, (ii) intentionally picks or collects, or intentionally or recklessly cuts, uproots or destroys, any plant in an MCZ which is a protected feature of that MCZ, (iii) intentionally or recklessly takes anything from an MCZ which is, or forms part of, a protected feature of that MCZ, or (iv) intentionally or recklessly destroys or damages any habitat or feature which is a protected feature of an MCZ: s 140(2). For the purposes of determining whether anything done by a person in relation to a protected feature is a prohibited act for the purposes of s 140(1), it is immaterial whether the person knew, or ought to have known, that the feature was a protected feature: s 140(3). A person who is guilty of an offence under s 140 is liable (A) on summary conviction, to a fine not exceeding £50,000;

(b) on conviction on indictment, to a fine: s 140(4). In determining the amount of any fine to be imposed on a person convicted of an offence under s 140, the court must in particular have regard to any financial benefit which has accrued or appears likely to accrue to the person in consequence of the offence: s 140(5). Proceedings for an offence under s 140 may be taken, and the offence may for all incidental purposes be treated as having been committed, in any part of the United Kingdom: s 140(6).

The circumstances in which a person will not be guilty of an offence under s 139 or 140 are set out: see Marine and Coastal Access Act 2009 s 141.

As to the enforcement of nature conservation legislation see Marine and Coastal Access Act 2009 s 237; and PARA 30F.3.

8. Fixed monetary penalties

The appropriate authority (see Marine and Coastal Access Act 2009 s 116(5)) for any area may by order make provision to confer on any enforcement authority (see Marine and Coastal Access Act 2009 s 147(1)) for that area the power by notice to impose a fixed monetary penalty on a person in relation to an offence under the Marine and Coastal Access Act 2009 s 139 (see PARA 30E.7): Marine and Coastal Access Act 2009 s 142(1). For the purposes of the Marine and Coastal Access Act 2009 Pt 5 Ch 1 (ss 116-147) a 'fixed monetary penalty' is a requirement to pay to the enforcement authority a penalty of a prescribed amount: s 142(3). In s 142 'prescribed' means prescribed in an order made under s 142: s 142(5). Provision under s 142 may only confer such a power in relation to a case where the enforcement authority is satisfied beyond reasonable doubt that the person has committed the offence: s 142(2). The amount of the fixed monetary penalty that may be imposed in relation to an offence may not exceed level 1 on the standard scale: s 142(4). As to the standard scale see PARA 141.

Provision is made as to procedure: see Marine and Coastal Access Act 2009 s 143. Further provision about fixed monetary penalties is made: see Marine and Coastal Access Act 2009 s 144, Sch 10.

9. Application to the Crown

The Marine and Coastal Access Act 2009 Pt 5 Ch 1 (ss 116-147) is binding on the Crown and applies in relation to any Crown land as it applies in relation to any other land: Marine and Coastal Access Act 2009 s 145(1). For the purposes of s 145 'Crown land' means land an interest in which (1) belongs to Her Majesty in right of the Crown or in right of Her private estates, (2) belongs to Her Majesty in right of the Duchy of Lancaster, (3) belongs to the Duchy of Cornwall, or (4) belongs to a government department or is held in trust for Her Majesty for the purposes of a government department: s 145(4). In s 145 references to Her Majesty's private estates are to be construed in accordance with the Crown Private Estates Act 1862 s 1: Marine and Coastal Access Act 2009 s 145(5). Section 145(1) is subject to s 145(2): s 145(1). No contravention by the Crown of any provision of Pt 5 Ch 1 is to make the Crown criminally liable; but the High Court may, on the application of the appropriate authority (see Marine and Coastal Access Act 2009 s 116(5)) or any other authority charged with enforcing that provision, declare unlawful any act or omission of the Crown which constitutes such a contravention: s 145(2). Despite s 145(2), the provisions of Pt 5 Ch 1 apply to persons in the public service of the Crown as they apply to other persons: s 145(3).

Halsbury's Laws of England/WATER AND WATERWAYS (VOLUME 100 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-452; VOLUME 101 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 453-851)/1A. MARINE MANAGEMENT/30F. Marine enforcement officers.

30F. Marine enforcement officers.

The Marine and Coastal Access Act 2009 Pt 8 Ch 1 (ss 235-244) (in force unless otherwise stated: SI 2009/3345) makes provision for marine enforcement officers.

For Crown application see Marine and Coastal Access Act 2009 s 295.

1. Marine enforcement officers

In the Marine and Coastal Access Act 2009 Pt 8 Ch 1 (ss 235-244) 'marine enforcement officer' means (1) any person appointed as such an officer by the Marine Management Organisation ('the MMO': see PARA 30A.1); (2) any person appointed as such an officer by the Welsh Ministers; (3) any person who is a commissioned officer of any of Her Majesty's ships; (4) any person in command or charge of any aircraft or hovercraft of the Royal Navy, the Army or the Royal Air Force: Marine and Coastal Access Act 2009 s 235(1). The carrying out of any functions of a marine enforcement officer by a person appointed under s 235 by the MMO or the Welsh Ministers (a 'civilian marine enforcement officer') is subject to any limitations specified by the MMO or (as the case may be) the Welsh Ministers in relation to that person: s 235(2). Until the coming into force of the Marine and Coastal Access Act 2009 s 1 (ie 12 January 2010: SI 2009/3345 (see PARA 30A.1)), any power conferred on the MMO by the Marine and Coastal Access Act 2009 s 235 is exercisable by the Secretary of State: s 235(3). Any reference in Pt 8 Ch 1 to a marine enforcement officer includes a reference to any person appointed by the Secretary of State as a marine enforcement officer by virtue of this provision: s 235(3).

2. Enforcement of marine licensing regime

The following provisions are not yet in force.

For the purposes of enforcing the Marine and Coastal Access Act 2009 Pt 4 (ss 65-115: see PARA 30D), a marine enforcement officer (see PARA 30F.1) has the common enforcement powers conferred by the Marine and Coastal Access Act 2009 (see PARA 30G); and the power conferred by the Marine and Coastal Access Act 2009 s 263 (see PARA 30H): Marine and Coastal Access Act 2009 s 236(1). This is subject to s 236(2): s 236(1). A marine enforcement officer does not have the powers referred to in s 236(1) for the purposes of enforcing Pt 4 so far as relating to (1) any activity in Wales or the Welsh inshore region (see Marine and Coastal Access Act 2009 s 322(1)) concerning or arising from the exploration for, or production of, petroleum (see Marine and Coastal Access Act 2009 s 244(1)); (2) anything done in the course of taking installation abandonment measures in any other part of the relevant enforcement area: s 236(2). 'Installation abandonment measures' means any measures taken in connection with the abandonment of an offshore installation or submarine pipeline, within the meaning of the Petroleum Act 1998 Pt 4, or a carbon storage installation, within the meaning of the Energy Act 2008 s 30, whether or not the measures are taken in pursuance of an abandonment programme: Marine and Coastal Access Act 2009 s 236(9). For the meaning of 'abandonment programme' see s 236(9). 'The relevant enforcement area' means the area that consists of England and Wales and Northern Ireland, and the UK marine licensing area, excluding the Scottish offshore region (see Marine and Coastal Access Act 2009 s 322(1)): s 236(9). Subject to s 236(8), the powers which a marine enforcement officer has for the purposes of enforcing Pt 4 may be exercised (a) in the relevant enforcement area (and in relation to any vessel, aircraft or marine structure in that area); (b) in relation to any vessel or marine structure outside the UK marine area (see Marine and Coastal Access Act 2009 s 322(1)) which was loaded within the relevant enforcement area; (c) in relation to any British vessel, British aircraft or British marine structure outside the UK marine area; (d) in Scotland or the Scottish inshore region (see Marine and Coastal Access Act 2009 s 322(1)), in relation to an offence which the officer reasonably believes has been committed (i) within the relevant enforcement area, or (ii) outside the UK marine area and in circumstances where a vessel, aircraft or marine structure referred to in head (b) or (c) was involved in the commission of the offence; (e) in relation to any vessel, aircraft or marine structure in the Scottish offshore region which has been pursued there in accordance with s 236(4): s 236(3). A vessel, aircraft or marine structure is pursued in accordance with s 236(4) if (A) immediately before the pursuit of the vessel, aircraft or structure commences, the vessel, aircraft or structure is in the relevant enforcement area, (B) before the pursuit of the vessel, aircraft or structure commences, a signal is given for it to stop, and (C) the pursuit of the vessel, aircraft or structure is not interrupted: s 236(4). As to references to 'vessel' see s 244(2). The signal referred to in head (B) must be given in such a way as to be audible or visible from the vessel, aircraft or structure in question: s 236(5). For the purposes of head (C), pursuit is not interrupted by reason only of the fact that the method of carrying out the pursuit, or the identity of the vessel or aircraft carrying out the pursuit, changes during the course of the pursuit: s 236(6). Nothing in s 236 affects any right of hot pursuit which a marine enforcement officer may have under international law: s 236(7). The powers which a civilian marine enforcement officer has for the purposes of enforcing Pt 4 may not be exercised in relation to any British warship: s 236(8). As to civilian marine enforcement officers see PARA 30F.1. 'British warship' means a ship belonging to Her Majesty and forming part of Her Majesty's armed forces: Marine and Coastal Access Act 2009 s 244(1).

Any term used in s 236 and in Pt 4 has the same meaning in s 236 as it has in Pt 4: s 236(10).

3. Enforcement of nature conservation legislation

For the purposes of enforcing the nature conservation legislation, a marine enforcement officer (see para 30F.1) has the common enforcement powers conferred by the Marine and Coastal Access Act 2009 (see PARA 30G): Marine and Coastal Access Act 2009 s 237(1). For the meaning of 'the nature conservation legislation' see s 237(2). Subject to s 237(8) and (9), the powers which a marine enforcement officer has for the purposes of enforcing the nature conservation legislation may be exercised (1) in the relevant enforcement area (and in relation to any vessel, aircraft or marine installation in that area); (2) in relation to any British vessel or British marine installation outside the UK marine area (see Marine and Coastal Access Act 2009 s 322(1)); (3) in Scotland or Northern Ireland, or the Scottish or Northern Ireland inshore region (see Marine and Coastal Access Act 2009 s 322(1)), in relation to an offence which the officer reasonably believes has been committed (a) within the relevant enforcement area, or (b) outside the UK marine area and in circumstances where a British vessel or British marine installation was involved in the commission of the offence; (4) in relation to any vessel, aircraft or marine installation in the Scottish offshore region (see Marine and Coastal Access Act 2009 s 322(1)) which has been pursued there in accordance with s 237(4): s 237(3). 'The relevant enforcement area' means the area that consists of (i) England and Wales, and (ii) the UK marine area, excluding the Scottish inshore region, the Scottish offshore region, and the Northern Ireland inshore region: s 237(13). For the meaning of 'British vessel' see s 237(13). As to references to 'vessel' see s 244(2). 'British marine installation' means a marine installation owned by or leased to an individual residing in, or a body corporate incorporated under the law of, any part of the United Kingdom: Marine and Coastal Access Act 2009 s 244(1). 'Marine installation' means any artificial island, installation or structure (other than a vessel): s 244(1). A vessel, aircraft or marine installation is pursued in accordance with s 237(4) if (A) immediately before the pursuit of the vessel, aircraft or installation commences, the vessel, aircraft or installation is in the relevant enforcement area, (B) before the pursuit of the vessel, aircraft or installation commences, a signal is given for it to stop, and (c) the pursuit of the vessel, aircraft or installation is not interrupted: s 237(4). The signal referred to in head (b) must be given in such a way as to be audible or visible from the vessel, aircraft or installation in question: s 237(5). For the purposes of head (c), pursuit is not interrupted by reason only of the fact that the method of carrying out the pursuit, or the identity of the vessel or aircraft carrying out the pursuit, changes during the course of the pursuit: s 237(6). Nothing in s 237 affects any right of hot pursuit which a marine enforcement officer may have under international law: s 237(7). The powers which a civilian marine enforcement officer has for the purposes of enforcing the nature conservation legislation may not be exercised in relation to any British warship: s 237(8). As to civilian marine enforcement officers see PARA 30F.1. For the meaning of 'British warship' see PARA 30F.2. The powers which a marine enforcement officer has for the purposes of enforcing the nature conservation legislation may not be exercised in relation to any vessel within s 237(10) unless (aa) in the case of a third country vessel, other than a vessel falling within head (bb) or (cc), the United Kingdom is entitled under international law to exercise those powers without the consent of the flag state, or (bb) the Commissioners have given authority to exercise those powers: s 237(9). 'Third country vessel' means a vessel which is flying the flag of, or is registered in, any State or territory (other than Gibraltar) which is not a member State, and is not registered in a member State: Marine and Coastal Access Act 2009 s 244(1). 'Flag state', in relation to a vessel, means the State whose flag the vessel is flying or is entitled to fly: s 244(1). 'The Commissioners' means the Commissioners for Her Majesty's Revenue and Customs: s 244(1). The vessels are (AA) a third country vessel; (BB) a warship that is being used by the government of a State other than the United Kingdom; (CC) any other vessel that is being used by such a government for any non-commercial purpose: s 237(10). The Commissioners may give authority under head (bb) only if the flag state has consented to the United Kingdom exercising those powers (whether generally or in relation to the vessel in question): s 237(11). In giving such authority, the Commissioners must impose such conditions or limitations on the exercise of the powers as are necessary to give effect to any conditions or limitations imposed by the flag state: s 237(12).

4. Enforcement of fisheries legislation

For the purposes of enforcing the fisheries legislation, a marine enforcement officer (see para 30F.1) has (1) the common enforcement powers conferred by Marine and Coastal Access Act 2009 (see PARA 30G); (2) the powers conferred by the Marine and Coastal Access Act 2009 ss 264, 268, 269, 279 and 284 (see AGRICULTURE AND FISHERIES); Marine and Coastal Access Act 2009 s 238(1). As to 'the fisheries legislation' see s 238(2), (3). Subject to s 238(9), the powers which a marine enforcement officer has for the purposes of enforcing the fisheries legislation may be exercised (a) in the relevant enforcement area (and in relation to any vessel, aircraft or marine installation in that area); (b) in relation to any vessel, vehicle, aircraft or marine installation in any other area within the United Kingdom or the UK marine area (see Marine and Coastal Access Act 2009 s 322(1)) which has been pursued there in accordance with s 238(5); (c) in relation to any relevant British fishing boat in the Scottish zone or the Northern Ireland zone (see Marine and Coastal Access Act 2009 s 322(1)); (d) in relation to any British vessel or British marine installation outside British fishery limits, other than a Scottish or Northern Ireland fishing boat: s 238(4). 'The relevant enforcement area' means the area that consists of England and Wales, and the sea within British fishery limits, excluding the Scottish zone and the Northern Ireland zone: s 238(10). For the meaning of 'sea' and 'British fishery limits' see Marine and Coastal Access Act 2009 s 322(1). As to references to 'vessel' see Marine and Coastal Access Act 2009 s 244(2). For the meaning of 'relevant British fishing boat' and 'British vessel' see s 238(10). For the meaning of 'British marine installation' and 'marine installation' see PARA 30F.3. For the meaning of 'fishing boat', 'Scottish fishing boat' and 'Northern Ireland fishing boat' see s 244(1). A vessel, vehicle, aircraft or marine installation is pursued in accordance with s 238(5) if (i) immediately before the pursuit of the vessel, vehicle, aircraft or installation commences the vessel, vehicle, aircraft or installation is in the relevant enforcement area, or in the case of a vessel, aircraft or marine installation operating together with one or more other vessels, aircraft or marine installations to carry out a single activity, any of those vessels, aircraft or installations is in that area, (ii) before the pursuit of the vessel, vehicle, aircraft or installation commences, a signal is given for it to stop, and (iii) the pursuit of the vessel, vehicle, aircraft or installation is not interrupted: s 238(5). The signal referred to in head (ii) must be given in such a way as to be audible or visible from the vessel, vehicle, aircraft or installation in question: s 238(6). For the purposes of head (iii), pursuit is not interrupted by reason only of the fact that (A) the method of carrying out the pursuit, or (B) the identity of the vessel, vehicle or aircraft carrying out the pursuit, changes during the course of the pursuit: s 238(7). Nothing in s 238 affects any right of hot pursuit which a marine enforcement officer may have under international law: s 238(8). The powers which a civilian marine enforcement officer has for the purposes of enforcing the fisheries legislation may not be exercised in relation to any British warship: s 238(9). As to civilian marine enforcement officers see PARA 30F.1. For the meaning of 'British warship' see PARA 30F.2.

For fisheries enforcement powers see Marine and Coastal Access Act 2009 Pt 8 Ch 4 (ss 264-287); and AGRICULTURE AND FISHERIES.

5. Marine licensing: oil and gas and other reserved matters

The following provisions are not yet in force.

The Secretary of State may appoint persons for the purposes of enforcing the Marine and Coastal Access Act 2009 Pt 4 (ss 65-115: see PARA 30D), so far as relating to (1) any activity in the Scottish offshore region (see Marine and Coastal Access Act 2009 s 322(1)) falling within s 113(3) (activities relating to certain reserved matters); (2) any activity in Wales or the Welsh inshore region (see Marine and Coastal Access Act 2009 s 322(1)) concerning or arising from the exploration for, or production of, petroleum (see Marine and Coastal Access Act 2009 s 244(1)); (3) anything done in the course of taking installation abandonment measures in any other part of the relevant enforcement area: Marine and Coastal Access Act 2009 s 240(1). 'The relevant enforcement area' means the area that consists of England and Wales, and the UK marine licensing area, excluding the Northern Ireland inshore region (see Marine and Coastal Access Act 2009 s 322(1)): s 240(6). For the purposes referred to in s 240(1), a person appointed under s 240 has (a) the common enforcement powers conferred by the Marine and Coastal Access Act 2009 (see PARA 30G); (b) the power conferred by s 263 (see PARA 30H): s 240(2). Subject to s 240(4), the powers which a person appointed under s 240 has for the purposes referred to in s 240(1) may be exercised (i) in the relevant enforcement area (and in relation to any vessel, aircraft or marine structure in that area); (ii) in relation to any vessel or marine structure outside the UK marine area (see Marine and Coastal Access Act 2009 s 322(1)) which was loaded within the relevant enforcement area; (iii) in relation to any British vessel, British aircraft or British marine structure outside the UK marine area; (iv) in Scotland or Northern Ireland, or the Scottish or Northern Ireland inshore region, in relation to an offence which the person reasonably believes has been committed within the relevant enforcement area, or outside the UK marine area and in circumstances where a vessel, aircraft or marine structure referred to in head (ii) or (iii) was involved in the commission of the offence: s 240(3). As to references to 'vessel' see Marine and Coastal Access Act 2009 s 244(2). The powers which a person appointed under s 240 has for the purposes referred to in s 240(1) may not be exercised in relation to any British warship: s 240(4). For the meaning of 'British warship' see PARA 30F.2. Nothing in s 240 affects any right of hot pursuit which a person appointed under s 240 may have under international law: s 240(5).

Any term used in s 240 and in Pt 4 has the same meaning in s 240 as it has in Pt 4: s 240(7).

Halsbury's Laws of England/WATER AND WATERWAYS (VOLUME 100 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-452; VOLUME 101 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 453-851)/1A. MARINE MANAGEMENT/30G. Common enforcement powers.

30G. Common enforcement powers.

The Marine and Coastal Access Act 2009 Pt 8 Ch 2 (ss 245-262) sets out the powers that may be exercised by a person who has the common enforcement powers conferred by the Marine and Coastal Access Act 2009: Marine and Coastal Access Act 2009 s 245(1). The powers conferred on an enforcement officer by any provision in Pt 8 Ch 2 are without prejudice to any powers exercisable by the officer apart from that provision: s 245(3).

For Crown application see Marine and Coastal Access Act 2009 s 295.

For fisheries enforcement powers see Marine and Coastal Access Act 2009 Pt 8 Ch 4 (ss 264-287); and AGRICULTURE AND FISHERIES.

1. Entry, search and seizure

For the purposes of carrying out any relevant functions, an enforcement officer may at any time board and inspect a vessel or marine installation: see Marine and Coastal Access Act 2009 s 246. 'Relevant function', in relation to an enforcement officer, means any function of that officer; and 'enforcement officer' means any person who has the common enforcement powers conferred by the Marine and Coastal Access Act 2009: Marine and Coastal Access Act 2009 s 245(2). 'Common enforcement power' means any power conferred by the Marine and Coastal Access Act 2009 ss 246-261: Marine and Coastal Access Act 2009 s 262(1). In the Marine and Coastal Access Act 2009 Pt 8 Ch 2 (ss 245-262) any reference to a vessel includes a reference to any ship or boat or any other description of vessel used in navigation, any hovercraft, submersible craft or other floating craft, and any aircraft, but does not include a reference to anything that permanently rests on, or is permanently attached to, the sea bed: s 262(2). 'Marine installation' means any artificial island, installation or structure (other than a vessel): s 262(1). Section 246 is subject to the Marine and Coastal Access Act 2009 s 249 (which provides that a warrant is necessary to enter a dwelling): s 246(1).

For the purposes of carrying out any relevant functions, an enforcement officer may enter and inspect any premises: see Marine and Coastal Access Act 2009 s 247. Section 247 is subject to the Marine and Coastal Access Act 2009 s 249: s 247(1).

For the purposes of carrying out any relevant functions, an enforcement officer may at any time (1) enter and inspect any vehicle; (2) stop and detain any vehicle for the purposes of entering and inspecting it: see Marine and Coastal Access Act 2009 s 248. Section 248 is subject to the Marine and Coastal Access Act 2009 s 249: s 248(1).

An enforcement officer may not by virtue of s 246, 247 or 248 enter any dwelling unless a justice has issued a warrant authorising the officer to enter the dwelling: see Marine and Coastal Access Act 2009 s 249. The Marine and Coastal Access Act 2009 Sch 17 contains further provision about warrants issued under s 249: s 249(4).

Where an enforcement officer is exercising a power of inspection conferred by s 246, 247 or 248, the officer may (a) search the relevant premises for any item; (b) examine anything that is in or on the relevant premises; the officer may also stop someone and detain them to perform a search of anything in their possession or control: see Marine and Coastal Access Act 2009 s 250. 'The relevant premises', in relation to an enforcement officer exercising a power of inspection conferred by s 246, 247 or 248, means the vessel, marine installation, premises or vehicle in relation to which the power is being exercised: s 262(1). The officer may require any person in or on the relevant premises to produce any document or record that is in the person's possession or control: see Marine and Coastal Access Act 2009 s 251.

Provision is made as to powers of seizure (see Marine and Coastal Access Act 2009 ss 252, 253) and the retention of seized items (see Marine and Coastal Access Act 2009 s 254).

2. Miscellaneous and ancillary powers

An enforcement officer may use any device for the purpose of taking visual images of anything which the officer believes is evidence of the commission of a relevant offence: see Marine and Coastal Access Act 2009 s 255. For the meaning of 'enforcement officer' see PARA 30G.1. 'Relevant offence', in relation to an enforcement officer, means any offence in respect of which the officer has functions: Marine and Coastal Access Act 2009 s 245(2).

Where an enforcement officer reasonably believes that a person has committed a relevant offence, the officer may require the person to provide the person's name and address: Marine and Coastal Access Act 2009 s 256.

Where an enforcement officer reasonably believes (1) that a person is or has been carrying on a relevant activity, and (2) that the person requires a licence or other authority to carry on that activity, the officer may require the person to produce that licence or other authority: Marine and Coastal Access Act 2009 s 257(1). 'Relevant activity', in relation to an enforcement officer, means any activity in respect of which the officer has functions: s 245(2). If the person is unable to produce the licence or other authority when required to do so, the person must produce it at such place, and within such period of time, as the officer may specify: s 257(2).

Where an enforcement officer has boarded a vessel or marine installation, or entered any premises, for the purposes of carrying out any relevant functions, the officer may require the attendance of (a) the person who is for the time being in charge of the vessel or marine installation; (b) any other person who is on board the vessel or marine installation; (c) the owner or occupier of the premises; (d) any person who is on the premises: Marine and Coastal Access Act 2009 s 258. For the meaning of 'marine installation' and 'relevant functions' see PARA 30G.1.

Enforcement officers have the power to direct a vessel or marine installation to the port they consider to be the nearest convenient port and detain it there: see Marine and Coastal Access Act 2009 s 259.

To assist in carrying out any relevant functions, an enforcement officer may bring (i) any other person; (ii) any equipment or materials: see Marine and Coastal Access Act 2009 s 260.

An enforcement officer may use reasonable force, if necessary, in the exercise of any power conferred by the Marine and Coastal Access Act 2009: Marine and Coastal Access Act 2009 s 261(1). A person assisting an enforcement officer under s 260 may use reasonable force, if necessary, in the exercise of any power conferred by the Marine and Coastal Access Act 2009: s 261(2).

Halsbury's Laws of England/WATER AND WATERWAYS (VOLUME 100 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-452; VOLUME 101 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 453-851)/1A. MARINE MANAGEMENT/30H. Licensing enforcement powers.

30H. Licensing enforcement powers.

The following provisions are not yet in force.

A person who has the power conferred by the Marine and Coastal Access Act 2009 s 263 may require any person (1) to give details of any substances or objects on board a vehicle, vessel, aircraft or marine structure; (2) to give information concerning any substances or objects lost from a vehicle, vessel, aircraft or marine structure: Marine and Coastal Access Act 2009 s 263(1). In s 263 'marine structure' and 'vessel' have the meaning given by the Marine and Coastal Access Act 2009 s 115: s 263(4). A statement made by a person in response to a requirement made under s 263 may not be used against the person in criminal proceedings in which the person is charged with an offence to which s 263(2) applies: s 263(2). Section 263(2) applies to any offence other than an offence under the Perjury Act 1911 s 5 (which concern false statements made otherwise than on oath): Marine and Coastal Access Act 2009 s 263(3). For Crown application see Marine and Coastal Access Act 2009 s 295.

Halsbury's Laws of England/WATER AND WATERWAYS (VOLUME 100 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-452; VOLUME 101 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 453-851)/1A. MARINE MANAGEMENT/30I. Common enforcement provisions.

30I. Common enforcement provisions.

The Marine and Coastal Access Act 2009 Pt 8 Ch 5 (ss 288-292) deals with common enforcement provisions.

For Crown application see Marine and Coastal Access Act 2009 s 295.

1. Duties of enforcement officers

Before exercising any power conferred by the Marine and Coastal Access Act 2009 Pt 8 (ss 235-295), an enforcement officer must, if requested to do so, produce evidence that the officer is authorised to exercise that power: Marine and Coastal Access Act 2009 s 289(1). In Pt 8 Ch 5 (ss 288-292) 'enforcement officer' means a person who has any powers conferred by Pt 8, other than a person who has such powers only by virtue of the Marine and Coastal Access Act 2009 s 260(2) (persons assisting enforcement officers: see PARA 30G.2): Marine and Coastal Access Act 2009 s 288. An enforcement officer may exercise a power conferred by Pt 8 only if the officer complies with the duty imposed by s 289(1): s 289(2). If, at the time the request is made, the officer does not consider it practicable to produce the evidence referred to in s 289(1), that provision does not apply until such time as the officer considers it practicable to comply with the request: s 289(3). Nothing in s 289 applies to a person falling within the Marine and Coastal Access Act 2009 s 235(1)(c) or (d) (see PARA 30F.1, heads (3) and (4): s 289(4).

Before exercising any power conferred by Pt 8, an enforcement officer must, if requested to do so, give the information in the Marine and Coastal Access Act 2009 s 290(3): s 290(1). Before exercising any power conferred by Pt 8, any person assisting an enforcement officer by virtue of the Marine and Coastal Access Act 2009 s 260 must, if requested to do so, give the information in heads (1) and (2): s 290(2). The information is (1) the person's name; (2) the power the person is proposing to exercise; (3) the grounds for proposing to do so: s 290(3). A person may exercise a power conferred by Pt 8 only if the person complies with the duty imposed by s 290(1) or the duty imposed by s 290(2) (as the case may be): s 290(4). If, at the time the request is made, the person does not consider it practicable to give the information referred to in s 290(1) or the information referred to in s 290 (2) (as the case may be), that provision does not apply until such time as the person considers it practicable to comply with the request: s 290(5).

2. Liability of enforcement officers

A person within the Marine and Coastal Access Act 2009 s 291(2) is not to be liable in any civil or criminal proceedings for anything done (or omitted to be done) in, or in connection with, the discharge or purported discharge of the person's functions under the Marine and Coastal Access Act 2009: s 291(1). The persons are (1) any enforcement officer; (2) any person assisting an enforcement officer by virtue of the Marine and Coastal Access Act 2009 s 260 (see PARA 30G.2): s 291(2). For the meaning of 'enforcement officer' see PARA 30I.1. Section 291(1) does not apply (a) if the act or omission is shown to have been in bad faith, (b) if there were no reasonable grounds for the act or omission, or (c) so as to prevent an award of damages in respect of the act or omission on the ground that it was unlawful as a result of the Human Rights Act 1998 s 6(1) (acts of public authorities incompatible with Convention rights: see JUDICIAL REVIEW vol 61 (2010) PARA 651): Marine and Coastal Access Act 2009 s 291(3).

3. Offences in relation to enforcement officers

A person is guilty of an offence if (1) the person fails without reasonable excuse to comply with a requirement reasonably made, or a direction reasonably given, by an enforcement officer in the exercise of any power conferred by the Marine and Coastal Access Act 2009 Pt 8 (ss 235-295), or (2) the person prevents any other person from complying with any such requirement or direction: Marine and Coastal Access Act 2009 s 292(1). For the meaning of 'enforcement officer' see PARA 30I.1. In s 292 any reference to an enforcement officer includes a reference to a person assisting an enforcement officer by virtue of s 260 (see PARA 30G.2): s 292(11). A person is not guilty of an offence by reason of a failure to comply with a requirement made under the Marine and Coastal Access Act 2009 s 257(1) if the person complies with s 257(2) (see PARA 30G.2): s 292(2). A person who provides information in pursuance of a requirement reasonably made by an enforcement officer in the exercise of the power conferred by the Marine and Coastal Access Act 2009 s 263 (see PARA 30H) is guilty of an offence if (a) the information is false in a material particular, and the person knows that it is or is reckless as to whether it is, or (b) the person intentionally fails to disclose any material particular: s 292(3). A person who intentionally obstructs an enforcement officer in the performance of any of the officer's functions under the Marine and Coastal Access Act 2009 is guilty of an offence: s 292(4). A person who assaults an enforcement officer in the performance of any of the officer's functions under the Marine and Coastal Access Act 2009 is guilty of an offence: s 292(5). A person who, with intent to deceive, falsely pretends to be an enforcement officer is guilty of an offence: s 292(6). A person who is guilty of an offence under s 292(1), (3) or (6) is liable (i) on summary conviction, to a fine not exceeding the statutory maximum; (ii) on conviction on indictment, to a fine: s 292(7). As to the statutory maximum see PARA 169. A person who is guilty of an offence under s 292(4) is liable on summary conviction to a fine not exceeding £20,000: s 292(8). A person who is guilty of an offence under s 292(5) is liable on summary conviction to a fine not exceeding £50,000: s 292(9). Proceedings for an offence under s 292 may be taken, and the offence may for all incidental purposes be treated as having been committed, in any part of the United Kingdom: s 292(10).

Halsbury's Laws of England/WATER AND WATERWAYS (VOLUME 100 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-452; VOLUME 101 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 453-851)/2. THE SEA AND SEASHORE/(1) THE HIGH SEAS AND TERRITORIAL WATERS/31. Meanings of 'high seas' and 'territorial waters'.

2. THE SEA AND SEASHORE

(1) THE HIGH SEAS AND TERRITORIAL WATERS

31. Meanings of 'high seas' and 'territorial waters'.

At common law, 'high seas' includes the whole of the sea below low-water mark<sup>1</sup> where great ships can go, except for such parts of the sea as are within the body of a county, for the realm of England only extends to the low-water mark, and all beyond is the high seas<sup>2</sup>. In international law 'high seas' means all parts of the sea not included in the territorial sea<sup>3</sup> and internal waters<sup>4</sup> of any state<sup>5</sup>.

The territorial sea for the United Kingdom now extends 12 nautical miles<sup>6</sup> measured from baselines established by Order in Council<sup>7</sup>, unless otherwise provided<sup>8</sup>. Its legal status is a belt of waters adjacent to the coast within which the coastal state enjoys sovereignty. The sovereignty must be exercised in a manner which respects certain rights for the benefit of other states, notably the right of innocent passage for vessels<sup>9</sup>.

In the absence of any treaty between states or of actual possession by any state, the soil under any part of the high seas which is more than 12 miles from the coast is the property of no person<sup>10</sup>.

1 If the low-water mark of ordinary tides is the boundary, then on many parts of the coast there are considerable tracts of land left bare by the sea on three days in every lunar week which are not part of the realm of England and not subject to the common law. In the time of Elizabeth I the land and the foreshore were considered to go to the low-water mark of spring tides: see Moore History of the Foreshore and the Law Relating Thereto (3rd Edn, 1888) p 236. For a view that, in relation to a right of fishery, the low-water mark of spring tides is to be preferred see Loose v Castleton (1978) 41 P & CR 19 at 33, CA, per Bridge LJ, considered further and concurred with in Anderson v Alnwick District Council [1993] 3 All ER 613, [1993] 1 WLR 1156, DC. See also the Public Health (Control of Disease) Act 1984, 'coastal waters' means waters within a distance of 3 nautical miles from any point on the coast measured from low-water mark of ordinary spring tides: s 74 (definition prospectively repealed). Cf, however, the Sea Fisheries Regulation Act 1966 s 20 ('sea' includes the coast up to high-water mark); and the Finance Act 1986 s 108 ('the shoreline of the United Kingdom means the high-water line along the coast'); and see also the definitions of 'sea' and 'seashore' in the Coast Protection Act s 49; PARA 505 note 9. As to the meaning of 'United Kingdom' see PARA 22 note 5.

2 The Mecca [1895] P 95 at 107, CA, per Lindley LJ (considering the jurisdiction of the Court of Admiralty), applied in R v Liverpool Justices, ex p Molyneux [1972] 2 QB 384, [1972] 2 All ER 471, DC. See also R v Keyn (1876) 2 Ex D 63, CCR, where the history of the jurisdiction is considered, and Sir R Phillimore stated (at 67) that the county extends to low-water mark, where the high seas begin, and that in earlier days the courts of oyer and terminer had jurisdiction between high and low-water mark when the tide was out, and the court of the Admiral had jurisdiction there when the tide was in. See also Coulson and Forbes Law of Waters (6th Edn, 1952) p 1. As to offences committed on the high seas see R v Kelly [1982] AC 665, [1981] 2 All ER 1098, HL.

3 In international law the territorial sea is a belt of sea adjacent to the coast of a state lying beyond its land territory and its internal waters: Convention on the Territorial Sea and the Contiguous Zone (Geneva, 29 April 1958; TS 3 (1965); Cmnd 2511) art 1 para 1. A state may establish the breadth of its territorial sea up to a limit not exceeding 12 nautical miles from its baselines: see the United Nations Convention on the Law of the Sea (New York, 10 December 1982; Misc 11 (1983); Cmnd 8941) art 3; and INTERNATIONAL RELATIONS LAW vol 61 (2010) PARA 123 et seq. Except with respect to states which are not parties to the latter Convention, the 1958 Convention is superseded by the 1982 Convention. The United Kingdom is a party to both Conventions.

4 In international law 'internal waters' means waters under the full sovereignty of a state which lie to the landward side of the baseline from which the territorial sea is measured: see the Convention on the Territorial Sea and the Contiguous Zone (Geneva, 29 April 1958; TS 3 (1965); Cmnd 2511) art 5 para 1. Under the United Nations Convention on the Law of the Sea (New York, 10 December 1982; Misc 11 (1983); Cmnd 8941) they include inland waters, ports, anchorages and roadsteads, bays, gulfs and estuaries, sea separated by islands and all sea areas which are to the landward side of the baselines from which the territorial sea is delimited: see INTERNATIONAL RELATIONS LAW vol 61 (2010) PARA 121. See also Post Office v Estuary Radio Ltd [1968] 2 QB 740, [1967] 3 All ER 663, CA.

5 Convention on the High Seas (Geneva, 29 April 1958; TS 5 (1963); Cmnd 1929) art 1. As to fishing rights in the high seas see AGRICULTURE AND FISHERIES vol 1(2) (2007 Reissue) PARA 800.

6 Territorial Sea Act 1987 s 1(1)(a). 'Nautical miles' means international nautical miles of 1,852 metres: s 1(7).

7 See the Territorial Sea Act 1987 s 1(1)(b). Orders in Council include existing orders made under the royal prerogative: s 1(4); and see PARA 32 note 1.

8 le for the purpose of implementing any international agreement or otherwise: see the Territorial Sea Act 1987 s 1(2). This includes reduction for geographical means, eg in the English Channel. The Territorial Sea (Limits) Order 1989, SI 1989/482, establishes the seaward limit of the territorial sea adjacent to the United Kingdom in the Straits of Dover and in the vicinity of the Isle of Man. The 12-mile limit accords with international practice. See also The Fagernes [1927] P 311 at 319, CA, where at the court's invitation, the Attorney General stated in open court that he was instructed by the Secretary of State for Home Affairs to say that a particular spot was not within the limits to which the Crown's territorial sovereignty extended. As to the binding effect of such a statement see The Fagernes at 323, 330. In Post Office v Estuary Radio Ltd [1968] 2 QB 740 at 756, [1967] 3 All ER 663 at 682, CA, Diplock LJ said that the Convention on the Territorial Sea and the Contiguous Zone constituted a declaration by the Crown as to the area over which it would claim to exercise territorial sovereignty.

9 See INTERNATIONAL RELATIONS LAW vol 61 (2010) PARA 133.

10 Cf Coulson and Forbes Law of Waters (6th Edn, 1952) p 1. As to the continental shelf, however, see PARA 32 note 2. As to the sea bed within the 12-mile limit see PARA 32.

UPDATE

31 Meanings of 'high seas' and 'territorial waters'

NOTE 1--Sea Fisheries Regulation Act 1966 repealed: Marine and Coastal Access Act 2009 s 187, Sch 22 Pt 4 (in force in relation to Wales: SI 2010/630).

Halsbury's Laws of England/WATER AND WATERWAYS (VOLUME 100 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-452; VOLUME 101 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 453-851)/2. THE SEA AND SEASHORE/(1) THE HIGH SEAS AND TERRITORIAL WATERS/32. Rights of the Crown.

32. Rights of the Crown.

The soil of the sea between the low-water mark as shown on Admiralty charts<sup>1</sup> and extending for 12 miles is within the territorial sovereignty of the Crown<sup>2</sup>; and the soil of the bed of all channels, creeks and navigable rivers, bays and estuaries, as far up as the tide flows, is prima facie the property of the Crown<sup>3</sup>. The Crown also claims to be entitled to the mines and minerals under the soil of the seas within these limits except in respect of certain rights to coal<sup>4</sup>.

1 Convention on the Territorial Sea and the Contiguous Zone (Geneva, 29 April 1958; TS 3 (1965); Cmnd 2511) art 3; and see the Territorial Waters Order in Council 1964 (25 September 1964) (amended by SI 1998/2564) which establishes the baseline from which the breadth of the territorial sea adjacent to the United Kingdom, the Channel Islands and the Isle of Man is measured. It is generally low-water line round the coast, including the coast of all islands: Territorial Waters Order in Council 1964 art 2(1). Special provision is made by art 3, Schedule (substituted by SI 1998/2564) to deal with the configuration of Scottish islands. Where there are well-defined bays, lines not exceeding 24 miles in length, drawn across the bays, are used: see art 4. For the wide meaning of 'bay' see art 5(1); and Post Office v Estuary Radio Ltd [1968] 2 QB 740, [1967] 3 All ER 663, CA. See also the Convention on the Territorial Sea and the Contiguous Zone art 13. As to Admiralty charts as evidence see Post Office v Estuary Radio Ltd. As to the extent of the territorial sea and its measurement see further INTERNATIONAL RELATIONS LAW vol 61 (2010) PARA 123 et seq. See also the National Heritage (Territorial Waters Adjacent to England) Order 2002, SI 2002/2427; and NATIONAL CULTURAL HERITAGE vol 77 (2010) PARA 804.

2 See PARA 31. Some states also claim exclusive sovereign rights over the 'continental shelf', ie the sea bed and subsoil of submarine areas adjacent to the coast but outside territorial waters to a specified depth, in order to exploit the natural resources of those areas. In relation to such matters see INTERNATIONAL RELATIONS LAW vol 61 (2010) PARA 163 et seq. In general, British fishery limits extend to 200 miles from the baselines from which the breadth of the territorial sea adjacent to the United Kingdom, the Channel Islands and the Isle of Man is measured (Fishery Limits Act 1976 s 1(1)); though they may be varied by Order in Council (s 1(2)) and are subject to median lines with other states (s 1(3)). See further the Fishery Limits Order 1999, SI 1999/1741; and AGRICULTURE AND FISHERIES vol 1(2) (2007 Reissue) PARA 961. As to the meaning of 'United Kingdom' see PARA 22 note 5.

3 According to R v Keyn (1876) 2 Ex D 63 at 199 et seq, CCR, per Cockburn LCJ, the soil of the sea outside the body of a county and within the then 3-mile limit was not prima facie vested in the Crown, as was the case of the bed and foreshore within the county, and has never been so vested, except in the case of the bed of the sea off the coast of Cornwall by the Cornwall Submarine Mines Act 1858 (see s 2 (repealed)). On the other hand, there are dicta of judges to the contrary in A-G v Chambers (1854) 4 De GM & G 206 at 213; Gammell v Woods and Forests Comrs (1859) 3 Macq 419, HL; Gann v Whitstable Free Fishers (1865) 11 HL Cas 192; Lord Advocate v Wemyss [1900] AC 48 at 66, HL; Lord Fitzhardinge v Purcell [1908] 2 Ch 139 at 166; and Denaby and Cadeby Main Collieries Ltd v Anson [1911] 1 KB 171, CA. In A-G for British Columbia v A-G for Canada [1914] AC 153, PC, the Privy Council refused to consider the question whether the shore below low-water mark to within 3 miles of the coast belonged to the Crown on the ground that it was not a question belonging to municipal law alone, and that it was not desirable that any municipal tribunal should pronounce upon it. As to the law relating to bays see note 1. As to the Crown's right to remove an obstruction in territorial waters see The Putbus [1969] P 136 at 155, [1969] 2 All ER 676 at 683, CA, per Phillimore LJ. For certain purposes such as police, customs, public health and fisheries, a state may exercise jurisdiction beyond its generally accepted limits of territorial waters: see Croft v Dunphy [1933] AC 156 at 162, PC. As to the right of the Crown to the foreshore see PARA 38. ### 33. Grants to subjects.

The Crown can grant, and in many cases has granted, the soil below the ordinary low-water mark to subjects, but without prejudice to the public right of navigation and fishing and rights ancillary thereto<sup>1</sup>.

A subject may, by usage and prescription, acquire a title to so much of the soil below low-water mark as he may reasonably possess<sup>2</sup>.

By grants made before Magna Carta the public right of fishing may have been annulled: see Lord Fitzhardinge v Purcell [1908] 2 Ch 139; A-G for British Columbia v A-G for Canada [1914] AC 153 at 170-171, PC; and AGRICULTURE AND FISHERIES vol 1(2) (2007 Reissue) PARA 797 et seq. It is not improbable that in former times the foreshore was considered to extend to the low-water mark of spring tides, for in manors to which a several fishery by fixed engines was parcel the fishing engines were not infrequently placed below the low-water mark of ordinary tides: see Hale's De Jure Maris c 5 (Hargrave's Law Tracts 21-22), quoting Magna Carta and various statutes for the removal of weirs as showing that it was possible for a subject to own the soil below low-water mark even on the sea coast. Land below low-water mark is not part of the United Kingdom for the purpose of determining the seaward limit of fishing: Stephens v Snell (1954) Times, 5 June.

2 I.e. a place in the sea between certain points, or a particular part contiguous to the shore, or a port or creek or arm of the sea, known as a 'districtus maris': see Hale's De Jure Maris c 6 (Hargrave's Law Tracts 31-33). For instances see Gann v Whitstable Free Fishers (1865) 11 HL Cas 192; Foreman v Free Fishers and Dredgers of Whitstable (1869) LR 4 HL 266; and the cases cited in Hale's De Jure Maris c 5 (Hargrave's Law Tracts 21-22).

(2) THE SEASHORE

(i) In general

34. Extent of the seashore.

The seashore<sup>1</sup>, foreshore<sup>2</sup> or sea beach (these are generally synonymous terms<sup>3</sup>) is that portion of the realm of England which lies between the high-water mark of medium high tides and low-water mark<sup>4</sup>, but it has been said that all that lies to the landward of high-water mark and is in apparent continuity with the beach at high-water mark will normally form part of the beach<sup>5</sup>. It has also been held that 'foreshore' means the whole of the shore that is from time to time exposed by the receding tide<sup>6</sup>. For oil taxation purposes the shoreline is the high-water mark<sup>7</sup>.

1 As to the meaning of 'seashore' in the Coast Protection Act 1949 see PARA 505 note 9. In the Sea Fisheries (Shellfish) Act 1967 'seashore' means any portion of the shore and bed of the sea, or of an estuary or tidal river, above or below, or partly above and partly below, low-water mark and waters adjacent to England and Wales to, or that part of the Scottish zone within, a distance of 6 nautical miles measured from the baselines from which the breadth of the territorial sea is measured: s 1(1), (1A) (s 1 amended by the Fishery Limits Act 1976 s 9(1), Sch 2 para 15; the Sea Fisheries (Shellfish) Act 1967 s 1(1) amended, and s 1(1A) added, by SI 1999/1820).

2 In the Limitation Act 1980 and in the Land Registration Act 2002, 'foreshore' means the shore and bed of the sea and any tidal water, below the line of the medium high tide between the spring tides and the neap tides (Limitation Act 1980 Sch 1 para 11(3); Land Registration Act 2002 Sch 6 para 13(3)); and in the Salmon and Freshwater Fisheries Act 1975 'foreshore' includes the shore and bed of the sea and of every channel, creek, bay and estuary, and of every navigable river as far up it as the tide flows (s 41(1)).

3 Mellor v Walmesley [1905] 2 Ch 164, CA; Government of the State of Penang v Beng Hong Oon [1972] AC 425 at 437-439, [1971] 3 All ER 1163 at 1172-1173, PC, per Lord Cross of Chelsea. See, however, the Public Health Acts Amendment Act 1907 s 82 in which 'the seashore' appears to include the foreshore and seashore above high-water mark; and PARA 51. There is no definition of 'seashore' in the Public Health Acts Amendment Act 1907, but s 82 appears to be a public enactment of a clause which has constantly been inserted in local Acts for town improvements, in which Acts the seashore was defined according to the desire of the promoters: see eg the Clacton Improvement Act 1905 s 3 (repealed); and the Formby Urban District Council Act 1905 s 20 (repealed).

That it may be difficult to describe the foreshore with certainty was recognised in R v Dyfed County Council, ex p Manson (18 February 1994, unreported) approving the approach in Anderson v Alnwick District Council (above).

7 See the Finance Act 1986 s 108(3); and OIL AND GAS TAXATION vol 78 (2010) PARA 301. This is subject to special provisions relating to bays: see s 108(4). Where it is necessary to establish the high-water line at any place, it is taken to be the line which, on the current Admiralty chart showing that place, is depicted as 'the coastline': s 108(5).

35. Landward and seaward limits.

The landward limit of the foreshore is the high-water mark of ordinary tides, which is the line of the medium tide between the spring and the neap tides throughout the year<sup>1</sup>, that is, the point on the shore which is, about four days in every week, reached and covered with the tides<sup>2</sup>, although it has been held that it does not matter if from time to time certain areas dry out<sup>3</sup>.

The seaward limit of the foreshore is usually taken to be the low-water mark of such tides<sup>4</sup>.

36. Courts having jurisdiction in relation to the foreshore.

Foreshore on the sea coast when uncovered by the tide and foreshore on an arm of the sea which is within the body of a county<sup>1</sup> has always been within the jurisdiction of the criminal courts<sup>2</sup>. Foreshore on the sea coast, when covered with water, was formerly within the jurisdiction of the Admiralty<sup>3</sup>, but power to try crimes which were subject to that jurisdiction has now been conferred on the Crown Court<sup>4</sup>.

It appears that low-water mark is the limit of a coroner's jurisdiction<sup>5</sup>.

1 The test whether an arm of the sea is within the body of a county is said to be whether a man on one shore can see what is done on the other: 4 Co Inst 140-141; Hale's De Jure Maris c 4 (Hargrave's Law Tracts 10); 2 Hawk PC c 9 s 14; 2 East PC 804; Leigh v Burley (1609) Owen 122; The Public Opinion (1832) 2 Hag Adm 398; R v Forty-nine Casks of Brandy (1836) 3 Hag Adm 257; R v Cunningham (1859) 28 LJMC 66. ### 36 Courts having jurisdiction in relation to the foreshore

NOTE 4--Supreme Court Act 1981 now cited as Senior Courts Act 1981: Constitutional Reform Act 2005 Sch 11 para 1 (in force 1 October 2009: SI 2009/1604).

Halsbury's Laws of England/WATER AND WATERWAYS (VOLUME 100 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-452; VOLUME 101 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 453-851)/2. THE SEA AND SEASHORE/(2) THE SEASHORE/(i) In general/37. Local government boundaries and the foreshore.

37. Local government boundaries and the foreshore.

At common law, because foreshore, whether on the sea coast or on a tidal river, prima facie belongs to the Crown<sup>1</sup> it is prima facie extra-parochial<sup>2</sup>, but it may be shown to be within a parish, although the burden of proving this lies on whoever asserts it<sup>3</sup>.

By statute, however, accretion from the sea, whether natural or artificial, and any part of the seashore to the low-water mark, which was not immediately before 26 October 1972 part of a parish, is in England<sup>4</sup> annexed to and incorporated with the parish or parishes adjoining the relevant accretion or part of the seashore<sup>5</sup>. In turn, every accretion from the sea or part of the seashore which is thus annexed to and incorporated with a parish is annexed to and incorporated with the district and county in which that parish is situated<sup>6</sup>. Likewise, in Wales<sup>7</sup> every such accretion from the sea is annexed to and incorporated with the community or communities which the accretion or part of the sea-shore adjoins<sup>8</sup>; and every accretion so annexed or incorporated is annexed to and incorporated with the principal area and the preserved county in which that community is situated<sup>9</sup>.

See, however, R v Landulph Inhabitants (1834) 1 Mood & R 393; MacCannon v Sinclair (1859) 2 E & E 53 (where land above the high-water mark of medium tides was held to be within the parish); R v Gee (1860) 1 E & E 1068.

4 As to the meaning of 'England' see PARA 19 note 8.

5 See the Local Government Act 1972 s 72(1)(a). This does not apply to structures below low-water mark, which are outside the realm (Blackpool Pier Co and South Blackpool Jetty v Fylde Union Assessment Committee and Layton with Warbreck Township Overseers (1877) 46 LJMC 189), but does apply to reclaimed land (Barwick v South Eastern and Chatham Rly Cos [1921] 1 KB 187, CA). In England, in so far as the whole or part of any such accretion from the sea or part of the seashore as is mentioned in the text does not adjoin a parish, it is to be annexed to and incorporated with the district which it adjoins or, if it adjoins more than one district, with those districts in proportion to the extent of the common boundary, and every such accretion or part of the seashore which is so annexed to and incorporated with a district is annexed to and incorporated with the county in which that district is situated: Local Government Act 1972 s 72(3). ### 38. Ownership of the foreshore.

Ownership of the foreshore, the establishment of title and the extent of the grant are all discussed in detail elsewhere in this work<sup>1</sup>. Where land is granted with a water boundary, the grantee's title extends to that land as added to or detracted from by accretion or diluvion<sup>2</sup>.

The management of Crown foreshore is vested in the Crown Estate Commissioners<sup>3</sup>. Other bodies may, however, exercise authority over it<sup>4</sup>.

Easements of all kinds may be acquired over the foreshore in exactly the same way as they may be acquired over any other land, provided that they do not interfere with public rights over the foreshore<sup>5</sup>. When the act relied on is an interference with the soil, such as the erecting of groynes to protect the adjoining land, it is questionable whether such interference amounts only to an easement, or to an act of possession and ownership of the soil<sup>6</sup>.

The Land Registration Act 2002 introduced a new procedure for the registration of title to demesne land<sup>7</sup>, anticipated to be of particular significance in relation to registration of the Crown's title to the foreshore<sup>8</sup>. This procedure is discussed elsewhere in this work<sup>9</sup>.

(ii) Accretion, Alluvion and Dereliction

39. Meanings of 'accretion', 'alluvion' and 'dereliction'.

The doctrine which is conveniently called 'the doctrine of accretion' recognises the fact that where land is bounded by water, the forces of nature are likely to cause changes in the boundary between the land and the water<sup>1</sup>.

'Accretion' means the gradual and imperceptible<sup>2</sup> receding of the sea or inland water, and 'alluvion' means the gradual and imperceptible deposit of matter on the foreshore. Both lead to an addition to the land or foreshore.

'Dereliction' means the gradual and imperceptible encroachment of water onto land causing a reduction in the surface area of the foreshore<sup>3</sup>.

1 Southern Centre of Theosophy Inc v State of South Australia [1982] AC 706, [1982] 1 All ER 283, PC.

2 'Imperceptible' means imperceptible in its progress, not imperceptible after a length of time; it means that the increase in the area of dry land cannot be seen as it occurs, not that it could not be later observed to have in fact occurred: R v Lord Yarborough (1824) 3 B & C 91 at 107 (affd sub nom Gifford v Lord Yarborough (1828) 5 Bing 163, HL); Ford v Lacy (1861) 7 H & N 151; Foster v Wright (1878) 4 CPD 438; Government of the State of Penang v Beng Hong Oon [1972] AC 425, [1971] 3 All ER 1163, PC.

40. Effect of accretion, alluvion and dereliction.

The presumption of law is that where land or foreshore is subject to accretion or alluvion and the added land is above high-water mark, the addition belongs to the owner of the dry land to which it is added, and if the added land is above the low-water mark it belongs to the owner of the foreshore<sup>1</sup>. Evidence can be adduced to rebut this presumption, but that evidence must be strong<sup>2</sup>.

Where the opposite process, dereliction, takes place and the tidal water gradually and imperceptibly<sup>3</sup> encroaches upon land which was formerly situated above high-water mark, that land becomes the property of the owner of the foreshore and the ownership of land which was formerly part of the foreshore passes to the owner of the bed of the tidal water<sup>4</sup>.

1 Anon (1573) 3 Dyer 326b; R v Lord Yarborough (1824) 3 B & C 91 (affd sub nom Gifford v Lord Yarborough (1828) 5 Bing 163, HL). In a dispute between a riparian owner and the Crown as to an accretion, the burden of proving the former position of the high-water mark is on the Crown if the riparian owner admits the Crown's title to the foreshore: A-G v Chamberlaine (1858) 4 K & J 292; A-G v M'Carthy [1911] 2 IR 260. The rule as to accretion applies to all riparian land, even if it has been scheduled or its measurements specified in title deeds: A-G of Southern Nigeria v John Holt & Co (Liverpool) Ltd [1915] AC 599, PC.

41. Basis of the doctrine of accretion.

The old basis of the doctrine of accretion was thought to be that from day to day, week to week and month to month a person cannot see where his old boundary was<sup>1</sup>, and that that which cannot be perceived in its progress is taken to be as if it had never existed<sup>2</sup>. A more realistic view is that the doctrine is required for the protection of property and recognises the fact that a riparian owner may lose as well as gain from changes in the water boundary or level; but whatever is the true explanation of the doctrine, what is certain is that it requires a distinction to be made between such progression as may justly be considered to belong to the riparian owner and such large changes or avulsions as should more properly be allocated to his neighbour<sup>3</sup>.

42. Sudden changes.

Where the change of boundary between the land and the water is not slow and imperceptible<sup>1</sup> but sudden<sup>2</sup> or as a result of deliberate artificial reclamation<sup>3</sup>, the presumptions as to ownership<sup>4</sup> do not apply and the change causes no change in the ownership of the land<sup>5</sup>.

43. Extent of the doctrine of accretion.

The doctrine of accretion applies equally to the property of the Crown or a subject<sup>1</sup>. It applies whether the change is caused by natural means or artificial means lawfully employed<sup>2</sup>, provided the change is not the direct result of deliberate reclamation<sup>3</sup>. So long as the change is gradual and imperceptible<sup>4</sup>, the doctrine applies, even though the former boundaries of the land concerned were defined or ascertainable<sup>5</sup>.

See also Doe d Seebkristo v East India Co (1856) 10 Moo PCC 140 at 158. The doctrine will apply to property scheduled or with measurements specified in the title deeds but in fact abutting on the foreshore: A-G of Southern Nigeria v John Holt & Co (Liverpool) Ltd [1915] AC 599, PC. See also BOUNDARIES vol 4(1) (2002 Reissue) PARA 926.

Formerly some doubt existed on this point (see A-G v Chambers, A-G v Rees (1859) 4 De G & J 55 at 70 et seq per Lord Chelmsford, and Hindson v Ashby [1896] 2 Ch 1, CA), but in Brighton and Hove General Gas Co v Hove Bungalows Ltd [1924] 1 Ch 372 at 393, Romer J pointed out that Gifford v Lord Yarborough (which had not been brought to the notice of Lord Chelmsford in A-G v Chambers, A-G v Rees) had decided that the doctrine of accretion applied to land left dry which abutted on land the former boundary of which (a sea wall) was well known and readily ascertained. In Foster v Wright (1878) 4 CPD 438 the fact that changes in the course of a river had been marked from time to time on a map was held not to be sufficient to prevent the application of the doctrine. #### 44. Effect of accretion on character of land.

Where land accretes<sup>1</sup> to land it acquires the legal characteristics of the land to which it is added. Thus, if it accretes to freehold it becomes freehold, and if to land subject to customary rights, it is equally liable to them<sup>2</sup>. The same rule applies to the question of jurisdiction; thus, where a town is declared to be bounded by the high-water mark, the town will extend to that mark wherever it may happen to be from time to time<sup>3</sup>.

45. Effect on public rights.

The rights of the public over the foreshore<sup>1</sup>, of fishing and of navigation are affected by accretion, alluvion or dereliction to the extent that those rights follow the foreshore wherever it may be at any material time<sup>2</sup>.

(iii) Passage and Bathing

46. Extent of the right of passage.

The public has no right of passing along or across the foreshore<sup>1</sup>, except in the exercise of the rights of navigation or fishery<sup>2</sup>, or in respect of a lawfully dedicated right of way from one place to another over the foreshore<sup>3</sup>; there is no right of stray or of recreation there, and no right to go across the foreshore for the purpose of getting to or from boats, except by such places only as usage or necessity has appropriated for that purpose<sup>4</sup>. A public right to wander about at will<sup>5</sup> is a right unknown to English common law<sup>6</sup>; but the statutory right for members of the public to enter and remain on any access land<sup>7</sup> for the purposes of open-air recreation<sup>8</sup> may be extended, by order made by the Secretary of State, as respects England<sup>9</sup>, or by the Welsh Ministers, as respects Wales<sup>10</sup>, so as to include such a right in relation to coastal land or to coastal land of any description<sup>11</sup>.

There is no general right of loading or unloading, landing or embarking at pleasure upon any part of the seashore or land adjoining it except in case of peril or necessity<sup>12</sup>.

1 As to the foreshore see PARA 34. The foreshore was not a street, highway or public place within the definition of 'street' contained in former legislation relating to gas: see Maddock v Wallasey Local Board (1886) 55 LJQB 267. 7 'Access land' means any land which: (1) is shown as open country on a map in conclusive form issued by the appropriate countryside body for the purposes of the Countryside and Rights of Way Act 2000 Pt I (ss 1-46); (2) is shown on such a map as registered common land; (3) is registered common land in any area outside Inner London for which no such map relating to registered common land has been issued; (4) is situated more than 600 metres above sea level in any area for which no such map relating to open country has been issued; or (5) is dedicated for the purposes of Pt I under s 16, but does not (in any of those cases) include excepted land or land which is treated by s 15(1) as being accessible to the public apart from the 2000 Act: see s 1(1); and OPEN SPACES AND COUNTRYSIDE vol 78 (2010) PARA 580.

47. Rights of inhabitants.

By immemorial custom the inhabitants of a parish or the fishermen of a village may have acquired rights akin to easements<sup>1</sup> over the foreshore or land adjacent to it<sup>2</sup>. Although the public has no such right, the court is reluctant to assist by injunction the owner of the foreshore in restraining acts which in themselves cause no injury to him<sup>3</sup>.

1 It is perhaps best to describe such local customary rights as quasi-easements rather than as easements in the strict sense: see CUSTOM AND USAGE vol 12(1) (Reissue) PARA 629; EASEMENTS AND PROFITS A PRENDRE vol 16(2) (Reissue) PARA 41.

Where fishermen have an immemorial right to beach boats on land adjoining a harbour, and a local Act authorises an annual payment for the privilege, the owner of the land must either permit the use or provide other land equally suitable for the purpose: Aiton v Stephen (1876) 1 App Cas 456, HL. #### 48. Prevention of smuggling.

The person in command or charge of any vessel<sup>1</sup> in the service of Her Majesty which is engaged in the prevention of smuggling: (1) may haul up and leave that vessel on part of the coast or of the shore or bank of any river or creek<sup>2</sup>; and (2) may moor that vessel at any place below high-water mark on any part of the coast or of any such shore or bank<sup>3</sup>. Any officer<sup>4</sup> and any person<sup>5</sup> acting in aid of an officer or otherwise duly engaged in preventing smuggling may for that purpose patrol upon and pass freely along and over any part of the coast or of the shore or bank of any river or creek<sup>6</sup>.

1 'Vessel' includes any boat or other vessel whatsoever, including any hovercraft: see the Customs and Excise Management Act 1979 ss 1(1), 2(1).

49. Right to bathe.

There is no common law right for the public to use the foreshore<sup>1</sup> for the purpose of bathing; and as there is no such right to bathe in the sea, the public may not cross the foreshore for that purpose<sup>2</sup>, whether the foreshore is the property of the Crown or of a private person<sup>3</sup>. However, a right to use the foreshore for bathing may be gained by custom or prescription either by the permanent or temporary inhabitants of a village, parish or district<sup>4</sup>.

The quality of bathing water must conform to prescribed standards<sup>5</sup>.

It found ample authority for a public right of navigation, which is for the general benefit of all the kingdom, and for the right of fishing, which tends to the sustenance and beneficial employment of individuals, 'but it does not thence follow that they have also the right of bathing': Blundell v Catterall at 305 per Bayley J. ## 50. Exercise of right to bathe.

The right to bathe, if it exists<sup>1</sup>, must be exercised in conformity with the general law, which forbids indecency; and it is apparently an indictable common law offence to bathe uncovered at any place where persons cannot bathe without indecent exposure<sup>2</sup>. It is no defence that as long as living memory extends there has been a usage to bathe at that particular spot<sup>3</sup>.

The object of the common law offence is to protect the public from feelings of outrage by the act complained of, and it must be questioned whether in modern times the offence upheld in R v Crunden (above) and R v Reed (above) would be sustainable.

Halsbury's Laws of England/WATER AND WATERWAYS (VOLUME 100 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-452; VOLUME 101 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 453-851)/2. THE SEA AND SEASHORE/(2) THE SEASHORE/(iii) Passage and Bathing/51. Byelaws made by local authorities.

51. Byelaws made by local authorities.

A local authority<sup>1</sup> may make byelaws to regulate public bathing<sup>2</sup>. For preventing danger, obstruction or annoyance to persons bathing in the sea or using the seashore, a local authority<sup>3</sup> may also make byelaws<sup>4</sup> regulating the speed of pleasure boats<sup>5</sup>, regulating their use to prevent their navigation in a dangerous manner or without due care and attention or without reasonable consideration for other persons<sup>6</sup>, and requiring the use of effectual silencers on pleasure boats propelled by internal combustion engines<sup>7</sup>. Where any part of the area of a local authority having these byelaw-making powers<sup>8</sup> is bounded by or is to seaward of the low-water mark, the authority may exercise the powers as respects any area of the sea outside its area and within 1,000 metres to seaward of any place where that mark is within or on the boundary of the authority's area<sup>9</sup>.

For the prevention of danger, obstruction or annoyance to persons using the seashore a local authority may make and enforce byelaws<sup>10</sup> regulating:

- 44 (1) the erection of certain structures or the placing of certain vehicles on the seashore<sup>11</sup>, the playing of games there and generally the use of the seashore for purposes prescribed by the byelaws<sup>12</sup>;
- 45 (2) its use for riding and driving<sup>13</sup>; and
- 46 (3) the selling and hawking of any article, commodity or thing there<sup>14</sup>, and providing for the preservation of good order and good conduct among persons using the seashore<sup>15</sup>. For the prevention of danger, obstruction or annoyance to persons using the esplanades or promenades within its district, a local authority may also make byelaws prescribing the nature of the traffic for which they may be used, regulating the selling and hawking of any article, commodity or thing there and for the preservation of order and good conduct among persons using them<sup>16</sup>.

The Environment Agency has similar powers to make byelaws in relation to non-tidal waters, which are discussed in a later part of this title<sup>17</sup>.

1 'Local authority' means: (1) in relation to England, the council of a district or London borough, the Common Council of the City of London, the Sub-Treasurer of the Inner Temple and the Under Treasurer of the Middle Temple; and (2) in relation to Wales, the council of a county or county borough: Public Health Act 1936 s 1(2) (substituted by the Local Government Act 1972 s 180, Sch 14 para 1; and amended by the Local Government (Wales) Act 1994 s 22(3), Sch 9 para 3(2)(b)). 3 In the Public Health Act 1961, the expression 'local authority', except where the context otherwise requires, means the council of a borough or urban district, the Common Council, the Sub-Treasurer of the Inner Temple or the Under-Treasurer of the Middle Temple, and includes the Council of the Isles of Scilly: s 2(3) (amended by the London Government Act 1963 s 40, Sch 11 para 33; Local Government Act 1972 s 272(1), Sch 30).

4 The Secretary of State or, in relation to Wales, the Welsh Ministers is the confirming authority: Public Health Act 1961 s 76(2). Any such byelaw is of no effect if and in so far as it is inconsistent with any byelaw made by any dock undertakers or any person authorised by any enactment or statutory order to construct or operate a pier: s 76(4). As to the meaning of 'person' see PARA 13 note 29. As to the power of harbour authorities to make byelaws see PORTS AND HARBOURS vol 36(1) (2007 Reissue) PARAS 687, 688. The functions of the Secretary of State under the Public Health Act 1961 s 76, the Local Government (Miscellaneous Provisions) Act 1976 s 17 (see the text to notes 8-9), and the Public Health Acts Amendment Act 1907 ss 9, 82 (see note 10), so far as exercisable in relation to Wales, were transferred to the National Assembly for Wales: see the National Assembly for Wales (Transfer of Functions) Order 1999, SI 1999/672, art 2, Sch 1. These functions are now vested in the Welsh Ministers: see the Government of Wales Act 2006 s 162(1), Sch 11 para 30. As to the Secretary of State see PARA 15 note 1. As to the Welsh Ministers see PARA 16 note 5.

Further power to make byelaws with respect to pleasure boats is conferred by the Public Health Acts Amendment Act 1890 s 44; the Public Health Acts Amendment Act 1907 s 94; and the Local Government, Planning and Land Act 1980 s 185: see PARA 684; and LOCAL GOVERNMENT vol 69 (2009) PARA 597.

9 Local Government (Miscellaneous Provisions) Act 1976 s 17(1). Any offence against byelaws made by virtue of s 17(1) may be dealt with as if committed within the authority's area: s 17(3). Before confirming any such byelaws the Secretary of State or, in relation to Wales, the Welsh Ministers (see note 4) may amend them so as to reduce the area in which they have effect if it appears that they may have effect in an area for which another authority has made or may make byelaws by virtue of s 17: s 17(2).

10 The Secretary of State is or, in relation to Wales, the Welsh Ministers (see note 4) are the confirming authority (see the Public Health Acts Amendment Act 1907 s 9), although no such byelaws affecting the foreshore below high-water mark may come into operation until the consent of the Secretary of State for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform or, in relation to Wales, the Welsh Ministers has been obtained (s 82 para (4) proviso; Secretary of State for Trade and Industry Order 1970, SI 1970/1537, art 2(1); Secretaries of State for Children, Schools and Families, for Innovation, Universities and Skills and for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform Order 2007, SI 2007/3224, art 11). As from a day to be appointed this proviso is repealed by the Local Government and Public Involvement in Health Act 2007 ss 135, 241, Sch 6 para 1, Sch 18 Pt 7. At the date at which this volume states the law no such day had been appointed.

(iv) Shooting

52. Nature of the right.

The right to shoot and take birds on the foreshore is a profit à prendre, and can only be acquired in the same way and by the same class of persons as other profits à prendre are acquired<sup>1</sup>.

As the public at large is incapable of acquiring a profit à prendre, there is no general right to shoot over the foreshore, either when the tide is in or when it is out<sup>2</sup>. The same rule applies to channels of tidal rivers and to the sea, for the public has no right to use the highway of tidal water for such a purpose<sup>3</sup>.

1 Lord Fitzhardinge v Purcell [1908] 2 Ch 139. As to profits à prendre generally see EASEMENTS AND PROFITS A PRENDRE vol 16(2) (Reissue) PARA 254 et seq. Any such right will be subject to the law relating to nature conservation and the protection of wild birds: see PARA 53.

53. Extent of the right.

Where the soil of the foreshore<sup>1</sup> is vested in the Crown and no mischief or injury is likely to arise from the exercise of a right to shoot by the public, an unnecessary and injurious restraint upon the practice would not, presumably, be enforced by the Crown as parens patriae<sup>2</sup>. Where the foreshore is vested in a private person, he is entitled to the right of shooting on it<sup>3</sup>.

Where the foreshore is parcel of a manor it forms part of the demesne land, for it is part of the waste of the manor<sup>4</sup>, and a grant of free warren<sup>5</sup> will therefore extend to and include the foreshore<sup>6</sup>.

Any right to shoot may be constrained by the operation of legislation intended to protect birds and/or their habitats<sup>7</sup>. In particular, areas classified<sup>8</sup> (or which meet the criteria for classification)<sup>9</sup> under European Community law as special protection areas must be protected from disturbances affecting the birds which may be significant having regard to the objectives of classifying such areas<sup>10</sup>. In the case of wild duck and wild geese in or over any area below high-water mark of ordinary spring tides which are not subject to special protection<sup>11</sup>, there is a close season which commences with 21 February in any year and ends with 31 August<sup>12</sup>.

5 As to free warren see COMMONS vol 13 (2009) PARA 408.

6 Grants of free warren seem invariably to have been restricted to the grantee's demesne land. It is unknown when this restriction first originated, but it appears from a commission of 5 June 1280 (enrolled on the Patent Roll 8 Edw 1 m 15d) that by reason of an ancient ordinance (now lost) the king did not grant free warren except over the demesne land of the grantee. This protection is strict: see Case C-57/89 EC Commission v Germany [1991] ECR I-883, ECJ. Even licences permitting taking of birds may not permit such disturbances; licensing provisions provided by EC Council Directive 79/409 (OJ L103, 25.04.79, p 01) art 9 do not permit derogation from art 4. #### 54. Byelaws concerning sea or shore used for defence purposes.

Where any land, the use of which can be regulated by byelaws under the military lands legislation<sup>1</sup>, abuts on any sea or tidal water, or where rifle or artillery practice is or can be carried on over any sea, tidal water or shore from any such land, byelaws may be made in relation to the sea, tidal water or shore as if it were part of the land<sup>2</sup>. Byelaws may also be made<sup>3</sup> in relation to any area of sea, tidal water or shore used or to be used for defence purposes, being an area lying wholly or partly within the limits of the territorial waters<sup>4</sup> of the United Kingdom<sup>5</sup>.

(v) Excavation and Removal of Materials

55. Ownership of gravel, stones and sand.

Gravel, stones and sand, even when washed up by the sea onto the foreshore<sup>1</sup>, are part of the freehold and therefore belong to the owner of the foreshore<sup>2</sup>, who may deal with them as he pleases and license others to do so<sup>3</sup>, provided that such acts do not amount to the removal of a natural barrier against the inroads of the sea, thereby increasing the risk of injury to the land abutting onto the foreshore<sup>4</sup>.

1 As to the foreshore see PARA 34. For a discussion of ownership of minerals on or under the sea bed below low-water mark see Earl of Lonsdale v A-G [1982] 3 All ER 579, [1981] 1 WLR 887.

56. Right to take gravel, stones and sand.

A right to take gravel, stones and sand from the foreshore is a profit à prendre, and can be successfully claimed only by the same class of persons as are able to sustain a claim to a profit à prendre from another person's land<sup>1</sup>. Consequently inhabitants of a parish or occupiers of land cannot, either by custom, prescription or grant, have a right to take sand, stones or gravel from the foreshore, whether vested in the Crown or in a subject, for the purpose of manuring their land<sup>2</sup> or repairing the highways in the parish<sup>3</sup>. At common law, highway authorities are in the same position<sup>4</sup>; however statute gives them extensive powers to take materials<sup>5</sup>.

A fluctuating body of people, such as the inhabitants of a county, cannot by custom acquire a prescriptive right in the nature of a profit à prendre to go beachcombing for seacoal washed up by the tide: Alfred F Beckett Ltd v Lyons [1967] Ch 449, [1967] 1 All ER 833, CA. As to profits à prendre generally see EASEMENTS AND PROFITS A PRENDRE vol 16(2) (Reissue) PARA 254 et seq. As to the foreshore see PARA 34.

2 Special provision is made with regard to Devon and Cornwall. All persons resident and dwelling in the counties of Devon and Cornwall may take sea sand below the full sea mark where the sand is or is cast by the sea for the bettering of their land and for the increase of corn and tillage: see 7 Jac 1 c 18 (Sea-Sand (Devon and Cornwall)) (1609) s 1. This Act (which was continued by 3 Car 1 c 5 (1627); and 16 Car 1 c 4 (1640) (both repealed)) is not declaratory of the common law (Howe v Stawell (1833) Alc & N 348 at 356; Macnamara v Higgins (1854) 4 ICLR 326), although the contrary is argued in Hall Rights and Privileges of the Subject in the Seashores of the Realm (2nd Edn, 1875) p 208. It does not in any way interfere with private rights (Calmdy v Rowe (1844) 6 CB 861 at 891 per Maule J), and is evidence that the foreshore may belong to a subject (Hale's De Jure Maris c 6 (Hargrave's Law Tracts 26)). The practice of taking sand by the residents of Devon and Cornwall recited in and legalised by this Act of 1609 has its origin in a grant by Richard, King of the Romans, allowing the inhabitants of Cornwall to take sea sand without payment, which was confirmed on 28 June 1261 by Henry III: Charter Roll 45 Hen 3 m 2 No 11, which shows that by that time the foreshore in Cornwall had ceased to belong to the Crown and had passed to the Duchy of Cornwall: see the charter of 17 March 1337 quoted in The Prince's Case (1606) 8 Co Rep 1a at 8a.

All bargemen, boatmen and all other carriers of sea sand of those counties may fetch or take sand there and land and cast it out of their boats at such places where sand is usually cast, and also carry it through the usual ways, paying the accustomed duties (ie those in force in 1609) or such reasonable compositions as by agreement with the owners of the soil may from time to time be made: see 7 Jac 1 c 18 (Sea-Sand (Devon and Cornwall)) (1609) s 2.

57. Statutory right of highway authority to take roadmending materials.

For the purpose of repairing highways maintainable by it at the public expense<sup>1</sup>, a highway authority<sup>2</sup> has statutory power:

- 47 (1) to search for, dig, get and carry away gravel, sand, stone and other materials in and from any waste or common land, including the bed of any river or brook flowing through that land<sup>3</sup>; or
- 48 (2) to gather and carry away stones lying upon any land in the non-metropolitan county, metropolitan district, London borough or the City of London within which the stones are to be used<sup>4</sup>.

In the exercise of these powers, however, the authority must not remove such quantity of stones or other materials from any sea beach as to cause damage by inundation or increased danger of encroachment by the sea<sup>5</sup>, or where removal is prohibited by order under the Coast Protection Act 1949<sup>6</sup>. There are also other limitations on the exercise of these powers<sup>7</sup>. The authority must pay compensation to persons interested in any land for any damage done to it by the carriage of the materials and, in certain cases, for the value of the materials<sup>8</sup>.

These powers may also be exercised by a person (other than the highway authority) liable to maintain a highway by reason of tenure, inclosure or prescription<sup>9</sup>.

58. Restriction on removal of materials from the seashore.

A coast protection authority<sup>1</sup> may make an order<sup>2</sup> applying a statutory restriction<sup>3</sup> on the excavation or removal of materials (other than minerals<sup>4</sup> more than the specified distance below the surface<sup>5</sup>) on, under or forming such part of the seashore<sup>6</sup> within the authority's area or lying to seaward of its area but within 3 nautical miles<sup>7</sup> of the baselines from which the breadth of the territorial sea adjacent to Great Britain is measured as may be described in the order<sup>8</sup>. The purpose of this power is to enable the authority to take steps to prevent or mitigate the consequences to the land of the action of the sea in all its moods, and the authority must act in the light of the situation as it appears to it to be<sup>9</sup>.

The effect of such an order is to render it unlawful to excavate or remove any such materials on, under or forming part of that seashore<sup>10</sup>. However, as respects the whole or a specified part of that seashore, the order may except from the restriction the carrying out of specified classes of operations either conditionally or unconditionally<sup>11</sup>. Also, subject to such conditions as the authority determines, it may grant to any person a licence, as respects any part of the seashore described in the order, to do anything which would otherwise contravene the restriction<sup>12</sup>. Any person who, without such a licence, excavates or removes any materials in contravention of the restriction, or who fails to comply with any condition of the licence, is guilty of an offence<sup>13</sup>. It is the duty of a coast protection authority to enforce these provisions as respects any portion of the seashore to which they are applied by an order made by that authority<sup>14</sup>.

1 As to the meaning of 'coast protection authority' see PARA 508.

2 For the procedure on the making of such an order see PARA 59.

3 I.e. the restriction imposed by the Coast Protection Act 1949 s 18(1): see the text to notes 9-10.

4 As to the meanings of 'materials' and 'minerals' see PARA 513 note 2.

5 The specified distance is 50 feet (15.24 metres): see the Coast Protection Act 1949 s 18(1). As to the meaning of 'surface' see PARA 535 note 9.

6 As to the meaning of 'seashore' see PARA 505 note 9.

7 'Nautical miles' means international nautical miles of 1,852 metres: Coast Protection Act 1949 s 49(1) (definition added by the Territorial Sea Act 1987 s 3(1), Sch 1 para 1(2)).

8 Coast Protection Act 1949 s 18(3) (amended by the Territorial Sea Act 1987 Sch 1 para 1(1)). As to the continuance in force of orders made under previous repealed legislation see the Coast Protection Act 1949 s 18(10). As to the baselines see the Territorial Sea Act 1987 s 1(1)(b); and PARA 31. As to the meaning of 'Great Britain' see PARA 22 note 5. An order under these provisions may require an appropriate assessment pursuant to the Habitats Directive: see PARA 11.

9 British Dredging (Services) Ltd v Secretary of State for Wales and Monmouthshire [1975] 2 All ER 845, [1975] 1 WLR 687, where it was held that it is not a prerequisite to the making of an order that the coast would be protected by making the order, or that the continuance of the extraction of materials would require the coast to be protected; it is sufficient if changes are taking place along the seashore which might be due, among other things, to the extraction.

10 See the Coast Protection Act 1949 s 18(1). This does not, however, affect the excavation or removal of any material by the Secretary of State for Transport in the exercise of his powers under Pt II (ss 34-36A) relating to the safety of navigation (see PARA 533 et seq), or the excavation or removal of materials by any other person in compliance with a notice served by that Secretary of State under Pt II: s 18(2). As to the meaning of 'person' see PARA 13 note 29. These functions of the Secretary of State for Transport are not transferred to the Welsh Ministers: see the National Assembly for Wales (Transfer of Functions) Order 1999, SI 1999/672, art 2, Sch 1. If the order so provides, the coast protection authority must consult the drainage authority particularly concerned with a specified part of the area before granting a licence relating to land in that part of the area: s 18(6). 'Drainage authority' means the Environment Agency or an internal drainage board: s 49(1) (amended by the Water Consolidation (Consequential Provisions) Act 1991 s 2, Sch 1 para 6 and by virtue of the Environment Act 1995 ss 2, 3). ## 59. Order restricting excavation or removal of materials.

Before making an order<sup>1</sup> restricting the excavation or removal of materials from the seashore, the coast protection authority<sup>2</sup> must prepare a draft order, publish notice<sup>3</sup> of its intention to make the order<sup>4</sup>; and serve<sup>5</sup> a like notice on the Environment Agency<sup>6</sup> and on any internal drainage board whose district<sup>7</sup>, and any conservancy authority, harbour authority or navigation authority<sup>8</sup> whose area, comprises land<sup>9</sup> to which the draft order relates<sup>10</sup>.

If no objection is duly made, or if all objections so made are withdrawn, and the Secretary of State or, in relation to Wales, the Welsh Ministers ('the minister')<sup>11</sup> is satisfied that the proper notices have been published, he may confirm the order with or without modifications<sup>12</sup>.

If an objection duly made is not withdrawn, the minister<sup>13</sup> must either cause a local inquiry<sup>14</sup> to be held, or afford to any person<sup>15</sup> by whom objection has been duly made and not withdrawn an opportunity of being heard by a person appointed by him for the purpose<sup>16</sup>. Where objection is duly made by any person: (1) on the ground that the order would interfere with the exercise of his functions under any other enactment<sup>17</sup>; or (2) having an interest, right or privilege conferred on him by any local or private Act, on the ground that any such interest, right or privilege of his specified in the objection would be affected by the order<sup>18</sup>, and the objection is not withdrawn, the order, if made in relation to England, is subject to special parliamentary procedure<sup>19</sup>. In any other case the minister may confirm the order with or without modifications as he may think fit having regard to the determination of any objections and to the report of any person appointed to hold an inquiry or to hear objections<sup>20</sup>.

As soon as may be after the order has been confirmed, the coast protection authority must publish notice<sup>21</sup> of the confirmation and serve notice of it on the bodies on which notice of the intention to make the order was required to be served<sup>22</sup>.

Any person aggrieved<sup>23</sup> by the order who wishes to question its validity on the ground that it is not within the powers of the Coast Protection Act 1949, or that any requirement of that Act has not been complied with, may, within six weeks after the date on which notice of the confirmation of the order is published, apply to the High Court<sup>24</sup>; and, if satisfied that the order is not within those powers or that the applicant's interests have been substantially prejudiced by any requirement of the Act not having been complied with, the court may quash the order either generally or in so far as it affects any property of the applicant<sup>25</sup>. With this exception, the order may not be questioned at any time in any proceedings whatsoever<sup>26</sup>.

60. Interim orders.

Where it appears to a coast protection authority<sup>1</sup> that by reason of emergency it is urgently necessary for the protection<sup>2</sup> of any land<sup>3</sup> that an order should be made<sup>4</sup> restricting the excavation or removal of materials from any part of the seashore<sup>5</sup> in its area or lying to seaward from it, it may make an interim order accordingly<sup>6</sup>. As soon as may be after making the order the authority must publish notice of it<sup>7</sup>, and serve<sup>8</sup> notice of it on the Environment Agency<sup>9</sup>, and on any internal drainage board whose district<sup>10</sup>, and any conservancy authority, harbour authority or navigation authority<sup>11</sup> whose area, comprises land to which the order relates<sup>12</sup>.

Any person<sup>13</sup> who objects to the interim order may serve notice of objection on the Secretary of State or, in relation to Wales, the Welsh Ministers ('the minister')<sup>14</sup>, and on the authority by whom the order was made<sup>15</sup>. After holding a local inquiry<sup>16</sup>, or affording the objector and the authority and any other persons appearing to him to be concerned an opportunity of being heard by a person appointed by him for the purpose, the minister may, if he thinks fit, revoke the order<sup>17</sup>. Subject to this, an interim order remains in force until the expiration of a period of six months<sup>18</sup> after its making and no longer<sup>19</sup>; but if before the expiration of that period an order is made and confirmed<sup>20</sup> with respect to the portion of the seashore to which the interim order applies, the interim order ceases to have effect when that order comes into operation<sup>21</sup>.

61. Seaweed.

There is no general common law right for the public to enter the foreshore for the purpose of taking seaweed<sup>1</sup>.

Seaweed cast above the high-water mark is the property of the owner of the land there<sup>2</sup>, and when cast on or growing on the foreshore it is the property of the owner of the foreshore, who can maintain a claim for wrongful interference with goods against anyone who takes it<sup>3</sup>. However, drifted and ungathered seaweed cannot be the subject of theft<sup>4</sup>. There may be an obligation to remove it if it causes a nuisance<sup>5</sup>.

The regular taking of seaweed by the owner of the foreshore or his licensees is evidence of his possession and ownership of the foreshore<sup>6</sup>. On the other hand, the taking of seaweed by the public does not displace a title to the foreshore founded on an ancient grant explained by the user of the grantee<sup>7</sup>.

Seaweed below the low-water mark belongs to the sovereign within whose territory it is situated, and the lord of a manor or a subject can only establish a title to it by a grant from the sovereign, or by such long and undisturbed enjoyment as to give him a title by prescription<sup>8</sup>.

A right to take seaweed from the foreshore may be acquired in the same way as the right to any other profit à prendre is acquired<sup>9</sup>. A grant of a right to take seaweed involves in it a grant of a way over any intervening land if it cannot be taken otherwise<sup>10</sup>.

62. Shells.

It is doubtful whether the public has any right to take the shells of sea fish left upon the seashore<sup>1</sup>. Where there is a private fishery, there is no public right to take shellfish there, such as mussels attached to rocks on the shore, for these belong to the owner of the shore<sup>2</sup>; but there may be a public right to take shellfish from the sand of the foreshore, in the absence of any private right<sup>3</sup>. Bait digging is, however, recognised as justified by the public right to fish in tidal waters, when the bait is taken by or on behalf of persons who require it for use in the exercise of that right<sup>4</sup>.

1 As to appropriated water and water in a receptacle see PARAS 66-67.

2 As to riparian rights see PARA 81 et seq. Rights in the nature of easements may be acquired by grant or prescription in addition to or in extension of the rights incident to the ownership of riparian land, and rights adverse to that land may be similarly acquired: Bealey v Shaw (1805) 6 East 208; Wright v Howard (1823) 1 Sim & St 190; Mason v Hill (1833) 5 B & Ad 1; Rolle v Whyte (1868) LR 3 QB 286; Cambridge Water Co Ltd v Eastern Counties Leather plc [1994] 2 AC 264, [1994] 1 All ER 53, HL. A claim cannot be brought for the recovery of possession of a pool or other piece of water, but only for the land covered with water: Race v Ward (above); and see EASEMENTS AND PROFITS A PRENDRE vol 16(2) (Reissue) PARA 197.

8 The decisions in Williams v Morland (1824) 2 B & C 910, and Liggins v Inge (1831) 7 Bing 682, which were actions on the case in which proof of damage was required, imported the theory that, since flowing water was of public right (ie 'publici juris'), no right to it could arise except by occupancy (ie user), and that it could be appropriated by one person to the exclusion of others. However, in so far as they bear on the view that water is of public right, these decisions were explained or disapproved in Mason v Hill (1833) 5 B & Ad 1, and in Chasemore v Richards (1859) 7 HL Cas 349 (see note 9).

9 See Embrey v Owen (1851) 6 Exch 353. It was said in Mason v Hill (1833) 5 B & Ad 1 at 24 that it seems that Roman law considered running water not a bonum vacans in which anyone might acquire a property but as public or common in this sense only, that all might drink of it or apply it to the necessary purpose of supporting life, and that no one had any property in the water itself except in that particular portion which he might have abstracted from the stream and of which he had the possession, and during the time of such possession only. See also Ewart v Belfast Guardians (1881) 9 LR Ir 172, Ir CA. In Chasemore v Richards (1859) 7 HL Cas 349 at 384, Lord Wensleydale said that the expressions used by Bayley J in Williams v Morland (1824) 2 B & C 910 and by Tindal LCJ in Liggins v Inge (1831) 7 Bing 682 (see note 8) that water flowing in a stream is of public right and the property of the first occupier are founded on a mistake between the property in the water itself and the right to have its continual flow.

65. Rights in flowing water akin to proprietary interest.

In some circumstances, a person's right to the enjoyment and use of flowing water may be such as to be akin to a proprietary interest, so that no one can claim a right against that person, for example where the water flows to a person's land and not beyond so that he may use it as he pleases without complaint by another<sup>1</sup>, or where the water does not flow beyond the land where it first rises from the earth<sup>2</sup>. Moreover, an owner of land has a right to appropriate or drain for agricultural purposes mere casual surface water<sup>3</sup>.

1 Holker v Porritt (1875) LR 10 Exch 59, Ex Ch, where the plaintiff established his right to the continuance of the flow to his land.

2 Although such water cannot be the subject of property, while it remains in the field where it issues forth nobody apart from the owner of the field has a right to appropriate it: Race v Ward (1855) 4 E & B 702 at 709 per Lord Campbell LCJ. See, however PARA 97.

66. Appropriated water.

Water which has been appropriated or taken into possession from a known and defined channel<sup>1</sup> is the subject of property, the right of property existing only during such possession<sup>2</sup>, as is also percolating water which has been appropriated, even by artificial means such as pumping<sup>3</sup>.

68. Surface water.

69. Grants of interests in water.

If and so far as a contrary intention is not expressed in it<sup>1</sup>, a conveyance<sup>2</sup> or transfer of land is deemed to include waters and watercourses appertaining or reputed to appertain to the land or any part of it, or, at the time of the conveyance, demised, occupied or enjoyed with or reputed or known as part or parcel of or appurtenant to the land or any part of it<sup>3</sup>. A grant of land can expressly reserve to the grantor the right to divest the water generally<sup>4</sup>, and may also reserve the benefit of the use of the water or a right over it, such as the right of fishing.

With regard to registration of title, the Land Registration Act 2002 applies to land covered by internal waters of the United Kingdom which are either within England or Wales, or adjacent to England or Wales and specified for the statutory purposes by order made by the Lord Chancellor<sup>5</sup>.

Where a pool<sup>6</sup> or pit of water is granted, the water passes too<sup>7</sup>, and an exception of all waters and watercourses from a lease is effective to except a well so that another lessee may obtain water from it with the lessor's permission<sup>8</sup>.

A riparian owner<sup>9</sup> may grant to another person the right to take or use running water so as to bind the grantor's estate<sup>10</sup>, but any user by a non-riparian owner, even under a grant from a riparian owner, is wrongful if it materially affects the flow of the water past the land of other people<sup>11</sup>.

For the benefit of any land of the Crown estate<sup>12</sup>, the Crown Estate Commissioners may dispose of a right or privilege over or in relation to land, without consideration or for such consideration as they think fit, where the right or privilege is to be enjoyed for: (1) the purposes of any public or local authority, or any authority or person<sup>13</sup> exercising statutory powers for the supply of water<sup>14</sup>; or (2) the construction, enlargement, improvement or maintenance of any drain, watercourse or reservoir<sup>15</sup>.

A tenant for life<sup>16</sup> may grant water rights to statutory authorities<sup>17</sup>, but such rights must not exceed those that could be created by a person absolutely entitled for his own benefit to the settled land affected<sup>18</sup>.

70. Acquisition of easements as to water.

A right to take or use water from a known and defined channel<sup>1</sup> or to obstruct its flow, may be acquired by prescription as an easement<sup>2</sup>. The natural right to the use and enjoyment of water in a known and defined channel incident to the ownership of riparian land<sup>3</sup> is defeasible only by a right which has been lawfully acquired by statute, custom, grant or prescription and to the extent only of that statute, custom, grant or prescription<sup>4</sup>. The natural drainage of percolating and undefined surface water from one piece of land to another, lower piece of land is an incident of ownership of the higher land and cannot form the subject matter of an easement<sup>5</sup>.

(2) OWNERSHIP OF THE SOIL

(i) Tidal Waters

71. Foreshore and bed.

The ownership of the foreshore and bed in tidal waters<sup>1</sup> is determined by the same rules as the ownership of the seashore<sup>2</sup>, and prima facie the soil of the foreshore and bed is vested in the Crown on the presumption that it is waste of the kingdom which has not been granted<sup>3</sup>.

Whether the foreshore and bed have become the property of a subject or, having been granted to a subject, have again become the property of the Crown by reason of succession, escheat, forfeiture or purchase, is also ascertained by the rules of law relating to ownership of the seashore<sup>4</sup>.

If a tidal river changes its course so that a new channel is formed, even though the rights of the Crown and of the public may come into existence and be exercised over the new channel, the right to the soil under it remains in the owner; and where the river reverts to its original course, leaving the new channel dry, the soil of the new channel becomes again the exclusive property of the owner free from any rights of the Crown or the public<sup>5</sup>.

The Crown may, however, have alienated the ownership of the bed of a tidal river by a grant made prior to Magna Carta. In many instances the proprietary right of the owners of manors abutting on tidal waters which are between headlands<sup>6</sup> extends below the low-water mark, and even as far as the centre of the river opposite to such manors<sup>7</sup>. It appears that it was commonly the case in the comparatively narrow sections of tidal rivers for the grant of a riparian manor to extend to the middle of a tidal river.

The alienation by the Crown of the bed of the river would not affect the public right of navigation as the grantee would take subject to the right of the public to navigate the river<sup>8</sup>.

1 'Tidal waters' means waters which are subject to the regular ebb and flow of the ordinary highest tides, irrespective of what occurs under unusual circumstances (Reece v Miller (1882) 8 QBD 626, DC), and includes those waters not only when there is a horizontal ebb and flow but also where there is a vertical rise and fall caused by the ordinary sea tide (Calcraft v Guest (1897) cited in Moore History and Law of Fisheries (1903) p 102; West Riding of Yorkshire Rivers Board v Tadcaster RDC (1907) 97 LT 436, DC; Ingram v Percival [1969] 1 QB 548, [1968] 3 All ER 657, DC). As to navigation rights in tidal waters see PARA 689 et seq. As to the meaning of 'foreshore' see PARA 34. See also Kingsway Furniture (Dartford) Ltd v Harpglow Ltd and Kylefield Ltd [1991] Water Law 10; Ipswich Borough Council v Moore [2001] EWCA Civ 1273, [2001] All ER (D) 349 (Jul).

2 See PARA 38; and BOUNDARIES vol 4(1) (2002 Reissue) PARAS 922, 924.

3 In Reece v Miller (1882) 8 QBD 626, DC, where the question of Crown ownership was considered, it was held on the facts that although the river was navigable it was not tidal (see note 1) because it was affected only by exceptionally high tides, and accordingly there was no public right of fishing. It appears that Crown ownership was not considered in West Riding of Yorkshire Rivers Board v Tadcaster RDC (1907) 97 LT 436, DC. Various earlier authorities speak of the soil of 'tidal navigable rivers' belonging to the Crown: see A-G v Smith and Lord Berkeley (1637) Hale's de Jure Maris, cap 6 (Hargrave's Law Tracts 34); Moore History of the Foreshore and the Law Relating Thereto (3rd Edn, 1888) p 402; R v Trinity House (1662) 1 Sid 86; Bulstrode v Hall and Stephens (1663) 1 Sid 148; Hanmer v Eytton (1845) 5 LTOS 390. The expression used in R v Smith (1780) 2 Doug KB 441 was 'navigable river', but since the case concerned the tidal part of the River Thames 'tidal navigable river' was clearly intended. The expression used in Lord Advocate for Scotland v Hamilton (1852) 1 Macq 46, HL, was 'public navigable river'. In Malcomson v O'Dea (1863) 10 HL Cas 593 it was held that the soil of a navigable river 'so far as the tide flows and reflows' is prima facie vested in the Crown, and in Gann v Whitstable Free Fishers (1865) 11 HL Cas 192 'the bed of all tidal navigable rivers and of all arms of the sea' was held to be vested in the Crown.

In Murphy v Ryan (1868) IR 2 CL 143, O'Hagan J, rejecting the suggestion that the rights of the Crown, and consequently a public right of fishing, extended to the non-tidal section of a navigable river (ie upstream of where it flowed and reflowed with the tide), explained that the word 'navigable', used in the legal sense as applied to a river in which the soil prima facie belongs to the Crown, imports that the river is one in which the tide ebbs and flows, ie that 'navigable' meant 'where the tide flows and reflows', since in the common law sense of the term only those rivers were deemed navigable in which the tide ebbed and flowed (citing Kent's Commentaries 3, 412), but that the criterion of Crown ownership was not whether the waters were in fact navigable but whether they were tidal. See also Earl of Ilchester v Raishleigh (1889) 61 LT 477. Whilst, therefore, the proposition that the soil of tidal waters belongs to the Crown is in general correct and that, therefore, the ownership of the soil would be in the Crown in the case of certain waters which, although tidal (ie subject to the ebb and flow of the tide), are not navigable in the strict sense (R v Montague (1825) 4 B & C 598; Sim E Bak v Ang Yong Huat [1923] AC 429, PC: see PARA 689), it is considered that, in the case of certain waters which must be treated as tidal by reason of the cases cited in note 1 (ie where there is a vertical rise and fall), the soil would not prima facie be vested in the Crown. See also JH Bates Water and Drainage Law (1990) paras 1.09-1.14.

4 See the text to note 2. As to escheat see CROWN PROPERTY vol 12(1) (Reissue) PARA 233.

5 See Carlisle Corpn v Graham (1869) LR 4 Exch 361 at 368; and BOUNDARIES vol 4(1) (2002 Reissue) PARA 926. When the tide recedes, the owner of land bounded by tidal water has a private right of access to the sea across the foreshore: Duke of Buccleuch v Metropolitan Board of Works (1872) LR 5 HL 418.

6 Ie inter fauces terrae.

7 Thus the medium filum aquae (the middle thread of the water) is the common boundary of the River Severn, whatsoever course the river takes: Hale's de Jure Maris, cap 1 (Hargrave's Law Tracts 1); Lord Fitzhardinge v Purcell [1908] 2 Ch 139. Riparian manors extending to the midstream of tidal waters are also found in the Tyne, Tees, Trent, Ouse, Derwent, Mersey, Dee and Leven, and in such comparatively narrow rivers as the Crouch, Roach, Itchen and Helford. In the broader parts of the Thames and Humber, the manors appear to be limited to the foreshore.

The oyster ground at Whitstable is an instance of ownership of the soil below low-water mark, and not inter fauces terrae.

72. Public rights.

The public has no rights over the foreshore of a tidal<sup>1</sup> river when it is not covered by the tide, except such as are ancillary to its rights of fishing and navigation in the sea<sup>2</sup>. When the foreshore<sup>3</sup> is covered by the tide it is part of the sea, and the only rights of the public in or over it are the rights of navigation<sup>4</sup> and fishing<sup>5</sup> and rights ancillary to them<sup>6</sup>.

1 As to the meaning of 'tidal' see PARA 71 note 1.

2 See Blundell v Catterall (1821) 5 B & Ald 268; Lord Fitzhardinge v Purcell [1908] 2 Ch 139; and PARA 46 et seq.

3 As to the meaning of 'foreshore' see PARA 34.

4 The right of public navigation is a right of coming and going and of doing things incidental to that right, and in tidal water it includes the right to moor, to ground and to unload; however, the rights must be exercised reasonably, and must not be exercised in such a way as to prevent or hinder others in the exercise of their similar rights: Gann v Whitstable Free Fishers (1865) 11 HL Cas 192; Denaby and Cadeby Main Collieries Ltd v Anson [1911] 1 KB 171, CA. See generally PARA 689 et seq. Any right relating to navigation claimed over tidal waters must be incidental to the navigation of the person using it, and not a right incidental to the navigation of others; thus a claim by colliery owners of a right as members of the public permanently to moor a coal hulk in a public harbour for the supply of coal to merchant ships failed as the mooring was not incidental to the navigation of the hulk: Denaby and Cadeby Main Collieries Ltd v Anson (above).

73. Islands in tidal waters.

An island which arises in tidal waters<sup>1</sup> prima facie belongs to the Crown unless the site of the island has been granted, or belongs, to a subject, in which case the island is the property of the subject by reason of his grant or possession<sup>2</sup>.

(ii) Non-tidal Waters

74. Presumption of ownership.

By a presumption of law, and in the absence of any evidence to the contrary<sup>1</sup>, the ownership of the bed of a non-tidal river or stream belongs in equal halves to the owners of the riparian land<sup>2</sup>. This presumption that the riparian owners own the bed of the river as far as the centre line of the stream<sup>3</sup> applies whether the land is freehold, leasehold or former copyhold<sup>4</sup>, and whether the river is navigable or non-navigable<sup>5</sup>. Ownership of the whole bed of the river will be presumed from ownership of the land on both sides unless it is a tidal river<sup>6</sup>. Where the bank and the bed of the river are in separate ownership, the dividing line between bed and bank is the ordinary high-water mark of the river<sup>7</sup>.

1 As to the rebuttal of this presumption see PARA 75.

2 Lamb v Newbiggin (1844) 1 Car & Kir 549; Wishart v Wyllie (1853) 1 Macq 389, HL; Bickett v Morris (1866) LR 1 Sc & Div 47, HL; Bristow v Cormican (1878) 3 App Cas 641 at 666, HL; Micklethwait v Newlay Bridge Co (1886) 33 ChD 133, CA; Blount v Layard (1888) reported in [1891] 2 Ch 681n, CA. It was held in Menzies v Marquess of Breadalbane (1901) 4 F 55, Ct of Sess that where the river bed between the banks is divided by an island or islands into a main and subsidiary channels, the subsidiary channels being at times dry but carrying water when the river is in its ordinary state, the middle of the river (the medium filum) is the centre line of the bed (the alveus) from bank to bank, and not the centre line of the main stream. This case does not appear to have been considered in Great Torrington Commons Conservators v Moore Stevens [1904] 1 Ch 347, where it was held that where land abuts on a river and, being defined in a schedule and by reference to a map, is vested by statute in conservators, and there is an island in the river, the centre line ought to be drawn not through the island but through the stream between the conservators' land and the island.

It has been held in Scotland that the proprietor of a riparian estate may fish for salmon by rod and line from his own bank or by wading to the medium filum, and by fishing across the river as far as he can reach by normal casting or spinning: Fotheringham v Kerr or Passmore (1984) 48 P & CR 173, HL. ## 75. Rebuttal of riparian presumption.

The presumption of ownership of the bed of a non-tidal river or stream by riparian owners<sup>1</sup> refers only to the origin of title, and the right to the bed of the stream is not inseparably bound up for ever with the right to the bank; an owner may retain one and part with the other<sup>2</sup>. In rebuttal of the riparian presumption, ownership of the bed of a non-tidal river may be proved by documentary evidence of title supported by possession<sup>3</sup> or by possession sufficient to raise the presumption of a lost grant, or to give a statutory title<sup>4</sup>; but what amount of acts of possession is requisite to rebut the riparian presumption must vary according to the circumstances<sup>5</sup>. The riparian presumption may also be rebutted by proof of ownership of a private or several fishery<sup>6</sup> over the place in question<sup>7</sup>.

76. Local government boundaries on rivers.

Where a parish comes down as far as the bank of a river, there is a prima facie presumption that the parish extends to the middle of the river<sup>1</sup>, and where two parishes are separated by a river, the centre line<sup>2</sup> is the presumptive boundary between them<sup>3</sup>. The middle of the river will also be the boundary between two riparian counties in the absence of any statutory provision determining that boundary<sup>4</sup>.

Where a watercourse forming a boundary between local government areas is straightened, widened or otherwise altered under statutory powers<sup>5</sup>, the drainage board<sup>6</sup> or other persons<sup>7</sup> under whose authority the alteration is made must send notice of the alteration to the Secretary of State<sup>8</sup> or, in relation to Wales, the Welsh Ministers<sup>9</sup>, and, after consulting the Electoral Commission or the Local Government Boundary Commission for Wales, the Secretary of State or, as the case may be, the Welsh Ministers may by order alter the boundary accordingly<sup>10</sup>.

77. Accretion.

The ownership of land which has become added to the riverside is determined by the same rules of law which determine the ownership of accretions to the seashore; and the rules concerning avulsion, which is the loss of land by the action of water, apply to rivers as to the seashore<sup>1</sup>. Thus, if the accretion has been gradual and imperceptible<sup>2</sup> in the ordinary course of nature, the land belongs to the riparian owner<sup>3</sup> and the boundary correspondingly advances<sup>4</sup>, even though the original boundary can be traced by old maps<sup>5</sup> or is otherwise ascertainable<sup>6</sup>.

When, however, the accretion is due to a sudden occurrence, for example where a river separating two estates suddenly changes its course, the property in the soil does not change and the boundaries of the estates are not thereby altered<sup>7</sup>.

In Mellor v Walmesley [1905] 2 Ch 164, CA, land between medium high-water mark and that described in a conveyance was held to be an accretion subsequent to it. If land is subject to a valid legal custom, a gradual accretion to it will also be subject to the custom: Mercer v Denne [1905] 2 Ch 538, CA. It seems that the authorities cited in Hindson v Ashby [1896] 2 Ch 1, CA, to show that the doctrine of accretion does not apply where boundaries are well defined and known do not apply to land having no boundary next to flowing water except the water itself: Hindson v Ashby (above) at 13.

78. Effect of riparian grant.

A conveyance, transfer or lease of land described as abutting on or bounded by a river and made by a person who himself has the soil as far as the centre line of the stream<sup>1</sup> is presumed to include half the bed of the river even though it is not expressly referred to as part of the land conveyed or demised<sup>2</sup>. The presumption applies:

- 49 (1) even though the grant is by plan and quantity and the grantor is owner of the whole of the river bed<sup>3</sup>;
- 50 (2) where specific or scheduled measurements, or delineations or colouring on a plan attached to the conveyance or lease, do not include any part of the river<sup>4</sup>;
- 51 (3) where the river is very wide<sup>5</sup>;
- 52 (4) where the land is conveyed by Act of Parliament<sup>6</sup>; and
- 53 (5) (formerly) to the grant of a manor on its subinfeudation<sup>7</sup>.

However, the presumption does not apply in the case of an award under an Inclosure Act<sup>8</sup>, and it may be rebutted by showing:

- 54 (a) that a private or several fishery<sup>9</sup> not belonging to the grantor exists over the half of the river bed in question<sup>10</sup>;
- 55 (b) that at the time of the grant of the riparian land there was no intention on the grantor's part to part with the bed as far as the centre line<sup>11</sup>; or
- 56 (c) that the grantor did not own the bed of the river<sup>12</sup>.

79. Islands in non-tidal rivers.

Where an island arises in a non-tidal river to the soil of which the riparian owners<sup>1</sup> are entitled as far as the centre line of the stream<sup>2</sup>, the property in the island is fixed by ascertaining where the centre line would be irrespective of the island, and apportioning to the owner of the bed on each side of that line so much of the island as may lie between that line and his riparian land<sup>3</sup>. It can be said, therefore, that the ownership of an island follows the ownership of the soil before the island arose into existence but, on the other hand, the centre line is not necessarily permanent but is a movable line the position of which is capable of being changed by gradual and imperceptible changes in the course of the river, with resultant changes in the ownership of the bed and all that is on it<sup>4</sup>.

As to the meaning of 'imperceptible' see PARA 39 note 2. Where a sandbank was formed dividing the river at low water into two equal streams, a line drawn down the middle of the river at low water, taking the two channels together, should be regarded as the limit of the respective rights of the proprietors on each bank, leaving it open to the parties to try any question that might arise in the event of any subsequent change in the river bed: Wedderburn v Paterson (above) at 947. Where a sandbank was moved downstream by the force of the current so that it was mainly on one side of the centre line of the river, the rights of the riparian proprietors extended to the centre line, the sandbank being only a portion of the river bed and not affecting the proprietors' rights: Earl of Zetland v Glover Incorporation of Perth (1870) LR 2 Sc & Div 70, HL. ## 80. Lakes and pools.

The soil of lakes and pools<sup>1</sup>, even when they are so large that they might be termed inland seas, does not of common right belong to the Crown<sup>2</sup>, and, where an entire lake is surrounded by the land of a single proprietor, the presumption is that the soil belongs to that proprietor<sup>3</sup>.

Where the boundary passes along a pool it is taken to coincide with the centre line<sup>4</sup> of the pool, even if it is proved expressly to have some other direction<sup>5</sup>.

Where the land abutting on a large inland lake belongs to more than one proprietor<sup>6</sup>, it seems that the law as to the ownership of the soil of the lake is not settled<sup>7</sup>.

1 'Pool' means standing water without any current; 'pond' means a standing ditch cast by man's labour in his private grounds or for his private use to serve his household with necessary water: Callis on Sewers (4th Edn) 102-103. 'Pool' means a small body of standing water, especially, one of natural formation; 'pond' means a small body of still water of artificial formation, made either by excavating a hollow in the ground or by embanking and damming up a watercourse in a natural hollow: Oxford English Dictionary.

2 Johnston v O'Neill [1911] AC 552, HL. Whether the Crown has established title by evidence of acts in pais is a question of fact, not of law: Bristow v Cormican (1878) 3 App Cas 641, HL. However, the Crown may own the lake by forfeiture or transference: see Johnston v O'Neill (above) at 593.

3 That is the law of Scotland: see Cochrane v Earl of Minto (1815) 6 Pat App 139 at 142 per Lord Redesdale; and Mackenzie v Bankes (1878) 3 App Cas 1324 at 1338, HL, per Lord Selborne.

4 Ie medium filum.

5 Coulson and Forbes Water and Land Drainage (6th Edn) p 124, citing Phear's Rights of Water 1, and Woolrych on Waters 121.

6 In the law of Scotland, in the absence of anything to the contrary in a title, and in the absence of exclusive possession for a sufficient period, the common prima facie right of riparian proprietors on a lake is to enjoy in common those rights such as fishing, boating and shooting on the lake which cannot conveniently be enjoyed in severalty: Mackenzie v Bankes (1878) 3 App Cas 1324 at 1340-1341, HL, per Lord Blackburn.

7 It seems that when in Johnston v O'Neill [1911] AC 552 at 578, HL, Lord Macnaghten said 'In this country one and the same law applies to inland non-tidal waters whatever the size of water space may be', he was not pronouncing that the presumption of ownership up to the centre line of the water (see PARA 74) applied in the case of such waters, but was referring only to the two propositions he had earlier stated, namely (1) that the Crown is not by common right entitled to the soil of waters of an inland non-tidal lake; and (2) that no right can exist in the public to fish in the waters of such a lake. The question whether the soil of lakes belonged to the owners of the land on either side as far as the centre line was left undecided in Marshall v Ulleswater Steam Navigation Co (1863) 3 B & S 732; affd (1865) 6 B & S 570. In Cochrane v Earl of Minto (1815) 6 Pat App 139 it was held that each riparian proprietor's interest in the loch extended on the other side of his own land from the shore to the middle of the loch. Discussing the law of Scotland, Lord Selborne has suggested that the boundary line would be drawn along the middle of the lake, the soil of the lake belonging in severalty to the several riparian proprietors and the space enclosed by lines drawn from the boundaries of each property as far as the centre line of the lake being deemed appurtenant to the land of each proprietor exactly as in the case of a river: Mackenzie v Bankes (1878) 3 App Cas 1324 at 1338, HL. However, Lord Blackburn has doubted whether the rule that each proprietor is entitled as far as the centre line applies to a lake: Bristow v Cormican (1878) 3 App Cas 641 at 666, HL. In Bloomfield v Johnston (1868) IR 8 CL 68 it was held that a grant by James I of land in Ulster adjacent to a large lake and of islands in the lake did not pass to the grantee the soil covered by water adjacent to the land and to the islands as far as the centre line of the lake. Halsbury's Laws of England/WATER AND WATERWAYS (VOLUME 100 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-452; VOLUME 101 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 453-851)/3. INLAND WATERS/(3) RIPARIAN RIGHTS/(i) Rights of Access/81. Rights of access of riparian owners.

(3) RIPARIAN RIGHTS

(i) Rights of Access

81. Rights of access of riparian owners.

An owner of land abutting on water (a 'riparian owner') is entitled in the natural course of things to access and regress from that water, whether it is a tidal<sup>1</sup> or non-tidal river<sup>2</sup>, a lake<sup>3</sup> or the sea<sup>4</sup>, where it is in contact with his frontage<sup>5</sup>, provided his land is in actual daily contact with the water, either laterally or vertically<sup>6</sup>. In the case of land abutting on a tidal river or the sea, where the foreshore is left bare at low water so that there is no continuous contact between the riparian land and the water, there is sufficient contact to support a right of access, for there is actual contact for much of the day<sup>7</sup>.

If in the course of time the water recedes from the riparian land owing to natural silting up<sup>8</sup> or artificial reclamation, the riparian owner may exercise his right of access over the accreted or reclaimed land<sup>9</sup>.

1 Lyon v Fishmongers' Co (1876) 1 App Cas 662, HL. This right is applicable to every country in which the same general law of riparian rights prevails, unless excluded by some positive rule or binding authority: North Shore Rly Co v Pion (1889) 14 App Cas 612 at 620, PC. In the case of land abutting on a river, the right of access is the same whether the river is navigable or not: North Shore Rly Co v Pion (above); Tetreault v Montreal Harbour Comrs [1926] AC 299, PC.

2 Hindson v Ashby [1896] 2 Ch 1, CA.

5 Land in one occupation or ownership abutting on a river is sometimes referred to as a 'riparian tenement' and, although riparian rights will attach to a mere strip of land acquired for the purpose of obtaining such rights (Crossley & Sons Ltd v Lightowler (1867) 2 Ch App 478), the question whether a particular piece of land which extends back some distance from the water is a riparian tenement, so as to entitle the owner to riparian rights in respect of the whole of the land, is a question of fact to be determined according to the circumstances (Attwood v Llay Main Collieries Ltd [1926] Ch 444, where it was held that a strip of land half a mile long connecting industrial premises did not make the premises a riparian tenement). In addition to contact with the water, 'riparian tenement' connotes a reasonable proximity to the river bank; the proposition that every piece of land in the same occupation which includes a portion of the river bank and therefore affords access to the river is a riparian tenement is too wide: see Attwood v Llay Main Collieries Ltd (above) at 459 per Lawrence J. In A-G v Rowley Bros and Oxley (1910) 75 JP 81 it was held that land owned by the first defendants which was separated from a watercourse by a strip of land which they had conveyed to the second defendant did not abut on the watercourse.

6 North Shore Rly Co v Pion (1889) 14 App Cas 612, PC. The existence of a sea wall vested in a land drainage authority does not deprive the owner of adjoining land of his right of access: Port of London Authority v Canvey Island Comrs [1932] 1 Ch 446, CA, overruling in part Canvey Island Comrs v Preedy [1922] 1 Ch 179. Ownership of the soil of a highway does not give a right to discharge sewage from the end of the highway where it abuts on a river: Montreal City v Montreal Harbour Comrs [1926] AC 299, PC.

82. Nature and exercise of rights of access.

The right of a riparian owner<sup>1</sup> to access to the water on which his land abuts is a private and not a public right, and any interference with it is actionable without proof of special damage<sup>2</sup>. It does not depend on ownership of the bed of the river or other water<sup>3</sup>, and is wholly distinct from the public right of navigation<sup>4</sup>. In addition to his right to access to and regress from the water, he is entitled:

- 57 (1) to land or to pass over the shore or bed at all states of the water for that purpose, even if the shore or bed is not vested in him<sup>5</sup>; and
- 58 (2) to moor vessels adjacent to his land for such period as is necessary to load or unload them and, if the waters are tidal and the vessels cannot be loaded or unloaded in one tide, to keep them there until the operation is completed<sup>6</sup>; although he must not moor a vessel in such a way as to interfere with the right of access of another riparian owner or with any public right of navigation<sup>7</sup>; and he is not entitled to have any particular depth of water maintained<sup>8</sup>.

In the exercise of his right of access the riparian owner must not put down anything which disturbs the foreshore<sup>9</sup>, although if there is an erection there, such as a pier or a causeway, he, and those whom he permits to go on his land<sup>10</sup>, may use it as a means of access<sup>11</sup>.

The right of access of the riparian owner<sup>1</sup> to water on which his land abuts is exercisable by the occupier under a lease or tenancy granted by the riparian owner<sup>2</sup>, subject to any contrary intention expressed in, and to the terms of, the relevant instrument<sup>3</sup>; and is also exercisable by licensees and other persons whom the riparian owner permits to use the foreshore as a means of access to use the waters<sup>4</sup>.

84. Interference with right of access.

If the right of access is taken away as a result of works authorised by a statute which incorporates the Land Clauses Acts<sup>5</sup> the riparian owner has a right to compensation for injurious affection<sup>6</sup>.

(ii) Rights to Flow of Water

A. IN GENERAL

86. General right to continuance of flow.

A riparian owner<sup>1</sup> has as incident to his property in the riparian land a natural and proprietary right, not dependent on prescription, grant or acquiescence of the riparian owner above, but arising in the natural course of things<sup>2</sup>, to have the water in any natural channel<sup>3</sup> which is known and defined<sup>4</sup>, on which his land abuts or which passes through or under<sup>5</sup> his land, flow to him in its natural state both as regards quantity<sup>6</sup> and quality<sup>7</sup>, whether he has made use of it or not<sup>8</sup>.

Any invasion of this right causing actual damage, or calculated to found a claim which may ripen into an adverse right, entitles the party injured to the intervention of the court<sup>9</sup>, but the right is defeasible to the extent to which adverse rights have in fact been acquired by grant or prescription<sup>10</sup> or conferred by statute<sup>11</sup>.

A riparian owner also has the right to have the water go from his land without obstruction<sup>12</sup>, and he is entitled to make certain uses of the water which comes to him whilst it is on his property<sup>13</sup>. Conversely, a lower riparian owner is under an obligation to receive the natural flow of water, but he is not bound to receive foreign water brought on to the upper land and there added to the stream even if the foreign water is pure<sup>14</sup>.

87. Rights as to flow in artificial channels.

The right to water flowing to land through an artificial channel does not rest on the same principle as the right to the water of a river flowing in a natural channel<sup>1</sup>. The right to the flow of water in an artificial channel must rest on some grant or arrangement either proved or presumed from or with the owners of the land from which the water is artificially brought, or on some other legal origin<sup>2</sup>. In the case of an artificial watercourse the origin of which is unknown, however, the proper inference from the user of the water and from other circumstances may be that the channel was originally constructed upon the condition that all the riparian proprietors should have the same rights as they would have had if the stream had been a natural one<sup>3</sup>.

88. Meaning of 'known and defined channel'.

By 'known' in relation to a channel<sup>1</sup> is meant the knowledge by reasonable inference from existing and observed facts in the natural or pre-existing condition of the surface of the ground, and the word is not synonymous with 'visible', nor is it restricted to knowledge derived from exposure of the channel by excavation. 'Defined channel' means a contracted and bounded channel, even if the course of the stream may be undefined by human knowledge<sup>2</sup>. A channel may, therefore, be defined but not known<sup>3</sup>.

A stream which flows in a permanent defined channel but ceases during a considerable part of the year is a watercourse, and the owners of land on the banks are entitled to riparian rights and to have those rights protected even though they suffer no damage<sup>4</sup>.

The onus of proof is on the person claiming riparian rights, and it lies on him to show that, without opening the ground by excavation or having recourse to abstruse speculations of scientific persons, persons of ordinary powers and attainments would know, or could with reasonable diligence ascertain, that the stream when it emerges into light comes from and has flowed through a defined subterranean channel: Black v Ballymena Township Comrs (above) at 474-475 per Chatterton V-C, referred to and adopted by Luxmoore J in Bleachers' Association Ltd and Bennett and Jackson Ltd v Chapel-en-le-Frith RDC [1933] Ch 356 at 365. Halsbury's Laws of England/WATER AND WATERWAYS (VOLUME 100 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-452; VOLUME 101 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 453-851)/3. INLAND WATERS/(3) RIPARIAN RIGHTS/(ii) Rights to Flow of Water/A. IN GENERAL/89. Acquisition of additional riparian rights.

89. Acquisition of additional riparian rights.

In addition to the natural rights incidental to the ownership of riparian land<sup>1</sup>, a riparian owner may acquire a right in the nature of an easement<sup>2</sup> to the use or enjoyment of water in a known and defined natural channel<sup>3</sup>, or to obstruct<sup>4</sup> its flow or to pollute<sup>5</sup>, by grant or prescription<sup>6</sup>. Those natural rights of any riparian owner are subject to any such right or rights lawfully acquired, and thus adverse to his right, by another or others<sup>7</sup>. To maintain a claim to such an acquired right a riparian owner must either prove an express or implied grant, to himself or a predecessor in title, from the other riparian owners whose natural rights are thus adversely affected or must prove an uninterrupted enjoyment of 20 years or longer by himself and his predecessors affording conclusive presumption of a grant<sup>8</sup>.

Where water escapes<sup>9</sup> because the banks of a watercourse are not kept in repair<sup>10</sup>, the owner of the land over which the water flows does not acquire a prescriptive right to the flow<sup>11</sup>.

1 As to riparian rights generally see PARA 81 et seq.

2 As to the acquisition of easements see PARA 70. A right to enter on land to take water is an easement, and may exist by custom for the benefit of the inhabitants of a township: see Race v Ward (1855) 4 E & B 702. See also EASEMENTS AND PROFITS A PRENDRE vol 16(2) (Reissue) PARA 158.

3 As to the meaning of 'known and defined channel' see PARA 88.

4 As to statutory restrictions on the erection or alteration of any obstruction or culvert likely to affect the flow of a watercourse see PARAS 602-603.

5 In Wood v Waud (1849) 3 Exch 748 it was recognised that a riparian owner could by long enjoyment or grant acquire a right to pollute a stream so as to occasion damage to another riparian owner; but since, and to the extent to which, it is now an offence to discharge polluting matter into a stream, no prescriptive right to do so may now be acquired: see ENVIRONMENTAL QUALITY AND PUBLIC HEALTH vol 45 (2010) PARA 278. As to the right to pollute see also PARA 70 note 2.

6 A right of fishery by way of a profit à prendre may be acquired in similar fashion: see AGRICULTURE AND FISHERIES vol 1(2) (2007 Reissue) PARA 829; and EASEMENTS AND PROFITS A PRENDRE vol 16(2) (Reissue) PARA 254 et seq.

Where a right to obstruct has been acquired by a miller, he may continue the easement by keeping the mill wheel in repair and, where little damage is done because the mill wheel and waste gates are defective, it seems that the miller may repair the defects even though more water is thus penned back and greater damage is done to the adjoining land: Alder v Savill (1814) 5 Taunt 454. A licence to erect a dam at one spot will not authorise its erection at another spot so as to prevent the licensor from treating it as an obstruction: Mason v Hill (above).

8 See Wright v Howard (1823) 1 Sim & St 190; and EASEMENTS AND PROFITS A PRENDRE vol 16(2) (Reissue) PARA 206 et seq. The right must have been exercised evenly over the prescriptive period: see Wood v Waud (1849) 3 Exch 748.

90. Restrictions on exercise of additional rights.

Where a person has acquired the right to abstract water from a natural channel for a particular purpose, he may not use it for other purposes<sup>1</sup> or increase the amount which he takes. Thus, if he has acquired the right to have a pond replenished from a river, he may cleanse the pond, but he must not enlarge it so that a greater quantity of water can be taken from the river<sup>2</sup>. Similarly, if he has the right to take water by a channel of a certain size, he may not enlarge it so as to divert more water to the prejudice of another proprietor<sup>3</sup>.

91. Effect of grant of water rights to non-riparian owners.

Although a person who is not a riparian owner<sup>1</sup> may acquire by grant from a riparian owner a right to use the water of the stream<sup>2</sup>, any use by the non-riparian owner which materially affects the flow of the water by the land of other riparian owners is wrongful<sup>3</sup>. In such a case the non-riparian owner would not by reason of his grant acquire any rights as against other riparian owners<sup>4</sup>.

It was held in Nuttall v Bracewell (1866) LR 2 Exch 1 that a lessee of a mill on riparian land whose predecessor in title had acquired a right to the flow of water to the mill through a goit could recover damages from an upper riparian owner who had interfered with the flow.

92. Mills.

A riparian owner<sup>1</sup> has a right to the ordinary use of the water in a stream flowing past his land<sup>2</sup>, and may dam it up for the purpose of a mill provided he does not thereby interfere with the rights of higher or lower proprietors<sup>3</sup>. He may maintain a dam to work his mill<sup>4</sup>, may harness the water to produce power<sup>5</sup>, and may sell water power to others<sup>6</sup>. The water in a dam does not become the property of the owner of the dam; it remains the water of the stream which feeds the dam, and the owner of the dam has no exclusive right to use the whole of it<sup>7</sup>. The owner of a mill who is entitled to a flow of water to work the mill has a right of action against a person who improperly diverts or interferes with the flow<sup>8</sup>; but, if the flow has not been substantially diminished in quantity or quality, the proper remedy is an award of damages and not an injunction<sup>9</sup>.

On navigable rivers, weirs and mills which interfere with the passage of vessels are illegal unless they existed before the time of Edward I<sup>10</sup>, although an easement to erect a weir in a non-navigable river may be acquired by grant or enjoyment<sup>11</sup>.

B. QUANTITY OF WATER

93. Rights and duties as to quantity of water.

The right of a riparian owner<sup>1</sup> to the flow of water<sup>2</sup> is subject to certain qualifications with respect to the quantity of water which he is entitled to receive. The right is subject to the similar rights of other riparian owners on the same stream to the reasonable enjoyment of it, and each riparian owner has a right of action in respect of any unreasonable use of the water by another riparian owner<sup>3</sup>. A riparian owner cannot complain of a decrease in the depth of the water when the only effect of the decrease is to obstruct the public right of navigation<sup>4</sup>. Furthermore, and subject to certain statutory exceptions, no person<sup>5</sup> may abstract or impound water from any source of supply, or cause or permit any other person to do so, except in pursuance of a licence granted by the Environment Agency<sup>6</sup>.

A riparian owner must not use and apply the water so as to cause any material injury or annoyance to his neighbours opposite, above or below him, who have equal rights to the use of the water and an equal duty towards him<sup>7</sup>.

94. Extent of use for ordinary or domestic purposes.

The extent to which a riparian owner<sup>1</sup> may take and use water from a stream flowing past, through or under<sup>2</sup> his land in a known and defined channel<sup>3</sup> in lawful exercise of his riparian rights depends on the purpose for which he takes the water<sup>4</sup>.

The right of a riparian owner to the reasonable enjoyment of the stream includes the right to take water from it for all ordinary or domestic purposes<sup>5</sup> connected with the riparian tenement<sup>6</sup>, such as drinking and culinary purposes, cleaning and washing, feeding and supplying the ordinary quantity of cattle on his land<sup>7</sup>, and water power<sup>8</sup>. If the taking of water for these purposes exhausts the water in the stream altogether the lower riparian owners may not complain<sup>9</sup>. A riparian owner who does not require to take water for domestic purposes, however, may be restrained from taking the quantity he could take for those purposes and using it for other purposes<sup>10</sup>.

However, the abstraction of water from a navigable river to such an extent as to affect the right of navigation is a public nuisance: Hind v Manfield (1614) Noy 103. As to rights of navigation see PARA 689 et seq. In Medway Co v Earl of Romney (1861) 9 CBNS 575 it was decided that a canal company had sufficient proprietary interest to restrain a riparian owner from abstracting water to a greater extent than was consistent with ordinary riparian rights even though the abstraction did not impede the navigation, but whether the company could prevent an abstraction for ordinary purposes by a riparian owner was left undecided.

Certain obiter dicta in Ormerod v Todmorden Joint Stock Mill Co Ltd (1883) 11 QBD 155 at 168, CA, per Brett MR suggest that the use of water for manufacture or other extraordinary purposes could possibly be regarded as use for ordinary purposes in certain circumstances. ## 95. Extent of use for extraordinary purposes.

The right of a riparian owner<sup>1</sup> to the reasonable enjoyment of a stream includes the right to take water from the stream for extraordinary purposes<sup>2</sup>, but only subject to certain restrictions<sup>3</sup>. Thus the user must be reasonable<sup>4</sup>, the purposes for which the water is taken must be connected with the riparian tenement<sup>5</sup> and the water taken must be returned to the stream substantially undiminished in quantity and unaltered in character<sup>6</sup>.

On the basis of these principles, the taking of water for irrigation is permissible provided it is taken at such times and in such manner that the flow of the stream is not perceptibly diminished<sup>7</sup> and the water is not unduly detained in the process<sup>8</sup>, but the taking for spray irrigation of large quantities of water which evaporates either into the atmosphere or through the medium of growing crops is not permitted<sup>9</sup>. Similarly, the taking of water by a riparian owner for a tannery<sup>10</sup>, for mills or bleaching works<sup>11</sup> or for a dye works<sup>12</sup> is permissible as being for an extraordinary purpose provided the flow of the stream and its lawful use by other riparian owners is not materially affected.

However, the taking of water, from a river made navigable under statutory powers, for the supply of a mental hospital and a gaol situated up to three miles from the river, was held not to be permitted<sup>13</sup>; and the taking of water by a riparian owner to supply a town<sup>14</sup> or to fill a distant tank to provide a supply for steam locomotives<sup>15</sup>, being purposes not connected with the riparian tenement, are uses not covered by the right of a riparian owner to take water for extraordinary purposes.

If, to compensate for an appreciable quantity of water lost during its use for manufacturing purposes, the manufacturer turns into the stream before it leaves his land water obtained from other sources, this is no defence to a claim by a lower riparian owner (even if he receives the quantity to which he is entitled) for his right is to have the natural water of the stream<sup>16</sup>, and he is not bound to receive the foreign water<sup>17</sup>.

1 As to who is a riparian owner see PARA 81.

2 I.e. purposes other than ordinary purposes, as to which see PARA 94.

3 As to the statutory control of the abstraction of water see PARA 214 et seq.

4 Thus the user must not be to such an extent or of such a nature as to interfere with the rights of other riparian owners: see Miner v Gilmour (1859) 12 Moo PCC 131; Baily & Co v Clark, Son and Morland [1902] 1 Ch 649 at 655, CA; Sharp v Wilson, Rotheray & Co (1905) 93 LT 155. As to property in the water see Embrey v Owen (1851) 6 Exch 353 at 369 per Parke B. Interference with the rights of other riparian owners is actionable without proof of any special damage: Attwood v Llay Main Collieries Ltd [1926] Ch 444. See also Swan Fisheries Ltd v Holberton (December 1987, unreported), QBD, which suggests that the test of reasonableness is a function of the use by the upper owner and that by the lower owner. Thus, if the lower owner uses water for a purpose which is unusually sensitive, it might prevent him from a claim against an upper owner.

In Kensit v Great Eastern Rly Co (1884) 27 ChD 122, CA, it was held that the taking and return of water by a non-riparian owner with the permission of one riparian owner in such a way that no loss resulted or was likely to result later was not actionable by another riparian owner. This case was distinguished from Earl of Norbury v Kitchin (1866) 15 LT 501, where the act complained of could have resulted in an adverse right: see PARA 86 the text to note 9. ### C. DIVERSION OF WATER

96. Restraint and effect of diversion of water.

Unless otherwise authorised<sup>1</sup>, the diversion of water from a known and defined channel<sup>2</sup> for a non-riparian purpose, or for an extraordinary purpose<sup>3</sup> in such a manner that it is not returned substantially undiminished in quantity or unaltered in character, may be restrained without proof of special damage<sup>4</sup>.

Similarly, except as against himself, a riparian owner<sup>5</sup> who diverts water for the use of a non-riparian owner cannot confer on him any right to use the water; any use by the non-riparian owner, even under a grant from a riparian owner, is wrongful if it materially affects the flow of the water passing the land of any other riparian owner<sup>6</sup>. It is otherwise, however, if the grantor had lawfully appropriated the water to a beneficial use before supplying it to the non-riparian owner, or had a right to take a certain quantity of water from the stream and use it at his pleasure<sup>7</sup>.

A person who diverts a watercourse is liable for damage caused by the escape of water from, and due to, an inadequate or defective new channel<sup>8</sup>.

1 Eg an order under the Highways Act 1980 s 108 may authorise a highway authority to divert a navigable watercourse: see HIGHWAYS, STREETS AND BRIDGES vol 21 (2004 Reissue) PARA 879. As to drainage works improving watercourses see PARA 589.

One of the reasons for granting relief where the claimant has suffered no special damage is that such acts of abstraction, if continued long enough, would furnish the foundation of a claim of right in derogation of the right to a flow of water, and another reason is that the abstraction amounts to a confiscation of a significant proportion of the flow: see Attwood v Llay Main Collieries Ltd (above); and PARA 86. The owner of land where a spring rises from which water flows into a natural channel may be restrained by a riparian owner<sup>1</sup> on that channel from diverting the water so that it does not reach the land of the riparian owner<sup>2</sup>.

If, however, the water from a spring, pond or swamp flows over land, but not in a defined channel<sup>3</sup>, the owner of that land may appropriate the water to his own use or divert it<sup>4</sup>; and, subject to any rights granted to or acquired by other riparian owners<sup>5</sup>, an owner may do the same in the case of water flowing in an artificial channel<sup>6</sup>.

98. Culverting of watercourses.

It is not lawful within the district of any local authority<sup>1</sup> to culvert or cover any stream or watercourse except in accordance with plans and sections to be submitted to and approved by the local authority<sup>2</sup>. However, such approval may not be withheld unreasonably and if the authority, within six weeks after plans and sections have been submitted to it, fails to notify its determination to the person by whom they were submitted, the authority is deemed to have approved them<sup>3</sup>. Any question arising under this provision between a local authority and an owner as to the reasonableness of any works which the authority requires to be executed as a condition of its approval, or as to the reasonableness of its refusal to give approval, may be determined by a magistrates' court on the application of either party<sup>4</sup>.

A local authority may not require an owner, as a condition of approval, to receive upon his land, or to make provision for the passage of, a greater quantity of water than he is otherwise obliged to receive or to permit to pass, and if the owner accedes to such a request any additional cost reasonably incurred by him in complying with the request must be borne by the authority<sup>5</sup>.

99. Culverting on building land.

If a local authority<sup>1</sup> considers that any watercourse or ditch situated upon land prepared for building, or on which any land prepared for building abuts<sup>2</sup>, should be wholly or partially filled up or covered over, the authority may by notice require the owner of the land prepared for building, before any building operations are begun or while any such operations are in progress, wholly or partially to fill up the watercourse or ditch, or to substitute for it a pipe, drain or culvert with all necessary gullies and other means of conveying surface water into and through it<sup>3</sup>. Any question arising under this provision between a local authority and an owner as to the reasonableness of any works which the authority requires to be executed may be determined by a magistrates' court on the application of either party<sup>4</sup>.

1 As to the meaning of 'local authority' see PARA 51 note 1.

2 In A-G v Rowley Bros and Oxley (1910) 75 JP 81 it was held that land owned by one person and separated from a watercourse by a strip of land which that person had conveyed to someone else did not abut on the watercourse.

3 Public Health Act 1936 s 262(1). Any person who, on any land to which such a notice applies, begins or proceeds with any building operations before executing the required works is liable, on summary conviction, to a fine not exceeding level 1 on the standard scale, and to a further fine not exceeding £2 for each day on which the offence continues after conviction: ss 262(3), 296 (s 262(3) amended by the Decimal Currency Act 1969 s10(1); the Criminal Law Act 1977 s 31(5)(a), (6)(a), (9); and the Criminal Justice Act 1982 s 46(1), (4)). As to the meaning of 'person' see PARA 13 note 29. As to the standard scale see PARA 141 note 18. Nothing in this provision empowers an authority to require the execution of works upon the land of any person other than the owner of the land laid out for building, without the consent of that person, or prejudicially affects the rights of any person not being the owner of the land so laid out: Public Health Act 1936 s 262(4). ### 101. Prevention and removal of obstructions.

The bed of a stream must be preserved from all obstructions which could by reasonable possibility interfere with the rights of any of the riparian owners<sup>1</sup> or with rights of navigation<sup>2</sup>. A riparian owner is entitled to have removed any obstruction which infringes his rights without proof of actual or prospective damage<sup>3</sup>, although in certain circumstances an injunction for this purpose may not be granted or its issue may be postponed<sup>4</sup>. Where, however, a structure on the stream bed was properly placed and maintained and has become an obstruction only because an increased flow in the stream has caused erosion of the stream bed, exposing the structure, its owner is not liable for damage caused by eddying and turbulence of the water around the structure<sup>5</sup>. When an obstruction is a natural one, or is formed by long natural accumulations, it must not be removed if removal would cause injury to a lower riparian owner<sup>6</sup>.

102. Restrictions on works by riparian owners.

In general, even if a riparian owner<sup>1</sup> is the owner of half the bed of the stream<sup>2</sup>, he may not build upon the stream bed, even if no damage is or is likely to be occasioned by his works<sup>3</sup>, but he may dam up the stream for the purpose of a mill provided he does not interrupt the regular flow of the stream and thereby interfere with the use of the water by other proprietors and inflict on them a material injury<sup>4</sup>. Similarly he must not raise the level of the water as it flows by riparian land above<sup>5</sup>, or cause it to flood the land of an upper riparian owner or injure his mill<sup>6</sup>. Neither will the conversion by a riparian owner of a stream into a pond by placing a dam across it give him, as owner of the dam, an exclusive right to use the whole of the water, for he is bound to pass the water on to the lower riparian owners<sup>7</sup>. A riparian owner may not do anything to obstruct the passage of fish which is not essential to enable him to exercise his right of catching fish during their passage up the river<sup>8</sup>.

103. Remedies for infringement of rights of riparian owners.

A riparian owner<sup>1</sup> may maintain a claim for infringement of his rights, even if he has never used them<sup>2</sup>. The remedies for infringement of his rights are damages and an injunction<sup>3</sup>. However, an injunction will not necessarily be granted where an upper proprietor is obstructing a stream and there is a probability that the steps taken by him to pass on the right amount of water will be effective<sup>4</sup>. Moreover, where little actual damage is being done the issue of an injunction may be postponed to allow a riparian owner a reasonable time to find means of securing that his operations cease to infringe the rights of another riparian owner<sup>5</sup>. If an injunction is not granted, a declaration as to the rights of the parties may be made<sup>6</sup>, or a suitable undertaking may be required from the infringer<sup>7</sup>.

A riparian owner is under no duty at common law to clear the channel of a watercourse which becomes blocked by natural causes<sup>8</sup>. Equally a riparian owner may not alter the bed of the river or remove accretions or obstructions which have become embedded in the river<sup>9</sup>.

(4) SUBTERRANEAN WATER

104. Introduction.

The common law confers no rights in respect of subterranean water running in undefined or unknown channels<sup>1</sup>, except that the owner of land may sink wells in his own land and so obtain a supply of water, although another owner, by doing the same, may draw off the water from his neighbours<sup>2</sup>. In the same way, an owner of land may drain off the water in his land and so prevent it reaching the springs from which the statutory water undertakers draw their supply<sup>3</sup>. The common law rights of abstraction are now, however, subject to statutory restrictions<sup>4</sup>; and statutory provision is made for civil remedies for loss or damage due to water abstraction<sup>5</sup>.

105. Subterranean water not in a known and defined channel.

The general law as to the rights of riparian owners<sup>1</sup> does not apply to underground water flowing otherwise than in a known and defined channel<sup>2</sup>, nor to water which merely percolates or flows through the soil<sup>3</sup>. At common law, therefore, an owner of land under which there is subterranean water not in a known and defined channel has no right to the support of such water<sup>4</sup>, and his neighbour may draw off such water as he pleases<sup>5</sup>. Furthermore, water in an unknown channel or percolating water cannot be the subject of prescription or grant<sup>6</sup>, and its diversion or appropriation by one landowner may not be challenged by another, whatever the former's motive for doing so may be and however long the latter may have enjoyed the use of the water<sup>7</sup>. Thus, at common law the owner of land containing underground water which percolates or flows by unknown and undefined channels to the land of an adjoining owner may divert or appropriate it as he pleases so that none reaches the land of the adjoining owner, or so that the flow of a stream in that land is diminished in consequence of the diversion or appropriation<sup>8</sup>. Similarly, if a landowner, by drainage or other works on his own land, drains another landowner's well, the other landowner has no remedy at common law<sup>9</sup>. If in the course of draining the water from under his neighbour's land a landowner removes and appropriates soluble matter, at common law he commits no actionable wrong<sup>10</sup>, but he must not remove insoluble matter forming a support to the surface<sup>11</sup>.

The common law rights of abstraction are now, however, subject to statutory restrictions<sup>12</sup>; and statutory provision is made for civil remedies for loss or damage due to water abstraction<sup>13</sup>.

In Bleachers' Association Ltd and Bennett and Jackson Ltd v Chapel-en-le-Frith RDC [1933] Ch 356 (see PARA 107), the meanings of 'known' and 'defined' given in Black v Ballymena Township Comrs (1886) 17 LR Ir 459 (see PARA 88) were adopted and it was held that the water in question did not flow in a defined channel or that, if it did, excavations made subsequent to commencement of the action had not established that the channel was known. In the case, however, of a river like the Mole, which disappears under the ground and reappears again so that there is a terminus a quo and a terminus ad quem, the owners of land between and their riparian neighbours can fairly be presumed to know the existence and course of the stream, and the owner of the soil under which the stream flows may maintain a claim for its diversion if the diversion is made in circumstances which would have enabled him to recover if the stream had been wholly above ground: Bradford Corp v Ferrand [1902] 2 Ch 655 at 665, DC, per Farwell J, citing Dickinson v Grand Junction Canal Co (1852) 7 Exch 282, the dictum in which had previously been approved in Chasemore v Richards (1859) 7 HL Cas 349 at 374 per Lord Chelmsford.

In the case of a subterranean stream the course of which is known and defined<sup>1</sup> or which can be presumed to be known<sup>2</sup>, the rights of the landowners with regard to the flow of the water are similar to those which arise in the case of water flowing upon the surface in a defined natural course<sup>3</sup>. 107. Defined but unknown subterranean channel.

Subterranean water flowing in a defined channel<sup>1</sup> the course of which is not known and cannot be presumed to be known and which cannot be ascertained except by subsequent excavation will be looked upon as percolating water which at common law can be abstracted or diverted notwithstanding any loss or damage which may thereby be caused<sup>2</sup>. But once the course of the channel has been established by excavation, and to the extent to which its course has thus been established, it will become a channel which is both defined and known<sup>3</sup>.

4. ORGANISATION OF THE WATER INDUSTRY

(1) INTRODUCTION

108. Privatisation of the water industry.

On 1 September 1989 the functions of the ten water authorities which had been established by the Water Act 1973<sup>1</sup> were transferred to the former National Rivers Authority (the 'NRA') (now replaced by the Environment Agency)<sup>2</sup>, water undertakers and sewerage undertakers by the Water Act 1989, now consolidated in the 1991 legislation<sup>3</sup>. Water undertakers and sewerage undertakers are those companies appointed as such<sup>4</sup>. Schemes made by water authorities provided for the division of their property, rights and liabilities between their successor companies and the NRA as from the above date<sup>5</sup>. Successor companies (limited companies initially wholly owned by the Crown) were nominated<sup>6</sup>. Provision was made for the eventual dissolution of the water authorities<sup>7</sup>, and transitional provisions were also made<sup>8</sup>.

As a consequence of the vesting in accordance with such a transfer scheme of property, rights and liabilities of any water authority in that authority's successor company, that company was directed by the Secretary of State to issue securities<sup>9</sup> to him and to the limited company nominated by him<sup>10</sup> as the nominated holding company of the successor company<sup>11</sup>. As a consequence of any such issue to a nominated holding company, the holding company was to issue securities as directed by the Secretary of State either to the Treasury or to him, or to any person entitled to require the issue of the securities following their initial allotment as so directed<sup>12</sup>. The Secretary of State was not to give any such direction, however, except at a time when the company directed to issue the securities in question was wholly owned by the Crown<sup>13</sup> and he was not to exercise any power so conferred on him, or dispose of any securities issued, or of any rights to securities initially allotted, to him without the consent of the Treasury<sup>14</sup>. The Treasury or the Secretary of State was empowered at any time to acquire securities of the holding companies or rights to subscribe for any such securities<sup>15</sup>. The functions of the Treasury or, with its consent, of the Secretary of State under any of the above provisions might be exercised through nominees<sup>16</sup>. A target investment limit was set by order on the proportion of issued voting shares held by the government in each nominated holding company of a successor company<sup>17</sup>.

At any time before a successor company ceased to be wholly owned by the Crown, the Secretary of State had power to direct that specified sums were to be carried by the company to a reserve instead of being applied in any other way<sup>18</sup>. At any time when a successor company was wholly owned by the Crown, the aggregate amount outstanding in respect of the principal of the relevant borrowing<sup>19</sup> of a group to which it belonged was not to exceed a specified limit<sup>20</sup>.

Provision was made with regard to the statutory accounts of successor companies and nominated holding companies<sup>21</sup> and for their tax treatment<sup>22</sup>. The Secretary of State was given power to make payments, with the consent of the Treasury, into any superannuation fund<sup>23</sup> as he considered appropriate in respect of the actual and prospective liabilities falling from time to time to be met out of that fund to or in respect of persons, or classes of persons, who ceased to be officers or employees of a water authority or who ceased to be officers or employees of any person designated for these purposes by an order<sup>24</sup> made by the Secretary of State<sup>25</sup>.

4 See the Water Industry Act 1991 ss 6-8; and PARA 137 et seq. As to the meanings of 'water undertaker' and 'sewerage undertaker' see PARA 137 note 4. There are basically two types of water undertakers: (1) statutory water companies, which are purely water supply undertakers, most of which were established in the nineteenth century (eg Bristol Water Company, Mid Kent Water Company, Bournemouth Water Company); and (2) relevant undertakers, which are both water supply and sewerage undertakers, of which there are ten, replacing the former ten water authorities established under the Water Act 1973 (repealed). As to statutory water companies see PARA 134 et seq; as to the meaning of 'relevant undertaker' see PARA 137 note 8; and as to the former ten water authorities and the successor companies see note 6. Where a scheme under the Water Act 1989 Sch 2 was made by a water authority it did not take effect unless it was approved by the Secretary of State: see Sch 2 para 1(2). The Secretary of State might modify the scheme before approving it (Sch 2 para 1(3)) or, if the water authority failed to submit such a scheme for approval, or the Secretary of State decided not to approve a scheme submitted to him, he might himself make a scheme (see Sch 2 para 1(4)). As to modification of the scheme after it had come into force see Sch 2 para 1(5)-(7). A water authority was under a duty to provide the Secretary of State with all such information and other assistance as he might reasonably require for the purposes of, or in connection with, the exercise of any power conferred on him by Sch 2 para 1: Sch 2 para 1(8). As to transfers made by such a scheme see Sch 2 para 2; as to supplemental provisions of schemes see Sch 2 para 3; and as to duties of water authorities after the scheme came into force see Sch 2 para 4. As to the Secretary of State see PARA 15 note 1.

6 The nominated successor companies, and the relevant water authorities, were: (1) Anglian Water Services Ltd (Anglian Water Authority); (2) Northumbrian Water Ltd (Northumbrian Water Authority); (3) North West Water Ltd (North West Water Authority); (4) Severn Trent Water Ltd (Severn Trent Water Authority); (5) Southern Water Services Ltd (Southern Water Authority); (6) South West Water Services Ltd (South West Water Authority); (7) Thames Water Utilities Ltd (Thames Water Authority); (8) Dwr Cymru Cyfyngedig (Welsh Water Authority); (9) Wessex Water Services Ltd (Wessex Water Authority); and (10) Yorkshire Water Services Ltd (Yorkshire Water Authority): Water Authorities (Successor Companies) Order 1989, SI 1989/1465, art 2, Schedule. A company was regarded for the purposes of the Water Act 1989 as wholly owned by the Crown at any time when each of the issued shares was held by, or by a nominee of, the Treasury, the Secretary of State or another company which was wholly owned by the Crown: s 189(6). 'Successor company' means a company so nominated as the successor company of a water authority and, in relation to any water authority, means the company so nominated in relation to that authority; and 'water authority' means an authority established in accordance with the Water Act 1973 s 2 (repealed): Water Act 1989 s 189(1). 'The Treasury' means the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury: Interpretation Act 1978 s 5, Sch 1. As to the Treasury see CONSTITUTIONAL LAW AND HUMAN RIGHTS vol 8(2) (Reissue) PARAS 512-517.

7 The Secretary of State was, by order made before the transfer date, to nominate a company in relation to each water authority as that authority's successor company; but a company was not to be so nominated unless it was a limited company and, at the time when the order was made, was wholly owned by the Crown: Water Act 1989 s 4(2). Subject to s 4(4), each water authority continued in existence after the transfer date until such time as it was dissolved by order made by the Secretary of State: s 4(3). On the transfer date the chairman and members of each water authority ceased to hold office; and on and after that date each such authority: (1) consisted only of a chairman appointed by the Secretary of State and, if the Secretary of State thought fit, such one or more other persons as the Secretary of State might appoint as members of that authority; and (2) had only the functions which fell to be carried out by that authority under any scheme under Sch 2 with respect to that authority: s 4(4). The Secretary of State was not to make an order under s 4(3) in relation to any water authority unless he was satisfied, after consultation with the water authority and with the NRA and the water authority's successor company, that nothing further remained to be done by the water authority under any scheme under Sch 2: s 4(5). The power to make an such order was exercisable by statutory instrument and such an order was not to be amended or revoked: (a) in the case of an order under s 4(2), on or after the transfer date; or (b) in the case of an order under s 4(3), after the dissolution of the water authority to which the order related: s 4(6). As to the order made see the Water Authorities (Successor Companies) Order 1989, SI 1989/1465. See also note 11.

8 See the Water Act 1989 Sch 26. See further the Water Consolidation (Consequential Provisions) Act 1991 s 2, Sch 2.

9 For these purposes, 'securities', in relation to a company, includes shares, debentures, bonds and other securities of the company, whether or not constituting a charge on the assets of the company; 'debentures' includes debenture stock; and 'shares' includes stock: Water Act 1989 s 96. Securities required to be issued in pursuance of s 83 (see the text and notes 10-14) were to be issued or allotted at such times, and on such terms, as the Secretary of State directed (s 83(4)); and shares in a company so issued were to be of such nominal value as the Secretary of State directed and to be issued as fully paid and treated for the purposes of the application of the Companies Act 1985 in relation to that company as if they had been paid up by virtue of the payment to the company of their nominal value in cash (Water Act 1989 s 83(5)).

10 Ie by order made by statutory instrument, whether before or after the transfer date: Water Act 1989 s 83(1)(a).

11 Water Act 1989 s 83(1)(a), (b). The Secretary of State was not to make an order nominating any company as the nominated holding company of a successor company except at a time when the company so nominated was wholly owned by the Crown: s 83(3)(a). The nominated holding companies, and the relevant successor companies, in 1989 were: (1) Anglian Water plc (Anglian Water Services Ltd); (2) Welsh Water plc (Dwr Cymru Cyfyngedig); (3) Northumbrian Water Group plc (Northumbrian Water Ltd); (4) North West Water Group plc (North West Water Ltd); (5) Severn Trent plc (Severn Trent Water Ltd); (6) Southern Water plc (Southern Water Services Ltd); (7) South West Water plc (South West Water Services Ltd); (8) Thames Water plc (Thames Water Utilities Ltd); (9) Wessex Water plc (Wessex Water Services Ltd); and (10) Yorkshire Water plc (Yorkshire Water Services Ltd): Water Reorganisation (Holding Companies of Successor Companies) Order 1989, SI 1989/1531, art 2, Schedule.

12 Water Act 1989 s 83(2).

13 Water Act 1989 s 83(3)(b). The Secretary of State was empowered to provide financial assistance for holding companies while they were wholly owned by the Crown: see s 84. Provision was made for the transfer to holding companies of certain National Loans Fund debts of the successor companies: see s 85; and the Water Reorganisation (Successor Companies) (Transfer of Loans) Order 1989, SI 1989/1532 (revoked). The transferred liabilities and all liabilities of the successor companies under debentures issued in respect of the transferred liabilities are now extinguished by virtue of the Water Act 1989 s 86 and the Water Reorganisation (Nominated Holding Companies) (Extinguishment of Loans) Order 1989, SI 1989/2018.

14 Water Act 1989 s 83(6). Any dividends or other sums received by the Treasury or the Secretary of State in right of, or on the disposal of, any securities or rights acquired by virtue of s 83 were to be paid into the Consolidated Fund: s 83(7). As to the Consolidated Fund see CONSTITUTIONAL LAW AND HUMAN RIGHTS vol 8(2) (Reissue) PARA 711 et seq; PARLIAMENT vol 78 (2010) PARAS 1028-1031.

15 Water Act 1989 s 87(1). Any expenses incurred in the exercise of this power were to be paid out of money provided by Parliament: s 87(3). The Secretary of State was not to dispose of any securities so acquired without the consent of the Treasury: s 87(2). Any dividends or other sums received by the Treasury or the Secretary of State in right of, or on the disposal of, any securities or rights so acquired were to be paid into the Consolidated Fund: s 87(4).

16 See the Water Act 1989 s 88(1). However: (1) the issue in pursuance of s 83 (see the text to notes 9-14) of securities of a successor company to any nominee of the Secretary of State appointed for the purposes of s 83; (2) the issue in pursuance of s 83 or s 86 (see note 13) of securities of such a company's nominated holding company to a nominee of the Treasury or of the Secretary of State appointed for those purposes or to any person entitled to require the issue of the securities following their initial allotment to any such nominee; and (3) the acquisition by any nominee of the Treasury or the Secretary of State appointed for the purposes of s 87 (see the text to note 15) of any securities or rights thereunder, were to be in accordance with directions given from time to time by the Treasury or by the Secretary of State with Treasury consent: s 88(1)(a)-(c). Any person holding any securities or rights as such a nominee by virtue of these provisions was to hold and deal with them, or any of them, on such terms and in such manner as the Treasury, or, with its consent, the Secretary of State, directed: s 88(2).

17 See the Water Act 1989 s 89(1)-(3). As soon as he considered it expedient and in any case not later than six months after the company ceased to be wholly owned by the Crown, the Secretary of State was to fix such a limit in relation to each nominated holding company in relation to the aggregate of the shares held in it by the Treasury, the Secretary of State or any nominee of it or of him (the 'government shareholding'): s 89(1), (2). The target investment limit for the government shareholding in the company was to be expressed as a proportion of the voting rights exercisable in all circumstances at a general meeting of the company (the 'ordinary voting rights'): s 89(3). The temporary suspension of any of the ordinary voting rights was disregarded for these purposes: s 89(9). The first such limit was not to exceed, by more than 0.5% of the ordinary voting rights, the proportion of those rights in fact carried by the government shareholding in the company at the time when the order fixing the limit was made: s 89(4). From time to time, the Secretary of State may by order fix a new target investment limit for the government shareholding but any new limit must be lower than the one it replaces in relation to that company and any order previously made may be revoked only by an order fixing a new limit: s 89(5). The power to make any such order is exercisable by statutory instrument subject to annulment in pursuance of a resolution of either House of Parliament: s 89(10). For the first limit fixed by order under s 89(4) see the Water (Target Investment Limit) Order 1990, SI 1990/1083, art 2, Schedule, which sets limits varying from 1.41% in the case of South West Water plc to 2.46% in the case of Thames Water plc.

It was the duty of the Treasury and of the Secretary of State to exercise their powers under the Water Act 1989 s 87, any power to dispose of any shares held by virtue of Pt II Ch V (ss 83-96) and their power to give directions to their respective nominees so as to secure that the government shareholding in the company did not carry a proportion of the ordinary voting rights exceeding any target investment limit for the time being in force in relation to the company: s 89(6)(a). It is also their duty not to exercise any power to acquire, or to authorise any nominee to acquire, at any time on or after the fixing of the first target investment limit in relation to the company, any shares in the successor company of which the company is the nominated holding company: s 89(6)(b). Notwithstanding s 89(6), the Treasury or the Secretary of State may take up, or direct any nominee to take up, any rights for the time being available to it or him or to the nominee as an existing holder of shares or other securities of the company or by reason of the rescission of any contracts for their sale, but if, as a result, the proportion of the ordinary voting rights carried by the government shareholding in the company at any time exceeds the target investment limit for the time being in force in relation to it, it is the duty of the Treasury or of the Secretary of State to comply with s 89(6) as soon after that time as is reasonably practicable: s 89(7), (8).

Where the same document contains listing particulars for securities of two or more nominated holding companies and any person's responsibility for any information included in the document is stated in the document to be confined to its inclusion as part of the listing particulars for securities of any one of those companies, that person is not treated as responsible for that information in so far as it is stated in the document to form part of the listing particulars for securities of any other of those companies: s 90(1). 'Listing particulars' has the same meaning as in the Financial Services and Markets Act 2000 s 90(1) (see FINANCIAL SERVICES AND INSTITUTIONS vol 48 (2008) PARA 427); and 'responsible', in relation to listing particulars, has the meaning given in s 79(3) (see FINANCIAL SERVICES AND INSTITUTIONS vol 48 (2008) PARA 391); Water Act 1989 s 90(3) (amended by SI 2001/3649).

18 Water Act 1989 s 93(1). A company which had such a reserve might not apply it except in paying up unissued shares of the company to be allotted to members of the company as fully paid bonus shares: s 93(2).

19 'Relevant borrowing' means, in relation to a group to which a successor company belongs: (1) such loans made or treated as made to any company in the group, including loans treated by virtue of the issue of debentures in pursuance of the Water Act 1989 as having been made to any such company, as are not loans made or treated as made by one company belonging to the group to another such company; and (2) any sums borrowed, or treated as borrowed, by the local authorities in respect of the repayment of which, or the payment of interest on which, the successor company is required to make contributions by virtue of the transfer of any liability in accordance with a scheme under s 4(1)(b), Sch 2: s 92(5). 'Group', in relation to a successor company, means that company's nominated holding company and all of the nominated holding company's subsidiaries, including the successor company and its subsidiaries, taken together: s 92(5).

20 See the Water Act 1989 s 92(1). The specified limit was £1,400m or such greater sum, not exceeding £1,800m, as the Secretary of State might specify by order made by statutory instrument: s 92(1). Different amounts could be specified in relation to different groups, but no order was to be made unless a draft had been laid before, and approved by a resolution of, the House of Commons: s 92(2). At the date at which this volume states the law no such order had been made. If articles of association of a successor company or of its nominated holding company conferred on the Secretary of State powers exercisable with the Treasury's consent for, or in connection with, restricting the sums of money which might be borrowed or raised during any period by the group to which it belongs, those powers were exercisable in the national interest notwithstanding any rule of law and the provisions of any enactment: s 92(3). An alteration of the articles of association of a successor company or of its nominated holding company which has the effect of conferring or extending such powers is, however, to be disregarded if made at a time when the company has ceased to be wholly owned by the Crown: s 92(4).

Where any amount outstanding in respect of the principal of any relevant borrowing of a group is treated as repaid or extinguished in connection with the issue of any securities of a company belonging to that group, or would fall to be so treated, in the case of an extinguishment under s 86 (see note 13) if the Secretary of State had given a direction under s 86(3), it is deemed to continue to be outstanding for these purposes except to the extent that any amount payable by the company by reason of the issue of securities in connection with the repayment or extinguishment itself falls to be treated for these purposes as an amount outstanding in respect of the principal of any relevant borrowing of the group: s 92(6).

22 See the Water Act 1989 s 95 (amended by the Taxation of Chargeable Gains Act 1992 s 290(1), Sch 10 para 18; the Finance Act 1996 ss 105(1), 205, Sch 41 Part V(3)).

23 Is any fund maintained for the purposes of any regulations under the Superannuation Act 1972 s 7 (see SOCIAL SECURITY AND PENSIONS vol 44(2) (Reissue) PARA 875): see the Local Government Superannuation (Water) Regulations 1989, SI 1989/1462 (amended by the Environment Act 1995 s 120, Sch 22 para 233(1); SI 1995/1019; and partially revoked by virtue of SI 1997/1613).

24 The power to make such an order was exercisable by statutory instrument subject to annulment in pursuance of a resolution of either House of Parliament: Water Act 1989 s 173(2). The Secretary of State was not to make an order designating a person for these purposes unless that person appeared to him to be a person whose activities at any time before the transfer date consisted in, or were connected with, the carrying out of any function transferred by the Water Act 1989 or which corresponded to any such function or to any other function under that Act: s 173(2). In exercise of this power, the Secretary of State made the Water Reorganisation (Pensions etc) (Designated Persons) Order 1989, SI 1989/1155 (amended by SI 1989/1382). In exercise of the general power to make regulations under the Water Act 1989 s 185(2), the Secretary of State also made the Water Reorganisation (Pensions etc) Regulations 1989, SI 1989/1161 (amended by SI 1989/1381); and the Water (Pensions and Compensation) (Transfer of Liabilities) Regulations 1989, SI 1989/1939.

25 Water Act 1989 s 173(1). These powers were to be exercised so as to ensure that all such liabilities were able to be met out of the fund out of which they fell to be met: s 173(2). Any amount paid into any fund by the Secretary of State under these provisions was to be paid out of money provided by Parliament: s 173(4).

109. Establishment of the Water Services Regulation Authority.

A body corporate known as the Water Services Regulation Authority<sup>1</sup> is established for the purpose of carrying out the functions conferred on or transferred to it by the Water Industry Act 1991 or under or by virtue of any other enactment<sup>2</sup>. The functions of the Authority are to be performed on behalf of the Crown<sup>3</sup>.

The Authority consists of a chairman, and at least two other members, appointed by the Secretary of State<sup>4</sup>. The Secretary of State must consult the Welsh Ministers<sup>5</sup>, before appointing any member<sup>6</sup>, and the chairman, before appointing any other member<sup>7</sup>. Subject to the following provisions, the chairman and other members of the Authority are to hold and vacate office as such in accordance with the terms of their respective appointments<sup>8</sup>, which terms must be determined by the Secretary of State<sup>9</sup>. An appointment of a person to hold office as chairman or as one of the other members of the Authority is to be for a term not exceeding five years<sup>10</sup>. A person holding office as chairman or other member may resign that office by giving notice in writing<sup>11</sup> to the Secretary of State<sup>12</sup>, and may be removed from office by the Secretary of State on the ground of incapacity or misbehaviour<sup>13</sup>. A previous appointment as chairman or other member does not affect a person's eligibility for appointment to either office<sup>14</sup>.

The Authority must pay to its chairman and its other members such remuneration, and such travelling and other allowances, as may be determined by the Secretary of State<sup>15</sup>. It must also, if required to do so by the Secretary of State, pay such pension, allowances or gratuities as may be determined by the Secretary of State to or in respect of a person who is or has been the chairman or a member of the Authority<sup>16</sup>, or make such payments as may be so determined towards provision for the payment of a pension, allowances or gratuities to or in respect of such a person<sup>17</sup>. If the Secretary of State determines that there are special circumstances which make it right for a person ceasing to hold office as chairman or other member of the Authority to receive compensation, the Authority must pay to him a sum by way of compensation of such amount as may be determined by the Secretary of State<sup>18</sup>.

The Authority may, with the approval of the Minister for the Civil Service<sup>19</sup> as to numbers and terms and conditions of service, appoint such staff as it may determine<sup>20</sup>.

The Authority may establish committees and any of its committees may establish sub-committees<sup>21</sup>. The members of a committee of the Authority may include persons who are not members of the Authority, and the members of a sub-committee may include persons who are not members of the committee or the Authority<sup>22</sup>.

The Authority may regulate its own procedure<sup>23</sup>; and the validity of anything done by the Authority is not to be affected by a vacancy among its members or by a defect in the appointment of a member<sup>24</sup>. A document purporting to be duly executed under the seal of the Authority, or signed on its behalf, is to be received in evidence and, unless the contrary is proved, is to be taken to be so executed or signed<sup>25</sup>.

110. Functions of the Authority.

The functions of the former Director General of Water Services are transferred to the Water Services Regulation Authority<sup>1</sup>. The Authority has duties imposed on it, in conjunction with the Secretary of State<sup>2</sup> or, in certain cases, with the Welsh Ministers<sup>3</sup>, with respect to the regulation of the water industry<sup>4</sup>, and specific powers and duties with respect to water and sewerage undertakers<sup>5</sup>. The Authority shares general environmental and recreational duties with the Secretary of State or the Welsh Ministers and with every company holding an appointment as a relevant undertaker<sup>6</sup> and has power to appoint a company to be the water undertaker or sewerage undertaker for any area of England and Wales<sup>7</sup>.

The Authority must prepare, and may revise, a code of practice governing the discharge by it of its functions<sup>8</sup>. In exercising its functions the Authority must have regard to the provisions of the code<sup>9</sup>. The Authority must publish, in such manner as it considers appropriate, the code as for the time being in force<sup>10</sup>.

Anything authorised or required to be done by the Authority may be done by any member or employee of the Authority<sup>11</sup> who is authorised for that purpose by the Authority, whether generally or specially<sup>12</sup>, or by any committee of the Authority which has been so authorised<sup>13</sup>. The Authority has power to do anything which is calculated to facilitate, or is conducive or incidental to, the performance of its functions<sup>14</sup>; and this power includes the formation of advisory bodies<sup>15</sup>.

In exercising each of its functions the Authority is under a duty to consult the Consumer Council for Water<sup>16</sup>. The Authority is also under a duty to make arrangements variously with the Consumer Council for Water, the Secretary of State, the Welsh Ministers and the Environment Agency with a view to securing co-operation and the exchange of information between them, and the consistent treatment of matters which affect them<sup>17</sup>. The Authority may direct the Consumer Council for Water to supply to it such information as it may require for the purpose of exercising its functions<sup>18</sup>. The Authority may also, for the purpose of exercising its functions, require the National Consumer Council to supply it with such information as the Authority may by notice specify<sup>19</sup>; and if so required by notice, the Authority must, likewise, provide information to the National Consumer Council<sup>20</sup>.

In exercising a regulatory function<sup>21</sup>, the Authority must keep that function under review and secure that in exercising the function it does not impose burdens which it considers to be unnecessary<sup>22</sup>, or maintain burdens which it considers to have become unnecessary<sup>23</sup>. Where this duty applies to a regulatory function, the Authority must from time to time publish a statement<sup>24</sup> setting out: (1) what it proposes to do pursuant to the duty in relation to the function in the period to which the statement relates<sup>25</sup>; (2) (except in the case of the first statement published by it) what it has done pursuant to the duty in relation to the function since the previous statement published by it<sup>26</sup>; and (3) where a burden relating to the exercise of the function which has become unnecessary is maintained<sup>27</sup>, the reasons why removal of the burden would, having regard to all the circumstances, be impracticable or disproportionate<sup>28</sup>. In exercising a regulatory function, the Authority must, during a period for which such a statement is in force, have regard to that statement<sup>29</sup>.

- 21 The Regulatory Enforcement and Sanctions Act 2008 s 72 applies to the regulatory functions of the Water Services Regulation Authority (other than any function exercised under competition law, or, if exercisable in Wales, if or to the extent that it relates to a Welsh ministerial matter), and any regulatory function specified by a Minister of the Crown or the Welsh Ministers by order: see s 73(1), (2), (3)(c). A Minister of the Crown may not specify a regulatory function so far as exercisable in Wales, if or to the extent that the function relates to a Welsh ministerial matter: s 73(4)(c). The Welsh Ministers may only specify a regulatory function if or to the extent that it relates to a Welsh ministerial matter: s 73(5). Before making an order under these provisions the authority making the order must consult any person whose regulatory functions are to be specified in the order, and such other persons as the authority considers appropriate: s 73(6). An order may make such consequential, supplementary, incidental or transitional provision (including provision amending any enactment) as the authority making it considers appropriate (s 73(7)), and is to be made by statutory instrument (s 73(8)). A statutory instrument containing an order made by a Minister of the Crown may not be made unless a draft of the instrument has been laid before, and approved by resolution of, each House of Parliament: s 73(9). A statutory instrument containing an order made by the Welsh Ministers may not be made unless a draft of the instrument has been laid before, and approved by resolution of, the National Assembly for Wales: s 73(10). 'Wales' has the same meaning as in the Government of Wales Act 2006 (see PARA 16 note 2): Regulatory Enforcement and Sanctions Act 2008 s 73(11). 'Minister of the Crown' has the same meaning as in the Ministers of the Crown Act 1975 (see PARA 188 note 22): Regulatory Enforcement and Sanctions Act 2008 s 74. 'Welsh ministerial matter' means a matter in Wales (within the meaning of the Government of Wales Act 2006) in respect of which the Welsh Ministers exercise functions: Regulatory Enforcement and Sanctions Act 2008 s 74. As to the laying of documents before Parliament see PARLIAMENT vol 34 (Reissue) PARA 941. As to the laying of documents by the Welsh Ministers before the National Assembly for Wales see the Government of Wales Act 2006 s 86; and CONSTITUTIONAL LAW AND HUMAN RIGHTS. At the date at which this volume states the law no order had been made under these provisions.

'Regulatory function' means: (1) a function under any enactment of imposing requirements, restrictions or conditions, or setting standards or giving guidance, in relation to any activity; or (2) a function which relates to the securing of compliance with, or the enforcement of, requirements, restrictions, conditions, standards or guidance which under or by virtue of any enactment relate to any activity: Legislative and Regulatory Reform Act 2006 s 32(2); definition applied by the Regulatory Enforcement and Sanctions Act 2008 s 74. In this definition the references to a function: (a) include a function exercisable by or on behalf of the Crown; (b) do not include any function of conducting criminal or civil proceedings: see the Legislative and Regulatory Reform Act 2006 s 32(3); as so applied. In this definition the references to an activity include: (i) providing goods and services; and (ii) employing or offering employment to any person: s 32(4); as so applied. As to the meaning of 'enactment' see PARA 14 note 31.

23 See the Regulatory Enforcement and Sanctions Act 2008 s 72(1)(b). Section 72(1) does not require the removal of a burden which has become unnecessary where its removal would, having regard to all the circumstances, be impracticable or disproportionate: s 72(2).

24 The first such statement published by the Authority must be published as soon as reasonably practicable after 1 October 2008 (ie the commencement of the duty in the Regulatory Enforcement and Sanctions Act 2008 s 72(1): see the text to notes 21-23) in relation to the function (see s 72(4)(a)), and is to be a statement for the period of 12 months beginning with the day of its publication (see s 72(4)(b)). A subsequent such statement published by the Authority must be published during the period to which the previous statement related or as soon as reasonably practicable thereafter (see s 72(5)(a)), and must be a statement for the period of 12 months beginning with the end of the period to which the previous statement related (see s 72(5)(b)). The publication of any such statement must be in such manner as the Authority considers appropriate for bringing it to the attention of the persons likely to be affected by it: see s 72(6). As to the meaning of 'month' see PARA 23 note 10.

111. Forward work programmes.

The Water Services Regulation Authority<sup>1</sup> must, before each financial year<sup>2</sup>, publish a document (the 'forward work programme') containing a general description of the projects, other than those comprising routine activities in the exercise of its functions<sup>3</sup>, which it plans to undertake during the year<sup>4</sup>. That description must include the objectives of each project<sup>5</sup>. The forward work programme for any year must also include an estimate of the overall expenditure which the Authority expects to incur during the year in the exercise of its functions<sup>6</sup>.

Before publishing the forward work programme for any year, the Authority must give notice<sup>7</sup> containing a draft of the forward work programme<sup>8</sup> and specifying the time within which representations or objections to the proposals contained in it may be made<sup>9</sup>, and must consider any representations or objections which are duly made and not withdrawn<sup>10</sup>. The Authority must send a copy of any notice so given by it to the Consumer Council for Water<sup>11</sup>, to the Secretary of State<sup>12</sup> and to the Welsh Ministers<sup>13</sup>.

112. Annual and other reports.

The Water Services Regulation Authority<sup>1</sup> must, as soon as practicable after the end of each financial year<sup>2</sup>, make to the Secretary of State<sup>3</sup> a report (the 'annual report' for that year) on its activities during that year<sup>4</sup>, and the activities of the Competition Commission<sup>5</sup> during that year in respect of any references made by it<sup>6</sup>. The annual report for each year must include:

- 59 (1) a general survey of developments in respect of matters falling within the scope of the Authority's functions<sup>7</sup>;
- 60 (2) a report on the progress of the projects described in the forward work programme for that year<sup>8</sup>;
- 61 (3) a summary of final and provisional orders made and penalties imposed by the Authority during the year<sup>9</sup>;
- 62 (4) a report on such matters relating to any relevant undertaker<sup>10</sup> whose area is wholly or mainly in Wales<sup>11</sup> as the Welsh Ministers<sup>12</sup> may from time to time require<sup>13</sup>; and
- 63 (5) a report on such other matters as the Secretary of State may from time to time require<sup>14</sup>; and must set out any general directions given<sup>15</sup> by the Secretary of State<sup>16</sup>.

The Secretary of State must lay a copy of each annual report before each House of Parliament<sup>17</sup> and arrange for the report to be published in such manner as he considers appropriate<sup>18</sup>.

The Authority may also prepare other reports with respect to any matter falling within the scope of its functions and may arrange for any such report to be published in such manner as it considers appropriate<sup>19</sup>. In making or preparing any report under these provisions the Authority must have regard to the need for excluding, so far as that is practicable, any matter which relates to the affairs of a particular individual or body of persons<sup>20</sup>, corporate or unincorporate, where publication of that matter would or might, in the opinion of the Authority, seriously and prejudicially affect the interests of that individual or body<sup>21</sup>.

The Authority must send a copy of each annual or other report under the above provisions to the Welsh Ministers, to the Consumer Council for Water<sup>22</sup> and to the Chief Inspector of Drinking Water<sup>23</sup>.

ORGANISATION OF THE WATER INDUSTRY/ (2) REGULATORY ARRANGEMENTS/(i) The Water Services Regulation Authority/113. Guidance to the Authority on social and environmental matters.

113. Guidance to the Authority on social and environmental matters.

Guidance may be issued from time to time:

- 64 (1) by the Welsh Ministers<sup>1</sup>, with respect to appointment areas<sup>2</sup> which are wholly or mainly in Wales<sup>3</sup>; and
- 65 (2) by the Secretary of State<sup>4</sup>, with respect to other appointment areas<sup>5</sup>, about the making by the Water Services Regulation Authority<sup>6</sup> of a contribution towards the attainment of any social or environmental policies set out or referred to in the guidance<sup>7</sup>. In formulating guidance, the Secretary of State and the Welsh Ministers must, where practicable, have regard to the costs and benefits which may be expected to result from the guidance<sup>8</sup>. Before issuing such guidance the Secretary of State and the Welsh Ministers must consult: (a) the Authority<sup>9</sup>; (b) the Consumer Council for Water<sup>10</sup>; (c) in the case of the Secretary of State, the Welsh Ministers and vice versa<sup>11</sup>; (d) relevant undertakers<sup>12</sup>; (e) licensed water suppliers<sup>13</sup>; and (f) such other persons<sup>14</sup> as the Secretary of State or the Welsh Ministers considers it appropriate to consult in relation to the guidance<sup>15</sup>.

The Secretary of State and the Welsh Ministers must arrange for any guidance issued by him or by them under these provisions to be published in such manner as he or they consider appropriate<sup>16</sup>.

The Water Services Regulation Authority, in exercising and performing its general powers and duties<sup>17</sup>, must have regard to any guidance issued under the above provisions<sup>18</sup>. The above provisions do not, however, apply in relation to anything done by the Authority in the exercise of any Competition Act functions<sup>19</sup>; but the Authority may nevertheless, when exercising any Competition Act function, have regard to any matter in respect of which a duty is imposed by any of those provisions if it is a matter to which the Office of Fair Trading<sup>20</sup> could have regard when exercising that function<sup>21</sup>. Further, the duties imposed by these provisions do not affect the obligation of the Authority or, as the case may be, the Secretary of State or the Welsh Ministers<sup>22</sup> to perform or comply with any other duty or requirement, whether arising under the Water Industry Act 1991 or another enactment<sup>23</sup>, by virtue of any Community obligation<sup>24</sup> or otherwise<sup>25</sup>.

1 Functions under the Water Industry Act 1991 s 2A which were originally vested in the National Assembly for Wales are now exercisable by the Welsh Ministers by virtue of the Government of Wales Act 2006 s 162(1), Sch 11 para 30. As to the Welsh Ministers see PARA 16 note 5. As to the power of the Secretary of State to intervene in relation to functions exercisable by the Welsh Ministers where any particular case might have a serious adverse impact on water resources, water supply, or the quality of water in England see PARA 16.

2 For these purposes, an 'appointment area' is an area for which an appointment is held under the Water Industry Act 1991 Pt II Ch 1 (ss 6-17) (see PARA 137 et seq): s 2A(10) (s 2A added by the Water Act 2003 s 40).

3 Water Industry Act 1991 s 2A(1)(a) (as added: see note 2); Government of Wales Act 2006 Sch 11 para 32. As to the meaning of 'Wales' see PARA 16 note 2.

4 As to the Secretary of State see PARA 15 note 1. A draft of any guidance proposed to be so issued by the Secretary of State must be laid before each House of Parliament: Water Industry Act 1991 s 2A(5) (as added: see note 2). Guidance may not be so issued by the Secretary of State until after the period of 40 days beginning with: (1) the day on which the draft is laid before each House of Parliament (s 2A(6)(a) (as so added)); or (2) if the draft is laid before the House of Lords on one day and the House of Commons on another, the later of those two days (s 2A(6)(b) (as so added)). If, before the end of that period, either House resolves that the guidance should not be issued, the Secretary of State must not issue it: s 2A(7) (as so added). In reckoning any period of 40 days for these purposes, no account is to be taken of any time during which: (a) Parliament is dissolved or prorogued (s 2A(8)(a) (as so added)); or (b) both Houses are adjourned for more than four days (s 2A(8)(b) (as so added)). As to the laying of documents before Parliament see PARLIAMENT vol 34 (Reissue) PARA 941. As to the adjournment, prorogation and dissolution of Parliament see PARLIAMENT vol 78 (2010) PARA 1016 et seq.

The Secretary of State has issued such guidance entitled Statutory Social and Environmental Guidance to the Water Services Regulation Authority (Ofwat) which is available on the Department of Environment, Food and Rural Affairs website at www.defra.gov.uk. On 8 December 2008 the Welsh Ministers laid social and environmental guidance to Ofwat before the National Assembly for Wales, and resolved to issue it immediately following the 40 day period allowed for the laying of such document if there were no objections thereto. ## (ii) The Consumer Council for Water

115. Establishment of the Council.

A body corporate known as the Consumer Council for Water<sup>1</sup> is established for the purpose of carrying out the functions of the Council under the Water Industry Act 1991<sup>2</sup>. The Council is not to be regarded as a servant or agent of the Crown or as enjoying any status, immunity or privilege of the Crown<sup>3</sup>.

The Council consists of:

- 68 (1) a chairman appointed by the Secretary of State<sup>4</sup>;
- 69 (2) one other member appointed by the Welsh Ministers<sup>5</sup>; and
- 70 (3) such other members as may be appointed by the Secretary of State<sup>6</sup>.

The Secretary of State must consult the Welsh Ministers before appointing the chairman<sup>7</sup>; and the Secretary of State and the Welsh Ministers must consult the chairman before appointing any other member<sup>8</sup>. In appointing persons under these provisions the Secretary of State and the Welsh Ministers must have regard to the desirability of including among the members one or more persons who have experience of work among, and the special needs of, disabled persons<sup>9</sup>, or who have or have had a disability<sup>10</sup>. An appointment under these provisions is to be for a term not exceeding five years<sup>11</sup>.

A person holding office as chairman or other member may resign that office by giving notice<sup>12</sup> to the Secretary of State (in the case of a member appointed by him), or to the Welsh Ministers (in the case of a member appointed by them)<sup>13</sup>. The Secretary of State may remove any person appointed by him from office as chairman or other member on the ground of incapacity or misbehaviour<sup>14</sup>, but must consult the Welsh Ministers before removing any person appointed by him as chairman<sup>15</sup>; and the Welsh Ministers may remove any person appointed by them from office as member on the ground of incapacity or misbehaviour<sup>16</sup>. Otherwise, the chairman and other members hold and vacate office as such in accordance with the terms of their respective appointments<sup>17</sup>, and a previous appointment as chairman or other member does not affect a person's eligibility for appointment to either office<sup>18</sup>.

The Council must pay to the chairman and other members of the Council such remuneration, and such travelling and other allowances, as the Secretary of State (or, in the case of a member appointed by the Welsh Ministers, the Welsh Ministers) may determine<sup>19</sup>.

The Council must, with the approval of the Secretary of State, appoint a principal officer on such terms of employment as it may, with that approval, determine<sup>20</sup>; and may, with the approval of the Secretary of State as to numbers and terms of employment, appoint such other employees as it may determine<sup>21</sup>.

1 In Welsh the Council may be known as 'Cyngor Defnyddwyr Dwr': Water Industry Act 1991 s 27A(2) (s 27A, Sch 3A added by the Water Act 2003 s 35(1), (2)).

117. Establishment of regional and other committees.

Prior to 31 January 2006<sup>4</sup>, the Council was under a duty to establish such regional committees of the Council: (1) as the Welsh Ministers<sup>5</sup> might direct, for relevant undertakers whose areas are wholly or mainly in Wales<sup>6</sup>; and (2) as the Secretary of State<sup>7</sup> might direct, for other relevant undertakers<sup>8</sup>. Such a direction might provide for the allocation of each relevant undertaker to a regional committee specified in the direction<sup>9</sup>.

Subsequent to that date, the Council may establish such regional committees for relevant undertakers as it considers appropriate<sup>10</sup>, or alter the allocation of a relevant undertaker to a regional committee so established<sup>11</sup>. However, the Council must not establish or abolish a regional committee, or alter the allocation of a relevant undertaker to a regional committee, without the approval of the appropriate authority<sup>12</sup>.

The purposes of a regional committee are:

- 71 (a) the provision of advice and information<sup>13</sup> to the Council on consumer matters<sup>14</sup> affecting the areas of the relevant undertakers allocated to that committee<sup>15</sup>;
- 72 (b) such other purposes as the Council may determine<sup>16</sup>.

A regional committee of the Council must consist of a chairman appointed by the appropriate authority<sup>17</sup>, and such other members as the Council may appoint<sup>18</sup>. Any regional committee may establish sub-committees<sup>19</sup>. In appointing members of a regional committee the Council must take account of any guidance given to it by the appropriate authority<sup>20</sup>. The Council may pay to the chairman and other members of a regional committee, or a sub-committee, such remuneration, and such travelling and other allowances, as the appropriate authority may determine<sup>21</sup>.

The provisions of the Public Bodies (Admission to Meetings) Act 1960 apply to regional committees<sup>22</sup>.

The Consumer Council for Water may establish committees other than regional committees and any such committee may establish sub-committees<sup>23</sup>. The Council may pay to the chairman and other members of any such committee, or of any sub-committee, such remuneration, and such travelling and other allowances, as the Secretary of State may determine<sup>24</sup>.

19 Water Industry Act 1991 s 27E(1) (as added: see note 3). Subject to s 27E(7) (see below), information which relates to the affairs of any particular individual or body of persons (corporate or unincorporate) must not be disclosed in the exercise of the Council's function under s 27E unless one or more of s 27E(3)(a)-(c) applies to the information: s 27E(2) (as so added). Information relating to a particular individual or body may be disclosed if: (1) the individual or body has consented to the disclosure (s 27E(3)(a) (as so added)); (2) it is information that is available to the public from some other source (s 27E(3)(b) (as so added)); or (3) it is not information the disclosure of which would or might, in the opinion of the Council, seriously and prejudicially affect the interests of the individual or body (s 27E(3)(c) (as so added)). Before deciding to disclose any information relating to a particular individual or body in pursuance of head (3) above, the Council must: (a) consult that individual or body (s 27E(4)(a) (as so added)); and (b) have regard to any opinion expressed by the Water Services Regulation Authority as to the application of head (3) to the information or as to the desirability or otherwise of its disclosure (s 27E(4)(b) (as so added)); and head (b) above applies whether the opinion is given in relation to the information itself or to information of a description which applies to that information (s 27E(4) (as so added)). Further, subject to s 27E(7), the Council must not in the exercise of its function under s 27E disclose any information which it considers relates to any matter which is, or is likely to be, the subject of criminal proceedings (s 27E(5) (as so added)); and in considering whether information relates to any such matter, the Council must have regard to any opinion expressed (whether in relation to the information itself or to information of a description which applies to that information) by the Secretary of State, the Welsh Ministers or the Director of Public Prosecutions (s 27E(6) (as so added); Government of Wales Act 2006 Sch 11 para 32). The Water Industry Act 1991 s 27E(2)-(5) does not apply to a disclosure of information which is made to the Water Services Regulation Authority, the Secretary of State, the Welsh Ministers, the Competition Commission or any other public authority: s 27E(7) (as so added); Government of Wales Act 2006 Sch 11 para 32. The disclosure by the Council of information in the exercise of its function under the Water Industry Act 1991 s 27E does not contravene s 206 (restriction on disclosure of information: see PARA 183): s 27E(8) (as so added). Functions under the Water Industry Act 1991 s 27E which were originally vested in the National Assembly for Wales are now exercisable by the Welsh Ministers by virtue of the Government of Wales Act 2006 s 162(1), Sch 11 para 30. As to the Water Services Regulation Authority see PARA 109. As to the Director of Public Prosecutions see CRIMINAL LAW, EVIDENCE AND PROCEDURE vol 11(3) (2006 Reissue) PARA 1066. This function may be exercised by: (1) publishing information in any manner the Council thinks appropriate for the purpose of bringing it to the attention of those likely to be interested (s 27F(2)(a) (as so added)); or (2) furnishing information to any consumer (whether in response to a request or otherwise) (s 27F(2)(b) (as so added)). Information may only be disclosed in the exercise of this function if it is information that is available to members of the public from some other source: s 27F(3) (as so added). The Council must maintain at least one office in each of England and Wales at which consumers may apply for information: s 27F(4) (as so added). As to the meaning of 'England' see PARA 19 note 8. Information as to the publications of the Consumer Council for Water is available on the Council's website at www.ccwater.org.uk.

21 Water Industry Act 1991 s 27G(1) (as added: see note 3). Information which relates to the affairs of any particular individual or body of persons (corporate or unincorporate) must not be published in the exercise of the Council's function under s 27G unless one or more of s 27G(3)(a)-(c) applies to the information: s 27G(2) (as so added). Information relating to a particular individual or body may be published if: (1) the individual or body has consented to the publication (s 27G(3)(a) (as so added)); (2) it is information that is available to the public from some other source (s 27G(3)(b) (as so added)); or (3) it is not information the publication of which would or might, in the opinion of the Council, seriously and prejudicially affect the interests of the individual or body (s 27G(3)(c) (as so added)). Before deciding to publish any information relating to a particular individual or body in pursuance of head (3) above, the Council must: (a) consult that individual or body (s 27G(4)(a) (as so added)); and (b) have regard to any opinion expressed by the Water Services Regulation Authority as to the application of head (3) to the information or as to the desirability or otherwise of its publication (s 27G(4)(b) (as so added)); and head (b) applies whether the opinion is given in relation to the information itself or to information of a description which applies to that information (s 27G(4) (as so added)). Further, the Council must not in the exercise of its functions under s 27G publish any information which it considers relates to any matter which is, or is likely to be, the subject of criminal proceedings (s 27G(5) (as so added)); and in considering whether information relates to any such matter, the Council must have regard to any opinion expressed (whether in relation to the information itself or to information of a description which applies to that information) by the Secretary of State, the Welsh Ministers or the Director of Public Prosecutions (s 27G(6) (as so added); Government of Wales Act 2006 Sch 11 para 32). The publication of information under the Water Industry Act 1991 s 27G does not contravene s 206 (general restriction on disclosure of information: see PARA 183): s 27G(7) (as so added). Functions under the Water Industry Act 1991 s 27G which were originally vested in the National Assembly for Wales are now exercisable by the Welsh Ministers by virtue of the Government of Wales Act 2006 s 162(1), Sch 11 para 30.

The Council must, annually, publish a forward work programme in relation to the exercise of its functions<sup>10</sup>. The Council has powers to direct the production to it of information it requires for the exercise of its functions<sup>11</sup>. The Council is under a duty to make arrangements with the Water Services Regulation Authority, the Secretary of State and the Welsh Ministers with a view to securing co-operation and the exchange of information between them and the Council, and the consistent treatment of matters which affect them<sup>12</sup>.

121. Provision of information by and to the Council.

The Consumer Council for Water<sup>1</sup> may direct the Water Services Regulation Authority<sup>2</sup>, a company holding a relevant appointment<sup>3</sup>, or a licensed water supplier<sup>4</sup>, to supply to it, in such form as it may reasonably specify, such information<sup>5</sup> specified or described in the direction as it may require for the purpose of exercising its functions<sup>6</sup>. A body to whom such a direction is given must, if the information specified or described in the direction is in its possession, comply with the direction as soon as reasonably practicable<sup>7</sup>. If a body to whom a direction is so given fails to comply with the direction it must, if so required by the Council, give notice<sup>8</sup> to the Council of the reasons for its failure<sup>9</sup>; and, subject to the statutory conditions<sup>10</sup>, the Council may publish such a notice given to it<sup>11</sup>.

Any of the Water Services Regulation Authority, the Secretary of State, or the Welsh Ministers, may direct the Council to supply to them, in such form as they may reasonably specify, such information specified or described in the direction as they may require for the purpose of exercising their functions<sup>12</sup>. The Council must, if the information specified or described in the direction is in its possession, comply with such a direction as soon as reasonably practicable<sup>13</sup>. Where the Council fails to comply with a direction so given it must give to the person who gave the direction notice of its reason for the failure, and that person may publish that notice in such manner as he considers appropriate<sup>14</sup>. A person publishing such a notice must, however, have regard to the need for excluding, so far as that is practicable, any matter which relates to the affairs of a particular individual or body of persons, corporate or unincorporate, where he considers that publication of that matter would or might seriously and prejudicially affect the interests of that individual or body<sup>15</sup>.

- 82 (1) prescribing descriptions of information which a person to whom a direction is given under any of the above provisions may refuse to supply<sup>17</sup>; or
- 83 (2) prescribing circumstances in which such a person may refuse to comply with a direction so given<sup>18</sup>;
- 84 (3) for the purpose of enabling a failure to comply with such a direction to be referred by the person who gave the direction to such person, other than the Water Services Regulation Authority, as may be prescribed by the regulations<sup>19</sup>.

A person to whom such a failure as is described in head (3) above is referred<sup>20</sup> must: (a) consider any representations made by either party<sup>21</sup>; (b) determine whether the person failing to comply with the direction is entitled to refuse to do so, and, if not, order him to comply with the direction<sup>22</sup>; and (c) give notice of his determination and any order under head (b) above, with reasons, to both parties<sup>23</sup>.

122. Consumer complaints.

The following provisions<sup>1</sup> apply to a complaint which any person<sup>2</sup> (the 'complainant') has against a relevant undertaker<sup>3</sup> or a licensed water supplier<sup>4</sup> in relation to any matter connected with the functions of that undertaker or the services provided by that licensed water supplier<sup>5</sup>.

Where such a complaint, other than one appearing to the Consumer Council for Water<sup>6</sup> to be frivolous or vexatious, is referred to the Council by or on behalf of the complainant, the Council must, subject to certain exceptions<sup>7</sup>, investigate the complaint for the purpose of determining whether it is appropriate to take any action<sup>8</sup> with a view to assisting in reaching a satisfactory resolution of the complaint<sup>9</sup>. The Council is not, however, required to investigate any matter if it appears to the Council that:

- 85 (1) it is unlikely that the complaint could be resolved by action taken by the relevant undertaker or the licensed water supplier<sup>10</sup>;
- 86 (2) the relevant undertaker or the licensed water supplier has not been given a reasonable opportunity to deal with the complaint<sup>11</sup>; or
- 87 (3) in certain specified cases<sup>12</sup> it would be inappropriate to do so<sup>13</sup>.

Further, where it appears to the Council that the complaint is one which the Water Services Regulation Authority would be required to investigate<sup>14</sup>, the Council must, instead of investigating the matter to which it relates, refer the complaint to the Authority<sup>15</sup>.

Where it appears to the Council that the complaint relates to a matter in respect of which a specified enforcement function<sup>16</sup> is or may be exercisable by any person, the Council must, unless it considers that that person already has notice of the matter, refer the matter to that person<sup>17</sup>. Where it appears to the Council that the complaint relates to a matter which constitutes or might constitute an offence, the Council must refer the matter:

- 88 (a) to the Welsh Ministers<sup>18</sup>, if the matter relates to a relevant undertaker whose area is wholly or mainly in Wales<sup>19</sup> or to services provided by a licensed water supplier using the supply system of a water undertaker whose area is wholly or mainly in Wales<sup>20</sup>; or
- 89 (b) to the Secretary of State<sup>21</sup>, in any other case<sup>22</sup>.

Where it appears to the Council that the complaint relates to a matter which constitutes a dispute of a kind which can be referred to the Water Services Regulation Authority for determination under any provision of the Water Industry Act 1991, the Council must, if the complainant consents, refer the matter to the Authority<sup>23</sup>.

Where it appears to the Council to be appropriate to do so with a view to assisting in reaching a satisfactory resolution of a complaint referred to it under the above provisions, the Council must make representations on behalf of the complainant to the relevant undertaker or the licensed water supplier about anything to which the complaint relates<sup>24</sup>. After investigating a complaint the Council may make a report to the Water Services Regulation Authority, the Secretary of State or the Welsh Ministers<sup>25</sup>. Such a report may include information<sup>26</sup> about any representations so made by the Council<sup>27</sup> and the response of the relevant undertaker or the licensed water supplier to the complaint or any such representations<sup>28</sup>. No such report or information about a complaint referred to the Council under these provisions, from which the complainant may be identified, may, however, be published or disclosed by the Council, the Authority, the Secretary of State or the Welsh Ministers in the exercise of any power under the Water Industry Act 1991 without the consent of the complainant<sup>29</sup>.

Where a representation made to the Water Services Regulation Authority, the Secretary of State or the Welsh Ministers about any matter, other than a representation appearing to the person to whom it is made to be frivolous or vexatious, appears to that person to be about a matter which is or amounts to a complaint to which the above provisions apply (other than one which, in the case of the Authority, it is its duty<sup>30</sup> to investigate)<sup>31</sup>, and to have been made by or on behalf of the complainant<sup>32</sup>, that person must refer the matter to the Council<sup>33</sup>.

It is to be the duty of the Council to publish, in such form and manner and with such frequency as it thinks appropriate, such statistical information as it considers appropriate relating to complaints<sup>34</sup> made by consumers<sup>35</sup> about any matter relating to the activities of water undertakers or licensed water suppliers and the handling of such complaints<sup>36</sup>.

The Consumer Council for Water<sup>1</sup> may investigate any matter, not being a matter which it is its duty to investigate<sup>2</sup>, which appears to it to be a matter relating to the interests of consumers<sup>3</sup>. ### (iii) The Drinking Water Inspectorate

126. The Drinking Water Inspectorate.

The Secretary of State<sup>1</sup> or, in relation to Wales, the Welsh Ministers<sup>2</sup>, may appoint persons<sup>3</sup> to act on his or their behalf in relation to some or all of<sup>4</sup>:

- 90 (1) the powers and duties conferred or imposed on him or them in respect of the wholesomeness of water supplies<sup>5</sup>, the offence of supplying water unfit for human consumption<sup>6</sup>, local authority functions in relation to water supplies and quality<sup>7</sup> and private supplies<sup>8</sup>; and
- 91 (2) such other powers and duties in relation to the quality and sufficiency of water supplied using a water undertaker's supply system<sup>9</sup> as are conferred or imposed on him or them by or under any other enactments<sup>10</sup>.

The Secretary of State must designate one such person as the Chief Inspector of Drinking Water<sup>11</sup>; and the Welsh Ministers may designate one such person appointed by them as the Chief Inspector of Drinking Water for Wales<sup>12</sup>. If the person designated by the Welsh Ministers is the same as the person designated by the Secretary of State as the Chief Inspector of Drinking Water, he is to be known as such in both capacities<sup>13</sup>.

An inspector<sup>14</sup> appointed under these provisions must<sup>15</sup> carry out such investigations as the Secretary of State or, as the case may be, the Welsh Ministers may require him to carry out for the purpose of: (a) ascertaining whether any duty or other requirement as to water quality imposed on that undertaker or a licensed water supplier<sup>16</sup> or imposed on a relevant person<sup>17</sup> is being, has been or is likely to be contravened<sup>18</sup>; or (b) advising the Secretary of State or the Welsh Ministers as to whether, and if so in what manner, any of the powers of the Secretary of State or the Welsh Ministers in relation to such a contravention, or any of the powers which are conferred on him or them by or under the specified statutory provisions relating to water quality<sup>19</sup> (including the powers to make regulations) should be exercised<sup>20</sup>. An inspector so appointed must also make such reports to the Secretary of State or the Welsh Ministers with respect to any such investigations as he or they may require<sup>21</sup>.

It is the duty of a water undertaker, licensed water supplier or other relevant person to give an inspector so appointed all such assistance<sup>22</sup>, and provide him with all such information<sup>23</sup>, as he may reasonably require for the purpose of carrying out any of his investigations<sup>24</sup>. Any water undertaker, licensed water supplier or other relevant person which fails to comply with this duty is guilty of an offence<sup>25</sup>.

Any inspector appointed under these provisions who is designated in writing<sup>26</sup> for the purpose by the Secretary of State or the Welsh Ministers may<sup>27</sup>:

- 92 (i) enter any premises for the purpose of carrying out any investigation under these provisions<sup>28</sup>;
- 93 (ii) carry out such inspections, measurements and tests on premises entered by him, or of articles or records<sup>29</sup> found on any such premises, and take away such samples of water or of any land<sup>30</sup> or articles, as he considers appropriate to enable him to carry out any such investigation<sup>31</sup>; or

- 94 (iii) at any reasonable time require;
11. (A) any water undertaker or licensed water supplier to supply him with copies of, or extracts from, the contents of any records kept for the purpose of complying with any duty or other requirement imposed<sup>32</sup> on that undertaker or supplier<sup>33</sup>; or
12. (B) any relevant person to supply him with copies of, or extracts from, the contents of any records kept for the purpose of complying with any duty or other requirement imposed<sup>34</sup> on that person<sup>35</sup>.

(3) GENERAL REGULATORY POWERS AND DUTIES

129. Directions in the interests of national security etc.

After consultation<sup>1</sup> with a relevant undertaker<sup>2</sup> or licensed water supplier<sup>3</sup>, or with the Environment Agency<sup>4</sup>, the Secretary of State<sup>5</sup> may give that body such directions<sup>6</sup> of a general character as appear to him to be requisite or expedient in the interests of national security or for the purpose of mitigating the effects of any civil emergency<sup>7</sup> which may occur<sup>8</sup>. If it appears to the Secretary of State to be requisite or expedient to do so in the interests of national security or for the purpose of mitigating the effects of any civil emergency which has occurred or may occur, he may after the like consultation give to a relevant undertaker, licensed water supplier or the Agency a direction requiring it to do, or not to do, a particular thing specified in the direction<sup>9</sup>. It is the duty of the body to whom a direction is given by the Secretary of State, notwithstanding any other duty imposed on it<sup>10</sup>, to comply with the direction<sup>11</sup>.

The Secretary of State may also, after consultation with the Consumer Council for Water<sup>12</sup>, give to the Council such directions of a general character as appear to him to be requisite or expedient in the interests of national security<sup>13</sup>, or in connection with any civil emergency which may occur<sup>14</sup>. If it appears to the Secretary of State to be requisite or expedient to do so in the interests of national security<sup>15</sup>, or in connection with any civil emergency which has occurred or may occur<sup>16</sup>, he may, after consultation with the Council, give to it a direction requiring it to do, or not to do, a particular thing specified in the direction<sup>17</sup>. The Council must comply with any direction so given to it by the Secretary of State<sup>18</sup>.

The Secretary of State must lay before each House of Parliament<sup>19</sup> a copy of every direction given under the above provisions unless he is of the opinion that disclosure of the direction is against the interests of national security<sup>20</sup>. A person<sup>21</sup> must not disclose, or be required by any enactment<sup>22</sup> or otherwise to disclose, anything done by virtue of these provisions if the Secretary of State has notified him of the Secretary of State's opinion that disclosure of that thing is against the interests of national security<sup>23</sup>; and any person who discloses any matter in contravention<sup>24</sup> of this prohibition is guilty of an offence<sup>25</sup>.

In so far as they are exercisable in relation to Wales<sup>26</sup>, the above functions<sup>27</sup> of giving directions to the Environment Agency for the purpose of mitigating the effects of any civil emergency, are transferred to the Welsh Ministers<sup>28</sup>; and the other functions under the above provisions relating to the Agency are exercisable by the Welsh Ministers concurrently with the Secretary of State<sup>29</sup>. In respect of relevant undertakers, licensed water suppliers, and the Consumer Council for Water, the functions<sup>30</sup> of giving directions for the purpose of mitigating the effects of any civil emergency and the function, in the case of heads (1) and (2) below, of enforcing such directions are, so far as exercisable in relation to Wales, transferred to the Welsh Ministers:

- 101 (1) in relation to any water or sewerage undertaker whose area is wholly or mainly in Wales;
- 102 (2) in relation to any licensed water supplier so far as relating to licensed activities using the supply system of any such water undertaker; and
- 103 (3) in relation to the Consumer Council for Water so far as relating to its functions in connection with any such water undertaker; and the other functions under the above provisions in respect of those bodies, so far as exercisable in relation to Wales, are exercisable by the Welsh Ministers concurrently with the Secretary of State so far as mentioned in heads (1) to (3) above<sup>31</sup>.

The Secretary of State may, with Treasury approval<sup>32</sup> and out of money provided by Parliament, make grants to relevant undertakers and licensed water suppliers for the purpose of defraying or contributing towards any losses they may sustain by reason of compliance with any directions<sup>33</sup> given under the above provisions<sup>34</sup>. This function, so far as exercisable in relation to Wales, is exercisable by the Welsh Ministers concurrently with the Secretary of State in relation to any water or sewerage undertaker whose area is wholly or mainly in Wales or, so far as relating to licensed activities using the supply system of any such water undertaker, in relation to any licensed water supplier; and it is so exercisable free from the requirement for Treasury approval<sup>35</sup>.

Halsbury's Laws of England/WATER AND WATERWAYS (VOLUME 100 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-452; VOLUME 101 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 453-851)/4. ORGANISATION OF THE WATER INDUSTRY/(3) GENERAL REGULATORY POWERS AND DUTIES/130. General duties of the Secretary of State, the Welsh Ministers and the Water Services Regulation Authority.

130. General duties of the Secretary of State, the Welsh Ministers and the Water Services Regulation Authority.

The following provisions have effect for imposing duties on the Secretary of State<sup>1</sup> (or, in certain cases, on the Welsh Ministers<sup>2</sup>) and on the Water Services Regulation Authority<sup>3</sup> as to when and how they should exercise and perform the following powers and duties, that is to say:

- 104 (1) in the case of the Secretary of State or the Welsh Ministers, the powers and duties conferred or imposed on them by virtue of the provisions of the Water Industry Act 1991 relating to the regulation of relevant undertakers<sup>4</sup> and of licensed water suppliers<sup>5</sup>; and
- 105 (2) in the case of the Water Services Regulation Authority, the powers and duties conferred or imposed on the Authority by virtue of any of those provisions, by the provisions relating to the financial conditions of requisitions<sup>6</sup> or by the provisions relating to the movement of certain pipes<sup>7</sup>.

The Secretary of State or the Welsh Ministers, or, as the case may be, the Water Services Regulation Authority must exercise and perform these powers and duties in the manner which they consider is best calculated:

- 106 (a) to further the consumer objective<sup>8</sup>;
- 107 (b) to secure that the functions of a water undertaker and of a sewerage undertaker are properly carried out as respects every area of England and Wales<sup>9</sup>;
- 108 (c) to secure that companies holding appointments<sup>10</sup> as relevant undertakers are able, in particular, by securing reasonable returns on their capital, to finance the proper carrying out of those functions<sup>11</sup>; and
- 109 (d) to secure that the activities authorised by the licence of a licensed water supplier and any statutory functions imposed on it in consequence of the licence are properly carried out<sup>12</sup>.

The Secretary of State or the Welsh Ministers, and the Authority may, in exercising any of the powers and performing any of the duties mentioned in heads (1) and (2) above, have regard to:

- 110 (i) any interests of consumers in relation to electricity conveyed by distribution systems<sup>13</sup>;
- 111 (ii) any interests of consumers in relation to gas conveyed through pipes<sup>14</sup>;
- 112 (iii) any interests of consumers in relation to communications services and electronic communications apparatus<sup>15</sup>, which are affected by the exercise of that power or the performance of that duty<sup>16</sup>. Subject to heads (a) to (d) above, the Secretary of State or the Welsh Ministers, or, as the case may be, the Authority must exercise and perform the powers and duties mentioned in heads (1) and (2) above in the manner which they consider is best calculated:

- 113 (A) to promote economy and efficiency on the part of companies holding a relevant appointment<sup>17</sup> in the carrying out of the functions of a relevant undertaker<sup>18</sup>;
- 114 (B) to secure that no undue preference is shown, and that there is no undue discrimination in the fixing by such companies of water and drainage charges<sup>19</sup>;
- 115 (C) to secure that consumers are protected as respects benefits that could be secured for them by the application in a particular manner of any of the proceeds of any disposal<sup>20</sup>, whenever made, of any of such a company's protected land<sup>21</sup> or of an interest or right in or over any of that land<sup>22</sup>;
- 116 (D) to ensure that consumers are also protected as respects any activities of such a company which are not attributable to the exercise of functions of a relevant undertaker, or as respects any activities of any person appearing to the Secretary of State or the Welsh Ministers or, as the case may be, the Authority to be connected with the company, and in particular by ensuring that any transactions are carried out at arm's length<sup>23</sup>, that the company, in relation to the exercise of its functions as a relevant undertaker, maintains and presents accounts in a suitable form and manner<sup>24</sup> and that, if the person is a licensed water supplier, its licence does not authorise it to carry on any activities in the area of the company<sup>25</sup>;
- 117 (E) to contribute to the achievement of sustainable development<sup>26</sup>.

In exercising any of the powers or performing any of the duties mentioned in heads (1) and (2) above in accordance with the above provisions<sup>27</sup>, the Secretary of State or the Welsh Ministers, and the Authority must have regard to the principles of best regulatory practice, including the principles under which regulatory activities should be transparent, accountable, proportionate, consistent and targeted only at cases in which action is needed<sup>28</sup>.

The above provisions<sup>29</sup> do not apply in relation to anything done by the Water Services Regulation Authority in the exercise of Competition Act functions<sup>30</sup>; but the Authority may nevertheless, when exercising any Competition Act function, have regard to any matter in respect of which a duty is imposed by any of those provisions if it is a matter to which the Office of Fair Trading<sup>31</sup> could have regard when exercising that function<sup>32</sup>. Further, the duties imposed by those provisions do not affect the obligation of the Authority or, as the case may be, the Secretary of State or the Welsh Ministers to perform or comply with any other duty or requirement, whether arising under the Water Industry Act 1991 or another enactment, by virtue of any Community obligation or otherwise<sup>33</sup>.

1 As to the Secretary of State see PARA 15 note 1.

2 Functions of the Secretary of State under the Water Industry Act 1991 s 2 were so far as exercisable in relation to (1) any water or sewerage undertaker whose area is wholly or mainly in Wales; and (2) any licensed water supplier so far as relating to licensed activities using the supply system of any such water undertaker, transferred to the National Assembly for Wales: see the National Assembly for Wales (Transfer of Functions) Order 1999, SI 1999/672, art 2, Sch 1 (amended by the Water Act 2003 s 100(1), (2)(d)). These functions are now vested in the Welsh Ministers: see the Government of Wales Act 2006 s 162(1), Sch 11 para 30. As to the power of the Secretary of State to intervene in relation to functions exercisable by the Welsh Ministers where any particular case might have a serious adverse impact on water resources, water supply, or the quality of water in England see PARA 16. As to the meanings of 'water undertaker' and 'sewerage undertaker' see PARA 137 note 4. As to the meaning of 'licensed water supplier' see PARA 152. 5 Water Industry Act 1991 s 2(1)(a) (amended by the Water Act 2003 s 39(1), (2)). For these purposes, subject to the Water Industry Act 1991 s 2(6A) (see the text to notes 29-30), the reference in s 2(1) to 'the provisions of the Act relating to the regulation of relevant undertakers and of licensed water suppliers' is a reference to the provisions contained in Pt 2 (ss 6-36) (except s 27A and Sch 3A: see PARAS 115, 117, 119, 124, 125), or in any of ss 37A-37D (see PARAS 321, 322), ss 38, 39 (see PARA 325), ss 39B, 39C (see PARA 323), ss 66B, 66D, 66F-66H (see PARAS 342-345), ss 66K, 66L (see PARA 346), ss 95, 96 (see ENVIRONMENTAL QUALITY AND PUBLIC HEALTH vol 46 (2010) PARAS 1014-1015), s 153 (see PARA 176), ss 181, 182 (see PARAS 474, 475), s 192A (see PARA 111), s 192B (see PARA 112), s 195 (see PARA 178), s 195A (see PARA 181) and ss 201-203 (see PARAS 169, 180, 182): s 2(6)(a) (substituted by the Water Act 2003 s 39(1), (6)).

6 The reference in the Water Industry Act 1991 s 2(1) to the 'provisions relating to the financial conditions of requisitions' is a reference to the provisions contained in ss 42, 43, 43A (see PARA 333), s 48 (see PARA 337), s 51C (see PARA 338), ss 99, 100, 100A (see ENVIRONMENTAL QUALITY AND PUBLIC HEALTH vol 46 (2010) PARAS 1019-1020): s 2(6)(b) (substituted by the Water Act 2003 s 39(1), (6)).

7 Water Industry Act 1991 s 2(1)(b) (amended by the Water Act 2003 s 36(2)). The reference in the Water Industry Act 1991 s 2(1) to the 'provisions relating to the movement of certain pipes' is a reference to the provisions of s 185 (see PARA 489): s 2(6)(c).

8 Water Industry Act 1991 s 2(2A)(a) (s 2(2A)-(2E) added by the Water Act 2003). The 'consumer objective' is to protect the interests of consumers, wherever appropriate by promoting effective competition between persons engaged in, or in commercial activities connected with, the provision of water and sewerage services: Water Industry Act 1991 s 2(2B) (as so added). For these purposes the Secretary of State or the Welsh Ministers or, as the case may be, the Authority must have regard to the interests of: (1) individuals who are disabled or chronically sick (s 2(2C)(a) (as so added)); (2) individuals of pensionable age (s 2(2C)(b) (as so added)); (3) individuals with low incomes (s 2(2C)(c) (as so added)); (4) individuals residing in rural areas (s 2(2C)(d) (as so added)); and (5) customers of companies holding an appointment under the Water Industry Act 1991 Pt II Ch I (ss 6-17) (see PARA 137 et seq), whose premises are not eligible to be supplied by a licensed water supplier (s 2(2C)(e) (as so added)); but that is not to be taken as implying that regard may not be had to the interests of other descriptions of consumer (s 2(2C)(a) (as so added)). For these purposes, premises are not eligible to be supplied by a licensed water supplier if: (a) they are household premises (as defined in s 17C: see PARA 152) (s 2(2D)(a) (as so added)); or (b) the total quantity of water estimated to be supplied to the premises annually for the purposes of s 17D(2) (see PARA 152) is less than the quantity specified therein (s 2(2D)(b) (as so added)). 'Consumers' includes both existing and future consumers; and 'the interests of consumers' means the interests of consumers in relation to: (i) the supply of water by means of a water undertaker's supply system to premises either by water undertakers or by licensed water suppliers acting in their capacity as such; and (ii) the provision of sewerage services by sewerage undertakers: s 2(5A) (added by the Water Act 2003 s 39(1), (5)). As to the meaning of 'person' see PARA 13 note 29. 'Disabled' is not defined for these purposes; as to the definitions of 'disability' and 'disabled person' in the Disability Discrimination Act 1995 see DISCRIMINATION vol 13 (2007 Reissue) PARA 511.

19 Water Industry Act 1991 s 2(3)(b) (as substituted: see note 18). For these purposes, references to water and drainage charges are references to any charges in respect of any services provided in the course of the carrying out of the functions of a relevant undertaker (s 2(5)(a)), and amounts of any other description which such an undertaker is authorised by or under any enactment to require any of its customers or potential customers to pay (s 2(5)(b)). As to the meaning of 'enactment' see PARA 14 note 31. As to the meaning of 'customers or potential customers' see PARA 118 note 7. As to water charges see PARA 417 et seq.

131. Determination of disputes by the Water Services Regulation Authority.

In respect of any dispute which, by virtue of any provision of the Water Industry Act 1991, may be referred to the Water Services Regulation Authority<sup>1</sup> for determination<sup>2</sup>, the practice and procedure to be followed in connection with such reference is such as the Authority considers appropriate<sup>3</sup>. However, the Authority must not determine any such dispute which is the subject of proceedings before, or with respect to which judgment has been given by, any court<sup>4</sup>.

Where the Authority determines any dispute under these provisions it must give reasons for reaching its decision with respect to the dispute<sup>5</sup>. On making such a determination the Authority may include such incidental, supplemental and consequential provision as it considers appropriate, including provision requiring either party to pay a sum in respect of the costs or expenses incurred by the Authority<sup>6</sup>; but in including any provision as to costs or expenses, the Authority must have regard to the conduct and means of the parties and any other relevant circumstances<sup>7</sup>.

A determination by the Authority under these provisions is final<sup>8</sup>. In so far as it includes provision as to costs and expenses<sup>9</sup> it is enforceable as if it were a judgment of a county court<sup>10</sup>.

132. Water Services Regulation Authority's functions with respect to competition.

Certain functions of the Office of Fair Trading (the 'OFT') under the Enterprise Act 2002<sup>1</sup> so far as relating to commercial activities connected with the supply of water or the provision of sewerage services<sup>2</sup> are concurrent functions of the Water Services Regulation Authority<sup>3</sup> and the OFT<sup>4</sup>. Before the OFT or the Authority first exercises, in relation to any matter, functions which are so exercisable concurrently, that person<sup>5</sup> must consult the other<sup>6</sup>; and neither the OFT nor the Authority may exercise, in relation to any matter, functions which are exercisable concurrently if functions which are so exercisable have been exercised in relation to that matter by the other<sup>7</sup>. It is the duty of the Authority, for the purpose of assisting the Competition Commission<sup>8</sup> in carrying out an investigation on a reference made to it by the Authority by virtue of the above provisions<sup>9</sup>, to give to the Commission<sup>10</sup>:

- 118 (1) any information<sup>11</sup> which is in the Authority's possession and which relates to matters falling within the scope of the investigation, and which is either requested by the Commission for that purpose or is information which in the Authority's opinion it would be appropriate for that purpose to give to the Commission without any such request<sup>12</sup>; and
- 119 (2) any other assistance which the Commission may require, and which it is within the Authority's power to give, in relation to any such matters<sup>13</sup>; and the Commission must, for the purposes of carrying out any such investigation, take into account any information so given to it for that purpose<sup>14</sup>.

The Authority is also entitled to exercise, concurrently with the OFT, the functions of the OFT under certain provisions of the Competition Act 1998<sup>15</sup> so far as relating to certain anti-competitive agreements, decisions or concerted practices<sup>16</sup>, and certain conduct which amounts to the abuse of a dominant position in a market<sup>17</sup>, and which relate to commercial activities connected with the supply of water or securing a supply of water or with the provision or securing of sewerage services<sup>18</sup>.

If any question arises as to whether the above provisions<sup>19</sup> apply to any particular case, that question must be referred to and determined by the Secretary of State<sup>20</sup> or, in relation to Wales, the Welsh Ministers<sup>21</sup>; and no objection is to be taken to anything done under the relevant provisions of the Enterprise Act 2002<sup>22</sup> or of the Competition Act 1998<sup>23</sup> by or in relation to the Authority on the ground that it should have been done by or in relation to the OFT<sup>24</sup>.

Separate provision is made with respect to merger references relating to water enterprises<sup>25</sup>.

ORGANISATION OF THE WATER INDUSTRY/(3) GENERAL REGULATORY POWERS AND DUTIES/133. Water Services Regulation Authority's general duty to keep matters under review.

133. Water Services Regulation Authority's general duty to keep matters under review.

It is the duty of the Water Services Regulation Authority<sup>1</sup>, so far as it appears to it practicable from time to time to do so, to keep under review the carrying on both in England and Wales<sup>2</sup> and elsewhere of activities connected with the matters in relation to which<sup>3</sup> water undertakers or sewerage undertakers<sup>4</sup> carry out functions<sup>5</sup>, and licensed water suppliers carry on activities authorised by their licences<sup>6</sup>. It is also the duty of the Authority, so far as it appears to it practicable from time to time to do so, to collect information<sup>7</sup> with respect to: (1) the carrying out by appointed companies<sup>8</sup> of the functions of relevant undertakers<sup>9</sup>; or (2) the carrying on by companies holding licences<sup>10</sup> of the activities authorised by their licences<sup>11</sup>; or (3) any company mentioned in head (1) or (2) above<sup>12</sup>, with a view to its becoming aware of, and ascertaining the circumstances relating to, matters with respect to which any power or duty is conferred or imposed on it by or under any enactment<sup>13</sup>.

The Secretary of State<sup>14</sup> may give general directions indicating: (a) considerations to which the Authority should have particular regard in determining the order of priority in which matters are to be brought under review in performing its duty under the above provisions<sup>15</sup>; and (b) considerations to which, in cases where it appears to the Authority that any of its powers<sup>16</sup> are exercisable, it should have particular regard in determining whether to exercise those powers<sup>17</sup>. It is the duty of the Authority to comply with any such directions<sup>18</sup>.

It is also the duty of the Authority, where either it considers it expedient or it is requested by the Secretary of State, or in relation to Wales, the Welsh Ministers acting concurrently with the Secretary of State<sup>19</sup>, or by the Office of Fair Trading<sup>20</sup> to do so, to give information, advice and assistance to the Secretary of State, the Welsh Ministers or the Office of Fair Trading with respect to any matter relating to<sup>21</sup>: (i) the functions of either description of relevant undertaker<sup>22</sup>; or (ii) the carrying out of any such functions by a company holding an appointment as a relevant undertaker<sup>23</sup>; (iii) the activities authorised by retail licences or combined licences<sup>24</sup>; or (iv) the carrying on of any such activities by a company holding any such licence<sup>25</sup>.

'Functions', in relation to a relevant undertaker, means the functions of the undertaker under or by virtue of any enactment, and is to be construed subject to the Water Industry Act 1991 s 217: s 219(1). For the purposes of the construction of any enactment which, by reference to the functions of a relevant undertaker, confers any power on or in relation to that undertaker:

12 (1) the functions of every relevant undertaker are to be taken to include joining with or acting on behalf of the Environment Agency, one or more relevant undertakers, or the Agency and one or more other such undertakers, for the purpose of carrying out any works or acquiring any land which at least one of the bodies with which it joins, or on whose behalf it acts, is authorised to carry out or acquire for the purposes of that body's functions under any enactment or of any function which is taken to be a function of that body for the purposes to which s 217 or the Water Resources Act 1991 s 3 (repealed: see now the Environment Act 1995 s 10; and ENVIRONMENTAL QUALITY AND PUBLIC HEALTH vol 45 (2010) PARA 80) applies (Water Industry Act 1991 s 217(1), (2) (s 217(2)-(4), (7) amended by the Environment Act 1995 s 120(1), Sch 22 para 124));

- 13 (2) the functions of every relevant undertaker are to be taken to include the protection against pollution: (a) of any waters, whether on the surface or underground, which belong to the Agency or any water undertaker or from which the Agency or any water undertaker is authorised to take water; (b) without prejudice to head (a), of any reservoir which belongs to or is operated by the Agency or any water undertaker or which the Agency or any water undertaker is proposing to acquire or construct for the purpose of being so operated; and (c) of any underground strata from which the Agency or any water undertaker is for the time being authorised to abstract water in pursuance of a licence under the Water Resources Act 1991 Pt II Ch II (ss 24-72) (see PARA 229 et seq) (Water Industry Act 1991 s 217(1), (3) (as so amended));
- 14 (3) the functions of every relevant undertaker are to be taken to include the furtherance of research into matters in respect of which functions are conferred by or under the Water Industry Act 1991, the other consolidation Acts or the Water Act 1989 on the Agency, on water undertakers or on sewerage undertakers (Water Industry Act 1991 s 217(1), (4) (as so amended));
- 15 (4) the functions of every relevant undertaker are to be taken to include the provision of houses and other buildings for the use of persons employed by that undertaker and the provision of recreation grounds for persons so employed (s 217(1), (5));
- 16 (5) the functions of every water undertaker are to be taken to include the provision of supplies of water in bulk, whether or not such supplies are provided for the purposes of, or in connection with, the carrying out of any other function of that undertaker (s 217(1), (6)); and

(4) WATER UNDERTAKERS

(i) Statutory Water Companies

134. In general.

A statutory water company<sup>1</sup> may be appointed as a water undertaker under the Water Industry Act 1991<sup>2</sup>. A statutory water company holding such an appointment as a water undertaker for any area has power to do anything (whether in its area or elsewhere) calculated to facilitate, or conducive or incidental to, the carrying out of its functions<sup>3</sup>. This includes power to acquire and dispose of land<sup>4</sup> and other property, to carry out engineering or building operations<sup>5</sup> whether within its area or elsewhere, and to supply, install, repair and alter water fittings<sup>6</sup>. Any constitutional limitations are thus removed which might otherwise constrain it from carrying out its functions as a water undertaker under the Water Industry Act 1991. Any limits existing before the transfer date<sup>7</sup> on capital, borrowing and dividends, payment of interest, sale of shares or stock, are relaxed<sup>8</sup>. A statutory company may register under the Companies Act 1985 and adopt a memorandum or articles in place of the statutory constitution, but provision is made for cancellation of any resolution for substituting a memorandum and articles on application to the High Court by groups of shareholders or debenture holders<sup>9</sup>. The statutory provisions relating to confidentiality of information and the offence of providing false information<sup>10</sup> have effect in relation to the provisions relating to statutory water companies<sup>11</sup>. Particular provision is made with regard to those companies' powers to issue redeemable stock<sup>12</sup>, the relaxation of restrictions affecting the raising of capital<sup>13</sup>, arrangements and reconstructions<sup>14</sup> and the appointment of directors<sup>15</sup>.

All water undertakers appointed under the Water Industry Act 1991 must be companies and as such have powers and are subject to the duties applicable to all companies<sup>16</sup>.

1 'Statutory water company' means any company which was a statutory water company for the purposes of the Water Act 1973 (repealed) immediately before 1 September 1989: Statutory Water Companies Act 1991 s 15(1); Water Industry Act 1991 s 219(1). See also PARA 108.

2 See the Water Industry Act 1991 ss 6-8; and PARAS 137-139. See also PARA 108 note 4. As to the meaning of 'water undertaker' see PARA 137 note 4.

3 See the Statutory Water Companies Act 1991 s 1(1)(a). Without prejudice to the generality of this power, such a company has power: (1) to provide for any person outside the United Kingdom advice or assistance, including training facilities, as respects any matter in which the company has skill or experience (s 1(2)(a)); (2) to become a member of any body formed for the purpose of promoting the interests of water undertakers or any description of water undertakers (s 1(2)(b)); and (3) to make donations and incur expenditure for the benefit of its officers and employees and in particular to pay, or make provision, whether by contributory or non-contributory schemes or otherwise, for the payment of, pensions, allowances or gratuities to or in respect of any persons who have been or are officers or employees of the company (s 1(2)(c)). 'Functions', in relation to a water undertaker, means the functions of the undertaker under or by virtue of any enactment, and must be construed subject to the Water Industry Act 1991 s 217 (extension of meaning of 'functions' in relation to undertakers: see PARA 133 note 5); Statutory Water Companies Act 1991 s 15(1). 'Enactment' includes an enactment contained in the Statutory Water Companies Act 1991 or in any Act passed after that Act: s 15(1). As to the meaning of 'enactment' generally see PARA 14 note 31.

4 'Disposal', in relation to any land or any interest in or right in or over land, includes the creation of such an interest or right and a disposal effected by means of the surrender or other termination of any such interest or right: Statutory Water Companies Act 1991 s 15(1). As to the meaning of 'land' see PARA 14 note 21.

5 'Engineering or building operations', without prejudice to the generality of that expression, includes: (1) the construction, alteration, improvement, maintenance or demolition of any building or structure or of any reservoir, watercourse, dam, weir, well, borehole or other works; and (2) the installation, modification or removal of any machinery or apparatus: Statutory Water Companies Act 1991 s 15(1). Nothing in s 1 with respect to the carrying out of works is to be construed as conferring any power otherwise than for the purpose of removing such a limitation on the capacity of a statutory water company as would otherwise exist by virtue of the company's constitution: s 1(3). Accordingly, without prejudice to the Water Industry Act 1991 Pt IV (ss 94-141) (sewerage services: see ENVIRONMENTAL QUALITY AND PUBLIC HEALTH vol 46 (2010) PARA 999 et seq), the Statutory Water Companies Act 1991 s 1 is to be disregarded for the purpose of determining whether a statutory water company is liable, on grounds other than such a limitation as is mentioned in s 1(3), for any act or omission in exercise of a power to carry out works conferred by s 1: s 1(4).

6 See the Statutory Water Companies Act 1991 s 1(1)(b). Water fittings may be supplied to any person to whom the company supplies water, and may be installed, repaired or altered whether or not the fittings were supplied by the company: see s 1(1)(b)(iii). For these purposes, 'supply', in relation to water fittings, has the same meaning as it has in the Consumer Protection Act 1987 Pt II (ss 10-19) by virtue of s 46 (see SALE OF GOODS AND SUPPLY OF SERVICES vol 41 (2005 Reissue) PARA 523): Statutory Water Companies Act 1991 s 1(6). Nothing in s 1 is to be construed as authorising a statutory water company to carry on the business of a manufacturer of water fittings: s 1(5). 'Water fittings' includes pipes (other than water mains), taps, cocks, valves, ferrules, meters, cisterns, baths, water closets, soil pans and other similar apparatus used in connection with the supply and use of water: Water Industry Act 1991 s 93(1); definition applied by the Statutory Water Companies Act 1991 s 15(1). As to the meanings of 'pipe' and 'water main' see PARA 138 note 11. As to the meaning of 'meter' see PARA 337 note 11.

11 See the Statutory Water Companies Act 1991 s 16.

12 Every statutory water company which has created or issued any redeemable stock or has authority to create and issue any stock may from time to time issue, so as to be redeemable, any stock created by it or any redeemed stock: Statutory Water Companies Act 1991 s 2(1), (2). No redeemed stock may, however, be so issued except for the purpose of effecting the redemption of redeemable stock under s 3 unless the issue is authorised by a resolution of a general meeting of the company: s 2(3). No new stock may be created, nor may any redeemed stock be issued by a statutory water company, so as to make the total amount of any particular class of stock exceed the amount of stock of that class which the company is for the time being authorised to create except during an interval of three months between the creation or, in the case of redeemed stock, the issue of the stock, and the completion of the redemption of redeemable stock for the purpose of redeeming which the stock of that particular class is proposed to be created or issued: s 2(4). Where any preference stock is created or issued by a statutory water company as mentioned in s 2(4), the amount raised by means of that stock is deemed, for the purposes of any enactment, statutory order or resolution regulating the borrowing powers of the company, not to have been raised during any such interval as is so mentioned: s 2(5). 'Redeemable stock' means stock issued so as to be redeemable; and 'stock' means preference stock or debenture stock; 'preference stock' includes preference shares; 'issue' includes reissue; and 'redeemed stock' means redeemable stock which has been redeemed and is available for issue under the provisions of s 2 or s 3: s 2(6).

Redeemable stock issued by such a company bears such rate of dividend or interest, and is redeemable at such time, in such manner and subject otherwise to such terms and conditions, as the company may have determined before issuing the stock: s 3(1). The terms and conditions of redemption upon which any redeemable stock is issued by such a company must be stated in any offer by the company of any of the stock for sale and in every certificate of the stock, and a term or condition which is not so stated is not binding upon the holder of the stock: s 3(2). Redeemable stock may be redeemed either by paying off the stocks or by issuing, to an assenting holder of the stock, other stock in substitution for the redeemable stock, and for the purpose of raising money to pay off, or of providing stock in substitution for, any redeemable stock, a company to which these provisions apply may create new stock or issue redeemed stock, in either case so as to be redeemable or irredeemable as the company thinks fit; these powers are, however, subject to s 2(4), (5) (see above): s 3(3). Such a company may not redeem any redeemable stock out of revenue but any discount allowed on the issue of redeemable stock, or any premium payable on redemption, may be written off out of revenue: s 3(4). The redemption by such a company of any preference stock issued so as to be redeemable does not affect the validity of any mortgage or of any debenture stock if the grant or issue of the mortgage or debenture stock by the company was lawful in the circumstances existing at the date of the grant or issue: s 3(5).

13 Subject to the Statutory Water Companies Act 1991 ss 4(2)-(8), 5, so much of any provision contained in any local statutory provision, or having effect by virtue of anything done under any relevant provision, as imposes any specified limit or otherwise relates to any such limit has effect subject to such modifications as may be approved by special resolution of the company: s 4(1). 'Local statutory provision' means: (1) a provision of a local Act, including an Act confirming a provisional order; (2) a provision of so much of any public general Act as has effect with respect to a particular area, with respect to particular persons or works or with respect to particular provisions falling within any of the heads in this definition; (3) a provision of an instrument made under any provision falling within head (1) or (2) above; and (4) a provision of any other instrument which is in the nature of a local enactment: s 15(1). 'Relevant provision' means s 3(1) (see note 12), the Water Act 1945 s 41(5) (repealed), the provisions of the Statutory Companies (Redeemable Stock) Act 1915 (see COMPANIES vol 15 (2009) PARA 1684) or any local statutory provision: Statutory Water Companies Act 1991 s 4(8). Section 4 applies, in relation to a statutory water company, to the following limits, whether they are expressed by reference to a specified sum or percentage or by reference to the respective proportions of, or of different descriptions of, capital raised and sums borrowed or to any other matter, ie a limit: (a) on the amount of capital, or of capital of a particular description, that may be raised by the company; (b) on the amount that may be borrowed, or borrowed in a particular way or in particular circumstances, by the company; and (c) on the dividends payable on shares or stock in the company, or on shares or stock of a particular description: s 4(2).

Where, however, there is a division of the shares or stock of a statutory water company into different classes, no modification of a limit falling within head (c) above has effect unless a consent to or approval of the modification has been given in respect of each class the rights attached to which are varied in consequence of the modification (s 4(3)); and where this restriction applies in relation to a modification specified in a resolution passed for these purposes, the holders of not less in the aggregate than 15% in nominal value of the issued shares or stock of any class of shares or stock of the company who have not consented to the modification or voted in favour of any resolution for the modification may apply to the High Court to have the modification cancelled (s 5(1)). Such an application may be made on behalf of the shareholders or stockholders entitled to make it by such one or more of their number as they may appoint in writing for the purpose, but may not be made in relation to any modification more than 21 days after the date of the giving of the last consent or approval to the modification to be given for the purposes of s 4(1) or (3): s 5(2). Where such an application is made, the modification to which it relates has no effect unless and until it is confirmed by the court: s 5(3)(a). After hearing the applicant and any other persons who apply to be heard and appear to the court to be interested in the application, the High Court may disallow the modification if satisfied that, having regard to all the circumstances of the case, the variation would unfairly prejudice the shareholders or stockholders of the class represented by the applicant, and must confirm it if not so satisfied: s 5(3)(b). The decision of the High Court on the application is final: s 5(4). A consent or approval is given for the purposes of s 4(3) if: (i) consent in writing to the modification has been given by not less than three quarters, in nominal value, of the members of the company holding shares or stock of that class; or (ii) a resolution approving the modification is passed by not less than three quarters, in nominal value, of the members of the company holding shares or stock of that class who are present, whether in person or by proxy, at a meeting of which not less than 21 days' notice, specifying the intention to propose the resolution, has been duly given: s 4(4). For the purpose of determining whether these requirements are satisfied in relation to any two or more classes of shares or stock in a statutory water company, it is immaterial that consents and approvals have been given in respect of different classes in accordance with different heads of s 4(4) above: s 4(5). Provision having effect by virtue of a resolution passed in accordance with s 4 may be modified by a subsequent such resolution: s 4(6). The modifications that may be so made do not, however, include, in the case of a limit falling within head (a) above, any modification having the effect of reducing the authorised share capital, or the authorised capital stock, of the statutory water company in question: s 4(7). 'Modifications' includes additions, alterations and omissions, and in relation to any provision imposing a limit to which s 4 applies in relation to any statutory water company, the removal of that limit and the replacement of that provision with a provision imposing a different such limit in relation to that company; and cognate expressions are to be construed accordingly: s 15(1). 'Special resolution', in relation to a statutory water company, means a resolution passed by a majority of not less than three quarters of such of the members of the company as, being entitled to do so, vote, whether in person or by proxy, at a meeting of the company of which not less than 21 days' notice, specifying the intention to propose the resolution, has been duly given: s 4(8).

Nothing in so much of any local statutory provision as imposes a requirement as to the rate of interest at which sums may be borrowed by a statutory water company or as to the rate at which interest on sums so borrowed is to be paid applies in relation to any borrowing by a statutory water company after 31 August 1989: s 6. For these purposes, references to a local statutory provision do not include a reference to any provision contained in any enactment or instrument passed or made on or after 1 September 1989: s 15(3). Notwithstanding the provisions of any local statutory provision, every statutory water company has power to form and maintain reserve and contingency funds by setting apart such sums in such circumstances, and to invest those funds in such manner, as it thinks fit; but this does not authorise any failure by such a company to meet any obligation imposed on it by virtue of any local statutory provisions to pay any sum to any other person: s 7(1), (2). Nothing in any local statutory provision has effect: (A) so as to impose a limit on the amount that may be carried forward at the end of any period to the credit of the profit and loss (net revenue) account of a statutory water company (s 7(3)); (B) so as to require any shares or stock in a statutory water company to be offered for sale to the public

(s 8(a)); or (c) so as to require any offer for the sale of any such shares or stock to be an offer for sale by auction or tender (s 8(b)).

14 The statutory provisions relating to company arrangements and reconstructions (ie the Companies Act 2006 Pt 26 (ss 895-901): see COMPANIES vol 15 (2009) PARA 1425 et seq) have effect in relation to statutory water companies that are not limited companies with such modifications as may be prescribed by regulations made by the Secretary of State or, so far as this power to make regulations is exercisable in relation to Wales, by the Welsh Ministers: Statutory Water Companies Act 1991 s 9(1) (amended by SI 2008/948). For these purposes, 'limited company' means a company within the meaning of the Companies Act 1985 (see COMPANIES vol 14 (2009) PARA 1) which is limited by shares: Statutory Water Companies Act 1991 ss 9(3), 15(1). The Water Industry Act 1991 s 213 (procedure for making regulations and supplemental powers: see PARA 21) applies in relation to the making of such regulations as it applies in relation to the making of regulations under that Act: Statutory Water Companies Act 1991 s 9(2). As to the regulations made see the Companies Act 1985 (Modifications for Statutory Water Companies) Regulations 1989, SI 1989/1461, which have effect under these provisions by virtue of the Water Consolidation (Consequential Provisions) Act 1991 Sch 2 Pt I para 1(1), (2). All the functions of the Secretary of State under the Statutory Water Companies Act 1991, so far as exercisable in relation to Wales, were transferred to the National Assembly for Wales: see the National Assembly for Wales (Transfer of Functions) Order 1999, SI 1999/672, art 2, Sch 1. These functions are now vested in the Welsh Ministers: see the Government of Wales Act 2006 s 162(1), Sch 11 para 30. As to the Secretary of State see PARA 15 note 1. As to the Welsh Ministers see PARA 16 note 5. As to the meaning of 'Wales' see PARA 16 note 2. As to the power of the Secretary of State to intervene in relation to functions exercisable by the Welsh Ministers where any particular case might have a serious adverse impact on water resources, water supply, or the quality of water in England see PARA 16.

15 Any person employed as chief engineer, general manager or secretary of a statutory water company may be appointed, either by the directors or in the manner provided by the Companies Clauses Consolidation Act 1845 (see COMPANIES vol 15 (2009) PARA 1845 et seq), a director of the company, whether or not he is a shareholder of the company: Statutory Water Companies Act 1991 s 10(2). This provision applies notwithstanding anything in the Companies Clauses Consolidation Act 1845 as applied to any company, but subject to any provision of a memorandum and articles having effect by virtue of an order under the Statutory Water Companies Act 1991 s 12 (see PARA 135) and to any modification of any such memorandum and articles: s 10(1). 'Memorandum and articles' means a document containing only such provision as may be contained in a memorandum and articles of association registered under the Companies Act 1985: Statutory Water Companies Act 1991 s 15(1). No appointment may, however, be so made if it would increase the number of the directors of the company in question beyond the maximum number prescribed by any provision of any enactment or statutory order relating to the company; and not more than one director of the company may hold office by virtue of these provisions at the same time: s 10(3). A person so appointed does not cease to be a director by reason that he is employed as mentioned in s 10(2); but, if he was appointed by the directors, he ceases to be a director as from the date of the next ordinary general meeting of the company unless his appointment is approved at that meeting by a majority of the votes of the proprietors of the company entitled to vote or voting, whether personally or by proxy, at the meeting: s 10(4). The provisions of the Companies Clauses Consolidation Act 1845 requiring directors to retire by rotation have effect as if a person so appointed were not a director: Statutory Water Companies Act 1991 s 10(5).

16 See the Water Industry Act 1991 s 7(1); and PARA 137. By virtue of being a company the present water companies have powers which were not available to the former water authorities. As a creation of statute, the water authorities only had the powers given to them by statute; therefore some of the statutory powers given to water authorities (eg power to sell land) are not required by the present water undertakers. See generally COMPANIES. The power of the former water authorities to employ officers and other staff was not expressly conferred on them but it was essential to the carrying out of those authorities' functions and so was necessarily implied by the Water Act 1973 s 2(8), Sch 3 para 2(1) (repealed). As to the transfer of the former water authorities' property, rights, liabilities and functions to successor companies see PARA 108.

135. Conversion of statutory water companies.

A statutory water company holding an appointment as a water undertaker<sup>3</sup> may propose by special resolution<sup>4</sup>, whether before or after becoming a registered water company, that provision contained in a memorandum and articles<sup>5</sup> is to have effect in substitution for certain local statutory provisions<sup>6</sup> in which provision for the constitution and regulation of the company is contained or would otherwise be contained if the company became a registered water company<sup>7</sup>. Where such a proposal has been approved by order<sup>8</sup> made by the Secretary of State or, in relation to Wales, by the Welsh Ministers<sup>9</sup> and, in the case of a company that has not already done so, the company becomes a registered water company<sup>10</sup>, those local statutory provisions cease to have effect on the date specified or described for these purposes in the order and the proposed memorandum and articles come into force on that date, subject to any modifications<sup>11</sup>, terms or conditions contained in any order which may be made by the High Court<sup>12</sup> on a review of the special resolution in question<sup>13</sup>. The Secretary of State or, as the case may be, the Welsh Ministers may not make an order approving such a proposal unless it appears to them:

- 120 (1) that neither an application to the High Court<sup>14</sup> with respect to the company's proposal nor an appeal with respect to the subject matter of such an application is pending and that the period within which any such application or appeal may be made or brought has expired<sup>15</sup>; and
- 121 (2) where there is a division of the shares or stock of the company into different classes and such a proposed difference between the memorandum and articles and the local statutory provisions which they will replace as will vary the rights attached to any such class, that a consent to, or approval of, the difference has been given<sup>16</sup> in respect of each class the rights attached to which would be varied if the order were made<sup>17</sup>.

Where the Secretary of State or, in relation to Wales, the Welsh Ministers, has made such an order in relation to any company, nothing in the statutory provisions relating to such a company's powers and finances<sup>18</sup> has effect on or after the date specified or described in the order so as to confer powers in relation to the company in addition to those conferred by virtue of its memorandum and articles<sup>19</sup>. On and after that date, the memorandum and articles which come into force by virtue of the order have effect<sup>20</sup> as if they were the company's registered memorandum and articles<sup>21</sup> and the company must, before the end of the period of 15 days beginning with the day after that date, deliver to the registrar of companies<sup>22</sup> a printed copy of the memorandum and articles which have so come into force<sup>23</sup>.

The Secretary of State has or, in relation to Wales, the Welsh Ministers, also have power, where it appears to him or them to be appropriate to do so for the purposes of, or in consequence of, the approval contained in an order made under the above provisions, to repeal or amend by order any local statutory provision<sup>24</sup>.

1 As to the meaning of 'statutory water company' see PARA 134 note 1.

2 See the Statutory Water Companies Act 1991 s 11. The Companies Act 1985 Pt XXII Ch II (ss 680-690) has effect in relation to such companies as if: (1) any reference therein to a joint stock company included a reference to such a statutory water company as would not otherwise fall to be treated as a joint stock company for those purposes; and (2) any reference therein to an Act of Parliament included a reference to a local statutory provision which is not contained in an Act of Parliament: Statutory Water Companies Act 1991 s 11(1). As to the meaning of 'local statutory provision' see PARA 134 note 13. However, nothing in the Companies Act 1985, the Water Act 1989, the Water Industry Act 1991 or the Statutory Water Companies Act 1991 is to be construed as requiring a statutory water company to which a certificate has been issued under the Companies Act 1985 s 688 (certificates of registration under Pt XXII Ch II) to be treated for the purposes of those Acts or for any other purposes as if it had been a different person in law before the issue of the certificate: Statutory Water Companies Act 1991 s 11(2). As to the meaning of 'person' see PARA 13 note 29.

3 Ie an appointment under the Water Industry Act 1991 Pt II Ch I (ss 6-17): see PARA 137 et seq.

4 'Special resolution' means, in relation to a time: (1) after the company in question has become a registered water company, a special resolution as defined in the Companies Act 2006 s 283 (see COMPANIES vol 14 (2009) PARA 614); and (2) before that company becomes a registered water company, a special resolution within the meaning of the Statutory Water Companies Act 1991 s 4 (see PARA 134 note 13), but in each case subject to s 13(2) (see PARA 136 note 7): s 12(8) (definition amended by SI 2007/2194). A reference to a company's becoming a registered water company is a reference to the issue to that company, whether before, or on or after 1 September 1989, of a certificate under the Companies Act 1985 s 688: Statutory Water Companies Act 1991 s 15(1), (2).

8 The power to make such an order is exercisable by statutory instrument subject, in the case of an order of the Secretary of State, to annulment in pursuance of a resolution of either House of Parliament: see the Statutory Water Companies Act 1991 s 12(7). As to the bringing of subordinate legislation made by the Welsh Ministers before the National Assembly for Wales see the Government of Wales Act 2006 Sch 11 paras 33-35; and CONSTITUTIONAL LAW AND HUMAN RIGHTS. As to the Secretary of State see PARA 15 note 1.

9 Statutory Water Companies Act 1991 s 12(1)(c). All the functions of the Secretary of State under the Statutory Water Companies Act 1991, so far as exercisable in relation to Wales, were transferred to the National Assembly for Wales: see the National Assembly for Wales (Transfer of Functions) Order 1999, SI 1999/672, art 2, Sch 1. These functions are now vested in the Welsh Ministers: see the Government of Wales Act 2006 s 162(1), Sch 11 para 30. As to the Welsh Ministers see PARA 16 note 5. As to the meaning of 'Wales' see PARA 16 note 2. 17 Statutory Water Companies Act 1991 s 12(2). For the purpose of determining whether the requirements specified in head (2) in the text are satisfied in relation to any two or more classes of shares or stock in a company, it is immaterial that consents and approvals have been given in respect of different classes in accordance with different heads of s 12(3) (see note 16): s 12(4).

The power to make such an order is exercisable by statutory instrument subject, in the case of an order of the Secretary of State, to annulment in pursuance of a resolution of either House of Parliament: see s 14(2). Such an order may make different provision for different cases, including different provision in relation to different persons, circumstances or localities; and may contain such supplemental, consequential and transitional provision as the Secretary of State, or as the case may be, the Welsh Ministers considers appropriate: s 14(3). Halsbury's Laws of England/WATER AND WATERWAYS (VOLUME 100 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-452; VOLUME 101 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 453-851)/4. ORGANISATION OF THE WATER INDUSTRY/(4) WATER UNDERTAKERS/(i) Statutory Water Companies/136. Review by the High Court.

136. Review by the High Court.

Where a special resolution has been passed containing a proposal in relation to a statutory water company<sup>1</sup> for a memorandum and articles<sup>2</sup> to have effect in substitution for certain local statutory provisions<sup>3</sup>, an application for the resolution to be cancelled may be made to the High Court<sup>4</sup>. Such an application may not be made by any person<sup>5</sup> who has consented to, or voted in favour of, the proposal<sup>6</sup> but, subject to this, may be made on behalf of the persons entitled to make it<sup>7</sup> by such one or more of their number as they may appoint in writing for the purpose<sup>8</sup>.

On such an application the High Court has one or more of the following powers, namely power:

- 122 (1) to make an order, on such terms and conditions as it thinks fit, cancelling the resolution to which the application relates or confirming the proposal contained in that resolution either subject to such modifications of the proposed memorandum and articles as may be specified in the order or without modifications<sup>9</sup>;
- 123 (2) if it thinks fit, to adjourn the proceedings in order that arrangements may be made to the court's satisfaction for the purchase of the interests of dissentient members or for the payment of compensation to such members<sup>10</sup>;
- 124 (3) to give such directions and make such orders as it thinks expedient for facilitating or carrying into effect any such arrangement<sup>11</sup>; and
- 125 (4) to require that provision contained in any memorandum and articles, as confirmed by the court, is not at any time to be modified in the respects specified in the court's order except with the leave of the court<sup>12</sup>.

On such an application, the High Court may not confirm any proposal in so far as it incorporates such an alteration of a company's objects as could not be made under the relevant statutory provision<sup>13</sup> if the company were entitled to alter its objects thereunder<sup>14</sup>.

1 As to the meaning of 'statutory water company' see PARA 134 note 1.

2 As to the meaning of 'memorandum and articles' see PARA 134 note 15.

3 To have effect as mentioned in the Statutory Water Companies Act 1991 s 12(1): see PARA 135. As to the meaning of 'local statutory provision' see PARA 134 note 13.

4 Statutory Water Companies Act 1991 s 13(1). As to the High Court of Justice in England and Wales see COURTS vol 10 (Reissue) PARA 602 et seq.

5 As to the meaning of 'person' see PARA 13 note 29.

6 Statutory Water Companies Act 1991 s 13(1). It is immaterial whether that person did so for the purposes of s 12(1) or s 12(2)(b) (see PARA 135): see s 13(1).

7 The following persons are entitled to make such an application: (1) the holders of not less in the aggregate than 15% in nominal value of the company's issued share capital or issued stock (Statutory Water Companies Act 1991 s 13(1)(a)); (2) the holders of not less in the aggregate than 15% in nominal value of the issued shares or stock of any class in respect of which a consent to, or approval of, the proposal to which the resolution relates is required for the purposes of s 12(2)(b) (see PARA 135) (s 13(1)(b)); or (3) if the resolution incorporates a modification of the company's objects, the holders of not less than 15% of such of the company's debentures as entitle the holders to object to such a modification (s 13(1)(c)). The debentures so entitling the holders to object to a modification of the company's objects are any debentures secured on the company's undertaking which were issued, or first issued, before 6 July 1989, or form part of the same series as any debentures so issued but have been issued on or after that date; and 'debentures' has the same meaning as in the Companies Act 1985: Statutory Water Companies Act 1991 s 13(7). As to the meaning of 'modifications' see PARA 134 note 13.

In the case of such a special resolution for the purposes of s 12(1) (see PARA 135) as incorporates a modification of the company's objects: (a) notice must be given to the holders of debentures entitling the holders to object under s 13 to a modification of the company's objects; (b) that notice must in the case of a written resolution, be given no later than the last day on which copies of the resolution are sent or submitted to members of the company, and in the case of a resolution to be proposed at a meeting, be the same notice as is given for the purposes of the resolution to members of the company; and (c) in the absence of any local statutory provision regulating the giving of that notice, that notice must be given in accordance with the provisions regulating the giving of the notice to the members: s 13(2) (amended by SI 2007/2194). As to the meanings of 'written' and 'writing' see PARA 22 note 1.

8 Statutory Water Companies Act 1991 s 13(3)(a). The application may not be made in relation to any special resolution more than 21 days after the date of the last resolution, consent or approval to be passed or given for the purposes of s 12(1)(b) or (2)(b) (see PARA 135) or for the purposes, in connection with the company's becoming a registered water company, of the Companies Act 1985 s 681 (procedural requirements for registration): Statutory Water Companies Act 1991 s 13(3)(b).

10 Statutory Water Companies Act 1991 s 13(4)(b).

11 Statutory Water Companies Act 1991 s 13(4)(c). Without prejudice to the powers so conferred, an order of the High Court under s 13 may, if the court thinks fit, provide for the purchase by a company of the shares or stock of any members of the company and the reduction accordingly of the company's capital; and an order which so provides may not confirm a proposal for a memorandum and articles to have effect in substitution for any local statutory provisions except subject to such modifications, if any, as may be required in consequence of that purchase and reduction: s 13(5).

12 Statutory Water Companies Act 1991 s 13(4)(d).

A. MAKING OF APPOINTMENTS

137. Appointment of relevant undertakers.

A company may be appointed<sup>1</sup> by the Secretary of State<sup>2</sup>, or, with his consent or in accordance with a general authorisation given by him, by the Water Services Regulation Authority<sup>3</sup>, to be the water undertaker or sewerage undertaker<sup>4</sup> for any area of England<sup>5</sup>. Water undertakers must be limited companies or statutory water companies<sup>6</sup>, and sewerage undertakers must be limited companies<sup>7</sup>. A company may not be appointed to be a relevant undertaker<sup>8</sup> if it is a licensed water supplier<sup>9</sup>.

The appointment of a company as a relevant undertaker is made by service on the company of an instrument in writing<sup>10</sup> containing the appointment and describing the area for which it is made<sup>11</sup>. A single instrument may contain the appointment of a company to be both the water undertaker for an area and the sewerage undertaker for the whole or any part of that area, or for an area which includes the whole or any part of that area<sup>12</sup>. As soon as practicable after making such an appointment, the Secretary of State must send a copy of the appointment to the Water Services Regulation Authority<sup>13</sup>.

Without prejudice to the obligation of a company holding any such appointment to comply with the conditions of its appointment<sup>14</sup>, the appointment of a company to be the water undertaker or sewerage undertaker for any area has the effect, while the appointment remains in force:

- 126 (1) of requiring the company to perform any statutory duty imposed by or under any enactment<sup>15</sup> on such an undertaker<sup>16</sup>;
- 127 (2) of authorising the company, for the purposes of or in connection with the carrying out of any of the functions<sup>17</sup> of such an undertaker, to exercise any power conferred by or under any enactment on an undertaker of that description<sup>18</sup>;
- 128 (3) of requiring enactments and subordinate legislation<sup>19</sup> authorising or requiring anything to be done in relation to an undertaker of the relevant description to be construed as authorising or requiring that thing to be done in relation to that company<sup>20</sup>; and
- 129 (4) of requiring other references in any enactment or subordinate legislation to an undertaker of the relevant description, or to the area of that undertaker, to be construed, so far as necessary for the purposes of, or in connection with, the carrying out by that company of the functions of an undertaker of that description, as references to that company or to that area<sup>21</sup>.

The functions of the Secretary of State under the above provisions are transferred to the Welsh Ministers in relation to any water undertaker or sewerage undertaker whose area is wholly or mainly in Wales<sup>22</sup>.

2 Water Industry Act 1991 s 6(1)(a). As to the Secretary of State see PARA 15 note 1. As to the transfer of the functions of the Secretary of State to the Welsh Ministers see the text to note 22. 4 The terms 'water undertaker' and 'sewerage undertaker' are not defined in the Water Industry Act 1991. However, in any Act, 'water undertaker' and 'sewerage undertaker', in relation to England and Wales, are to be construed in accordance with the Water Industry Act 1991 s 6: see the Interpretation Act 1978 s 5, Sch 1 (definitions substituted by the Water Act 1989 s 190, Sch 25 para 55; and amended by the Water Consolidation (Consequential Provisions) Act 1991 s 2, Sch 1, paras 3, 32). As to the meaning of 'England' see PARA 19 note 8. As to the meaning of 'Wales' see PARA 16 note 2. As to sewerage undertakers see further ENVIRONMENTAL QUALITY AND PUBLIC HEALTH vol 46 (2010) PARA 999 et seq.

5 Water Industry Act 1991 s 6(1). It is the duty of the Secretary of State to secure that such appointments are made as will ensure that for every area of England there is at all times both: (1) a company holding an appointment under Pt II Ch II (ss 6-17) as water undertaker (s 7(1)(a)); and (2) whether or not the same company in relation to the whole or any part of that area, a company holding an appointment as sewerage undertaker (s 7(1)(b)). As to the power to terminate an appointment or vary an appointee's area, and as to replacement appointments, see PARA 138. As to the duty of water and sewerage undertakers to furnish information to the Secretary of State see PARA 182. As to the functions and duties of water undertakers see further PARA 453 et seq; and as to the functions and duties of sewerage undertakers see further ENVIRONMENTAL QUALITY AND PUBLIC HEALTH vol 46 (2010) PARA 999 et seq.

6 As to the meaning of 'statutory water company' see PARA 134 note 1.

7 See the Water Industry Act 1991 s 6(5). 'Limited company' means a company within the meaning of the Companies Act 1985 which is limited by shares: Water Industry Act 1991 s 219(1). As to companies limited by shares see COMPANIES vol 14 (2009) PARA 102.

8 'Relevant undertaker' means a water undertaker or sewerage undertaker: Water Industry Act 1991 s 219(1).

10 As to the service of documents see PARA 22. As to the meaning of 'writing' see PARA 22 note 1.

11 Water Industry Act 1991 s 6(3). The instruments of appointment of water undertakers and sewerage undertakers are available on the Water Services Regulation Authority website at www.ofwat.gov.uk.

12 Water Industry Act 1991 s 6(4). In practice the areas are not co-extensive as they are based on the areas of the former water authorities for water supply and sewerage functions. As to areas of appointment in relation to water supply see PARA 318.

13 Water Industry Act 1991 s 6(6) (amended by the Water Act 2003 s 36(2)).

14 An appointment may contain such conditions as appear to the Secretary of State or the Water Services Regulation Authority to be requisite or expedient: see Water Industry Act 1991 s 11(1)(a); and PARA 142. If an undertaker contravenes a condition of its appointment the Secretary of State or the Authority (whichever is the enforcing authority) may set in motion the enforcement procedure under s 18: see PARA 163.

15 As to the meaning of 'enactment' see PARA 14 note 31.

21 Water Industry Act 1991 s 6(2)(d).

22 The functions of the Secretary of State under the Water Industry Act 1991 ss 6, 7 were so transferred to the National Assembly for Wales: see the National Assembly for Wales (Transfer of Functions) Order 1999, SI 1999/672, art 2, Sch 1. These functions are now vested in the Welsh Ministers: see the Government of Wales Act 2006 s 162(1), Sch 11 para 30. As to the Welsh Ministers see PARA 16 note 5. As to the power of the Secretary of State to intervene in relation to functions exercisable by the Welsh Ministers where any particular case might have a serious adverse impact on water resources, water supply, or the quality of water in England see PARA 16. ## UPDATE

137 Appointment of relevant undertakers

NOTE 7--'Limited company' now means a company (as defined in the Companies Act 2006 s 1(1)) (see COMPANIES vol 14 (2009) PARA 24) that is registered in England and Wales or Scotland, and is limited by shares: Water Industry Act 1991 s 219(1) (definition substituted by SI 2009/1941).

Halsbury's Laws of England/WATER AND WATERWAYS (VOLUME 100 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-452; VOLUME 101 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 453-851)/4. ORGANISATION OF THE WATER INDUSTRY/(4) WATER UNDERTAKERS/(ii) Relevant Undertakers/A. MAKING OF APPOINTMENTS/138. Replacement or variation of appointments.

138. Replacement or variation of appointments.

The Secretary of State<sup>1</sup> and, with the consent of or in accordance with a general authorisation given by the Secretary of State, the Water Services Regulation Authority<sup>2</sup>, has power, by notice<sup>3</sup> to a company holding an appointment as a relevant undertaker<sup>4</sup>, to terminate the appointment or to vary the area to which it relates<sup>5</sup>. The appointment of a company to be a water undertaker or sewerage undertaker<sup>6</sup> may not, however, be terminated or otherwise cease to relate to, or to any part of, any area except with effect from the coming into force of such appointments and variations replacing that company as a relevant undertaker<sup>7</sup> as secure either: (1) that another company becomes the water undertaker or sewerage undertaker for that area or part, or for an area that includes that area or part<sup>8</sup>; or (2) that two or more companies each become the water undertaker or sewerage undertaker for one of a number of different areas that together constitute or include that area or part<sup>9</sup>.

An appointment or variation replacing a company as a relevant undertaker may not be made in relation to the whole or any part of the area to which that company's appointment as water undertaker or sewerage undertaker relates except where:

- 130 (a) that company consents to the appointment or variation<sup>10</sup>;
- 131 (b) the appointment or variation relates only to parts of that area, none of the premises in which is served by that company<sup>11</sup>;
- 132 (c) the appointment or variation relates only to parts of that area and the statutory conditions<sup>12</sup> are satisfied in relation to each of the premises in those parts which are served by that company<sup>13</sup>; or
- 133 (d) the appointment or variation is made in such circumstances as may be set out for these purposes in the conditions of that company's appointment<sup>14</sup>.

The functions of the Secretary of State under the above provisions are transferred to the Welsh Ministers in relation to any water undertaker or sewerage undertaker whose area is wholly or mainly in Wales<sup>15</sup>.

1 Water Industry Act 1991 s 7(2)(a). As to the Secretary of State see PARA 15 note 1. As to the transfer of the functions of the Secretary of State to the Welsh Ministers see the text to note 15. As to the exercise by the Secretary of State of his powers and duties relating to the regulation of undertakers see s 2; and PARA 130.

2 Water Industry Act 1991 s 7(2)(b) (amended by the Water Act 2003 s 36(2)). As to the Water Services Regulation Authority see PARA 109. As to the exercise by the Authority of its powers and duties relating to the regulation of undertakers see s 2; and PARA 130.

3 As to the meaning of 'notice' see PARA 22 note 1. As to the service of documents see PARA 22.

4 I.e. an appointment under the Water Industry Act 1991 Pt II Ch I (ss 6-17): see PARAS 137, 139 et seq. As to the meaning of 'relevant undertaker' see PARA 137 note 8.

5 Water Industry Act 1991 s 7(2).

6 As to the meanings of 'water undertaker' and 'sewerage undertaker' see PARA 137 note 4.

7 For these purposes, references to an 'appointment or variation replacing a company as a relevant undertaker' are references to the following, that is to say: (1) the appointment of a company to be the water undertaker or sewerage undertaker for any area which is or includes the whole or any part of any area for which another company already holds an appointment as water undertaker or, as the case may be, sewerage undertaker; or (2) a variation by virtue of which the area for which a company holds an appointment under the Water Industry Act 1991 Pt II Ch I (ss 6-17) is modified so as to include the whole or any part of an area for which another company already holds an appointment as water undertaker or, as the case may be, sewerage undertaker: s 36(2).

8 Water Industry Act 1991 s 7(3)(a).

10 Water Industry Act 1991 s 7(4)(a).

11 Water Industry Act 1991 s 7(4)(b) (amended by the Competition and Service (Utilities) Act 1992 s 40(1)). For these purposes, premises in a part of an area are served by a company holding an appointment under the Water Industry Act 1991 Pt II Ch I (ss 6-17): (1) in relation to an appointment or variation by virtue of which that company would be replaced as the water undertaker for that part of that area, if those premises are supplied with water by means of a connection with a distribution main of that company; and (2) in relation to an appointment or variation by virtue of which that company would be replaced as the sewerage undertaker for that part of that area, if those premises are drained by means of a relevant sewer or drain: s 36(3) (amended by the Competition and Service (Utilities) Act 1992 ss 40(5), 56(7), Sch 2; the Water Act 2003 s 97(1), (2)(a)).

'Distribution main' means a water main that is not a trunk main: Water Industry Act 1991 s 36(4). 'Water main' means, subject to the Water Industry Act 1991 s 219(2) (see below), any pipe, not being a pipe for the time being vested in a person other than the undertaker, which is used or to be used by a water undertaker or licensed water supplier for the purpose of making a general supply of water available to customers or potential customers of the undertaker or licensed water supplier, as distinct from for the purpose of providing a supply to particular customers: s 219(1) (definition amended by the Water Act 2003 s 101(1), Sch 8 paras 2, 50(1), (2)(b) (ii)). As to the meaning of 'person' see PARA 13 note 29. As to the meaning of 'customers or potential customers' see PARA 118 note 7. As to the meaning of 'licensed water supplier' see PARA 152. 'Trunk main' means a water main which is or is to be used by a water undertaker for the purpose of: (a) conveying water from a source of supply to a filter or reservoir or from one filter or reservoir to another filter or reservoir; or (b) conveying water in bulk, whether in the course of taking a supply of water in bulk or otherwise, between different places outside the area of the undertaker, from such a place to any part of that area or from one part of that area to another part of that area: Water Industry Act 1991 s 219(1). 'Supply of water in bulk' means a supply of water for distribution by a water undertaker taking the supply: s 219(1). In the Water Industry Act 1991 references to a 'pipe', including references to a main, a drain or a sewer, include references to a tunnel or conduit which serves or is to serve as the pipe in question and to any accessories for the pipe; and, accordingly, references to the 'laying of a pipe' include references to the construction of such a tunnel or conduit, to the construction or installation of any such accessories and to the making of a connection between one pipe and another: s 219(2). 'Accessories', in relation to a water main, sewer or other pipe, includes any manholes, ventilating shafts, inspection chambers, settling tanks, wash-out pipes, pumps, ferrules or stopcocks for the main, sewer or other pipe, or any machinery or other apparatus which is designed or adapted for use in connection with the use or maintenance of the main, sewer or other pipe or of another accessory for it, but does not include any electronic communications apparatus unless: (i) it is or is to be situated inside or in the close vicinity of the main, sewer or other pipe or inside or in the close vicinity of another accessory for it; and (ii) is intended to be used only in connection with the use or maintenance of the main, sewer or other pipe or of another accessory for it: s 219(1) (definition amended by the Communications Act 2003 s 406(1), Sch 17 para 110). 'Stopcock' includes any box or pit in which a stopcock is enclosed and the cover to any such box or pit: Water Industry Act 1991 s 219(1). 'Drain' means (subject to s 219(2): see above) a drain used for the drainage of one building or of any buildings or yards appurtenant to buildings within the same curtilage: s 219(1). 'Sewer' includes (without prejudice to s 219(2): see above) all sewers and drains (not being drains within the meaning given above) which are used for the drainage of buildings and yards appurtenant to buildings: s 219(1).

'Relevant sewer or drain', in relation to any appointment or variation which would replace a company as a sewerage undertaker, means any of the following, that is to say: (A) a public sewer or lateral drain vested in that company; (B) a sewer or lateral drain in relation to which that company has made a declaration of vesting under the Water Industry Act 1991 s 102 (see ENVIRONMENTAL QUALITY AND PUBLIC HEALTH vol 46 (2010) PARA 1004) which has not yet taken effect; (C) a sewer or lateral drain in relation to which that company has entered into an agreement under s 104 (see ENVIRONMENTAL QUALITY AND PUBLIC HEALTH vol 46 (2010) PARA 1006): s 36(4) (definition substituted by the Water Act 2003 s 97(1), (2)(b)). 'Public sewer' means (subject to the Water Industry Act 1991 s 106(1A): see ENVIRONMENTAL QUALITY AND PUBLIC HEALTH vol 46 (2010) PARA 1041) a sewer for the time being vested in a sewerage undertaker in its capacity as such, whether vested in that undertaker by virtue of a scheme under the Water Act 1989 Sch 2 (see PARA 108) or the Water Industry Act 1991 Sch 2 (see PARA 141) or under s 179 (see PARA 464) or otherwise; and 'private sewer' is to be construed accordingly: s 219(1) (definition amended by the Water Act 2003 s 99(1), (6)). 'Public sewer' is similarly defined in the Water Resources Act 1991: see s 221(1). 'Lateral drain' means: (aa) that part of a drain which runs from the curtilage of a building (or buildings or yards within the same curtilage) to the sewer with which the drain communicates or is to communicate; or (bb) (if different and the context so requires) the part of a drain identified in a declaration of vesting made under the Water Industry Act 1991 s 102 or in an agreement made under s 104: s 219(1) (definition added by the Water Act 2003 s 97(1), (9)(a)).

12 The statutory conditions are that: (1) the premises are, or are likely to be, supplied with not less than the following quantity of water in any period of 12 months: (a) if the area of the relevant undertaker concerned is wholly or mainly in Wales, 250 megalitres (Water Industry Act 1991 s 7(5)(a) (s 7(5), (6) added by the Competition and Service (Utilities) Act 1992 s 40(2); Water Industry Act 1991 s 7(5)(a) substituted by SI 2000/1842)); (b) in all other cases, 50 megalitres (Water Industry Act 1991 s 7(5)(b) (as so added; and amended by SI 2005/268)); and (2) the person who is the customer in relation to the premises consents in writing to the appointment or variation (s 7(5) (as so added)). As to the meaning of 'Wales' see PARA 16 note 2. As to the meaning of 'writing' see PARA 22 note 1. The Secretary of State or, in relation to Wales, the Welsh Ministers (see the text to note 15) may, after consulting the Water Services Regulation Authority, make regulations amending s 7(5) by substituting, for the quantity of water for the time being specified there, such smaller quantity as he or they consider appropriate: s 7(6) (as so added; and amended by the Water Act 2003 s 36(2)). As to the making of regulations see PARA 21. As to the regulations made see the Water and Sewerage Undertakers (Inset Appointments) Regulations 2000, SI 2000/1842; the Water and Sewerage Undertakers (Inset Appointments) Regulations 2005, SI 2005/268.

13 Water Industry Act 1991 s 7(4)(bb) (added by the Competition and Service (Utilities) Act 1992 s 40(1)). An appointment made in such circumstances is generally referred to as an 'inset appointment'. A list of inset appointments is available on the Water Services Regulation Authority's website at www.ofwat.gov.uk.

14 Water Industry Act 1991 s 7(4)(c).

15 The functions of the Secretary of State under the Water Industry Act 1991 s 7 were so transferred to the National Assembly for Wales: see the National Assembly for Wales (Transfer of Functions) Order 1999, SI 1999/672, art 2, Sch 1. These functions are now vested in the Welsh Ministers: see the Government of Wales Act 2006 s 162(1), Sch 11 para 30. As to the Welsh Ministers see PARA 16 note 5. ORGANISATION OF THE WATER INDUSTRY/(4) WATER UNDERTAKERS/(ii) Relevant Undertakers/A. MAKING OF APPOINTMENTS/140. Duties affecting the making of appointments and variations of appointments.

140. Duties affecting the making of appointments and variations of appointments.

Before making an appointment or variation replacing a company as a relevant undertaker<sup>1</sup>, the Secretary of State<sup>2</sup> or the Water Services Regulation Authority<sup>3</sup> must consider any representations or objections which have been duly made<sup>4</sup> and not withdrawn<sup>5</sup>. Before making an appointment or variation replacing a company as a relevant undertaker, the Secretary of State must consult the Authority<sup>6</sup>. In determining whether to make an appointment or variation<sup>7</sup> in relation to any part of an area served by a company, the Secretary of State or, as the case may be, the Authority must have regard in particular to any arrangements made or expenditure incurred by the existing appointee<sup>8</sup> for the purpose of enabling premises in that part of that area to be served by the existing appointee<sup>9</sup>.

It is the duty of the Secretary of State or, as the case may be, the Water Services Regulation Authority:

- 134 (1) in making an appointment or variation replacing a company as a relevant undertaker<sup>10</sup>; and
- 135 (2) where such an appointment or variation is made, in determining what provision is to be made with respect to the fixing by the new appointee<sup>11</sup> of any water or drainage charges<sup>12</sup>, to ensure<sup>13</sup> that the interests of the members and creditors of the existing appointee are not unfairly prejudiced as respects the terms on which the new appointee could accept transfers of property, rights and liabilities from the existing appointee<sup>14</sup>.

The functions of the Secretary of State under the above provisions are transferred to the Welsh Ministers in relation to any water undertaker or sewerage undertaker whose area is wholly or mainly in Wales<sup>15</sup>.

ORGANISATION OF THE WATER INDUSTRY/(4) WATER UNDERTAKERS/(ii) Relevant Undertakers/A. MAKING OF APPOINTMENTS/141. Transitional provision with respect to replacement appointments.

141. Transitional provision with respect to replacement appointments.

Transitional provision may be made<sup>1</sup> with respect to cases in which a company is replaced by another as a relevant undertaker<sup>2</sup> by an appointment or variation made<sup>3</sup> under the relevant statutory provisions<sup>4</sup>. Where:

- 136 (1) the Secretary of State<sup>5</sup> or the Water Services Regulation Authority<sup>6</sup> is proposing to make an appointment or variation replacing a company as a relevant undertaker<sup>7</sup> and by virtue of that appointment a company (the 'new appointee') will hold an appointment as the water undertaker or sewerage undertaker<sup>8</sup> for an area which includes the whole or any part of the area for which, until the relevant date<sup>9</sup>, another company (the 'existing appointee') holds an appointment as the water undertaker or sewerage undertaker<sup>10</sup>; or
- 137 (2) the High Court has made a special administration order<sup>11</sup> in relation to any company<sup>12</sup> (the 'existing appointee') and it is proposed that on or after the relevant date<sup>13</sup> another company (the 'new appointee') should, without any such appointment or variation as is mentioned in head (1) above having been made, hold an appointment as water undertaker or sewerage undertaker for an area which is or includes the whole or any part of the area for which until that date the existing appointee holds an appointment as water undertaker or sewerage undertaker<sup>14</sup>,

The existing appointee, acting with the consent of the new appointee and of any other appointees<sup>16</sup> in relation to the matters affecting them, may make a scheme for the transfer of property, rights and liabilities from the existing appointee to the new appointee<sup>17</sup>. Such a scheme does not take effect unless it is approved by the Secretary of State or the Water Services Regulation Authority<sup>18</sup>; and if, at any time after such a scheme has come into force in relation to the property, rights and liabilities of any company, the Secretary of State considers it appropriate to do so and the existing appointee, the new appointee and, in relation to the provisions of the order which affect them, any other appointees consent to the making of the order, the Secretary of State may by order provide<sup>19</sup> that that scheme is to be deemed for all purposes to have come into force with such modifications<sup>20</sup> as may be specified in the order<sup>21</sup>.

A scheme made under these provisions for the transfer of the existing appointee's property, rights and liabilities comes into force on the relevant date and, on coming into force, has effect, in accordance with its provisions<sup>22</sup> and without further assurance, so as to transfer the property, rights and liabilities<sup>23</sup> to which the scheme relates to the new appointee<sup>24</sup>. Where a scheme is made in the case specified in head (2) above, it may provide for the transfer to the new appointee, with such modifications as may be specified in the scheme, of the appointment<sup>25</sup> which is held by the existing appointee<sup>26</sup>, and different schemes may provide for the transfer of such an appointment to different companies as respects different parts of the area to which the appointment relates<sup>27</sup>.

A scheme may contain supplemental, consequential and transitional provision for the purposes of, or in connection with, the provision for the transfers or any other provision made by it<sup>28</sup>. It may provide for the imposition of duties<sup>29</sup> on the existing appointee and on the new appointee to take all such steps as may be requisite to secure that the vesting in the new appointee, by virtue of the scheme, of any foreign property, right or liability<sup>30</sup> is effective under the relevant foreign law<sup>31</sup>. The provisions of such a scheme may require the existing appointee to comply with any directions of the new appointee in performing any duty imposed by virtue of a provision so included<sup>32</sup>. A scheme may provide:

- 138 (a) that until the vesting of any foreign property, right or liability of the existing appointee in the new appointee is effective under the relevant foreign law, it is the duty of the existing appointee to hold that property or right for the benefit of, or to discharge that liability on behalf of, the new appointee<sup>33</sup>;
- 139 (b) that in specified cases foreign property, rights or liabilities that are acquired or incurred by an existing appointee after the scheme comes into force are immediately to become property, rights or liabilities of the new appointee<sup>34</sup>.

If the Secretary of State thinks it appropriate to do so for the purposes of, or in connection with, any appointment or variation replacing a company as a relevant undertaker or any scheme made under the above provisions, he may, by order made by statutory instrument, make any provision which corresponds in relation to any specified enactment<sup>35</sup> to any provision originally made by the Water Act 1989<sup>36</sup> or makes similar provision in relation to any other enactment, or may amend or repeal any local statutory provision<sup>37</sup>.

Where, by an appointment or variation, one company (the 'new undertaker') is to replace another company as a relevant undertaker, but the appointment or variation has not come into force, certain provisions of the Water Industry Act 1991<sup>38</sup> apply in relation to the new undertaker, except where they are inapplicable to the kind of undertaker in question, as if the appointment or variation had come into force<sup>39</sup>. Such of the conditions imposed on the new undertaker<sup>40</sup> as the Water Services Regulation Authority may specify in a written notice given by it to the undertaker have effect, in relation to the operation of any of those statutory provisions before the appointment or variation comes into force, as if the appointment or variation had come into force<sup>41</sup>.

The functions of the Secretary of State under the above provisions are transferred to the Welsh Ministers in relation to any water undertaker or sewerage undertaker whose area is wholly or mainly in Wales but not in relation to any licensed water suppliers<sup>42</sup>.

8    As to the meanings of 'water undertaker' and 'sewerage undertaker' see PARA 137 note 4.

9    For these purposes the 'relevant date' means the coming into force of the appointment or variation mentioned in head (1) in the text: Water Industry Act 1991 Sch 2 para 1(4)(a).

10 Water Industry Act 1991 Sch 2 para 1(2) (amended by the Water Act 2003 s 36(2)).

12 Ie holding an appointment under the Water Industry Act 1991 Pt II Ch 1 (ss 6-17).

13 For these purposes the 'relevant date' means such day, being a day before the discharge of the special administration order takes effect, as the High Court may appoint for the purposes of the Water Industry Act 1991 Sch 2: Sch 2 para 1(4)(b).

14 Water Industry Act 1991 Sch 2 para 1(3) (amended by the Water Act 2003 s 101(1), Sch 8 paras 2, 51(1), (3)).

15 Water Industry Act 1991 Sch 2 para 1(1). As to the application of these provisions where the High Court has made a special administration order in relation to any company which is a qualifying licensed water supplier see PARA 154.

16 'Other appointees' means any company, other than the existing appointee and the new appointee (construed in accordance with head (1) or head (2) in the text, as appropriate), which are likely on or at a time after the relevant date to be holding appointments as water undertakers or sewerage undertakers for any area which is or includes any part of the area for which the existing appointee has at any time held an appointment as water undertaker or sewerage undertaker: Water Industry Act 1991 Sch 2 para 1(4).

18 Water Industry Act 1991 Sch 2 para 2(2) (Sch 2 para 2(2), (3), (6), (7) amended by the Water Act 2003, s 36(2)). Without prejudice to the other provisions of the Water Industry Act 1991 relating to the special administrator of a company, anything which is required by Sch 2 para 2 to be done by a company is, where that company is a company in relation to which a special administration order is in force, effective only if it is done on the company's behalf by its special administrator: Sch 2 para 2(9). 'Special administrator', in relation to a company with respect to which a special administration order has been made, means the person for the time being holding office for the purposes of s 23(1) (see PARA 173): Sch 2 para 1(4).

Where a scheme is submitted to the Secretary of State or the Authority for approval he or it may, with the consent of the new appointee, of the existing appointee and, in relation to the matters affecting them, of any other appointees, modify the scheme before approving it: Sch 2 para 2(3) (as so amended). In determining, in accordance with his or its duties under Pt I (ss 1-5), whether and in what manner to exercise any power conferred on him or on it by Sch 2 para 2, the Secretary of State or the Authority must have regard to the need to ensure that any provision for the transfer of property, rights and liabilities in accordance with a scheme under Sch 2 allocates property, rights and liabilities to the different companies affected by the scheme in such proportions as appear to him or it to be appropriate in the context of the different functions which will be carried out at different times on and after the relevant date by the new appointee, by the existing appointee and by any other appointees: Sch 2 para 2(6) (as so amended). It is the duty of the new appointee, of the existing appointee and of any other appointees to provide the Secretary of State or the Authority with all such information and other assistance as he or it may reasonably require for the purposes of, or in connection with, the exercise of any such powers (Sch 2 para 2(7) (as so amended)); and a company which without reasonable excuse fails to do anything so required of it is guilty of an offence and liable on summary conviction to a fine not exceeding level 5 on the standard scale (Sch 2 para 2(8)). As to the meaning of 'information' see PARA 117 note 13. 'Standard scale' means the standard scale of maximum fines for summary offences as set out in the Criminal Justice Act 1982 s 37: see the Interpretation Act 1978 s 5, Sch 1 (definition added by the Criminal Justice Act 1988 s 170(1), Sch 15 PARA 58); and SENTENCING AND DISPOSITION OF OFFENDERS vol 92 (2010) PARA 142. At the date at which this volume states the law, the standard scale is as follows: level 1, £200; level 2, £500; level 3, £1,000; level 4, £2,500; level 5, £5,000: Criminal Justice Act 1982 s 37(2) (substituted by the Criminal Justice Act 1991 s 17(1)). As to the determination of the amount of the fine actually imposed, as distinct from the level on the standard scale which it may not exceed, see the Criminal Justice Act 2003 s 164; and SENTENCING AND DISPOSITION OF OFFENDERS vol 92 (2010) PARA 144.

19 Such an order may make, with effect from the coming into force of the scheme to which it relates, any such provision as could have been made by the scheme and, in connection with giving effect to that provision from that time, may contain such supplemental, consequential and transitional provision as the Secretary of State considers appropriate: Water Industry Act 1991 Sch 2 para 2(5).

20 'Modifications' includes additions, alterations and omissions, and cognate expressions must be construed accordingly: Water Industry Act 1991 s 219(1). There is an identical definition in the Water Resources Act 1991: see s 221(1).

21 Water Industry Act 1991 Sch 2 para 2(4). Orders under this provision are local in nature and are not recorded in this work.

22 For the purpose of making any division of property, rights or liabilities which it is considered appropriate to make in connection with the transfer of property, rights and liabilities in accordance with a scheme under the Water Industry Act 1991 Sch 2, the provisions of that scheme may: (1) create for the existing appointee, the new appointee or any other appointees an interest in or right over any property to which the scheme relates; (2) create new rights and liabilities as between any two or more of those companies; and (3) in connection with any provision made by virtue of head (1) or (2) above, make incidental provision as to the interests, rights and liabilities of other persons with respect to the subject matter of the scheme: Sch 2 para 3(2). A scheme may contain provision for the consideration to be provided by the new appointee and by any other appointees in respect of the transfer or creation of property, rights and liabilities of other persons with respect to the subject matter of the scheme; and any such provision is enforceable in the same way as if the property, rights and liabilities had been created or transferred, and, if the case so requires, had been capable of being created or transferred, by agreement between the parties: Sch 2 para 3(3). The provision that may be made by virtue of head (2) above includes: (a) provision for treating any person who is entitled by virtue of a scheme under Sch 2 to possession of a document as having given another person an acknowledgment in writing of the right of that other person to the production of the document and to copies of it; and (b) provision applying the Law of Property Act 1925 s 64 (production and custody of documents: see SALE OF LAND vol 42 (Reissue) PARA 299) in relation to any case in respect of which provision falling within head (a) has effect: Water Industry Act 1991 Sch 2 para 3(5). As to the meaning of 'person' see PARA 13 note 29. As to the meaning of 'writing' see PARA 22 note 1.

23 The property, rights and liabilities of the existing appointee that are capable of being transferred in accordance with a scheme under the Water Industry Act 1991 Sch 2 include: (1) property, rights and liabilities that would not otherwise be capable of being transferred or assigned by the existing appointee; (2) such property, rights and liabilities to which the existing appointee may become entitled or subject after the making of the scheme and before the relevant date as may be described in the scheme; (3) property situated anywhere in the United Kingdom or elsewhere; (4) rights and liabilities under enactments; (5) rights and liabilities under the law of any part of the United Kingdom or of any country or territory outside the United Kingdom: Sch 2 para 3(4). The transfers authorised by head (1) above include transfers which, by virtue thereof, are to take effect as if there were no such contravention, liability or interference with any interests or right as there would be, in the case of a transfer or assignment otherwise than in accordance with a scheme under Sch 2, by reason of any provision having effect, whether under any enactment or agreement or otherwise, in relation to the terms on which the existing appointee is entitled or subject to the property, right or liability in question: Sch 2 para 3(6). As to the meaning of 'enactment' see PARA 14 note 31. As to the meaning of 'United Kingdom' see PARA 22 note 5.

28 Water Industry Act 1991 Sch 2 para 5(1). Without prejudice to the generality of this provision, a scheme under Sch 2 may provide: (1) that for purposes connected with any transfers made in accordance with the scheme, including the transfer of rights and liabilities under an enactment, the new appointee is to be treated as the same person in law as the existing appointee (Sch 2 para 5(2)(a)); (2) that, so far as may be necessary for the purposes of or in connection with any such transfers, agreements made, transactions effected and other things done by or in relation to the existing appointee are to be treated as made, effected or done by or in relation to the new appointee (Sch 2 para 5(2)(b)); (3) that, so far as may be necessary for the purposes of or in connection with any such transfers, references in any agreement, whether or not in writing, or in any deed, bond, instrument or other document to, or to any officer of, the existing appointee are to have effect with such modifications as are specified in the scheme (Sch 2 para 5(2)(c)); (4) that proceedings commenced by or against the existing appointee are to be continued by or against the new appointee (Sch 2 para 5(2)(d)); (5) that the effect of any transfer under the scheme in relation to contracts of employment with the existing appointee is not to be to terminate any of those contracts but is to be that periods of employment with the existing appointee are to count for all purposes as periods of employment with the new appointee (Sch 2 para 5(2)(e)); (6) that disputes as to the effect of the scheme between the existing appointee and the new appointee, between either of them and any other appointee or between different companies which are other appointees are to be referred to such arbitration as may be specified in or determined under the scheme (Sch 2 para 5(2)(f)); (7) that determinations on such arbitrations and certificates given jointly by two or more such appointees as are mentioned in head (6) above as to the effect of the scheme as between the companies giving the certificates are to be conclusive for all purposes (Sch 2 para 5(2)(g)).

32 Water Industry Act 1991 Sch 2 para 6(2). Any expenses incurred by an existing appointee in consequence of any provision included in a scheme by virtue of Sch 2 para 6 must be met by the new appointee: Sch 2 para 6(7). As to the recovery of expenses see PARA 131 note 6.

33 Water Industry Act 1991 Sch 2 para 6(3).

B. CONDITIONS OF APPOINTMENTS

142. Power to impose conditions.

An appointment as a relevant undertaker<sup>1</sup> may include:

- 140 (1) such conditions<sup>2</sup> as appear to the Secretary of State<sup>3</sup> or, as the case may be, the Water Services Regulation Authority<sup>4</sup> to be requisite or expedient having regard to the duties imposed<sup>5</sup> on him or on it<sup>6</sup>;
- 141 (2) conditions<sup>7</sup> with respect to the circumstances in which an appointment or variation may be made replacing that company as a relevant undertaker<sup>8</sup>; and
- 142 (3) conditions requiring the rendering to the Secretary of State of a payment on the making of an appointment, or payments while such an appointment is in force, or both, of such amount or amounts as may be determined by or under the conditions<sup>9</sup>.

Where the same instrument contains an appointment of the same company to be both a water undertaker and a sewerage undertaker, whether or not for the same area, all the conditions included in that instrument have effect, irrespective of their subject matter, as conditions of both appointments<sup>10</sup>.

Where an instrument of appointment has been served<sup>11</sup> on any company, the coming into force of the appointment for the specified purposes<sup>12</sup> is not affected by any contravention<sup>13</sup> of the requirements of the Water Industry Act 1991 with respect to the provision contained by way of conditions of appointment in that instrument<sup>14</sup>. If the Secretary of State considers it appropriate to do so in consequence of any legal proceedings with respect to any such provision, he may by order made by statutory instrument direct that such conditions as may be specified in the order are to be treated as included in the appointment in question until there is an opportunity<sup>15</sup> for the provision to which the proceedings relate to be replaced<sup>16</sup>.

Conditions included in an appointment by virtue of head (1) above<sup>17</sup> may:

- 143 (a) require the appointed company to comply with any direction given by the Water Services Regulation Authority as to specified matters or matters of a specified description<sup>18</sup>; and
- 144 (b) require the appointed company, except in so far as the Authority consents to the company's doing or not doing them, not to do or to do such things as are specified in the appointment or are of a description so specified<sup>19</sup>.

Such conditions may provide<sup>20</sup> for the reference to, and determination by, the Secretary of State or the Water Services Regulation Authority<sup>21</sup> or, on a reference by the Authority, the Competition Commission<sup>22</sup>, of such questions arising under the appointment and of such other matters, including, in the case of references to the Commission, disputes as to determinations by the Authority, as are specified in the appointment or are of a description so specified<sup>23</sup>. Where any question or other matter falls to be determined by the Commission in pursuance of a provision contained in an appointment<sup>24</sup>:

- 145 (i) it is the duty of the Authority, on being required to do so by the company holding that appointment, to refer that question or matter to that Commission<sup>25</sup>; and
- 146 (ii) it is the duty of the Commission to determine any question or other matter so referred in accordance with the principles which apply<sup>26</sup> in relation to determinations<sup>27</sup> by the Authority<sup>28</sup>.

Where the question or matter referred to the Commission concerns the review of a price control imposed on the company holding the appointment<sup>29</sup>, and the Commission is to decide to what extent it is reasonable to take into account in its determination costs incurred or borne by the company in connection with the reference<sup>30</sup>, the Commission must also have regard to the extent to which, in its view, its determination is likely to support the company's (rather than the Authority's) claims in relation to the question or matter referred to it<sup>31</sup>. A report of the Commission on a reference under these provisions must be made to the Authority<sup>32</sup>, and must include definite conclusions on the questions or other matters comprised in the reference, together with such an account of its reasons for those conclusions as, in the opinion of the Commission, is expedient for facilitating a proper understanding of those questions or other matters and of its conclusions<sup>33</sup>.

The functions of the Secretary of State under the above provisions are transferred to the Welsh Ministers in relation to any water undertaker or sewerage undertaker whose area is wholly or mainly in Wales<sup>34</sup>.

Any provision so included in an appointment has effect in addition to the provision made by Pt II Ch I (ss 6-17) with respect to the modification of the conditions of an appointment (see PARAS 143-148): s 11(4). ### 143. Modification of conditions by agreement.

Subject to the following provisions, the Water Services Regulation Authority<sup>1</sup> may modify<sup>2</sup> the conditions of a company's appointment as a relevant undertaker<sup>3</sup> if the company consents to the modifications<sup>4</sup>. Before making any modifications, the Authority must give notice<sup>5</sup> stating that it proposes to make the modifications and setting out their effect<sup>6</sup>, the reasons why it proposes to make them<sup>7</sup>, and specifying a period (not being less than 28 days from the date of publication of the notice) within which representations or objections with respect to the proposed modifications may be made<sup>8</sup>.

The Authority must consider any representations or objections which are duly made and not withdrawn<sup>9</sup>; and must not make any modifications which the Secretary of State has, within the time specified in the notice, directed it not to make<sup>10</sup>.

ORGANISATION OF THE WATER INDUSTRY/(4) WATER UNDERTAKERS/(ii) Relevant Undertakers/B. CONDITIONS OF APPOINTMENTS/144. Modification references to the Competition Commission.

144. Modification references to the Competition Commission.

The Water Services Regulation Authority<sup>1</sup> may make to the Competition Commission<sup>2</sup> a reference which is so framed as to require the Commission to investigate and report on the questions<sup>3</sup>:

- 147 (1) whether any matters which relate to the carrying out of any function<sup>4</sup> which is a function of any company by virtue of an appointment of that company as a relevant undertaker<sup>5</sup> and which are specified in the reference operate, or may be expected to operate, against the public interest<sup>6</sup>; and
- 148 (2) if so, whether the effects adverse to the public interest which those matters have or may be expected to have could be remedied or prevented by modifications<sup>7</sup> of the conditions of the company's appointment<sup>8</sup>.

The Authority may at any time vary such a reference, by notice<sup>9</sup> given to the Commission, by adding to the matters specified in it<sup>10</sup> or excluding from it some or all of the matters so specified<sup>11</sup>, and on receipt of any such notice the Commission must give effect to the variation<sup>12</sup>. The Authority may specify in a reference, or in a variation of such a reference, for the purpose of assisting the Commission in carrying out the investigation on the reference<sup>13</sup>: (a) any effects adverse to the public interest which, in the Authority's opinion, the matters specified in the reference or variation have or may be expected to have<sup>14</sup>; and (b) any modifications of the conditions of any appointment mentioned in the reference or variation by which, in its opinion, those effects could be remedied or prevented<sup>15</sup>.

As soon as practicable after making a reference or a variation of a reference, the Authority must serve a copy of the reference or variation on the company whose appointment is mentioned in it and publish particulars of the reference or variation in such manner as the Authority considers appropriate for the purpose of bringing it to the attention of persons<sup>16</sup> likely to be affected by it<sup>17</sup>. It is the Authority's duty, for the purpose of assisting the Commission in carrying out an investigation on such a reference, or in carrying out functions relating to its power of veto<sup>18</sup>, to give to the Commission:

- 149 (i) any information<sup>19</sup> in its possession which relates to matters falling within the scope of the investigation or the carrying out of those functions, and which is either requested by the Commission for that purpose or is information which, in the Authority's opinion, it would be appropriate for that purpose to give to the Commission without any such request<sup>20</sup>; and
- 150 (ii) any other assistance which the Commission may require, and which it is within the Authority's power to give, in relation to any such matters<sup>21</sup>, and the Commission, for the purpose of carrying out any such investigation or such functions, must take account of any information so given to it for that purpose<sup>22</sup>.

Every reference under the above provisions must specify a period, not longer than six months<sup>23</sup> beginning with the date of the reference, within which a report on the reference is to be made<sup>24</sup>. Certain powers of investigation under the Enterprise Act 2002<sup>25</sup> apply, with modifications, for the purposes of references under the above provisions as they apply for the purposes of references<sup>26</sup> of that Act<sup>27</sup>.

145. Reports on modification references.

A report of the Competition Commission on a modification reference<sup>1</sup> does not have effect, and no action may be taken in relation to it<sup>2</sup>, unless the report is made before the end of the period specified in the reference<sup>3</sup> or such further period, if any, as may be allowed by the Water Services Regulation Authority<sup>4</sup>.

A report of the Competition Commission on a modification reference must be made to the Authority<sup>5</sup>. In making such a report, the Commission:

- 151 (1) must include in the report definite conclusions on the questions comprised in the reference together with such an account of its reasons for those conclusions as, in its opinion, is expedient for facilitating a proper understanding of those questions and of its conclusions<sup>6</sup>;
- 152 (2) where it concludes that any of the matters specified in the reference operate, or may be expected to operate, against the public interest, must specify in the report the effects adverse to the public interest which those matters have or may be expected to have<sup>7</sup>; and
- 153 (3) where it concludes that any adverse effects so specified could be remedied or prevented by modifications<sup>8</sup> of the conditions of a company's appointment as a relevant undertaker<sup>9</sup>, must specify in the report modifications by which those effects could be remedied or prevented<sup>10</sup>.

For the purposes of the law relating to defamation, absolute privilege attaches to any report made by the Commission on a modification reference<sup>11</sup>. However, in making any such report the Commission must have regard to a number of considerations before disclosing any information<sup>12</sup>.

On receiving such a report, the Authority must send a copy of it to the company to whose appointment it relates and to the Secretary of State<sup>13</sup>. The Authority must also, not less than 14 days after that copy is received by the Secretary of State, publish another copy of that report in such manner as it considers appropriate for bringing the report to the attention of persons likely to be affected by it<sup>14</sup>.

For the purposes of the provisions relating to the making of modifications to an appointment following a finding that there are matters against the public interest<sup>15</sup>, a conclusion contained in a report of the Commission is to be disregarded if the conclusion is not that of at least two-thirds of the members of the group constituted<sup>16</sup> in connection with the reference<sup>17</sup>. If a member of a group so constituted disagrees with any conclusions contained in a report as the conclusions of the Commission, the report must, if the member so wishes, include a statement of his disagreement and of his reasons for disagreeing<sup>18</sup>.

The Authority may, if it has received representations on the subject from the Commission and is satisfied that there are special reasons why the report cannot be made within the period specified in the reference, extend that period by no more than six months: Water Industry Act 1991 s 14A(3) (as so added and amended). No more than one such extension is possible in relation to the same reference: s 14A(4) (as so added). The Authority must, in the case of an extension so made by it: (1) publish that extension in such manner as it considers appropriate for the purpose of bringing it to the attention of persons likely to be affected by it (s 14A(5)(a) (as so added and amended)); and (2) send a copy of what has been so published by it to the company whose appointment is mentioned in the reference (s 14A(5)(b) (as so added and amended)). 12 Water Industry Act 1991 s 15(3A) (as added: see note 11). The considerations are: (1) the need to exclude from disclosure (so far as practicable) any information whose disclosure the Commission thinks is contrary to the public interest (s 15(3B) (as so added)); (2) the need to exclude from disclosure (so far as practicable) (a) commercial information whose disclosure the Commission thinks might significantly harm the legitimate business interests of the undertaking to which it relates (s 15(3C)(a) (as so added)); or (b) information relating to the private affairs of an individual whose disclosure the Commission thinks might significantly harm the individual's interests (s 15(3C)(b) (as so added)); and (3) the extent to which the disclosure of the information mentioned in head (a) or (b) above is necessary for the purposes of the report (s 15(3D) (as so added)).

146. Modification following report.

- 154 (1) includes conclusions to the effect that any of the matters specified in the reference operate, or may be expected to operate, against the public interest<sup>3</sup>;

- 156 (3) includes conclusions to the effect that those effects could be remedied or prevented by modifications<sup>5</sup> of the conditions of a company's appointment<sup>6</sup> as a relevant undertaker<sup>7</sup>; and
- 157 (4) specifies modifications by which those effects could be remedied or prevented<sup>8</sup>,

the Water Services Regulation Authority<sup>9</sup> must, subject to the following provisions, make such modifications of the conditions of that appointment as appear to it to be requisite for the purpose of remedying or preventing the adverse effects specified in the report<sup>10</sup>.

Before making any modifications, the Authority must have regard to the modifications specified in the report<sup>11</sup>; and must give notice<sup>12</sup> stating that it proposes to make the modifications and setting out their effect<sup>13</sup>, stating the reasons why it proposes to make them<sup>14</sup>, and specifying the period<sup>15</sup> within which representations or objections with respect to the proposed modifications may be made<sup>16</sup>. The Authority must consider any representations or objections which are duly made and not withdrawn<sup>17</sup>.

After considering any representations or objections made in response to proposals set out in the notice, the Authority must give notice to the Commission setting out the modifications it proposes to make to remedy or prevent the adverse effects specified in the report<sup>18</sup>, and stating the reasons for making the modifications<sup>19</sup>. If the period of four weeks<sup>20</sup> from the date on which the notice to the Commission is given elapses without a direction that the modifications set out in the notice are not to be made<sup>21</sup> being given to the Authority, the Authority must make the modifications set out in the notice<sup>22</sup> or, if a direction specifying certain modifications that may not be made has been given<sup>23</sup> to it, make the modifications which are not specified in that direction<sup>24</sup>.

The Authority must not make any modification under these powers of any provisions of a company's appointment which<sup>25</sup>: (a) are contained in that appointment for the purposes<sup>26</sup> of setting out the circumstances in which an appointment or variation replacing that company as a relevant undertaker may be made<sup>27</sup>; or (b) relate to the disposal<sup>28</sup> of, or of interests or rights in or over, a company's protected land<sup>29</sup>, and are stated in the appointment to be provisions which cannot be modified<sup>30</sup>.

ORGANISATION OF THE WATER INDUSTRY/(4) WATER UNDERTAKERS/(ii) Relevant Undertakers/B. CONDITIONS OF APPOINTMENTS/147. Competition Commission's power of veto following report.

147. Competition Commission's power of veto following report.

The Competition Commission<sup>1</sup> may, within the period of four weeks after the date on which it is given a notice by the Water Services Regulation Authority<sup>2</sup> of the modifications<sup>3</sup> the Authority proposes to make to the conditions of appointment of a company as a relevant undertaker, direct the Authority<sup>4</sup>:

- 158 (1) not to make the modifications set out in that notice<sup>5</sup>; or
- 159 (2) not to make such of the modifications as may be specified in the direction<sup>6</sup>;

and the Authority must comply with any such direction<sup>7</sup>.

The power to give such a direction may only be exercised in respect of such of the modifications set out in the notice of proposed modifications as appear to the Commission not to be the modifications which are requisite for the purpose of remedying or preventing all or any of the adverse effects specified in the report as effects which could be remedied or prevented by modifications<sup>8</sup>.

If the Commission gives such a direction it:

- 160 (a) must give notice<sup>9</sup> setting out the modifications proposed by the Authority, the terms of the direction and the reasons for giving it<sup>10</sup>; and
  - 161 (b) must itself make such modifications as appear to it to be requisite for the purpose of remedying or preventing:
- 11
  - 13. (i) if the direction was given under head (1) above, the adverse effects specified in the report as effects which could be remedied or prevented by modifications<sup>11</sup>;
  - 14. (ii) if the direction was given under head (2) above, such of those adverse effects as are not remedied or prevented by the modifications made<sup>12</sup> by the Authority<sup>13</sup>.

The Commission may not make any modification under the above provisions which the Water Services Regulation Authority could not make<sup>14</sup> under its powers to make modifications following a report<sup>15</sup>. After making modifications under the above provisions the Commission must publish a notice stating that the modifications have been made and setting them out, with the reasons for making them<sup>16</sup>.

Certain provisions of the Enterprise Act 2002 apply, with specified modifications<sup>17</sup>, for the purposes of any investigation by the Commission in order to exercise its functions under the above provisions<sup>18</sup>. The Authority is under a duty to give the Commission information in order to assist it in the exercise of these functions<sup>19</sup>.

1 As to the Competition Commission see COMPETITION vol 18 (2009) PARAS 9-12. Under the Utilities Act 2000, specialist members of the Commission must be appointed to exercise its functions under the Water Industry Act 1991 s 16A: see COMPETITION vol 18 (2009) PARA 9.

4 The Secretary of State may, within the period of four weeks after the date on which the Commission is given a notice under the Water Industry Act 1991 s 16(4A) (see PARA 146), and on the application of the Commission, direct that the period for giving such a direction (and, accordingly, the period mentioned in s 16(4C) (see PARA 146)) be extended by 14 days: s 16A(2) (ss 16A, 16B added by the Water Act 2003 s 55(1), (4)). 7 Water Industry Act 1991 s 16A(1) (as added: see note 4).

8 Water Industry Act 1991 s 16A(3) (as added: see note 4).

9 A notice under the Water Industry Act 1991 s 16A(4)(a) or (6) (see note 13) must be given: (1) by publishing it in such manner as the Commission considers appropriate for the purpose of bringing it to the attention of persons likely to be affected by the making of the modifications (Water Industry Act 1991 s 16A(7) (a) (as added: see note 4)); and (2) by serving a copy on the Authority and the company whose conditions of appointment it is proposed should be modified (s 16A(7)(b) (as so added)). The first consideration is the need to exclude from disclosure (so far as practicable) any information whose disclosure the Commission thinks is contrary to the public interest: s 16B(3) (as so added). The second consideration is the need to exclude from disclosure (so far as practicable) (1) commercial information whose disclosure the Commission thinks might significantly harm the legitimate business interests of the undertaking to which it relates (s 16B(4)(a) (as so added)); or (2) information relating to the private affairs of an individual whose disclosure the Commission thinks might significantly harm the individual's interests (s 16B(4)(b) (as so added)). Before making such modifications the Commission must give notice: (1) stating that it proposes to make the modifications and setting them out (s 16A(6)(a) (as so added)); (2) stating the reason why it proposes to make them (s 16A(6)(b) (as so added)); (3) specifying the period (not being less than 28 days from the date of publication of the notice) within which representations or objections with respect to the proposed modifications may be made (s 16A(6)(c) (as so added)), and must consider any representations or objections which are duly made and not withdrawn (s 16A(6) (as so added)). Where the Office of Fair Trading<sup>1</sup>, the Competition Commission<sup>2</sup> or, as the case may be, the Secretary of State<sup>3</sup> (the 'relevant authority') makes an order under certain provisions of the Enterprise Act 2002 (a 'relevant order')<sup>4</sup>, the order may<sup>5</sup> also provide for the modification<sup>6</sup> of the conditions of a company's appointment as a relevant undertaker<sup>7</sup> to such extent as may appear to the relevant authority to be requisite or expedient for the purpose of giving effect to, or taking account of, any provision made by the order<sup>8</sup>. No modification may, however, be made under these powers of any provisions of a company's appointment which: (1) are contained in that appointment for the purposes<sup>9</sup> of setting out the circumstances in which an appointment or variation replacing that company as a relevant undertaker may be made<sup>10</sup>; or (2) relate to the disposal<sup>11</sup> of, or of interests or rights in or over, a company's protected land<sup>12</sup> and are stated in the appointment to be provisions which cannot be modified<sup>13</sup>.

ORGANISATION OF THE WATER INDUSTRY/(4) WATER UNDERTAKERS/(ii) Relevant Undertakers/D. MERGERS OF UNDERTAKINGS/150. Duty to refer merger of water undertakings.

D. MERGERS OF UNDERTAKINGS

150. Duty to refer merger of water undertakings.

It is the duty of the Office of Fair Trading (the 'OFT')<sup>1</sup> to make a merger reference to the Competition Commission<sup>2</sup> if the OFT believes that it is or may be the case:

- 164 (1) that arrangements are in progress which, if carried into effect, will result in a merger<sup>3</sup> of any two or more water enterprises<sup>4</sup>; or
- 165 (2) that such a merger has taken place otherwise than as a result of the carrying into effect of arrangements that have been the subject of a reference by virtue of head (1) above<sup>5</sup>.

The OFT must not, however, make such a merger reference in respect of any actual or prospective merger of two or more water enterprises if it appears to it:

- 166 (a) that the value of the turnover of the water enterprise being taken over does not exceed or, as the case may be, would not exceed £10 million<sup>6</sup>; or
- 167 (b) that the only water enterprises already belonging to the person<sup>7</sup> making the takeover are enterprises each of which has a turnover the value of which does not exceed or, as the case may be, would not exceed £10 million<sup>8</sup>;

but in a case in which, or to any extent to which, the OFT is not required to make such a reference, nothing in the relevant provisions<sup>9</sup> prejudices any power of the OFT or the Secretary of State to make a reference under the Enterprise Act 2002<sup>10</sup> in respect of any actual or prospective merger of two or more water enterprises<sup>11</sup>.

3 References in the Water Industry Act 1991 Pt II Ch III (ss 27-35A) (including Sch 4ZA: see PARA 151), in relation to any two or more enterprises, to the merger of those enterprises are references to those enterprises ceasing, within the meaning of the Enterprise Act 2002 Pt 3 (ss 22-130) (see COMPETITION vol 18 (2009) PARAS 173-275), to be distinct enterprises; and ss 27-29 of that Act and any provision made under s 34 of that Act (time at which enterprises cease to be distinct) have effect for the purposes of the Water Industry Act 1991 Pt II Ch III (including Sch 4ZA) as they have effect for the purposes of the Enterprise Act 2002 Pt 3: Water Industry Act 1991 s 35(2) (ss 32-35 substituted by the Enterprise Act 2002 s 70(1), (2), Sch 6). 'Enterprise' has the same meaning as in the Enterprise Act 2002 Pt 3 (see COMPETITION vol 18 (2009) PARA 173): Water Industry Act 1991 s 35(1)(as so substituted).

4 Water Industry Act 1991 s 32(a) (as substituted: see note 3). 'Water enterprise' means an enterprise carried on by a relevant undertaker: s 35(1) (as so substituted; and amended by the Water Act 2003 s 101(1), Sch 7 Pt 2 para 27(1), (2)). As to the meaning of 'relevant undertaker' see PARA 137 note 8.

5 Water Industry Act 1991 s 32(b) (as substituted: see note 3).

6 Water Industry Act 1991 s 33(1)(a) (as substituted: see note 3). For these purposes, the value of the turnover of the water enterprise being taken over must be determined by taking the total value of the turnover of the water enterprises ceasing to be distinct enterprises and deducting: (1) the turnover of any water enterprise continuing to be carried on under the same ownership and control (s 33(2)(a) (as so substituted)); or (2) if there is no water enterprise continuing to be carried on under the same ownership and control, the turnover which, of all the turnovers concerned, is the turnover of the highest value (s 33(2)(b) (as so substituted)). References in s 33 to enterprises being carried on under the same ownership and control must be construed in accordance with the Enterprise Act 2002 Pt 3 (ss 22-130) (see COMPETITION vol 18 (2009) PARAS 173-275): Water Industry Act 1991 s 33(9) (as so substituted).

For the purposes of s 33, the turnover of a water enterprise must be determined in accordance with such provisions as may be specified in regulations made by the Secretary of State: s 33(4) (as so substituted). Such regulations may, in particular, make provision: (a) as to the amounts which are, or which are not, to be treated as comprising an enterprise's turnover (s 33(5)(a) (as so substituted)); (b) as to the date or dates by reference to which an enterprise's turnover is to be determined (s 33(5)(b) (as so substituted)); and (c) enabling the Secretary of State or the OFT to determine matters of a description specified in the regulations (including any of the matters mentioned in heads (a)-(b) above) (s 33(6) (as so substituted)). The Secretary of State may by regulations amend the Water Industry Act 1991 s 33(1) so as: (i) to alter the sum for the time being mentioned in s 33(1)(a) or otherwise to modify the condition set out in s 33(1)(a) (s 33(7)(a) (as so substituted)); or (ii) to alter the sum for the time being mentioned in s 33(1)(b) (see the text to notes 7-8) or otherwise to modify the condition set out in s 33(1)(b) (s 33(7)(b) (as so substituted)). Such regulations must not make any modifications in relation to mergers on or before the coming into force of the regulations (s 33(8)(a) (as so substituted)), and may, in particular, include supplemental, consequential or transitional provision amending or repealing any provision of s 33 (s 33(8)(b) (as so substituted)). As to the Secretary of State see PARA 15 note 1. As to the making of regulations see PARA 21. As to the regulations made see the Water Mergers (Determination of Turnover) Regulations 2004, SI 2004/3206.

7 As to the meaning of 'person' see PARA 13 note 29.

8 Water Industry Act 1991 s 33(1)(b) (as substituted: see note 3). For these purposes (1) every water enterprise ceasing to be a distinct enterprise and whose turnover is to be deducted by virtue of s 33(2)(a) or (b) (see note 6) must be treated as a water enterprise belonging to the person making the take over (s 33(3)(a) (as so substituted)); and (2) water enterprises must be treated as separate enterprises so far as they are carried on by different companies holding appointments under Pt II Ch 1 (ss 6-17) (s 33(3)(b) (as so substituted)). Subject to s 35(3), (4), the Enterprise Act 2002 Pt 3 (ss 22-130) does not apply in a case in which the OFT is required to make a reference under the Water Industry Act 1991 s 32 except as applied by virtue of Sch 4ZA (see PARA 151): s 35(5) (as so substituted).

151. Procedure on a reference.

The following provisions have effect with respect to mergers<sup>1</sup> of water enterprises<sup>2</sup>. The Enterprise Act 2002<sup>3</sup> applies, with such prescribed<sup>4</sup> modifications as the Secretary of State considers to be necessary or expedient<sup>5</sup>, in relation to water mergers and merger references<sup>6</sup> as that Act applies in relation to relevant merger situations and references under that Act<sup>7</sup>.

The first questions to be decided by the Competition Commission<sup>8</sup> on a merger reference on the grounds that arrangements are in progress which, if carried into effect, will result in a merger of any two or more water enterprises<sup>9</sup> are:

- 168 (1) whether arrangements are in progress which, if carried into effect, will result in a water merger<sup>10</sup>; and
- 169 (2) if so, whether that merger may be expected to prejudice the ability of the Water Services Regulation Authority<sup>11</sup>, in carrying out its functions<sup>12</sup> by virtue of the Water Industry Act 1991, to make comparisons between different water enterprises<sup>13</sup>.

In deciding, on such a merger reference, whether to take action for the purpose of remedying, mitigating or preventing the prejudice to the Water Services Regulation Authority or any adverse effect which may be expected to result from the prejudice to the Authority and, if so, what action should be taken, the Commission may, in particular, have regard to the effect of any such action on any relevant customer benefits<sup>14</sup> in relation to the merger concerned provided that:

- 170 (a) a consideration of those benefits would not prevent a solution to the prejudice concerned<sup>15</sup>; or
- 171 (b) the benefits which may be expected to accrue are substantially more important than the prejudice concerned<sup>16</sup>;

but this is without prejudice to the Secretary of State's power to provide in regulations<sup>17</sup> for other matters to which the Commission may or must have regard, including matters which are to take priority over the effect of action on relevant customer benefits<sup>18</sup>.

The first questions to be decided by the Commission on a merger reference on the grounds that such a merger has taken place otherwise than as mentioned above<sup>19</sup> are:

- 172 (i) whether a water merger has taken place<sup>20</sup>; and
- 173 (ii) if so, whether that merger has prejudiced, or may be expected to prejudice, the ability of the Water Services Regulation Authority, in carrying out its functions by virtue of the Water Industry Act 1991, to make comparisons between different water enterprises<sup>21</sup>.

In deciding, on such a merger reference, whether to take action for the purpose of remedying, mitigating or preventing the prejudice to the Authority or any adverse effect which has resulted from, or may be expected to result from, the prejudice to the Authority and, if so, what action should be taken, the Commission may, in particular, have regard to the effect of any such action on any relevant customer benefits in relation to the merger concerned provided that:

- 174 (A) a consideration of those benefits would not prevent a solution to the prejudice concerned<sup>22</sup>; or
- 175 (B) the benefits which have accrued, or may be expected to accrue, are substantially more important than the prejudice concerned<sup>23</sup>;

but this is without prejudice to the Secretary of State's powers to make provision in regulations<sup>24</sup> for other matters to which the Commission may or must have regard in deciding those questions, including matters which are to take priority over the effect of action on relevant customer benefits<sup>25</sup>. No enforcement action is to be taken on such a merger reference in respect of an actual merger unless the reference was made within the period of four months<sup>26</sup> beginning with whichever is the later of the day on which the merger took place<sup>27</sup>, and the day on which the material facts about the transactions which resulted in the merger first came to the attention of the Office of Fair Trading or were made public<sup>28</sup>. If, on such a merger reference, the Commission is satisfied that the reference was not made within that period of four months, its report on the reference must state that fact<sup>29</sup>.

13 Water Industry Act 1991 Sch 4ZA para 3(1)(b) (as added (see note 2); and amended by the Water Act 2003 s 36(2)). Any decision of the Commission on a merger reference under the Water Industry Act 1991 s 32(a) (see PARA 150) that a water merger may be expected to prejudice the ability of the Authority, in carrying out its functions by virtue of the Water Industry Act 1991, to make comparisons between different water enterprises must be treated as a decision that the water merger may be expected not to prejudice that ability.

of the Authority if the decision is not that of at least two-thirds of the members of the group constituted in connection with the reference in pursuance of Competition Act 1998 Sch 7 para 15 (see COMPETITION vol 18 (2009) PARA 11): Water Industry Act 1991 Sch 4ZA para 3(4) (as so added; and amended by the Water Act 2003 s 36(2)).

14 A benefit is a 'relevant customer benefit' if: (1) it is a benefit to relevant customers in the form of (a) lower prices, higher quality or greater choice of goods or services in any market in the United Kingdom; or (b) greater innovation in relation to such goods or services; and (2) the Commission believes (a) in the case of a merger reference under the Water Industry Act 1991 s 32(a) (see PARA 150), as mentioned in Sch 4ZA para 7(2) (see below); and (b) in the case of a merger reference under s 32(b) (see PARA 150), as mentioned in Sch 4ZA para 7(3) (see below): Sch 4ZA para 7(1) (as added: see note 2). The belief, in the case of a merger reference under s 32(a), is that: (i) the benefit may be expected to accrue within a reasonable period as a result of the merger concerned; and (ii) the benefit is unlikely to accrue without the merger concerned or a similar prejudice to the Authority: Sch 4ZA para 7(2) (as so added; and amended by the Water Act 2003 s 36(2)). The belief, in the case of a merger reference under the Water Industry Act 1991 s 32(b), is that: (A) the benefit has accrued as a result of the merger concerned or may be expected to accrue within a reasonable period as a result of the merger concerned; and (B) the benefit was, or is, unlikely to accrue without the merger concerned or a similar prejudice to the Authority: Sch 4ZA para 7(3) (as so added; and amended by the Water Act 2003 s 36(2)). In the Water Industry Act 1991 Sch 4ZA para 7(1), 'relevant customers' means: (aa) customers of any person carrying on an enterprise which, in the merger concerned, has ceased to be, or (as the case may be) will cease to be, a distinct enterprise; (bb) customers of such customers; and (cc) any other customers in a chain of customers beginning with the customers mentioned in head (aa) above; and for these purposes 'customers' includes future customers: Sch 4ZA para 7(4) (as so added). In Sch 4ZA 'customers', 'goods', 'market in the United Kingdom', 'services' and 'relevant merger situation' have the same meanings as in the Enterprise Act 2002 Pt 3 (ss 22-130) (see COMPETITION vol 18 (2009) PARAS 173-275): Water Industry Act 1991 Sch 4ZA para 8 (as so added). Any decision of the Commission on a merger reference under the Water Industry Act 1991 s 32(b) (see PARA 150) that a water merger has prejudiced, or may be expected to prejudice, the ability of the Authority, in carrying out its functions by virtue of the Water Industry Act 1991, to make comparisons between different water enterprises must be treated as a decision that the water merger has not prejudiced, or may be expected not to prejudice, that ability of the Authority if the decision is not that of at least two-thirds of the members of the group constituted in connection with the reference in pursuance of the Competition Act 1998 Sch 7 para 15: Water Industry Act 1991 Sch 4ZA para 3(6) (as so added; and amended by the Water Act 2003 s 36(2)).

(5) LICENSED WATER SUPPLIERS

(i) Granting of Licences

152. Granting of licences.

The Secretary of State<sup>1</sup>, or the Water Services Regulation Authority<sup>2</sup> with the consent of, or in accordance with a general authorisation given by, the Secretary of State after consulting the Welsh Ministers<sup>3</sup>, may grant to a company a licence (known as a 'water supply licence') giving it either the retail authorisation (known as a 'retail licence')<sup>4</sup>, or both that and the supplementary authorisation (known as a 'combined licence')<sup>5</sup>. A company which is the holder for the time being of a water supply licence is known as a 'licensed water supplier'<sup>6</sup>.

The retail authorisation is an authorisation to the company to use a water undertaker's<sup>7</sup> supply system<sup>8</sup> for the purpose of supplying water<sup>9</sup> to the premises of customers<sup>10</sup> of the company<sup>11</sup>. The following requirements must be satisfied in relation to each of the premises supplied by the company:

- 176 (1) the requirement that the premises are not household premises<sup>12</sup>;
- 177 (2) the threshold requirement<sup>13</sup>; and
- 178 (3) the requirement that the premises are not being supplied with water by another company pursuant to a water supply licence<sup>14</sup>, and those requirements are enforceable<sup>15</sup> by the Water Services Regulation Authority<sup>16</sup>.

The Water Services Regulation Authority may determine, in a case referred to it by a licensed water supplier or a potential customer of a licensed water supplier, whether a proposed supply of water by the supplier to the customer would be in accordance with the retail authorisation given to the supplier in the licence<sup>17</sup>.

The supplementary authorisation is an authorisation to the company to introduce water into a water undertaker's supply system, by means of which any particular supply of water in accordance with the retail authorisation is to take place, in connection with that supply and in accordance with the relevant statutory provisions<sup>18</sup>.

Before granting a combined licence, the Secretary of State must consult the Welsh Ministers<sup>19</sup>, and the Water Services Regulation Authority must consult both the Secretary of State and the Welsh Ministers<sup>20</sup>. A water supply licence must not be granted to a company unless it is a limited company<sup>21</sup> and it is not a relevant undertaker<sup>22</sup>.

Functions under the Water Industry Act 1991 s 17A were originally vested in the National Assembly for Wales but are now exercisable by the Welsh Ministers by virtue of the Government of Wales Act 2006 s 162(1),

Sch 11 para 30. As to the Welsh Ministers see PARA 16 note 5. As to the exercise of the duty to consult see JUDICIAL REVIEW vol 61 (2010) PARA 627.

4 A water supply licence which gives a company only the retail authorisation is referred to in the Water Industry Act 1991 Pt II Ch 1A (ss 17A-17R) as a 'retail licence': s 17A(4) (as added: see note 1).

5 Water Industry Act 1991 s 17A(1) (as added: see note 1). A water supply licence which gives a company also the supplementary authorisation is referred to in Pt II Ch 1A (ss 17A-17R) as a 'combined licence': s 17A(6) (as so added). As to the procedure for granting of licences see PARA 153.

6 See the Water Industry Act 1991 s 17B(9) (as added: see note 1), s 219(1) (definition added by the Water Act 2003 s 101(1), Sch 8 paras 2, 50(1), (2)(c)).

7 As to the meaning of 'water undertaker' see PARA 137 note 4.

8 References in the Water Industry Act 1991 Pt II Ch 1A (ss 17A-17R) to the supply system of a water undertaker are to the system comprising the following: (1) any water mains and other pipes which it is the water undertaker's duty to develop and maintain by virtue of s 37 (see PARA 319) and which are used for the purpose of conveying water from the undertaker's treatment works to the premises of customers; and (2) any water mains and other pipes which (a) are used by the undertaker for the purpose of conveying non-domestic water from any of its sources to the premises of customers; and (b) are not connected to any water mains or pipes falling within head (1) above or to any water mains or other pipes connected to the treatment works mentioned in that head (whether directly or indirectly); and in head (a) the reference to non-domestic water is to water supplied other than for domestic or food production purposes: s 17B(5) (as added: see note 1). The reference above to 'treatment works' is a reference to the works designated from time to time by the Secretary of State as treatment works for these purposes: s 17B(6) (as so added). Before designating any works for these purposes, the Secretary of State must consult the Welsh Ministers: s 17B(7) (as so added); Government of Wales Act 2006 Sch 11 para 32. A list of any works designated for these purposes must be published from time to time by the Secretary of State in such manner as he considers appropriate for the purpose of bringing the designations to the attention of persons likely to be affected by them: Water Industry Act 1991 s 17B(8) (as so added). As to the meanings of 'water main' and 'pipe' see PARA 138 note 11. As to the meaning of 'domestic purposes' see PARA 334. As to the meaning of 'person' see PARA 13 note 29.

9 le subject to the Water Industry Act 1991 s 17A(3) (see heads (1)-(3) in the text) in accordance with Pt III Ch 2A (ss 66A-66L) (see PARA 341 et seq).

10 As to the meaning of 'customers or potential customers' see PARA 118 note 7.

11 Water Industry Act 1991 s 17A(2) (as added: see note 1).

12 Water Industry Act 1991 s 17A(3)(a) (as added: see note 1). 'Household premises' means premises in which, or in any part of which, a person has his home: s 17C(1) (as so added). The fact that a person has his home in, or in part of, any premises does not mean that the premises are household premises unless the principal use of the premises is as a home: s 17C(2) (as so added). The Secretary of State may by regulations make provision as to: (1) the circumstances in which a person is or is not to be treated as having his home in, or in part of, any premises for these purposes (s 17C(3)(a) (as so added)); and (2) the factors which are, or are not, to be taken into account in determining the principal use of any premises for those purposes (s 17C(3)(b) (as so added)). The power to make such regulations is exercisable by the Welsh Ministers, and not by the Secretary of State, in relation to premises supplied with water using the supply system of a water undertaker whose area is wholly or mainly in Wales: s 17C(4) (as so added); Government of Wales Act 2006 Sch 11 para 32. As to the meaning of 'Wales' see PARA 16 note 2. As to the making of regulations see PARA 21. At the date at which this volume states the law no such regulations had been made.

13 Water Industry Act 1991 s 17A(3)(b) (as added: see note 1). The following provisions apply for the purpose of construing the threshold requirement in relation to the supply of water to any premises: see s 17D(1) (as so added). The requirement is that, at the time when the licensed water supplier first enters into an undertaking with a customer to give the supply, the total quantity of water estimated to be supplied to the premises annually pursuant to the undertaking is not less than 50 megalitres: s 17D(2) (as so added). Any estimate of the quantity of water to be supplied to any premises for these purposes must be made in accordance with guidance issued by the Water Services Regulation Authority with the approval of the Secretary of State: s 17D(3) (as so added). Any guidance so issued may, in particular: (1) specify the factors to be, and not to be, taken into account, the assumptions to be made and the method of calculation to be employed, in making estimates (s 17D(4)(a) (as so added)); and (2) make provision as to the commencement of the annual periods by reference to which estimates are to be made (s 17D(4)(b) (as so added)). Before giving his approval to any guidance so issued, the Secretary of State must consult the Welsh Ministers: s 17D(5) (as so added); Government of Wales Act 2006 Sch 11 para 32. The Water Industry Act 1991 s 17B(1)-(4) (see note 16) applies to guidance so issued as it applies to guidance issued under s 17A(9): s 17D(6) (as so added).

The Secretary of State may make provision by regulations as to the circumstances in which a licensed water supplier is not, for the purposes of s 17D(2), to be treated as entering into an undertaking with a new customer to give a supply of water to any premises (subject to s 17D(12): see below): s 17D(7) (as so added). The Secretary of State may also by regulations amend s 17D(2) (see above) by substituting, for the quantity of water for the time being specified there, a different quantity of water (subject to s 17D(12)): s 17D(8) (as so added). Regulations under s 17D(8) must include provision for the amendment made by the regulations not to apply in relation to any undertaking entered into before the date on which the regulations come into force (s 17D(9)(a) (as so added)); and may include provision for that amendment not to apply in relation to any undertaking which is proposed, but not entered into, before that date (s 17D(9)(b) (as so added)). A statutory instrument containing regulations under s 17D(8) must not be made unless a draft of the instrument has been laid before, and approved by a resolution of, each House of Parliament: s 17D(10) (as so added). Before making regulations under s 17D(8), the Secretary of State must consult the Water Services Regulation Authority and such other persons (if any) as the Secretary of State thinks it appropriate to consult: s 17D(11) (as so added). As to the laying of documents before Parliament see PARLIAMENT vol 34 (Reissue) PARA 941. As to the regulations made see the Water Supply Licence (New Customer Exception) Regulations 2005, SI 2005/3076.

The powers to make regulations under the Water Industry Act 1991 s 17D(7) and (8) are exercisable by the Welsh Ministers (and not by the Secretary of State) in relation to premises supplied with water using the supply system of a water undertaker whose area is wholly or mainly in Wales: s 17D(12) (as so added); Government of Wales Act 2006 Sch 11 para 32. The Water Industry Act 1991 s 17D(9), (11) applies in relation to such regulations made by the Welsh Ministers under s 17D(8) as it applies in relation to regulations made by the Secretary of State under s 17D(8): s 17D(13) (as so added). As to the bringing of subordinate legislation made by the Welsh Ministers before the National Assembly for Wales see the Government of Wales Act 2006 Sch 3 para 9; and CONSTITUTIONAL LAW AND HUMAN RIGHTS. At the date at which this volume states the law no such regulations had been made.

16 Water Industry Act 1991 s 17A(3) (as added: see note 1). The Water Services Regulation Authority may, with the approval of the Secretary of State, issue guidance as to the factors which are, or are not, to be taken into account in determining the extent of any premises for the purposes of s 17A(3): s 17A(9) (as so added). Before giving his approval to any guidance so issued, the Secretary of State must consult the Welsh Ministers: s 17A(10) (as so added); Government of Wales Act 2006 Sch 11 para 32. The Authority must publish guidance so issued in such manner as it considers appropriate for the purpose of bringing it to the attention of persons likely to be affected by it: Water Industry Act 1991 s 17B(1) (as so added). The Authority may, with the approval of the Secretary of State, revise the guidance so issued: s 17B(2) (as so added). Before giving his approval to guidance so revised, the Secretary of State must consult the Welsh Ministers: s 17B(3) (as so added); Government of Wales Act 2006 Sch 11 para 32. The Water Industry Act 1991 s 17B(1) applies to guidance so revised as it applies to guidance issued under s 17A(9): s 17B(4) (as so added).

17 Water Industry Act 1991 s 17E(1) (as added: see note 1). The matters which the Authority may determine include the following matters: (1) the extent of the premises to be supplied for the purposes of s 17A(3) (see the text to notes 12-16) (s 17E(2)(a) (as so added)); (2) whether the premises to be supplied are household premises (s 17E(2)(b) (as so added)); and (3) whether the threshold requirement is satisfied in relation to the premises to be supplied (s 17E(2)(c) (as so added)); and also include any other matter the determination of which is relevant to those matters (s 17E(2) (as so added)).

The Secretary of State may make provision by regulations disapplying s 17F(2) (see the text to note 7) and (3) in relation to an application in such circumstances as may be prescribed: s 17F(5) (as so added). As soon as reasonably practicable after the Water Services Regulation Authority decides that a valid application has been made, it must notify the applicant in writing: Water Supply Licence (Application) Regulations 2005, SI 2005/1638, reg 5(1). For these purposes, a notification is treated as made in writing if transmitted to the applicant by facsimile transmission or electronic mail: reg 5(2). The period after the making of an application within which a notice of application must be published by the applicant expires at 17.00 hours on the tenth working day after the day on which the Authority notifies the applicant that a valid application has been made: reg 5(3). The specified particulars must be contained in a notice of application: see reg 5(4), Sch 2. The notice of application must be published on the applicant's website or in such other manner as the applicant considers appropriate for the purpose of bringing it to the attention of persons likely to be affected by it: reg 5(5). On or as soon as reasonably practicable after the day on which the applicant publishes a notice of application, the Authority must publish a copy of that notice on the Authority's website: reg 5(6). The Water Industry Act 1991 s 17F(2) and (3) do not apply in relation to an application for the variation of a combined licence so that it gives only the retail authorisation: reg 5(7). Any representations or objections with respect to a notice of application so published must be received by the Authority no later than 17.00 hours on a day specified by that notice (reg 6(1)); and for these purposes, the day specified must be the twentieth working day after the day of publication of the relevant notice of application on the Authority's website (reg 6(2)). As to the meaning of 'writing' see PARA 22 note 1. 'Working day' means any day which is not a Saturday, Sunday or any other day on which the offices of the Authority are closed for business: reg 2(1). ORGANISATION OF THE WATER INDUSTRY/(5) LICENSED WATER SUPPLIERS/(i) Granting of Licences/154. Transitional provision with regard to transfer of specified activities.

154. Transitional provision with regard to transfer of specified activities.

Where the High Court has made a special administration order<sup>1</sup> in relation to any company which is a qualifying licensed water supplier<sup>2</sup> (the 'transferor') and it is proposed that on and after the relevant date<sup>3</sup> another company (the 'transferee') should carry on specified activities relating to the introduction or introductions of water<sup>4</sup> which were carried on by the transferor until that date, the statutory provisions with respect to replacement appointments of relevant undertakers<sup>5</sup> apply with modifications<sup>6</sup>. Where a scheme under those provisions is made in such a case, however, the scheme may not provide for the transfer to the transferee of the licence<sup>7</sup> which is held by the transferor<sup>8</sup>.

1 As to the meaning of 'special administration order' see PARA 173. As to the High Court of Justice in England and Wales see COURTS vol 10 (Reissue) PARA 602 et seq.

2 For the purposes of the Water Industry Act 1991 ss 23-26, Sch 2 (see the text to notes 3-8; and PARA 173 et seq), a licensed water supplier is a 'qualifying licensed water supplier' if: (1) it is the holder of a combined licence (s 23(6)(a) (s 23(6) added by the Water Act 2003 s 101(1), Sch 8 paras 2, 8(1), (6)); and (2) the introduction of water by it which is permitted under the Water Industry Act 1991 s 66B or s 66C (see PARAS 342-343) is designated as a strategic supply under s 66G (see PARA 344) or the introductions of water by it which are so permitted are designated as a collective strategic supply under s 66H (see PARA 345) (s 23(6)(b) (as so added)). As to the meanings of 'licensed water supplier' and 'combined licence' see PARA 152.

3 'Relevant date' means such day, being a day before the discharge of the special administration order takes effect, as the High Court may appoint therefor: Water Industry Act 1991 Sch 2 para 1(4)(b) (definition amended by the Water Act 2003 s 101(1), Sch 8 paras 2, 51).

4 I.e. activities mentioned in the Water Industry Act 1991 s 23(6)(b): see note 2.

5 I.e. the Water Industry Act 1991 Sch 2: see PARA 141.

6 Water Industry Act 1991 Sch 2 para 1(1), (3A) (Sch 2 para 1(1) amended, paras 1(3A), 2(7A), 3(7), 4A, 5(3), 6(9) added, by the Water Act 2003 s 101(1), Sch 8 paras 2, 51). In such a case:

- 18 (1) Sch 2 para 2(1)-(7) (see PARA 141) has effect as if (a) any reference to the existing appointee were a reference to the transferor; (b) any reference to the new appointee were a reference to the transferee; and (c) any reference to other appointees were a reference to other relevant companies (Sch 2 para 2(7A)(a) (as so added));
- 19 (2) Sch 2 para 2(6) (see PARA 141) has effect as if the reference to functions were, in relation to a company which is a licensed water supplier, a reference to activities authorised by its licence and any statutory functions imposed on it in consequence of its licence (Sch 2 para 2(7A)(b) (as so added));
- 20 (3) Sch 2 para 3(1)-(7) (see PARA 141) has effect in such a case as if any reference to the existing appointee were a reference to the transferor, any reference to the new appointee were a reference to the transferee and any reference to other appointees were a reference to other relevant companies (Sch 2 para 3(7) (as so added));
- 21 (4) Sch 2 para 5(2) (see PARA 141) has effect in such a case as if any reference to the existing appointee were a reference to the transferor, any reference to the new appointee were a reference to the transferee and any reference to any other appointee or appointees were a reference to any other relevant company or companies (Sch 2 para 5(3)(a) (as so added));
- 22 (5) Sch 2 para 5(2)(g) (see PARA 141) has effect as if the reference to two or more such appointees as are mentioned in Sch 2 para 5(2)(f) were a reference to two or more such persons as are mentioned in that paragraph (as it has effect by virtue of head (4) above) (Sch 2 para 5(3) (b) (as so added));

- 23 (6) Sch 2 para 6(1)-(8) (see PARA 141) has effect as if any reference to the existing appointee were a reference to the transferor and any reference to the new appointee were a reference to the transferee (Sch 2 para 6(9) (as so added)).

For these purposes, 'other relevant companies' means any companies, other than the transferor and the transferee, which are likely on or at a time after the relevant date to be holding appointments as water undertakers for any area in which, or in part of which, the activities relating to the introduction or introductions of water mentioned in s 23(6)(b) (see note 2) will be carried on by the transferee: Sch 2 para 1(4) (definition added by the Water Act 2003 s 101(1), Sch 8 paras 2, 51). As to the meaning of 'water undertaker' see PARA 137 note 4.

(ii) Licence Conditions

155. Water supply licence conditions.

A water supply licence<sup>1</sup> may include:

- 182 (1) such conditions as appear to the Secretary of State<sup>2</sup> or, as the case may be, the Water Services Regulation Authority<sup>3</sup> to be requisite or expedient having regard to the statutory duties imposed<sup>4</sup> on him or it<sup>5</sup>;
- 183 (2) conditions requiring the rendering to the Secretary of State of a payment on the grant of a water supply licence, or payments while such a licence is in force, or both, of such amount or amounts as may be determined by or under the conditions<sup>6</sup>.

Conditions included in a water supply licence may:

- 184 (a) require the holder of the licence to comply with any direction given by a specified relevant person<sup>7</sup> as to specified matters or matters which are of a specified description<sup>8</sup>;
- 185 (b) require the holder of the licence to do or not to do specified things or things which are of a specified description, except in so far as a specified relevant person consents to the holder's not doing or doing them<sup>9</sup>;
- 186 (c) provide for the reference to and determination by a specified relevant person of specified questions, or questions which are of a specified description, which arise under or in connection with the licence<sup>10</sup>; and
- 187 (d) contain provision for the conditions to have effect, cease to have effect or be modified<sup>11</sup> at such times, in such manner and in such circumstances as may be specified in or determined in accordance with the conditions<sup>12</sup>.

Such conditions as may be determined by the Secretary of State, after consulting the Welsh Ministers<sup>13</sup>, and published by him in such manner as he considers appropriate<sup>14</sup>, will be standard conditions of water supply licences granted by the Secretary of State or the Water Services Regulation Authority<sup>15</sup>. The standard conditions which may be determined may be different for retail licences<sup>16</sup> and combined licences<sup>17</sup>; and standard conditions relating to the retail authorisation<sup>18</sup> may be different depending on whether they are to relate to retail licences or combined licences<sup>19</sup>. The power to determine standard conditions in relation to retail licences and combined licences may be exercised only before the grant of (respectively) the first retail licence and the first combined licence, but this is without prejudice to the power to modify<sup>20</sup> standard conditions<sup>21</sup>. The standard conditions for the purposes of water supply licences of either description may contain provision:

- 188 (i) for any standard condition included in a licence of that description not to have effect until brought into operation in such manner and in such circumstances as may be specified in or determined under the standard conditions<sup>22</sup>;

- 189 (ii) for the effect of any standard condition included in such a licence to be suspended in such manner, and in such circumstances, as may be so specified or determined<sup>23</sup>; and
- 190 (iii) for any standard condition included in such a licence which is for the time being suspended to be brought back into operation in such manner and in such circumstances as may be so specified or determined<sup>24</sup>.

Each condition which is a standard condition must be incorporated by reference in each water supply licence, or in each such licence to which the standard condition applies<sup>25</sup>. However, the Secretary of State or the Authority may<sup>26</sup>, in granting a licence, exclude or modify any of the standard conditions to such extent as he or it considers requisite to meet the circumstances of a particular case<sup>27</sup>; but may not so exclude any conditions, or make any modifications, unless he or it is of the opinion that the exclusions or modifications are such that (A) the licence holder would not be unduly disadvantaged in competing with other holders of water supply licences<sup>28</sup>; and (B) no other holder of a water supply licence would be unduly disadvantaged in competing with other holders of such licences, including the holder of the licence<sup>29</sup>. Before excluding any standard conditions or making any such modifications, the Secretary of State or the Authority must give notice<sup>30</sup> stating that he or it proposes to exclude the conditions or make the modifications and setting out the effect of so doing<sup>31</sup>, stating the reasons why he or it proposes to exclude the conditions or make the modifications<sup>32</sup>, and specifying the time<sup>33</sup> within which representations or objections with respect to the proposed exclusions or modifications may be made<sup>34</sup>. The Secretary of State or, as the case may be, the Authority must consider any representations or objections which are duly made and not withdrawn<sup>35</sup>. If, within the time specified in the notice, the Secretary of State, after consulting the Welsh Ministers, directs the Authority not to exclude or modify any standard condition, the Authority must comply with the direction<sup>36</sup>.

(iii) Modification of Licences

156. Modification of water supply licences by agreement.

Subject to the following provisions<sup>1</sup>, the Water Services Regulation Authority<sup>2</sup> may modify<sup>3</sup> the conditions of a particular water supply licence<sup>4</sup>. The Authority may not, however, make any such modifications unless the licence holder has consented to the modifications and, in the case of standard conditions of the licence, the Authority is of the opinion that the modifications:

- 191 (1) are requisite to meet the circumstances of the particular case<sup>5</sup>; and
- 192 (2) are such that:
- 13
- 15. (a) the licence holder would not be unduly disadvantaged in competing with other holders of water supply licences<sup>6</sup>; and
- 16. (b) no other holder of a water supply licence would be unduly disadvantaged in competing with other holders of such licences, including the holder of the licence being modified<sup>7</sup>.
- 14

Before making such modifications, the Authority must give notice<sup>8</sup> stating that it proposes to make the modifications and setting out their effect<sup>9</sup>, stating the reasons why it proposes to make the modifications<sup>10</sup>, and specifying the period<sup>11</sup> within which representations or objections with respect to the proposed modifications may be made<sup>12</sup>. The Authority must consider any representations or objections which are duly made and not withdrawn<sup>13</sup>. If, within the period specified in the notice, the Secretary of State, after consulting the Welsh Ministers, directs the Authority not to make any modification, the Authority must comply with the direction<sup>14</sup>.

The modification under these provisions of part of a standard condition of a licence does not prevent any other part of the condition from continuing to be regarded<sup>15</sup> as a standard condition<sup>16</sup>.

ORGANISATION OF THE WATER INDUSTRY/(5) LICENSED WATER SUPPLIERS/(iii) Modification of Licences/157. Modification of standard conditions of water supply licences.

157. Modification of standard conditions of water supply licences.

Subject to the following provisions<sup>1</sup>, the Water Services Regulation Authority<sup>2</sup> may modify<sup>3</sup> the standard conditions<sup>4</sup> of retail licences<sup>5</sup> or combined licences<sup>6</sup>. Where at any time the Authority does so modify the standard conditions of retail licences or combined licences it may make such incidental or consequential modifications as it considers necessary or expedient of any conditions of any licence of that description<sup>7</sup>.

Before making any modifications, the Authority must give notice<sup>8</sup> stating that it proposes to make the modifications and setting out their effect<sup>9</sup>, stating the reasons why it proposes to make the modifications<sup>10</sup>, and specifying the time<sup>11</sup> within which representations or objections with respect to the proposed modifications may be made<sup>12</sup>. The Authority must consider any representations or objections which are duly made and not withdrawn<sup>13</sup>. If, within the time specified in the notice, the Secretary of State, after consulting the Welsh Ministers, directs the Authority not to make any modification, the Authority must comply with the direction<sup>14</sup>.

The Authority may not under these provisions make any modifications of the standard conditions of retail licences or combined licences unless:

- 193 (1) no notice of objection to those modifications is given by any relevant licence holder to the Authority within the time specified in its notice<sup>15</sup>;
- 194 (2) if one or more relevant licence holders give notice of objection to the Authority within that time:
- 15
  - 17. (a) the proportion, expressed as a percentage, of the relevant licence holders who have given notice of objection is less than such percentage as may be specified in an order made by statutory instrument<sup>16</sup> by the Secretary of State<sup>17</sup>; and
  - 18. (b) the percentage given under the specified provision<sup>18</sup> is less than such percentage as may be so specified<sup>19</sup>; or
- 16
  - 195 (3) the case is one<sup>20</sup> where the Authority is satisfied that:
  - 17
    - 19. (a) the effect of the standard conditions is such as to impose a burden affecting relevant licence holders in the carrying on of activities to which the modifications relate<sup>21</sup>;
    - 20. (b) the modifications would remove or reduce the burden without removing any necessary protection<sup>22</sup>; and
    - 21. (c) the modifications are such that no holder of a water supply licence<sup>23</sup> would be unduly disadvantaged in competing with other holders of such licences<sup>24</sup>.

Where the Authority modifies the standard conditions of retail licences or combined licences, it must also make, as nearly as may be, the same modifications of those conditions for the purposes of their incorporation in licences of that description granted after that time<sup>25</sup>, and must publish the modifications in such manner as it considers appropriate<sup>26</sup>.

8 The notice must be given: (1) by publishing the notice in such manner as the Authority considers appropriate for the purpose of bringing the notice to the attention of persons likely to be affected by the making of the modifications (Water Industry Act 1991 s 17J(4)(a) (as added: see note 6)); and (2) by serving a copy of the notice on each relevant licence holder, the Consumer Council for Water, the Secretary of State, the Welsh Ministers, and the Chief Inspector of Drinking Water (s 17J(4)(b)(i)-(v) (as so added); Government of Wales Act 2006 Sch 11 para 32).

'Relevant licence holder', in relation to proposed modifications of standard conditions of retail licences or combined licences, means the holder of a licence of that description (a) which is to be modified under the proposals by the inclusion of any new standard condition (Water Industry Act 1991 s 17J(13)(a) (as so added)); or (b) which includes any standard conditions to which the proposals relate, other than standard conditions which are not in effect (by virtue of anything done under s 17H(4) (see PARA 155)) at the time specified in the notice (s 17J(13)(b) (as so added)). 16 Such an order may include such supplemental, consequential and transitional provision as the Secretary of State considers appropriate: Water Industry Act 1991 s 17J(9) (as added: see note 6). Before making such an order, the Secretary of State must consult the Welsh Ministers: s 17J(10) (as so added); Government of Wales Act 2006 Sch 11 para 32. A statutory instrument containing such an order may not be made unless a draft of the instrument has been laid before, and approved by a resolution of, each House of Parliament: Water Industry Act 1991 s 17J(11) (as so added). As to the laying of documents before Parliament see PARLIAMENT vol 34 (Reissue) PARA 941.

17 Water Industry Act 1991 s 17J(6)(b)(i) (as added: see note 6). The percentage specified for these purposes is 20%: Water Supply Licence (Modification of Standard Conditions) Order 2005, SI 2005/2033, art 3(1).

18 The percentage for these purposes is the proportion (expressed as a percentage) of the relevant licence holders who have given notice of objection, weighted according to their market share at such time and in such manner as may be specified in an order under the Water Industry Act 1991 s 17J(6) (see the text to note 17): s 17J(7) (as added: see note 6). 'Weighted according to their market share' in relation to each relevant licence holder who has given notice of objection means weighted by attributing to that relevant licence holder a proportion equal to the total volume of water supplied by that relevant licence holder to the premises of customers during the relevant period divided by the total volume of water supplied by all relevant licence holders to the premises of customers during that period, such that the sum of all such proportions expresses the proportion to which s 17J(7) refers: Water Supply Licence (Modification of Standard Conditions) Order 2005, SI 2005/2033, art 4(1). For these purposes 'relevant period' means the period of 12 months ending on the last day of the relevant month; 'relevant month' means the last month before the relevant notice was given for which the Authority considers it reasonably practicable for all relevant information to be provided to it; 'relevant notice' means the notice given under the Water Industry Act 1991 s 17J(3) (see the text to notes 8-13) in relation to the modifications in question; and 'relevant information' means information material to a determination of the total volume of water supplied by each relevant licence holder to the premises of customers during the relevant period: Water Supply Licence (Modification of Standard Conditions) Order 2005, SI 2005/2033, art 4(2). As to the meaning of 'month' see PARA 23 note 10. As to the meaning of 'information' see PARA 117 note 13.

ORGANISATION OF THE WATER INDUSTRY/(5) LICENSED WATER SUPPLIERS/(iii) Modification of Licences/158. Modification references to the Competition Commission with regard to water supply licences.

158. Modification references to the Competition Commission with regard to water supply licences.

The Water Services Regulation Authority<sup>1</sup> may make to the Competition Commission<sup>2</sup> a reference<sup>3</sup> which is so framed as to require the Commission to investigate and report<sup>4</sup> on the questions:

- 196 (1) whether any matters which relate to the carrying on of activities authorised or regulated by a particular licence<sup>5</sup>, and which are specified in the reference<sup>6</sup>, operate, or may be expected to operate, against the public interest<sup>7</sup>; and
- 197 (2) if so, whether the effects adverse to the public interest which those matters have, or may be expected to have, could be remedied or prevented by modifications<sup>8</sup> of the conditions of the licence<sup>9</sup>.

The Authority may also make to the Commission a reference which is so framed as to require the Commission to investigate and report on the questions:

- 198 (a) whether any matters which relate to the carrying on of activities authorised or regulated by retail licences or combined licences<sup>10</sup>, and which are specified in the reference<sup>11</sup>, operate, or may be expected to operate, against the public interest<sup>12</sup>; and
- 199 (b) if so, whether the effects adverse to the public interest which those matters have, or may be expected to have, could be remedied or prevented by modifications of the standard conditions<sup>13</sup> of licences of that description<sup>14</sup>.

Every reference under the above provisions must specify a period, not longer than six months<sup>15</sup> beginning with the date of the reference, within which a report on the reference is to be made<sup>16</sup>. A report of the Commission on a reference does not have effect (and no action may be taken in relation to it<sup>17</sup>) unless the report is made before the end of the period specified in the reference or such further period (if any) as may be allowed by the Authority<sup>18</sup>.

The Authority may at any time, by notice<sup>19</sup> given to the Commission, vary a reference by adding to the matters specified in the reference<sup>20</sup> or excluding from the reference some of the matters so specified<sup>21</sup>, and on receipt of any such notice the Commission must give effect to the variation<sup>22</sup>. The Authority may specify in a reference, or in a variation of such a reference, for the purpose of assisting the Commission in carrying out the investigation on the reference, any effects adverse to the public interest which, in its opinion, the matters specified in the reference or variation have or may be expected to have<sup>23</sup>, and any modifications of the relevant conditions<sup>24</sup> by which, in its opinion, those effects could be remedied or prevented<sup>25</sup>. As soon as practicable after making a reference or a variation of such a reference, the Authority must publish particulars of the reference or variation in such manner as it considers appropriate for the purpose of bringing the reference or variation to the attention of persons likely to be affected by it<sup>26</sup>. If, before the end of the period of 28 days beginning with the day on which the Secretary of State receives the copy of the reference or variation, the Secretary of State directs the Commission not to proceed with the reference<sup>27</sup>, or not to give effect to the variation<sup>28</sup>, the Commission must comply with the direction<sup>29</sup>.

It is the duty of the Authority, for the purpose of assisting the Commission in carrying out an investigation on a reference under these provisions or in carrying out functions relating to its power to veto proposed modifications<sup>30</sup>, to give to the Commission:

- 200 (i) any information<sup>31</sup> in the Authority's possession which relates to matters falling within the scope of the investigation or the carrying out of those functions and which is either requested by the Commission for that purpose<sup>32</sup>, or is information which, in the Authority's opinion, it would be appropriate for that purpose to give to the Commission without any such request<sup>33</sup>; and
- 201 (ii) any other assistance which the Commission may require, and which it is within the Authority's power to give, in relation to any such matters<sup>34</sup>, and the Commission, for the purpose of carrying out any such investigation or such functions, must take account of any information given to it for that purpose<sup>35</sup>.

1 As to the Water Services Regulation Authority see PARA 109.

2 As to the Competition Commission see COMPETITION vol 18 (2009) PARAS 9-12. Under the Utilities Act 2000, specialist members of the Commission must be appointed to exercise its functions under the Water Industry Act 1991 s 17K: see COMPETITION vol 18 (2009) PARA 9.

3 For the purposes of such references, the following provisions of the Enterprise Act 2002 Pt 3 (ss 22-130) (see COMPETITION vol 18 (2009) PARAS 173-275) (with the modifications mentioned in the Water Industry Act 1991 s 17M(2), (3) (see below)) apply as they apply for the purposes of references under the Enterprise Act 2002 Pt 3: (1) s 109 (attendance of witnesses and production of documents etc); (2) s 110 (enforcement of powers under s 109: general); (3) s 111 (penalties); (4) s 112 (penalties: main procedural requirements); (5) s 113 (payments and interest by instalments); (6) s 114 (appeals in relation to penalties); (7) s 115 (recovery of penalties); and (8) s 116 (statement of policy): Water Industry Act 1991 s 17M(1) (ss 17K-17M added by the Water Act 2003 s 56, Sch 4 paras 1, 2). The Enterprise Act 2002 s 110, in its application by virtue of head (2) above, has effect as if s 110(2) were omitted and in s 110(9) the words from 'or section' to 'section 65(3))' were omitted: Water Industry Act 1991 s 17M(2) (as so added). The Enterprise Act 2002 s 111(5)(b)(ii), in its application by virtue of head (7) above, has effect as if (a) for the words 'published (or, in the case of a report under section 50 or 65, given)' there were substituted 'made'; (b) for the words 'published (or given)', in both places where they appear, there were substituted 'made'; and (c) the words 'by this Part' were omitted: Water Industry Act 1991 s 17M(3) (as so added). Provisions of the Enterprise Act 2002 Pt 3 which have effect for the purposes of ss 109-116 of that Act (including, in particular, provisions relating to offences and the making of orders), have effect, for the purposes of the application of those sections by virtue of heads (1)-(8) above, in relation to those sections as so applied; and accordingly, corresponding provisions of the Water Industry Act 1991 do not have effect in relation to those sections as so applied: s 17M(4), (5) (as so added).

7 Water Industry Act 1991 s 17K(1)(a) (as added: see note 3). In determining for the purposes of s 17K whether any particular matter operates, or may be expected to operate, against the public interest, the Commission must have regard to the matters as respects which duties are imposed on the Secretary of State and the Water Services Regulation Authority by Pt I (ss 1-5): s 17K(9) (as so added). 18 Water Industry Act 1991 s 17L(2) (as added: see note 3). The Authority may, if it has received representations on the subject from the Commission and is satisfied that there are special reasons why the report cannot be made within the period specified in the reference, extend that period by no more than six months: s 17L(3) (as so added). No more than one such extension is possible in relation to the same reference: s 17L(4) (as so added). The Authority must, in the case of an extension made by it publish that extension in such manner as it considers appropriate for the purpose of bringing it to the attention of persons likely to be affected by it (s 17L(5)(a) (as so added)), and send a copy of what has been so published by it to the holder of the licence or, as the case may be, the relevant licence holders (s 17L(5)(b) (as so added)). ### 159. Reports on modification references.

In making a report on a modification reference relating to a water supply licence<sup>1</sup>, the Competition Commission<sup>2</sup>:

- 202 (1) must include in the report definite conclusions on the questions comprised in the reference together with such an account of its reasons for those conclusions as in its opinion is expedient for facilitating a proper understanding of those questions and of its conclusions<sup>3</sup>;
- 203 (2) where it concludes that any of the matters specified in the reference operate, or may be expected to operate, against the public interest, must specify in the report the effects adverse to the public interest which those matters have or may be expected to have<sup>4</sup>; and
- 204 (3) where it concludes that any adverse effects so specified could be remedied or prevented by modifications<sup>5</sup> of the relevant conditions<sup>6</sup>, must specify in the report modifications by which those effects could be remedied or prevented<sup>7</sup>.

For the purposes of the making of modifications of the relevant conditions following a report<sup>8</sup>, a conclusion contained in a report of the Commission is to be disregarded if the conclusion is not that of at least two-thirds of the members of the group constituted<sup>9</sup> in connection with the reference concerned<sup>10</sup>.

A report of the Commission on a reference must be made to the Water Services Regulation Authority<sup>11</sup>. For the purposes of the law relating to defamation, absolute privilege attaches to any such report made by the Commission<sup>12</sup>; but in making the report the Commission must have regard to the specified considerations before disclosing any information<sup>13</sup>.

On receiving a report:

- 205 (a) on a reference regarding matters relating to the carrying on of activities authorised or regulated by a particular licence<sup>14</sup>, the Water Services Regulation Authority must:
  - 19
  - 22. (i) serve a copy<sup>15</sup> of it on the licence holder<sup>16</sup>, the Consumer Council for Water<sup>17</sup>, the Secretary of State<sup>18</sup> and the Welsh Ministers<sup>19</sup>; and
  - 23. (ii) not earlier than the relevant time<sup>20</sup>, publish another copy of the report in such manner as it considers appropriate for bringing the report to the attention of persons<sup>21</sup> likely to be affected by it<sup>22</sup>;
  - 20
  - 206 (b) on a reference regarding matters relating to the carrying on of activities authorised or regulated by retail licences or combined licences<sup>23</sup>, the Authority must<sup>24</sup>:
    - 21
    - 24. (i) serve a copy of it on the Secretary of State<sup>25</sup> and the Welsh Ministers<sup>26</sup>; and
    - 25. (ii) not earlier than the relevant time, serve another copy on each relevant licence holder<sup>27</sup> and, not less than 24 hours after doing so, publish another copy of the report in such manner as it considers appropriate for bringing the report to the attention of persons likely to be affected by it<sup>28</sup>.

If it appears to the Secretary of State that the publication of any matter in a report on a reference as mentioned in either head (a) or (b) above would be against the public interest<sup>29</sup> or against the commercial interests of any person<sup>30</sup>, the Secretary of State may, not later than the relevant time, direct the Authority to exclude that matter from the copy of the report, or, as the case may be, each copy of the report, to be served and published under those heads<sup>31</sup>. The Authority must comply with any such direction<sup>32</sup>.

160. Modification of water supply licences following report.

- 207 (1) includes conclusions to the effect that any of the matters specified in the reference operate, or may be expected to operate, against the public interest<sup>3</sup>;
- 208 (2) specifies effects adverse to the public interest which those matters have or may be expected to have<sup>4</sup>;
- 209 (3) includes conclusions to the effect that those effects could be remedied or prevented by modifications<sup>5</sup> of the relevant conditions<sup>6</sup>; and
- 210 (4) specifies modifications by which those effects could be remedied or prevented<sup>7</sup>,

the Water Services Regulation Authority<sup>8</sup> must, subject to the following provisions, make such modifications of the relevant conditions as appear to it requisite for the purpose of remedying or preventing the adverse effects specified in the report<sup>9</sup>.

Where at any time it so modifies the standard conditions<sup>10</sup> of retail licences or combined licences<sup>11</sup> in consequence of a reference relating to such licences<sup>12</sup>, the Authority may make such incidental or consequential modifications as it considers necessary or expedient of any conditions of licences of that description<sup>13</sup>. It must also make, as nearly as may be, the same modifications of those conditions for the purposes of their incorporation in licences of that description granted after that time<sup>14</sup>, and must publish the modifications made for those purposes in such manner as it considers appropriate<sup>15</sup>. The modification<sup>16</sup> of part of a standard condition of a particular licence in consequence of a particular reference<sup>17</sup> does not prevent any other part of the condition from continuing to be regarded as a standard condition for the relevant statutory purposes<sup>18</sup>.

Before making modifications under the above provisions, the Authority must have regard to the modifications specified in the report<sup>19</sup>; and it must give notice<sup>20</sup> stating that it proposes to make the modifications and setting out their effect<sup>21</sup>, stating the reasons why it proposes to make the modifications<sup>22</sup>, and specifying the period<sup>23</sup> within which representations or objections with respect to the proposed modifications may be made<sup>24</sup>. The Authority must consider any representations or objections which are duly made and not withdrawn<sup>25</sup>.

After considering any representations or objections made in response to proposals set out in such a notice, the authority must give notice to the Commission<sup>26</sup> setting out the modifications it proposes to make to remedy or prevent the adverse effects specified in the report<sup>27</sup> and stating the reasons for making the modifications<sup>28</sup>. If the period of four weeks from the date on which the notice is given<sup>29</sup> elapses without a direction that it is not to make the proposed modifications having been given to it<sup>30</sup>, the Authority must make the modifications set out in the notice<sup>31</sup>. If, however, a direction not to make such of the modifications as are specified in the direction has been given<sup>32</sup>, the Authority must make the modifications set out in the notice which are not specified in that direction<sup>33</sup>.

161. Competition Commission's power of veto following report.

The Competition Commission<sup>1</sup> may, within the period of four weeks after the date on which it is given a notice of proposed modifications<sup>2</sup>, direct the Water Services Regulation Authority<sup>3</sup>:

- 211 (1) not to make the modifications set out in that notice<sup>4</sup>; or
- 212 (2) not to make such of the modifications as may be specified in the direction<sup>5</sup>;

and the Authority must comply with any such direction<sup>6</sup>. The power to give such a direction may only be exercised in respect of such of the modifications set out in the notice from the Authority<sup>7</sup> as appear to the Commission not to be the modifications which are requisite for the purpose of remedying or preventing all or any of the adverse effects specified in the report as effects which could be remedied or prevented by modifications<sup>8</sup>.

If the Commission gives such a direction it must give notice<sup>9</sup> setting out the modifications proposed by the Authority, the terms of the direction and the reasons for giving it<sup>10</sup>; and must itself make such modifications of the relevant conditions<sup>11</sup> as appear to it to be requisite for the purpose of remedying or preventing:

- 213 (a) if the direction was given under head (1) above, the adverse effects specified in the report as effects which could be remedied or prevented by modifications<sup>12</sup>;
- 214 (b) if the direction was given under head (2) above, such of those adverse effects as are not remedied or prevented by the modifications made<sup>13</sup> by the Authority<sup>14</sup>.

In exercising its power under head (b) above the Commission must have regard to the matters as respects which duties are imposed<sup>15</sup> on the Authority<sup>16</sup>; and before making modifications under that power the Commission must give notice<sup>17</sup> stating that it proposes to make the modifications and setting them out<sup>18</sup>, stating the reason why it proposes to make them<sup>19</sup>, and specifying the period<sup>20</sup> within which representations or objections with respect to the proposed modifications may be made<sup>21</sup>. The Commission must consider any representations or objections which are duly made and not withdrawn<sup>22</sup>.

Certain provisions of the Enterprise Act 2002 apply<sup>25</sup>, with specified modifications, for the purposes of any investigation by the Commission with regard to the exercise of its functions under the above provisions<sup>26</sup>.

1 As to the Competition Commission see COMPETITION vol 18 (2009) PARAS 9-12. Under the Utilities Act 2000, specialist members of the Commission must be appointed to exercise its functions under the Water Industry Act 1991 s 17P: see COMPETITION vol 18 (2009) PARA 9.

the period mentioned in s 17O(8) (see PARA 160)), is to be extended by 14 days: s 17P(2) (ss 17P, 17Q added by the Water Act 2003 s 56, Sch 4 paras 1, 2). As to the Secretary of State see PARA 15 note 1.

9 A notice under the Water Industry Act 1991 s 17P(4)(a) or (6) (see the text to notes 17-22) must be given: (1) by publishing the notice in such manner as the Commission considers appropriate for the purpose of bringing it to the attention of persons likely to be affected by the making of the modifications (s 17P(7)(a) (as added: see note 2)); (2) by serving a copy of the notice on the Authority, the holder of the licence in question or, as the case may be, the relevant licence holders, the Consumer Council for Water, the Secretary of State, the Welsh Ministers, and the Chief Inspector of Drinking Water (s 17P(7)(b)(i)-(vi) (as so added)); Government of Wales Act 2006 Sch 11 para 32). For the purposes of the law relating to defamation, absolute privilege will attach to any notice under the Water Industry Act 1991 s 17P(4)(a), (6) or (8) (see the text to notes 23-24): s 17Q(1) (as so added). In giving any notice under s 17P(4)(a) or (6), or publishing any notice under s 17P(8), the Commission must, however, have regard to the following considerations before disclosing any information: s 17Q(2) (as so added). The first consideration is the need to exclude from disclosure, so far as practicable, any information whose disclosure the Commission thinks is contrary to the public interest: s 17Q(3) (as so added). The second consideration is the need to exclude from disclosure, so far as practicable: (a) commercial information whose disclosure the Commission thinks might significantly harm the legitimate business interests of the undertaking to which it relates (s 17Q(4)(a) (as so added)); or (b) information relating to the private affairs of an individual whose disclosure the Commission thinks might significantly harm the individual's interests (s 17Q(4)(b) (as so added)). The third consideration is the extent to which the disclosure of the information mentioned in head (a) or head (b) above is necessary for the purposes of the notice: s 17Q(5) (as so added). Where, in consequence of a reference under s 17K(2), the Commission modifies under s 17P(4)(b) the standard conditions of retail licences or combined licences, the Authority may make such incidental or consequential modifications as it considers necessary or expedient of any conditions of licences of that description: s 17P(10) (as so added). The modification under s 17P of part of a standard condition of a particular licence in consequence of a reference under s 17K(1) (see PARA 158) does not prevent any other part of the condition from continuing to be regarded as a standard condition for the purposes of Pt II Ch 1A (ss 17A-17R): s 17P(9) (as so added).

25 The following provisions of the Enterprise Act 2002 Pt 3 (ss 22-130) (see COMPETITION vol 18 (2009) PARAS 173-275) apply, with the modifications mentioned in the Water Industry Act 1991 s 17Q(7), (8) (see below), for the purposes of any investigation by the Commission for the purposes of the exercise of its functions under s 17P, as they apply for the purposes of any investigation on references under the Enterprise Act 2002 Pt 3: (1) s 109 (attendance of witnesses and production of documents etc); (2) s 110 (enforcement of powers under section 109: general); (3) s 111 (penalties); (4) s 112 (penalties: main procedural requirements); (5) s 113 (payments and interest by instalments); (6) s 114 (appeals in relation to penalties); (7) s 115 (recovery of penalties); and (8) s 116 (statement of policy): Water Industry Act 1991 s 17Q(6)(a)-(h) (as added: see note 2). The Enterprise Act 2002 s 110, in its application by virtue of head (2) above, has effect as if: (a) s 100(2) were omitted; (b) in s 110(4), for the words 'the publication of the report of the Commission on the reference concerned' there were substituted 'the publication by the Commission of a notice under section 17P(8) of the Water Industry Act 1991 in connection with the reference concerned or, if no direction has been given by the Commission under section 17P(1) of that Act in connection with the reference concerned and within the period permitted for that purpose, the latest day on which it was possible to give such a direction within the permitted period'; and (c) in s 110(9) the words from 'or section' to 'section 65(3))' were omitted: Water Industry Act 1991 s 17Q(7) (as so added). The Enterprise Act s 111(5)(b), in its application by virtue of head (7) above, has effect as if for s 111(5)(b)(ii) there were substituted: '(ii) if earlier, the day on which a notice is published by the Commission under section 17P(8) of the Water Industry Act 1991 in connection with the reference concerned or, if no direction is given by the Commission under section 17P(1) of that Act in connection with the reference concerned and within the period permitted for that purpose, the latest day on which such a direction may be given within the permitted period.': Water Industry Act 1991 s 17Q(8) (as so added). ## 162. Modification of water supply licences by order under other enactments.

- 215 (1) the conditions of a particular retail licence or combined licence<sup>6</sup>; or

Where at any time the relevant authority modifies under head (2) above the standard conditions of retail licences or combined licences, the relevant authority:

- 217 (a) must also make, as nearly as may be, the same modifications of those conditions for the purposes of their incorporation in licences of that description granted after that time<sup>11</sup>; and where it so modifies such conditions for the purposes of their incorporation in licences, the relevant authority must publish those modifications in such manner as it considers appropriate<sup>12</sup>; and
- 218 (b) may, after consultation with the Water Services Regulation Authority<sup>13</sup>, make such incidental or consequential modifications as the relevant authority considers necessary or expedient of any conditions of licences of that description granted before that time<sup>14</sup>.

Subject as aforesaid, where the Secretary of State or, where appropriate, the Welsh Ministers, or the Authority is satisfied:

- 221 (i) in the case of any company holding an appointment as a relevant undertaker, that the company is causing or contributing to a contravention of a condition or requirement such as is referred to in head (1)(a) or (b) above by a company holding a water supply licence<sup>13</sup>, or is likely to cause or contribute to any such contravention<sup>14</sup>; or
- 222 (ii) in the case of any company holding a water supply licence, that the company is causing or contributing to a contravention of a condition or requirement such as is referred to in head (1)(a) or (b) above by a company holding an appointment as a relevant undertaker<sup>15</sup>, or is likely to cause or contribute to any such contravention<sup>16</sup>, they must by a final enforcement order make such provision as is requisite for the purpose of securing compliance with that condition or requirement<sup>17</sup>.

Subject to certain exceptions<sup>18</sup>, where in the case of any company holding an appointment as a relevant undertaker or a water supply licence, it appears to the Secretary of State or, where appropriate, the Welsh Ministers, or the Authority as mentioned in any of the heads above<sup>19</sup>, and that it is requisite that a provisional enforcement order be made<sup>20</sup>, they may (instead of taking steps towards the making of a final order) by a provisional enforcement order make such provision as appears to them requisite for the purpose of securing compliance with the condition or requirement in question<sup>21</sup>. Where<sup>22</sup> the Secretary of State or, where appropriate, the Welsh Ministers, or the Authority has made a provisional enforcement order, they must confirm it, with or without modifications, if: (A) they are satisfied that the company to which the order relates (aa) is contravening any condition or statutory or other requirement in relation to which they are the enforcement authority<sup>23</sup>; or (bb) is likely to contravene any such condition or requirement<sup>24</sup>; or (cc) is causing or contributing to a contravention of any such condition or requirement<sup>25</sup>; or (dd) is likely to cause or contribute to any such contravention<sup>26</sup>; and (b) the provision made by the order (with any modifications) is requisite for the purpose of securing compliance with that condition or requirement<sup>27</sup>.

An enforcement order:

- 223 (AA) must require the company to which it relates (according to the circumstances of the case) to do, or not to do, such things as are specified in the order or are of a description so specified<sup>28</sup>;
- 224 (BB) takes effect at such time, being the earliest practicable time, as is determined by or under the order<sup>29</sup>; and
- 225 (CC) may be revoked at any time by the enforcement authority who made it<sup>30</sup>.

Where any act or omission constitutes a contravention of a condition of an appointment as a relevant undertaker or of a condition of a water supply licence or of a statutory or other requirement enforceable under the above provisions<sup>31</sup>, or causes or contributes to a contravention of any such condition or requirement<sup>32</sup>, the only remedies for, or for causing or contributing to, that contravention (apart from those available by virtue of the above provisions) are those for which express provision is made by or under any enactment and those that are available in respect of that act or omission otherwise than by virtue of its constituting, or causing or contributing to, such a contravention<sup>33</sup>.

164. Circumstances in which an enforcement order need not be made.

Subject to the Drinking Water (Undertakings) (England and Wales) Regulations 2000<sup>1</sup>, neither the Secretary of State<sup>2</sup> or, in certain cases, the Welsh Ministers<sup>3</sup>, nor the Water Services Regulation Authority<sup>4</sup> is required to make an enforcement order<sup>5</sup> in relation to any company, or to confirm a provisional enforcement order<sup>6</sup> so made, if they are satisfied<sup>7</sup>:

- 226 (1) that the contraventions<sup>8</sup> were, or the apprehended contraventions are, of a trivial nature<sup>9</sup>;
- 227 (2) that the extent to which the company caused or contributed to, or was likely to cause or contribute to, a contravention was trivial<sup>10</sup>;
- 228 (3) that the company has given, and is complying with, an undertaking to take all such steps as it appears to them for the time being to be appropriate for the company to take for the purpose of securing or facilitating compliance with the condition or requirement in question<sup>11</sup>; or
- 229 (4) that the duties imposed on them<sup>12</sup> preclude the making or, as the case may be, the confirmation of the order<sup>13</sup>.

The Authority is not required to make an enforcement order, or to confirm a provisional enforcement order, if it is satisfied that the most appropriate way of proceeding is under the Competition Act 1998<sup>14</sup>.

Where the Secretary of State or, where appropriate, the Welsh Ministers, or the Authority, having notified a company that they are considering the making in relation to the company of an enforcement order or the confirmation of a provisional enforcement order so made, is satisfied as mentioned in heads (1) to (4) above or, in the case of the Authority, is satisfied that the most appropriate way of proceeding is under the Competition Act 1998, they must<sup>15</sup>:

- 230 (a) serve notice<sup>16</sup> that they are so satisfied on the company<sup>17</sup>;
- 231 (b) publish a copy of the notice in such manner as they consider appropriate for the purpose of bringing the matters to which the notice relates to the attention of persons<sup>18</sup> likely to be affected by them<sup>19</sup>; and
- 232 (c) in a case where the Secretary of State or, as the case may be, the Welsh Ministers is satisfied as mentioned in head (3) above, serve a copy of the notice and of the undertaking given for the purposes of that head on the Authority<sup>20</sup>;

but these notice requirements do not apply, in the case of any proposed order or confirmation in respect of a specified direction given<sup>21</sup>, to the extent that the Secretary of State or, where appropriate, the Welsh Ministers, directs that they should not be complied with in the interests of national security<sup>22</sup>.

3 The functions of the Secretary of State under the Water Industry Act 1991 s 19 so far as exercisable in relation to Wales, were transferred to the National Assembly for Wales in relation to any water or sewerage undertaker whose area is wholly or mainly in Wales, and any licensed water supplier so far as relating to licensed activities using the supply system of any such water undertaker: see the National Assembly for Wales (Transfer of Functions) Order 1999, SI 1999/672, art 2, Sch 1 (amended by SI 2000/253; the Water Act 2003 s 100(2)(d)). 11 Water Industry Act 1991 s 19(1)(b) (s 19(1)(b), (c), amended by the Water Act 2003 s 36(2)). The requirement to comply with an undertaking given for these purposes is treated as a statutory requirement enforceable under the Water Industry Act 1991 s 18 (see PARA 163) by the Secretary of State or, where appropriate, the Welsh Ministers; or, in accordance with a general authorisation given by the Secretary of State or where appropriate, the Welsh Ministers, by the Water Services Regulation Authority: see s 19(2) (amended by the Water Act 2003 s 36(2)). The Water Services Regulation Authority must enter details of every undertaking given to and accepted by the Secretary of State, the Welsh Ministers or the Authority for the purposes of the Water Industry Act 1991 s 19(1)(b) in the register maintained by it: see s 195; and PARA 178.

An undertaking which relates to a contravention of Water Industry Act 1991 s 68 (water quality: see PARA 374) in so far as it implements EC Directive 80/778 (OJ L229, 30.08.80, p 11) (the Drinking Water Directive) must be accepted by the relevant enforcement authority for the purposes of the Water Industry Act 1991 s 19(1)(b) only if the provisions of the Drinking Water (Undertakings) (England and Wales) Regulations 2000, SI 2000/1297, regs 3-5 (see below) are complied with: reg 2. A company offering to give an undertaking must make an application in writing to the relevant enforcement authority setting out: (1) the terms of the undertaking proposed (reg 3(1)(a)); (2) details of investigations made to identify the contravention and its cause, including relevant sampling evidence (reg 3(1)(b)); (3) the reason for proposing the remedial steps specified in the undertaking, details of any alternative remedial steps considered and the reason for preferring those proposed (reg 3(1)(c)); (4) whether or not there are any alternative means for maintaining supplies to the population affected by the contravention and, if so, what they are and the reason for not using them (reg 3(1)(d)); (5) the company's estimate of the maximum deviation from the quality required by the Water Industry Act 1991 s 68 in relation to each relevant parameter which is likely to occur while remedial steps are being taken and an explanation of the basis of that estimate (Drinking Water (Undertakings) (England and Wales) Regulations 2000, SI 2000/1297, reg 3(1)(e)); (6) an explanation of the measures proposed for monitoring the quality of water supplied in relation to each relevant parameter, and for preventing any danger to public health arising, while remedial steps are being taken (reg 3(1)(f)); and (7) all other information on which the company relies to support its application (reg 3(1)(g)). As to the meaning of 'writing' see PARA 22 note 1. 'Relevant sampling evidence' means details of all relevant samples taken, including the date and place at which each such sample is taken and the results of its analysis: reg 3(2). The undertaking must specify: (a) the nature of the contravention and its cause or suspected cause (reg 4(a)); (b) the water supply zone affected and the size of the population supplied (reg 4(b)); (c) the remedial steps which are to be taken and the date by which each step is to be completed (reg 4(c)); (d) the maximum deviation from the quality required by the Water Industry Act 1991 s 68 in relation to each relevant parameter which the company undertakes to ensure is not exceeded while remedial steps are being taken (Drinking Water (Undertakings) (England and Wales) Regulations 2000, SI 2000/1297 reg 4(d)); and (e) the measures which are to be taken to monitor those parameters, and to prevent any danger to public health arising, during that period (reg 4(e)). 'Water supply zone' has the meaning given by the Water Supply (Water Quality) Regulations 1989, SI 1989/1147, reg 2 (revoked and replaced) (see now PARA 376 note 3): Drinking Water (Undertakings) (England and Wales) Regulations 2000, SI 2000/1297, reg 1(3).

The relevant enforcement authority must be satisfied that: (i) the specified remedial steps are being and will be taken as quickly as possible and that the dates specified in the undertaking are consistent with this (reg 5(a)); (ii) there is no potential danger to human health (reg 5(b)); (iii) there are no reasonable alternative means for maintaining supplies to the population affected by the contravention (reg 5(c)); and (iv) the specified remedial steps are the most appropriate in the circumstances of the case for remedying the contravention as quickly as possible (reg 5(d)). A relevant enforcing authority may no longer rely on an undertaking accepted under the Drinking Water (Undertakings) (England and Wales) Regulations 2000, SI 2000/1297, as a means of ensuring that the contravention is remedied if it ceases to be satisfied about the matters specified in reg 5: reg 6. As to transitional provisions in respect of undertakings accepted before 14 June 2000 see reg 7. 'Relevant enforcement authority' means, in relation to a company whose area of appointment as a water undertaker is wholly or mainly in Wales or a company which is a licensed water supplier as regards licensed activities using the supply system of any such water undertaker, the Welsh Ministers; and in all other cases, the Secretary of State: reg 1(3) (definition amended by SI 2005/2035); Government of Wales Act 2006 Sch 11 para 32. As to the meaning of 'licensed water supplier' see PARA 152: definition applied by the Drinking Water (Undertakings) (England and Wales) Regulations 2000, SI 2000/1297, reg 1(3) (amended by SI 2005/2035). As to the meaning of 'water undertaker' see PARA 137 note 4. As to the meaning of 'Wales' see PARA 16 note 2.

The acceptance by the Secretary of State of undertakings from water undertakers to ensure conformity with EC standards of wholesomeness was sufficient to fulfil his duty to remedy the breach by the UK of its obligation to ensure water intended for human consumption met those standards: R v Secretary of State for the Environment, ex p Friends of the Earth [1996] 1 CMLR 117, CA.

165. Procedure for enforcement orders.

Before making a final enforcement order<sup>1</sup> or confirming a provisional enforcement order<sup>2</sup> the Secretary of State<sup>3</sup> or, in certain cases, the Welsh Ministers<sup>4</sup>, or the Water Services Regulation Authority<sup>5</sup> must give notice<sup>6</sup> stating that they propose to make or confirm the order and setting out the effect of the order<sup>7</sup>. Such notice must also set out:

- 233 (1) the condition or requirement for the purpose of securing compliance with which the order is to be made or confirmed<sup>8</sup>;
- 234 (2) in cases where a company is contravening or is likely to contravene<sup>9</sup> a condition or requirement<sup>10</sup>, the acts or omissions which, in their opinion, constitute or would constitute contraventions of that condition or requirement<sup>11</sup>;
- 235 (3) in cases where a company is causing or contributing to a contravention of a condition or requirement or is likely to do so<sup>12</sup>, the acts or omissions which, in their opinion, cause or contribute to or would cause or contribute to the contravention of that condition or requirement<sup>13</sup>;
- 236 (4) the other facts which, in their opinion, justify the making or confirmation of the order<sup>14</sup>; and
- 237 (5) the period<sup>15</sup> within which representations or objections with respect to the proposed order or proposed confirmation may be made<sup>16</sup>.

The Secretary of State, the Welsh Ministers or the Authority, as the case may be, must consider any representations or objections which are duly made and not withdrawn<sup>17</sup>.

Neither the Secretary of State, the Welsh Ministers nor the Authority may make a final enforcement order with modifications<sup>18</sup>, or confirm a provisional enforcement order with modifications, except<sup>19</sup> with the consent to the modifications of the company to which the order relates<sup>20</sup>, or after complying with further procedural requirements<sup>21</sup>.

As soon as practicable after making an enforcement order or confirming a provisional enforcement order, the Secretary of State or the Welsh Ministers or, as the case may be, the Authority must:

- 238 (a) serve a copy of the order on the company to which the order relates and, where this requirement applies in the case of an order made or confirmed by the Secretary of State or the Welsh Ministers, on the Authority<sup>22</sup>; and
- 239 (b) publish such a copy in such manner as they consider appropriate for the purpose of bringing the order to the attention of persons likely to be affected by it<sup>23</sup>.

The above requirements do not apply, in the case of any order in respect of a contravention of a specified direction<sup>24</sup>, to the extent that the Secretary of State or the Welsh Ministers directs that they should not be complied with in the interests of national security<sup>25</sup>.

166. Revocation of enforcement orders.

An enforcement order<sup>1</sup> may be revoked at any time by the enforcement authority who made it<sup>2</sup>.

Before revoking an enforcement order, other than an unconfirmed provisional order<sup>3</sup>, the Secretary of State<sup>4</sup> or, in certain cases, the Welsh Ministers<sup>5</sup>, or the Water Services Regulation Authority<sup>6</sup> must give notice<sup>7</sup> stating that they propose to revoke the order and setting out its effect<sup>8</sup>, and specifying the period<sup>9</sup> within which representations or objections with respect to the proposed revocation may be made<sup>10</sup>. The Secretary of State, the Welsh Ministers, or as the case may be, the Authority must consider any representations or objections which are duly made and not withdrawn<sup>11</sup>.

If, after giving such a notice, the Secretary of State, the Welsh Ministers, or as the case may be, the Authority decides not to revoke the order to which it relates, they must give notice of that decision<sup>12</sup>.

These procedural requirements do not apply, in the case of any order in respect of a contravention<sup>13</sup> of a specified direction<sup>14</sup>, to the extent that the Secretary of State or the Welsh Ministers direct that they should not be complied with in the interests of national security<sup>15</sup>.

167. Validity of enforcement orders.

If the company to which an enforcement order<sup>1</sup> relates is aggrieved by the order and desires to question its validity on the ground that:

- 240 (1) its making or confirmation was not within the statutory powers<sup>2</sup>; or
- 241 (2) that any of the procedural requirements<sup>3</sup> have not been complied with in relation to it<sup>4</sup>, the company may, within 42 days from the date of service on it of a copy of the order, make an application to the High Court<sup>5</sup>.

On any such application the High Court may, if satisfied that the making of the order was not within those powers or that the interests of the company have been substantially prejudiced by a failure to comply with those requirements, quash the order or any provision of the order<sup>6</sup>.

Except as provided above, the validity of an enforcement order may not be quashed in any legal proceedings whatsoever<sup>7</sup>.

168. Effect of enforcement order.

The obligation to comply with an enforcement order<sup>1</sup> is a duty owed to any person<sup>2</sup> who may be affected by a contravention<sup>3</sup> of the order<sup>4</sup>. Any breach of the duty so owed to any person which causes that person to sustain loss or damage<sup>5</sup> is actionable at his suit<sup>6</sup>; but in any proceedings brought against any company in pursuance of this provision, other than proceedings in respect of a contravention consisting in a breach of the duty to supply wholesome water<sup>7</sup>, it is a defence for the company to show that it took all reasonable steps and exercised all due diligence to avoid contravening the order<sup>8</sup>.

Without prejudice to any right which a person may have by virtue of these provisions to bring civil proceedings in respect of any contravention or apprehended contravention of an enforcement order, compliance with any such order is also enforceable by the relevant enforcement authority<sup>9</sup> in civil proceedings for an injunction or any other appropriate relief<sup>10</sup>.

9 'Relevant enforcement authority', in relation to any enforcement order, means the Secretary of State or, in certain cases, the Welsh Ministers, or the Water Services Regulation Authority, or either of them, according to who is the enforcement authority (see PARA 163 note 9) in relation to the condition or requirement compliance with which was to be secured by the order: Water Industry Act 1991 s 22(5) (amended by the Water Act 2003 s 36(2)). As to the Secretary of State see PARA 15 note 1. As to the Water Services Regulation Authority see PARA 109. they may, for any purpose connected with such of their powers under the Water Industry Act 1991<sup>11</sup> as are exercisable in relation to that matter, serve a notice<sup>12</sup> on any person<sup>13</sup>: (i) requiring that person to produce, at a time and place specified in the notice, to the Secretary of State, Welsh Ministers or the Authority<sup>14</sup>, or any person appointed by them for the purpose<sup>15</sup>, any documents which are specified or described in the notice and are in that person's custody or under his control<sup>16</sup>; or (ii) requiring that person, if he is carrying on a business, to furnish, at the time and place and in the form and manner specified in the notice, the Secretary of State, Welsh Ministers or the Authority with such information<sup>17</sup> as may be specified or described in the notice<sup>18</sup>.

A person who, without reasonable excuse, fails to do anything required of him by such a notice is guilty of an offence<sup>19</sup>, as is a person who intentionally alters, suppresses or destroys any document which he has been required by any such notice to produce<sup>20</sup>.

If a person makes default in complying with a notice, the High Court may, on the application of the Secretary of State or, where appropriate, the Welsh Ministers, or the Authority, make such order as the court thinks fit for requiring the default to be made good; and any such order may provide that all the costs or expenses of and incidental to the application must be borne by the person in default or by any officers of a company or other association who are responsible for its default<sup>21</sup>.

Nothing in these provisions is to be construed as restricting any power<sup>22</sup> of the Secretary of State or, where appropriate, the Welsh Ministers, or the Authority to require a company holding such an appointment as a relevant undertaker or a water supply licence to produce any document to them or to furnish them with any information<sup>23</sup>.

that the company:
- 33
37. (A) has contravened or is contravening any statutory or other requirement which is enforceable by an enforcement order<sup>12</sup> and in relation to which they are the enforcement authority<sup>13</sup>; or
38. (B) has caused or contributed to, or is causing or contributing to, a contravention by a company holding a water supply licence of any such requirement<sup>14</sup>;
- 34
- 247 (ii) in the case of any company holding a water supply licence, that the company;
- 35
39. (A) has contravened or is contravening any statutory or other requirement which is enforceable by an enforcement order and in relation to which they are the enforcement authority<sup>15</sup>; or

40. (B) has caused or contributed to, or is causing or contributing to, a contravention by a company holding an appointment as a relevant undertaker of any such requirement<sup>16</sup>, they may<sup>17</sup> impose on the company a penalty of such amount as is reasonable in all the circumstances of the case<sup>18</sup>.
- 36

Before imposing a penalty on a company under any of the above provisions the Authority, the Secretary of State or the Welsh Ministers (the 'enforcement authority') must give notice<sup>19</sup> stating that they propose to impose a penalty and the amount of the penalty proposed to be imposed<sup>20</sup>. The notice must set out the condition, requirement or standard of performance in question<sup>21</sup>, specify the acts or omissions which, in the opinion of the enforcement authority, constitute the contravention or failure in question and the other facts which, in the opinion of the enforcement authority, justify the imposition of a penalty and the amount of the penalty proposed<sup>22</sup>, and specify the period<sup>23</sup> within which representations or objections with respect to the proposed penalty may be made<sup>24</sup>. The enforcement authority must consider any representations or objections which are duly made and not withdrawn<sup>25</sup>.

Before varying any proposal stated in such a notice<sup>26</sup>, the enforcement authority must give notice setting out the proposed variation and the reasons for it<sup>27</sup> and specifying the period<sup>28</sup> within which representations or objections with respect to the proposed variation may be made<sup>29</sup>; and the enforcement authority must consider any representations or objections which are duly made and not withdrawn<sup>30</sup>.

No penalty imposed by an enforcement authority under the above provisions may exceed 10 per cent of the turnover of the company<sup>31</sup>; and an enforcement authority must not impose a penalty under those provisions where it is satisfied that the most appropriate way of proceeding is under the Competition Act 1998<sup>32</sup>.

As soon as practicable after imposing a penalty, the enforcement authority must give notice stating that it has imposed a penalty on the company and its amount<sup>33</sup>. The company may, within 21 days of the date of service on it of such a notice, make an application to the enforcement authority for it to specify different dates by which different portions of the penalty are to be paid<sup>34</sup>. If such an application is made, in relation to a penalty, the penalty is not required to be paid until the application has been determined<sup>35</sup>.

Where a penalty imposed under the above provisions, or any portion of it, has not been paid by the date on which it is required to be paid and either no application to the court relating to the penalty has been made<sup>36</sup> during the period within which such an application can be made<sup>37</sup>, or such an application has been made and determined<sup>38</sup>, the enforcement authority may recover from the company, as a civil debt due to it, any of the penalty and any interest which has not been paid<sup>39</sup>.

Statement of policy with respect to penalties.

171. Statement of policy with respect to penalties.

Each enforcement authority<sup>1</sup> must prepare and publish<sup>2</sup> a statement of policy with respect to the imposition of penalties and the determination of their amount<sup>3</sup>. An enforcement authority may revise its statement of policy and where it does so must publish the revised statement<sup>4</sup>. An enforcement authority must undertake such consultation as it considers appropriate when preparing or revising its statement of policy<sup>5</sup>.

In deciding whether to impose a penalty, and in determining the amount of any penalty, in respect of a contravention<sup>6</sup> or failure an enforcement authority must have regard to its statement of policy most recently published at the time when the contravention or failure occurred<sup>7</sup>.

1 As to the meaning of 'enforcement authority' see PARA 170 note 10.

2 Publication under the Water Industry Act 1991 s 22B must be in such manner as the enforcement authority considers appropriate for the purpose of bringing the matters contained in the statement of policy to the attention of persons likely to be affected by them: s 22B(4) (s 22B added by the Water Act 2003 s 48(1)). As to the meaning of 'person' see PARA 13 note 29. ## 172. Appeals in relation to penalties.

If the company on which a penalty is imposed<sup>1</sup> is aggrieved by:

- 248 (1) the imposition of the penalty<sup>2</sup>;
- 249 (2) the amount of the penalty<sup>3</sup>; or
- 250 (3) the date by which the penalty is required to be paid, or the different dates by which different portions of the penalty are required to be paid<sup>4</sup>, the company may make an application to the High Court<sup>5</sup>.

On any such application, where the court considers it appropriate to do so in all the circumstances of the case and is satisfied of one or more of the specified grounds, the court: (a) may quash the penalty<sup>6</sup>; (b) may substitute a penalty of such lesser amount as the court considers appropriate in all the circumstances of the case<sup>7</sup>; or (c) in the case of an application under head (3) above, may substitute for the date or dates imposed by the enforcement authority an alternative date or dates<sup>8</sup>. The specified grounds are:

- 251 (i) that the imposition of the penalty was not within the power<sup>9</sup> of the enforcement authority<sup>10</sup>;
- 252 (ii) that any of the requirements as to the service of notices<sup>11</sup> have not been complied with in relation to the imposition of the penalty and the interests of the company have been substantially prejudiced by the non-compliance<sup>12</sup>; or
- 253 (iii) that it was unreasonable of the enforcement authority to require the penalty imposed, or any portion of it, to be paid by the date or dates by which it was required to be paid<sup>13</sup>.

If an application is made under these provisions in relation to a penalty, the penalty is not required to be paid until the application has been determined<sup>14</sup>. Where the court substitutes a penalty of a lesser amount it may require the payment of interest on the substituted penalty at such rate, and from such date, as it considers just and equitable<sup>15</sup>. Where the court specifies as a date by which the penalty, or a portion of the penalty, is to be paid a date before the determination of the application, it may require the payment of interest on the penalty, or portion, from that date at such rate as it considers just and equitable<sup>16</sup>.

Except as provided by these provisions, the validity of a penalty may not be questioned by any legal proceedings whatever<sup>17</sup>.

Such an application must be made: (1) within 42 days from the date of service on the company of a notice under s 22A(6) (see PARA 170) (s 22E(2)(a) (as so added)); or (2) where the application relates to a decision of an enforcement authority on an application by the company under s 22A(7) (see PARA 170), within 42 days from the date the company is notified of the decision (s 22E(2)(b) (as so added)). - 258 (1) the Secretary of State<sup>2</sup> or, in relation to Wales, the Welsh Ministers<sup>3</sup>; or
- 259 (2) with the Secretary of State's or, where appropriate, the Welsh Ministers' consent, by the Water Services Regulation Authority<sup>4</sup>, the court is satisfied in relation to any company which holds an appointment as a relevant undertaker<sup>5</sup> that any one or more of the specified grounds is satisfied in relation to that company, the court may make a special administration order<sup>6</sup> in relation to that company<sup>7</sup>.

If on an application made to the High Court by petition presented:

- 260 (a) by the Secretary of State (after consulting the Welsh Ministers)<sup>8</sup>; or
- 261 (b) with the consent of the Secretary of State (after consulting the Welsh Ministers), the Water Services Regulation Authority<sup>9</sup>, the court is satisfied in relation to any company which is a qualifying licensed water supplier<sup>10</sup> that any one or more of the specified grounds is satisfied in relation to that company, that court may make a special administration order in relation to that company<sup>11</sup>.

The specified grounds are, in relation to any company:

- 262 (i) that there has been, is or is likely to be such a contravention<sup>12</sup> by the company of any principal duty<sup>13</sup>, not being a contravention in respect of which a notice has been served in relation to the proposed making of an enforcement order<sup>14</sup>, as is serious enough to make it inappropriate for the company to continue to hold its appointment or licence<sup>15</sup>;
- 263 (ii) that there has been, is or is likely to be such a contravention by the company of the provisions of any enforcement order which is not for the time being the subject-matter of proceedings<sup>16</sup>, and if it is a provisional enforcement order has been confirmed<sup>17</sup>, as is serious enough to make it inappropriate for the company to continue to hold its appointment or licence<sup>18</sup>;
- 264 (iii) in the case of a company which is a qualifying licensed water supplier, that action taken by the company has caused a contravention by a water undertaker of any principal duty<sup>19</sup> and that action is serious enough to make it inappropriate for the company to continue to hold its licence<sup>20</sup>;
- 265 (iv) that the company is or is likely to be unable to pay its debts<sup>21</sup>;
- 266 (v) that, in a case in which the Secretary of State has certified that it would be appropriate<sup>22</sup> for him to petition for the winding up of the company<sup>23</sup>, it would be just and equitable<sup>24</sup>, for the company to be wound up if it did not hold an appointment as a relevant undertaker or was not a qualifying licensed water supplier<sup>25</sup>; or
- 267 (vi) in the case of a company holding an appointment as a relevant undertaker, that the company is unable or unwilling adequately to participate in arrangements certified by the Secretary of State, the Welsh Ministers or the Authority to be necessary by reason of or in connection with, a proposal for the making<sup>26</sup> of any appointment or variation replacing a company as a relevant undertaker<sup>27</sup>.

Notice<sup>28</sup> of any petition for a special administration order must be given forthwith to the prescribed persons and in the prescribed manner<sup>29</sup>, and no such petition may be withdrawn except with the leave of the High Court<sup>30</sup>. Specified provisions of the Insolvency Act 1986<sup>31</sup> apply, with modifications, to the hearing and effect of such petitions<sup>32</sup>.

ORGANISATION OF THE WATER INDUSTRY/(6) ENFORCEMENT AND INSOLVENCY/(iii) Special Administration Orders/176. Government financial assistance where special administration orders made.

176. Government financial assistance where special administration orders made.

Where a special administration order<sup>1</sup> is for the time being in force in relation to a company, the Secretary of State<sup>2</sup> or, in relation to Wales, the Welsh Ministers<sup>3</sup> may, with the consent of the Treasury<sup>4</sup>: (1) make to the company grants or loans of such sums as appear to him or them to be appropriate for the purpose of facilitating the achievement of the purposes of the order<sup>5</sup>; and (2) agree to indemnify the person<sup>6</sup> appointed to achieve the purposes of the order in respect of liabilities incurred and loss or damage sustained by that person in connection with the carrying out of his functions under the order<sup>7</sup>. The terms and conditions on which a grant is made to any company under these provisions may require the whole or a part of the grant to be repaid to the Secretary of State or the Welsh Ministers if there is a contravention<sup>8</sup> of the other terms and conditions on which the grant is made<sup>9</sup>. Any loans which the Secretary of State or the Welsh Ministers make to a company must be repaid to him or them at such times and by such methods, and interest on the loans must be paid to him or them at such rates and at such times, as he or they may with the consent of the Treasury from time to time direct<sup>10</sup>.

The Secretary of State or, as the case may be, the Welsh Ministers may also, with the consent of the Treasury, guarantee, in such manner and on such conditions as he or they may think fit, the repayment of the principal of, the payment of interest on and the discharge of any other financial obligation in connection with any sum which is borrowed from any person by a company in relation to which a special administration order is in force at the time when the guarantee is given<sup>11</sup>. If any sums are paid out in fulfilment of a guarantee to which these provisions apply, the relevant company<sup>12</sup> must make to the Secretary of State or, as appropriate, the Welsh Ministers, at such times and in such manner as he or they may from time to time direct<sup>13</sup>, payments of such amounts as he or they may so direct towards repayment of the sums so paid out<sup>14</sup> and payments of interest, at such rate as he or they may so direct, on what is outstanding for the time being in respect of sums so paid out<sup>15</sup>.

179. Maps of waterworks.

- 279 (1) every resource main<sup>4</sup>, water main<sup>5</sup> or discharge pipe<sup>6</sup> which is for the time being vested in the undertaker<sup>7</sup>; and
- 280 (2) any other underground works, other than a service pipe<sup>8</sup>, which are for the time being vested in that undertaker<sup>9</sup>.

It is also the duty<sup>10</sup> of every water undertaker to keep records of the location and, in the case of a water main other relevant particulars<sup>11</sup>, of:

- 281 (a) every water main in relation to which a declaration of vesting has been made by the undertaker<sup>12</sup> but has not taken effect<sup>13</sup>; and
- 282 (b) every water main which is the subject of any agreement to make such a declaration which has been entered into by, or on behalf of, the undertaker<sup>14</sup>.

Likewise it is the duty<sup>15</sup> of the Environment Agency<sup>16</sup> to keep records of the location of:

- 283 (i) every resource main or discharge pipe<sup>17</sup> which is for the time being vested in the Agency<sup>18</sup>; and
- 284 (ii) any other underground works which are for the time being vested in the Agency<sup>19</sup>.

It is the duty of every water undertaker and the Agency to secure that the contents of any records for the time being kept by it under these provisions are available, at all reasonable times, for inspection by the public free of charge at an office of the undertaker or, as the case may be, the Agency<sup>20</sup>; and any information<sup>21</sup> so required to be made available must be made available in the form of a map<sup>22</sup>.

For the purpose of determining whether any failure to make a modification<sup>23</sup> of any records kept under these provisions constitutes a breach of the duty imposed by heads (1) and (2), or (a) and (b), or (i) and (ii) above, that duty must be taken to require any modification of the records to be made as soon as reasonably practicable after the completion of the works which make the modification necessary; and where records so kept are modified, the date of the modification and of the completion of the works making the modification necessary must be incorporated in the records<sup>24</sup>.

180. Publication of information and advice.

The Secretary of State<sup>1</sup> or, in relation to Wales, the Welsh Ministers<sup>2</sup>, may arrange for the publication, in such form and in such manner as he or they considers appropriate, of such information<sup>3</sup>:

- 285 (1) relating to any matter which is connected with the carrying out by a company holding an appointment as a relevant undertaker<sup>4</sup> of the functions<sup>5</sup> of such an undertaker<sup>6</sup>; or
- 286 (2) relating to any matter which is connected with the carrying on by a company holding a water supply licence<sup>7</sup> of the activities authorised by the licence<sup>8</sup>, as it may appear to him or them to be in the public interest to publish<sup>9</sup>.

The Water Services Regulation Authority<sup>10</sup> may arrange for the publication, in such form and in such manner as it considers appropriate, of such information and advice as it may appear to it to be expedient to give to any customer or potential customer<sup>11</sup> of a company holding an appointment as a relevant undertaker or a water supply licence<sup>12</sup>.

In arranging for the publication of any such information or advice the Secretary of State or, where appropriate, the Welsh Ministers, or the Authority must have regard to the need for excluding, so far as that is practicable:

- 287 (a) any matter which relates to the affairs of an individual, where the publication of that matter would or might, in the opinion of the Secretary of State or the Welsh Ministers or, as the case may be, the Authority, seriously and prejudicially affect the interests of that individual<sup>13</sup>; and
- 288 (b) any matter which relates specifically to the affairs of a particular body of persons<sup>14</sup>, whether corporate or unincorporate, where publication of that matter would or might, in the opinion of the Secretary of State or the Welsh Ministers or, as the case may be, the Authority, seriously and prejudicially affect the interests of that body<sup>15</sup>.

181. Publication of reasons for decisions.

As soon as reasonably practicable after making a specified decision, the Water Services Regulation Authority<sup>1</sup>, the Secretary of State<sup>2</sup> or the Welsh Ministers<sup>3</sup> must publish a notice<sup>4</sup> stating the reasons for the decision in such manner as they consider appropriate for the purpose of bringing the matters to which the notice relates to the attention of persons<sup>5</sup> likely to be interested<sup>6</sup>. The specified decisions are:

- 289 (1) the modification<sup>7</sup> of the conditions of an appointment as a relevant undertaker<sup>8</sup> or the variation of the area to which an appointment relates<sup>9</sup>;
- 290 (2) the modification of the conditions of a water supply licence<sup>10</sup>;
- 291 (3) the termination of such an appointment or the revocation of such a licence<sup>11</sup>;
- 292 (4) the giving of any directions or consent in pursuance of a condition included<sup>12</sup> in such an appointment or in such a licence<sup>13</sup>;
- 293 (5) the determination of a question referred in pursuance of a condition included<sup>14</sup> in such an appointment or in such a licence<sup>15</sup>;
- 294 (6) the making of a determination<sup>16</sup> in relation to a supply of water<sup>17</sup>; and
- 295 (7) the making of a final enforcement order, the making or confirmation of a provisional enforcement order<sup>18</sup> or the revocation of a final order or of a provisional order which has been confirmed<sup>19</sup>.

These provisions do not, however, apply in relation to a decision of the Authority resulting in any provision which the Authority was directed<sup>20</sup> not to enter in the register it is required<sup>21</sup> to keep<sup>22</sup>.

A person preparing a notice under the above provisions must have regard to the need for excluding, so far as that is practicable, any matter which relates to the affairs of a particular individual or body of persons, corporate or unincorporate, where he considers that publication of that matter would or might seriously and prejudicially affect the interests of that individual or body<sup>23</sup>; and a person publishing such a notice must serve<sup>24</sup> a copy on the company holding the appointment or licence to which the decision relates<sup>25</sup>.

It is the duty of a company holding an appointment as a relevant undertaker<sup>1</sup> to furnish the Secretary of State<sup>2</sup> or, in relation to Wales, the Welsh Ministers<sup>3</sup> with all such information<sup>4</sup> as they may reasonably require which is connected with, or with any proposals relating to, the carrying out by that company of the functions<sup>5</sup> of a relevant undertaker<sup>6</sup>, or is material to the carrying out by the Secretary of State or, where appropriate, the Welsh Ministers of any of his or their statutory<sup>7</sup> functions<sup>8</sup>.

Similarly, it is the duty of a company holding a water supply licence<sup>9</sup> to furnish the Secretary of State or, where appropriate, the Welsh Ministers with all such information as they may reasonably require relating to any matter which is connected with, or with any proposals relating to, the carrying on by that company of the activities authorised by the licence<sup>10</sup>, or which is material to the carrying out by the Secretary of State or the Welsh Ministers of any of his or their statutory<sup>11</sup> functions<sup>12</sup>.

Information required under these provisions must be furnished in such form and manner, and be accompanied or supplemented by such explanations, as the Secretary of State or, as the case may be, the Welsh Ministers may reasonably require<sup>13</sup>; and includes information which, although it is not in the possession of that company or would not otherwise come into the possession of that company, is information which it is reasonable to require that company to obtain<sup>14</sup>.

The obligations of a relevant undertaker or a licensed water supplier under these provisions are enforceable<sup>15</sup> by the Secretary of State or, where appropriate, the Welsh Ministers<sup>16</sup>.

The National Consumer Council<sup>17</sup> may serve a notice on a water undertaker, sewerage undertaker or licensed water supplier requiring it to provide information to the Council<sup>18</sup>. Where a water undertaker, sewerage undertaker or licensed water supplier fails to comply with such a notice, the Council may refer the failure to the Water Services Regulation Authority which must determine whether the person concerned is entitled to refuse to comply with the notice<sup>19</sup>.

5. WATER RESOURCES

(1) INTRODUCTION

187. Meaning of 'water resources' and related terms.

The term 'water resources' is not defined in the Water Resources Act 1991 but may be taken to mean water contained in sources of supply<sup>1</sup>. 'Source of supply' means: (1) any inland waters<sup>2</sup> except<sup>3</sup> any which are discrete waters<sup>4</sup>; or (2) any underground strata<sup>5</sup> in which water is or at any time may be contained<sup>6</sup>.

1 As to earlier definitions see the Water Resources Act 1963 ss 2(1), 135(1) (repealed).

2 'Inland waters' means the whole or any part of: (1) any river, stream or other watercourse (within the meaning of the Water Resources Act 1991 Pt II Ch II (ss 24-72): see below), whether natural or artificial and whether tidal or not; (2) any lake or pond, whether natural or artificial, or any reservoir or dock, in so far as the lake, pond, reservoir or dock does not fall within head (1) above; and (3) any channel, creek, bay, estuary or arm of the sea as does not fall within head (1) or (2) above: s 221(1). This definition is applied for the purposes of the Water Industry Act 1991: see s 219(1).

References in the Water Resources Act 1991 Pt II Ch II (ss 24-72) (see PARA 214 et seq) to a 'watercourse' do not include references: (a) to any sewer or part of a sewer vested in a sewerage undertaker, a local authority or joint planning board, the new towns residuary body or a development corporation for a new town, or a harbour board within the meaning of the Railway and Canal Traffic Act 1888; (b) to any adit or passage constructed in connection with a well, borehole or other similar work for facilitating the collection of water in the well, borehole or work: Water Resources Act 1991 s 72(2) (amended by the Housing and Regeneration Act 2008 s 56, Sch 8 para 60(1), (2)). 'Sewer' has, subject to the Water Resources Act 1991 s 221(2) below, the same meaning as in the Water Industry Act 1991 (see PARA 138 note 11): Water Resources Act 1991 s 221(1). References in the Water Resources Act 1991 to a 'pipe', including references to a main, a drain or a sewer, include references to a tunnel or conduit which serves or is to serve as the pipe in question and to any accessories for the pipe; and, accordingly, references to the 'laying of a pipe' include references to the construction of such a tunnel or conduit, to the construction or installation of any such accessories and to the making of a connection between one pipe and another: s 221(2). 'Drain' has, subject to s 221(2) above, the same meaning as in the Water Industry Act 1991 (see PARA 138 note 11): Water Resources Act 1991 s 221(1). 'Accessories', in relation to a main, sewer or other pipe, includes any manholes, ventilating shafts, inspection chambers, settling tanks, wash-out pipes, pumps, ferrules or stopcocks for the main, sewer or other pipe, or any machinery or other apparatus which is designed or adapted for use in connection with the use or maintenance of the main, sewer or other pipe or of another accessory for it, but does not include any electronic communications apparatus unless it (i) is or is to be situated inside or in the close vicinity of the main, sewer or other pipe or inside or in the close vicinity of another accessory for it; and (ii) is intended to be used only in connection with the use or maintenance of the main, sewer or other pipe or of another accessory for it; and in this definition 'stopcock' has the same meaning as in the Water Industry Act 1991 (see PARA 138 note 11): Water Resources Act 1991 s 221(1) (definition amended by the Communications Act 2003 s 406(1), Sch 17 para 113). As to sewerage undertakers see ENVIRONMENTAL QUALITY AND PUBLIC HEALTH vol 46 (2010) PARA 999 et seq. 'Local authority' means the council of any county, county borough, district or London borough or the Common Council of the City of London: Water Resources Act 1991 s 221(1) (definition amended by the Local Government (Wales) Act 1994 s 22(5), Sch 11 para 3(6)). As to local government areas and authorities in England and Wales see LOCAL GOVERNMENT vol 69 (2009) PARA 22 et seq. As to the London boroughs and their councils see LONDON GOVERNMENT vol 29(2) (Reissue) PARA 35 et seq. As to the Common Council of the City of London see LONDON GOVERNMENT vol 29(2) (Reissue) PARAS 51-55. 'Joint planning board' has the same meaning as in the Town and Country Planning Act 1990 (see TOWN AND COUNTRY PLANNING vol 46(1) (Reissue) PARA 30): Water Resources Act 1991 s 221(1). 'New towns residuary body' means, in relation to England, the Homes and Communities Agency so far as exercising functions in relation to anything transferred (or to be transferred) to it as mentioned in the Housing and Regeneration Act 2008 s 52(1)(a)-(d) (see TOWN AND COUNTRY PLANNING), and, in relation to Wales, the Welsh Ministers so far as exercising functions in relation to anything transferred (or to be transferred) to them as mentioned in the New Towns Act 1981 s 36(1)(a)(i)-(iii) (see TOWN AND COUNTRY PLANNING vol 46(3) (Reissue)).

PARA 1384): Water Resources Act 1991 s 72(2A) (amended by the Housing and Regeneration Act 2008 s 56, Sch 8 para 60(1), (3)). As to development corporations for a new town see TOWN AND COUNTRY PLANNING vol 46(3) (Reissue) PARA 1322. As to the meaning of 'England' see PARA 19 note 8. As to the meaning of 'Wales' see PARA 16 note 2. As to the Welsh Ministers see PARA 16 note 5.

In the Water Resources Act 1991 generally, 'watercourse' includes (subject to s 72(2) (see above) and s 113(1) (see PARA 573 note 10)) all rivers, streams, ditches, drains, cuts, culverts, dykes, sluices, sewers and passages through which water flows, except mains and other pipes which (A) belong to the Environment Agency or a water undertaker; or (B) are used by a water undertaker or any other person for the purpose only of providing a supply of water to any premises: s 221(1) (definition amended by the Environment Act 1995 s 120(1), Sch 22 para 128). The definition in the Water Industry Act 1991 is identical save that it is not made subject to the Water Resources Act 1991 ss 72(2), 113(1): see the Water Industry Act 1991 s 219(1) (definition amended by the Environment Act 1995 s 120(1), Sch 22 para 125). As to the Environment Agency see PARA 17. As to the meaning of 'water undertaker' see PARA 137 note 4. As to the meaning of 'person' see PARA 13 note 29. As to whether the term 'watercourse' includes an estuary see R v Falmouth and Truro Port Health Authority, ex p South West Water Ltd [2001] QB 445, [2000] 3 All ER 306, CA (decided under the Public Health Act 1936 s 259(1)(a) (statutory nuisances: see NUISANCE vol 78 (2010) PARA 156)).

3 le without prejudice to the Water Resources Act 1991 s 221(3) in its application to head (2) in the text: see note 5.

4 'Discrete waters' means inland waters so far as they comprise: (1) a lake, pond or reservoir which does not discharge to any other inland waters; or (2) one of a group of two or more lakes, ponds or reservoirs (whether near to or distant from each other) and of watercourses or mains connecting them, where none of the inland waters in the group discharges to any inland waters outside the group: Water Resources Act 1991 s 221(1).

5 'Underground strata' means strata subjacent to the surface of any land: Water Resources Act 1991 s 221(1); Water Industry Act 1991 s 219(1). Any reference in the Water Resources Act 1991 to water contained in underground strata is a reference to water so contained otherwise than in a sewer, pipe, reservoir, tank or other underground works constructed in any such strata; but for the purposes of the Act water for the time being contained in: (1) a well, borehole or similar work, including any adit or passage constructed in connection with the well, borehole or work for facilitating the collection of water in the well, borehole or work; or (2) any excavation into underground strata, where the level of water in the excavation depends wholly or mainly on water entering it from those strata, must be treated as water contained in the underground strata into which the well, borehole or work was sunk or, as the case may be, the excavation was made: s 221(3). As to the meaning of 'land' see PARA 14 note 21.

Halsbury's Laws of England/WATER AND WATERWAYS (VOLUME 100 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-452; VOLUME 101 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 453-851)/5. WATER RESOURCES/(1) INTRODUCTION/188. Water conservation.

188. Water conservation.

The Secretary of State, in relation to England<sup>1</sup>, and the Welsh Ministers, in relation to Wales<sup>2</sup>, must, where appropriate, take steps to encourage the conservation of water<sup>3</sup>. After the period of three years beginning with 1 April 2003<sup>4</sup>, and after each succeeding period of three years, the Secretary of State must prepare a report about the steps taken by him under this duty, and about any such steps which he proposes to take<sup>5</sup>. The Welsh Ministers may make an order requiring the preparation by them of corresponding reports, and such an order may make provision about when, or in relation to what periods, they are to be prepared<sup>6</sup>. Each such report must, if prepared by the Secretary of State, be laid before Parliament<sup>7</sup>, and if prepared by the Welsh Ministers, be laid before, and published by, the National Assembly for Wales<sup>8</sup>.

The Environment Agency<sup>9</sup> has a general duty to take all such action as it may from time to time consider necessary or expedient, in accordance with any directions given to it by the Secretary of State<sup>10</sup>, for the purpose of conserving, redistributing or otherwise augmenting water resources in England and Wales and of securing the proper use of water resources in England and Wales, including the efficient use of those resources<sup>11</sup>. However, nothing in this provision is to be construed as relieving any water undertaker<sup>12</sup> of the obligation to develop water resources for the purpose of performing any duty imposed on it<sup>13</sup> by virtue of its general duty to maintain a water supply system<sup>14</sup>. The provisions of the Water Resources Act 1991 relating to the functions of the Agency in connection with water resources<sup>15</sup> do not apply to certain inland waters<sup>16</sup>. In carrying out its functions in relation to water resources the Agency is subject to certain environmental duties<sup>17</sup>.

Without prejudice to its general powers of enforcement<sup>18</sup>, it is the Environment Agency's duty to enforce the provisions relating to the abstraction and impounding of water<sup>19</sup> and the related water resources provisions<sup>20</sup>. No proceedings for any offence under any of those provisions may, however, be instituted except by the Agency or by, or with the consent of, the Director of Public Prosecutions<sup>21</sup>.

In exercising its functions and conducting its affairs, each public authority<sup>22</sup> must take into account, where relevant, the desirability of conserving water supplied or to be supplied to premises<sup>23</sup>. Relevant undertakers<sup>24</sup> are also under a general duty to further water conservation<sup>25</sup>.

15 le the provisions of the Water Resources Act 1991 Pt II Ch II (ss 24-72) (see PARA 214 et seq) and the related water resource provisions so far as they relate to other functions of the Agency: Environment Act 1995 s 6(3). In relation to the Water Resources Act 1991 Pt II Ch II, the 'related water resources provisions' means the provisions of: (1) ss 21-23 (including s 21(6), Sch 5) (see PARA 209 et seq), s 120 (see PARA 189), ss 125-130 (see PARA 274 et seq), s 158 (see PARA 461), s 189 (see PARA 268), ss 199-201 (see PARA 193 et seq), ss 206(3), 209(3) (see PARA 248 note 12), s 211(1) (see PARA 709), s 216 (see the text to notes 18-21), and Sch 25 para 1 (see PARA 709); and (2) the Environment Act 1995 ss 41, 42 (charging schemes) as they have effect by virtue of s 41(1)(a) (licences under the Water Resources Act 1991 Pt II Ch II: see PARA 273); and the Environment Act 1995 s 53(1), (2) (inquiries and other hearings: see ENVIRONMENTAL QUALITY AND PUBLIC HEALTH vol 45 (2010) PARA 89); Water Resources Act 1991 s 221(1) (definition substituted by the Environment Act 1995 s 120(1), Sch 22 para 177(1), (9)); definition applied by the Environment Act 1995 s 6(8).

16 Environment Act 1995 s 6(3). The provisions mentioned in the text do not apply to so much of any inland waters as: (1) are part of the River Tweed; (2) are part of the River Esk or River Sark at a point where either of the banks of the river is in Scotland; or (3) are part of any tributary stream of the River Esk or the River Sark at a point where either of the banks of the tributary stream is in Scotland, except so much of those inland waters as are in England: s 6(3) (amended by the Water Act 2003 s 73). 'The River Tweed' means 'the river' within the meaning of the Tweed Fisheries Amendment Act 1859 as amended by byelaws: Environment Act 1995 s 6(8). The Environment Act 1995 s 6(3) also applies to the Water Act 2003 ss 3, 4 (see PARA 216) and such of the related water resources provisions as apply in relation to those sections by virtue of s 33(2) (see below), as it applies to the provisions referred to in the Environment Act 1995 s 6(3): s 6(3A) (added by the Water Act 2003 s 101(1), Sch 7 Pt 1 para 15(1), (2)).

The relevant Water Resources Act 1991 ('WRA') provisions apply to, or in relation to, the following sections of the Water Act 2003 (the 'applicable sections') as they apply to (or in relation to) the Water Resources Act 1991 Pt II (ss 20-81) or, as the case may be, Pt II Ch II: (a) the Water Act 2003 s 3 (existing impounding works: see PARA 216); (b) s 4 (existing impounding works (works notices): see PARA 216); and (c) s 10 (orders under the Water Resources Act 1991 s 33 (repealed): see PARA 226): Water Act 2003 s 33(1). Accordingly, in the relevant WRA provisions: (i) references to the Water Resources Act 1991 Pt II, or to Pt II Ch II, are to be read as if the applicable sections were included in that Part or that Chapter; (ii) references to the related water resources provisions are to be read as if those provisions meant, in relation to the applicable sections, the relevant WRA provisions other than the Water Resources Act 1991 s 222 (see PARA 20); and (iii) references to the Secretary of State are to be read as references to the appropriate authority (as defined, in each case, in the applicable section in question): Water Act 2003 s 33(2). The 'relevant WRA provisions' are the following provisions of the Water Resources Act 1991: (A) s 120 (contributions between the Agency and certain other authorities: see PARA 189); (B) s 158 (works agreements for water resources purposes: see PARA 461); (C) s 201 (power to require information in respect of water resources functions), as substituted by the Water Act 2003 s 70 (see PARA 195); (D) the Water Resources Act 1991 s 216 (enforcement; powers and duties: see the text to notes 18-21); (E) s 222 (Crown application) (see PARA 20), as in force immediately before the substitution made by the Environment Act 1995 Sch 21 para 2(4) and for so long as the substituted Water Resources Act 1991 s 222 does not apply to Pt II: Water Act 2003 s 33(3). The Water Resources Act 1991 s 220 (provisions relating to service of documents:

see PARA 22) applies to documents required or authorised by virtue of any of the applicable sections to be served on any person as it applies to documents required or authorised to be served by virtue of the Water Resources Act 1991: Water Act 2003 s 33(4). References in the Water Resources Act 1991 to the functions (generally) of the Environment Agency are to be read as including the Agency's functions under the applicable sections: Water Act 2003 s 33(5). 22 For these purposes, 'public authority' means any of the following: (1) a Minister of the Crown (within the meaning of the Ministers of the Crown Act 1975); (2) a government department; (3) the Welsh Ministers; (4) a local authority (within the meaning of the Local Government Act 1972 s 270(1): see LOCAL GOVERNMENT vol 69 (2009) PARA 23); (5) a person holding an office (a) under the Crown; (b) created or continued in existence by a public general Act; or (c) the remuneration in respect of which is paid out of money provided by Parliament; (6) a statutory undertaker (being any person who, by virtue of the Town and Country Planning Act 1990 s 262 (see TOWN AND COUNTRY PLANNING vol 46(3) (Reissue) PARA 1009) is or is deemed to be a statutory undertaker for any purpose); and (7) any other public body of any description: Water Act 2003 s 83(2); Government of Wales Act 2006 Sch 11 para 32. 'Minister of the Crown' means the holder of an office in Her Majesty's Government in the United Kingdom, and includes the Treasury, the Board of Trade and the Defence Council: Ministers of the Crown Act 1975 s 8(1). ### 189. Contributions between the Environment Agency and certain other authorities.

Where, on the application of a navigation authority<sup>1</sup>, harbour authority<sup>2</sup> or conservancy authority<sup>3</sup>, it appears to the Environment Agency<sup>4</sup> that any works constructed or maintained by the applicant have made, or will make, a beneficial contribution towards the fulfilment of the purposes of the Agency's water resources functions<sup>5</sup>, the Agency must contribute towards the expenditure incurred, or to be incurred, by the applicants in constructing or maintaining those works<sup>6</sup>. Similarly, where on the Agency's application it appears to a navigation, harbour or conservancy authority that any works constructed or maintained by the Agency in the carrying out of its water resources functions have made, or will make, a beneficial contribution towards the carrying out of the functions of the authority to which the application is made, that authority must contribute to the Agency towards the expenditure incurred, or to be incurred, by it in constructing or maintaining those works<sup>7</sup>. The sums to be paid by way of contribution and the terms and conditions on which they are to be paid are such as the Agency and the authority concerned may agree to be appropriate<sup>8</sup>.

If, on any such application, the Agency or other authority to which the application is made refuses to make a contribution<sup>9</sup>, or if the parties are unable to agree as to the sums to be contributed or the terms and conditions on which they are to be contributed<sup>10</sup>, the Agency or other authority concerned may refer the matter in dispute to the Secretary of State<sup>11</sup> or, in relation to Wales, to the Welsh Ministers<sup>12</sup>. On such a reference, the Secretary of State or, where appropriate, the Welsh Ministers may either determine the matter themselves<sup>13</sup> or refer it for determination to an arbitrator appointed for the purpose<sup>14</sup>. Where any decision has been made by the Secretary of State or the Welsh Ministers, or by an arbitrator, the decision is final and a contribution must be made<sup>15</sup> in accordance with the decision<sup>16</sup>.

Any expenditure incurred by a navigation, harbour or conservancy authority in paying any contribution under these provisions must be defrayed in the like manner as any corresponding expenditure<sup>17</sup> of that authority; and that authority has the same powers for the purpose of raising money required for paying any such contribution as it would have for the purpose of raising money required for defraying any corresponding expenditure of that authority<sup>18</sup>.

1 'Navigation authority' means any person who has a duty or power under any enactment to work, maintain, conserve, improve or control any canal or other inland navigation, navigable river, estuary, harbour or dock: Water Resources Act 1991 s 221(1); Water Industry Act 1991 s 219(1); Land Drainage Act 1991 s 72(1) (definition amended by the Merchant Shipping Act 1995 s 314(2), Sch 13 para 91(b)). As to the meaning of 'person' see PARA 13 note 29. As to the meaning of 'enactment' see PARA 14 note 31. As to rights of navigation see PARA 688 et seq. As to inland waterways and canals see PARA 713 et seq.

2 'Harbour authority' (except in the flood defence provisions of Water Resources Act 1991) means a person who is a harbour authority as defined in the Merchant Shipping Act 1995 s 151 for the purposes of Pt VI Ch II of that Act (see SHIPPING AND MARITIME LAW vol 94 (2008) PARA 1212) and is not a navigation authority: Water Resources Act 1991 s 221(1) (definition amended by the Merchant Shipping Act 1995 s 314(2), Sch 13 para 90); Water Industry Act 1991 s 219(1) (definition amended by the Merchant Shipping Act 1995 s 314(2), Sch 13 para 89); Land Drainage Act 1991 s 72(1) (definition amended by the Merchant Shipping Act 1995 s 314(2), Sch 13 para 91(b)). As to the meaning of 'flood defence provisions' see PARA 20 note 2.

3 'Conservancy authority' means any person who has a duty or power under any enactment to conserve, maintain or improve the navigation of a tidal water and is not a navigation authority or harbour authority: Water Resources Act 1991 s 221(1); Water Industry Act 1991 s 219(1); Land Drainage Act 1991 s 72(1) (definition amended by the Merchant Shipping Act 1995 s 314(2), Sch 13 para 91(b)). As to navigation in tidal waters see PARA 689 et seq.

4 As to the Environment Agency see PARA 17.

190. Regulation by the Secretary of State and the Welsh Ministers.

The Secretary of State<sup>1</sup> or, in relation to Wales, the Welsh Ministers<sup>2</sup>, may make regulations or orders with regard to water resources<sup>3</sup>. For example, they may make regulations in relation to applications for licences<sup>4</sup>, appeals with respect to licence decisions<sup>5</sup>, and the form and contents of licences<sup>6</sup>; and may make orders in relation to the abstraction of small quantities of water and the compulsory registration of protected rights<sup>7</sup>, the definition of 'spray irrigation'<sup>8</sup>, and droughts<sup>9</sup>. This is not an exhaustive list.

The water resources functions of the Secretary of State and the Welsh Ministers must be exercised so as to secure compliance with the Water Framework Directive<sup>10</sup>.

1 As to the Secretary of State see PARA 15 note 1.

2 Most of the functions of the Secretary of State under the Water Resources Act 1991, so far as exercisable in relation to Wales, were transferred to the National Assembly for Wales: see the National Assembly for Wales (Transfer of Functions) Order 1999, SI 1999/672, art 2, Sch 1. These functions are now vested in the Welsh Ministers: see the Government of Wales Act 2006 s 162(1), Sch 11 para 30. ## (2) ASSESSMENT OF WATER RESOURCES

(i) General Management Functions and Information

191. Provision of information about water resources, etc.

It is the duty of the Environment Agency<sup>1</sup>: (1) to collate and publish information<sup>2</sup> from which assessments can be made of the actual and prospective demand for water, and of actual and prospective water resources<sup>3</sup>, in England and Wales<sup>4</sup>; and (2) so far as it considers it appropriate to do so, to collaborate with others in collating and publishing such information or any similar information in relation to places outside England and Wales<sup>5</sup>.

It is also the duty of the Agency to provide a water undertaker<sup>6</sup> with all such information about the flow, level or volume of any inland waters<sup>7</sup> or any water contained in underground strata<sup>8</sup>, about rainfall or any fall of snow, hail or sleet or about the evaporation of any water<sup>9</sup>, as is in the possession of the Agency and is reasonably requested by the undertaker for purposes connected with the carrying out of its functions<sup>10</sup>. Every water undertaker is under a corresponding duty to provide the Agency with all such information as is in the undertaker's possession and is reasonably requested by the Agency for purposes connected with the carrying out of any of its functions<sup>11</sup>. The Agency has an additional duty to provide reasonable facilities to all persons<sup>12</sup> for the inspection of the contents of any records<sup>13</sup> kept by the Agency and containing such information<sup>14</sup>, and for the taking of copies of, or of extracts from, any such records<sup>15</sup>.

Information provided to a water undertaker or to the Agency under the above provisions must be provided in such form and in such manner and at such times as the undertaker or, as the case may be, the Agency may reasonably require<sup>16</sup>. Information or facilities so provided to the Agency, to a water undertaker, to a local authority<sup>17</sup> or joint planning board<sup>18</sup> or National Park Authority<sup>19</sup> or to an internal drainage board<sup>20</sup>, must be provided free of charge; and facilities for inspection or copying provided by the Agency<sup>21</sup> to other persons may be provided on terms requiring the payment by persons making use of the facilities of such reasonable charges as the Agency may determine<sup>22</sup>.

Where records of the flow, level or volume of any inland waters, other than discrete waters<sup>23</sup>, are kept by a person other than a water undertaker, the Agency has the right at all reasonable times<sup>24</sup> to inspect the contents of any of those records<sup>25</sup> and to take copies of, or of extracts from, the contents of any of those records<sup>26</sup>; and any person who, without reasonable excuse, refuses or fails to permit the Agency to exercise this right is guilty of an offence<sup>27</sup>.

192. Information about underground water.

Any person<sup>1</sup> who, for the purpose of searching for or abstracting<sup>2</sup> water, proposes to sink a well or borehole intended to reach a depth of more than 15.24 metres below the surface must, before he begins to do so, give notice<sup>3</sup> to the Natural Environment Research Council of his intention to do so<sup>4</sup>. Any person sinking any such well or borehole as is mentioned above must:

- 296 (1) keep a journal<sup>5</sup> of the progress of the work and, on completion or abandonment of the work, send a complete copy of the journal to the Natural Environment Research Council<sup>6</sup>;
- 297 (2) send to that council particulars of any test made of the flow of water before completion or abandonment of the work<sup>7</sup>;
- 298 (3) allow any person authorised by that council for the purpose, on production of some duly authenticated document showing his authority, at all reasonable times to exercise any of the following rights<sup>8</sup>: (a) to have free access to the well or borehole<sup>9</sup>; (b) to inspect the well or borehole and the material extracted from it<sup>10</sup>; (c) to take specimens of any such material and of water abstracted from the well or borehole<sup>11</sup>; and (d) to inspect and take copies of or extracts from the journal required to be kept under these provisions<sup>12</sup>.

Where the person sinking a well or borehole on any land<sup>13</sup> is not the occupier<sup>14</sup> of the land, the obligation imposed on that person by virtue of head (3) above is the obligation of the occupier as well<sup>15</sup>. Where any person contracts to sink any well or borehole on land belonging to or occupied by another<sup>16</sup>, and the carrying out of the work is under the control of the contractor<sup>17</sup>, the contractor and no other person is deemed to be the person sinking the well or borehole<sup>18</sup>.

Any person who fails to comply with an obligation imposed on him by the above provisions is guilty of an offence<sup>19</sup>.

The person sinking any such well or borehole as is mentioned above or, if it is a different person, the owner<sup>20</sup> or occupier of the land on which any such well or borehole is sunk, may by notice to the Natural Environment Research Council require that council to treat as confidential any copy of, or extract from, the journal required to be kept<sup>21</sup> or any specimen taken in exercise of the rights specified in head (3) above<sup>22</sup>. The council must not, without the consent of the person giving the notice, allow any matter to which any such notice relates to be published or shown to any person who is not an officer of that council or of a department of the Secretary of State<sup>23</sup> or, in relation to Wales, the Welsh Ministers<sup>24</sup>; but this does not prohibit any matter from being published or shown to any person in so far as it contains or affords information as to water resources and supplies<sup>25</sup>. If at any time that council gives notice to any person that in its opinion his consent for these purposes is being unreasonably withheld, that person may, within three months<sup>26</sup> after the giving of the notice, appeal to the High Court for an order restraining that council from acting as if consent had been given<sup>27</sup>, and if either no such appeal is brought within that period, or the court does not make such an order after hearing the appeal, the council may proceed as if consent had been given<sup>28</sup>. Any person who fails to comply with any obligation imposed on him by these provisions is guilty of an offence<sup>29</sup>.

If any person who is admitted to any premises in compliance with head (3) above discloses to any person any information<sup>30</sup> obtained by him there with regard to any manufacturing process or trade secret, then unless the disclosure is in performance of his duty he is guilty of an offence<sup>31</sup>.

If, in keeping any record<sup>32</sup> or journal or in furnishing any information which he is required to keep or furnish under any of the above provisions, any person knowingly or recklessly makes any statement which is false in a material particular, he is guilty of an offence<sup>33</sup>.

1 As to the meaning of 'person' see PARA 13 note 29.

2 'Abstraction', in relation to water contained in any source of supply, means the doing of anything whereby any of that water is removed from that source of supply, whether temporarily or permanently, including anything whereby the water is so removed for the purpose of being transferred to another source of supply; and 'abstract' is to be construed accordingly: Water Resources Act 1991 s 221(1). As to the meaning of 'source of supply' see PARA 187. Although the statutory meaning of 'abstraction' is wide, it applies only to direct, and not indirect, abstraction; and thus did not apply eg to induced flows from a canal to the inland water where a direct abstraction was taking place: British Waterways Board v National Rivers Authority (1992) Times, 4 August, CA.

As to the exemption of test borings from the requirement of a licence under the Water Resources Act 1991 Pt II Ch II (ss 20-72) see s 32(3), (4); and PARA 224.

5 The journal must include measurements of: (1) the strata passed through (Water Resources Act 1991 s 198(3)(a)); and (2) the levels at which water is struck and subsequently rests (s 198(3)(b)).

6 Water Resources Act 1991 s 198(2)(a).

7 Water Resources Act 1991 s 198(2)(b). The particulars required to be sent to the Natural Environment Research Council under this provision must specify: (1) the rate of flow throughout the test (s 198(4)(a)); (2) the duration of the test (s 198(4)(b)); (3) where practicable, the water levels during the test and afterwards until the water returns to its natural level (s 198(4)(c)); and (4) where the well or borehole is sunk in connection with an existing pumping station, the rate of pumping at the existing works during the test (s 198(4)(d)).

14 The meaning of 'occupier' may vary according to the purposes of the legislation in which it is used, but it seems that in general a person is an occupier if he has a sufficient degree of control over the state of the premises or over the activities of the persons on them, and that, in order to be an occupier, it is not necessary for a person to have entire control over the premises, but it is sufficient for him to share the control with others: Wheat v E Lacon & Co Ltd [1966] AC 552, [1966] 1 All ER 582, HL; and see H & N Emanuel Ltd v Greater London Council [1971] 2 All ER 835, [1971] 2 Lloyd's Rep 36, CA; Harris v Birkenhead Corpn [1976] 1 All ER 341, [1976] 1 WLR 279, CA; Jackson v Hall [1980] AC 854, [1980] 1 All ER 177, HL. The expression 'occupier' includes a person who has a licence entitling him to possession: Stevens v London Borough of Bromley [1972] Ch 400, [1972] 1 All ER 712, CA; R v Tao [1977] QB 141, [1976] 3 All ER 65, CA. It also includes a statutory tenant: Brown v Ministry of Housing and Local Government [1953] 2 All ER 1385, [1953] 1 WLR 1370. It is thought not, however, to include a person whose entry on the premises was unlawful and forcible: see PARA 339 note 8.

WATER RESOURCES/(2) ASSESSMENT OF WATER RESOURCES/(i) General Management Functions and Information/193. Notice etc of mining operations which may affect water conservation.

193. Notice etc of mining operations which may affect water conservation.

Where a person<sup>1</sup> proposes to construct or extend a boring for the purpose of searching for or extracting minerals<sup>2</sup>, he must, before he begins to construct or extend the boring, give to the Environment Agency<sup>3</sup> a notice<sup>4</sup> of his intention in the prescribed<sup>5</sup> form<sup>6</sup>. Where such a notice is given to the Agency by any person, the Agency may<sup>7</sup> by notice (known as a 'conservation notice'<sup>8</sup>) to that person require him, in connection with the construction, extension or use of the work to which that person's notice relates, to take such reasonable measures for conserving water as are specified in the notice<sup>9</sup>. The measures that may be specified in such a notice must be measures which, in the opinion of the Agency, will not interfere with the winning of minerals<sup>10</sup>.

Any person who contravenes the requirement above to give notice<sup>11</sup>, or fails to comply with a conservation notice given by the Agency, is guilty of an offence<sup>12</sup>.

The person on whom a conservation notice is served may, by notice<sup>13</sup> to the Secretary of State or, in relation to Wales, the Welsh Ministers, appeal against the conservation notice on either or both of the following grounds, that is to say:

- 299 (1) that the measures required by the conservation notice are not reasonable<sup>14</sup>;
- 300 (2) that those measures would interfere with the winning of minerals<sup>15</sup>.

Before determining an appeal against a conservation notice<sup>16</sup>, the Secretary of State or, where appropriate, the Welsh Ministers may, if they think fit: (a) cause a local inquiry to be held<sup>17</sup>; or (b) afford to the appellant and the Agency an opportunity of appearing before, and being heard by, a person appointed for the purpose<sup>18</sup>; and the Secretary of State or Welsh Ministers must act as mentioned in head (a) or (b) above if a request is made by the appellant or the Agency to be heard with respect to an appeal<sup>19</sup>.

On an appeal against a conservation notice the Secretary of State or, where appropriate, the Welsh Ministers may confirm, quash or vary the notice as he or they may consider appropriate<sup>20</sup>; and his or their decision on any appeal against a conservation notice is final<sup>21</sup>.

1 As to the meaning of 'person' see PARA 13 note 29.

2 'Minerals' is not defined in the Water Resources Act 1991. As to the meaning of the term generally see MINES, MINERALS AND QUARRIES vol 31 (2003 Reissue) PARA 12.

3 As to the Environment Agency see PARA 17.

4 As to the meaning of 'notice' see PARA 22 note 1. As to the service of documents see PARA 22.

5 'Prescribed' means prescribed by regulations made by the Secretary of State or, in relation to Wales, the Welsh Ministers: see the Water Resources Act 1991 s 221(1). As to the Secretary of State see PARA 15 note 1. The functions of the Secretary of State under the Water Resources Act 1991 ss 199, 199A, and the Environment Act 1995 s 114 (see note 16) so far as exercisable in relation to Wales, were transferred to the National Assembly for Wales: see the National Assembly for Wales (Transfer of Functions) Order 1999, SI 1999/672, art 2, Sch 1. These functions are now vested in the Welsh Ministers: see the Government of Wales Act 2006 s 162(1), Sch 11 para 30. As to the meaning of 'Wales' see PARA 16 note 2. As to the Welsh Ministers see PARA 16 note 5. As to the power of the Secretary of State to intervene in relation to functions exercisable by the Welsh

Ministers where any particular case might have a serious adverse impact on water resources, water supply, or the quality of water in England see PARA 16.

6 Water Resources Act 1991 s 199(1) (amended by the Environment Act 1995 s 120(1), Sch 22 para 128). The notice must be given in such form as the Agency determines: Water Resources (Abstraction and Impounding) Regulations 2006, SI 2006/641, reg 29.

7 Is subject to the Water Resources Act 1991 s 199A: see the text to notes 13-21.

12 Water Resources Act 1991 s 199(4) (amended by the Water Act 2003 s 8(1), (5)(b)). The penalty for such an offence is: (1) on summary conviction, a fine not exceeding the statutory maximum (s 199(4)(a)); (2) on conviction on indictment, a fine (s 199(4)(b)). As to the statutory maximum see PARA 169 note 20.

13 Any notice of appeal against a conservation notice must be served within such period (not being less than 28 days from the date of service of the conservation notice) and in such manner as may be prescribed: Water Resources Act 1991 s 199A(2) (as added: see note 8). The Secretary of State or, in relation to Wales, the Welsh Ministers may by regulations make provision as to the manner in which appeals against conservation notices are to be dealt with, including provision requiring the giving of notices of, and information relating to, the making of such appeals or decisions on any such appeals: s 199A(6) (as so added). The Anti-Pollution Works Regulations 1999, SI 1999/1006, regs 3-6 (see ENVIRONMENTAL QUALITY AND PUBLIC HEALTH vol 45 (2010) PARA 327) apply in relation to an appeal under the Water Resources Act 1991 s 199A with modifications: see the Water Resources (Abstraction and Impounding) Regulations 2006, SI 2006/641, reg 30.

16 The Water Resources Act 1991 s 199A is subject to the Environment Act 1995 s 114: Water Resources Act 1991 s 199A(8) (as added: see note 8). The Secretary of State or, where appropriate, the Welsh Ministers may in relation to their functions of determining an appeal under s 199A: (1) appoint any person to exercise those functions on their behalf, with or without payment; or (2) refer any matter involved in such an appeal to such person as the Secretary of State or Welsh Ministers may appoint for the purpose, with or without payment: see the Environment Act 1995 s 114(1), (2)(a)(v), (3)(a) (s 114(2)(a)(v) amended by the Water Act 2003 s 8(7)); and ENVIRONMENTAL QUALITY AND PUBLIC HEALTH vol 45 (2010) PARA 65.

21 See the Water Resources Act 1991 s 199A(5) (as added: see note 8). Section 69 (validity of decisions of the Secretary of State and related proceedings: see PARA 247) applies to a decision of the Secretary of State or the Welsh Ministers on any appeal to him or them under s 199A as it applies to a decision on an appeal to him or them under Pt II Ch II (ss 24-72), taking the reference in s 69(2)(b) to that Chapter as a reference to s 199A: s 199A(7) (as so added).

194. Gauges and records kept by other persons.

Any person<sup>1</sup> other than the Environment Agency<sup>2</sup> who proposes to install a gauge for measuring and recording the flow, level or volume of any inland waters<sup>3</sup> other than discrete waters<sup>4</sup>: (1) must give notice<sup>5</sup> to the Agency of his proposal to install the gauge<sup>6</sup>; and (2) must not begin the work of installing it before the end of the period of three months<sup>7</sup> beginning with the date of service of the notice or such shorter period as the Agency may in any particular case allow<sup>8</sup>. Not more than one month after any such work as is mentioned in head (2) above is completed, the person required to give such notice must give notice to the Agency stating where the records<sup>9</sup> obtained by means of the gauge are to be kept<sup>10</sup>. Any person who contravenes<sup>11</sup> these provisions is guilty of an offence<sup>12</sup>.

These provisions do not, however, apply to: (a) any gauge installed for the sole purpose of indicating the level of any inland waters for the benefit of persons who fish in them<sup>13</sup>; or (b) any gauge which is removed at or before the end of the period of 28 days beginning with the date on which it is installed<sup>14</sup>.

196. Water resources management schemes.

It is the duty of the Environment Agency<sup>1</sup> so far as reasonably practicable to enter into and maintain such arrangements with water undertakers<sup>2</sup> for securing the proper management or operation of:

- 301 (1) the waters which are available to be used by water undertakers for the purposes of, or in connection with, the carrying out of their functions<sup>3</sup>; and
- 302 (2) any reservoirs, apparatus or other works which belong to, are operated by or are otherwise under the control of water undertakers for the purposes of, or in connection with, the carrying out of their functions<sup>4</sup>,

as the Agency from time to time considers appropriate for the purpose<sup>5</sup> of carrying out its water conservation functions<sup>6</sup>. Without prejudice to the power of the Agency and any water undertaker to include such provision as may be agreed between them, such arrangements may<sup>7</sup>:

- 303 (a) make provision by virtue of head (1) above with respect to the construction or installation of any reservoirs, apparatus or other works which will be used by the undertaker in the carrying out of its functions<sup>8</sup>;
- 304 (b) contain provision requiring payments to be made by the Agency to the undertaker<sup>9</sup>; and
- 305 (c) require the reference to and determination by the Secretary of State<sup>10</sup> or, in relation to Wales, by the Welsh Ministers<sup>11</sup>, or by the Water Services Regulation Authority<sup>12</sup> of questions arising under the arrangements<sup>13</sup>.

The Agency must send a copy of any such arrangements entered into by it to the Secretary of State or, where appropriate, the Welsh Ministers; and the obligations of a water undertaker by virtue of any such arrangements are enforceable<sup>14</sup> by the Secretary of State or, as the case may be, the Welsh Ministers<sup>15</sup>.

The Agency also has power to enter into and maintain such arrangements with holders of abstraction licences<sup>16</sup> other than water undertakers for securing the proper management or operation of:

- 306 (i) the waters from which they have the right by virtue of their licences to abstract water<sup>17</sup>; and
- 307 (ii) any reservoirs, apparatus or other works which are used for the purposes of or in connection with their abstractions and which belong to them, are operated by them or are otherwise under their control<sup>18</sup>,

as the Agency from time to time considers appropriate for the purpose<sup>19</sup> of carrying out its water conservation functions<sup>20</sup>. Without prejudice to the power of the Agency and any holder of an abstraction licence to include any such provision as may be agreed between them in arrangements under these provisions, such arrangements may:

- 308 (A) make provision by virtue of head (i) above with respect to the construction or installation of any reservoirs, apparatus or other works which the holder of the licence will use for the purposes of or in connection with his abstraction<sup>21</sup>;
- 309 (B) contain provision requiring payments to be made by the Agency to the holder of the licence<sup>22</sup>; and
- 310 (C) require the reference to and determination by the Secretary of State or, where appropriate, the Welsh Ministers, or the Water Services Regulation Authority of questions arising under the arrangements<sup>23</sup>.

The Agency must send a copy of any arrangements so entered into by it to the Secretary of State or, where appropriate, the Welsh Ministers<sup>24</sup>.

200. Protected areas.

The Environment Agency<sup>1</sup> must identify any bodies of water<sup>2</sup> within each river basin district<sup>3</sup> which:

- 317 (1) are used for the abstraction of water intended for human consumption<sup>4</sup> and either (a) provide more than 10 cubic metres of such water per day as an average<sup>5</sup>; or (b) serve more than 50 persons<sup>6</sup>; or
- 318 (2) are intended to be used for the abstraction of water intended for human consumption to the extent referred to in head (a) or (b) above<sup>7</sup>.

The Agency must also, for each river basin district, by 22 December 2004 have prepared<sup>8</sup>, and thereafter keep under review and up to date<sup>9</sup>, a register of the protected areas lying, whether wholly or partly, within the district<sup>10</sup>. For these purposes, 'protected area' means:

- 319 (i) a body of water which has been identified under head (1) or head (2) above<sup>11</sup>; and
  - 320 (ii) the areas and bodies of water for the time being designated or otherwise identified as requiring special protection under any Community instrument providing for the protection of surface water and groundwater or for the conservation of habitats or species<sup>12</sup> directly depending on water, or any enactment<sup>13</sup> implementing such a Community instrument, including, in particular:
- 37
- 41. (A) areas designated for the protection of economically significant aquatic species<sup>14</sup>;
  - 42. (B) bodies of water designated as recreational waters<sup>15</sup>;
  - 43. (C) nutrient-sensitive areas<sup>16</sup>; and
  - 44. (D) areas designated for the protection of habitats or species where the maintenance or improvement of the status of water is an important factor in the protection of the habitats or species<sup>17</sup>.

'Water intended for human consumption' means: (1) all water either in its original state or after treatment, intended for drinking, cooking, food preparation or other domestic purposes, regardless of its origin and whether it is supplied from a distribution network, from a tanker, or in bottles or containers; (2) all water used in any food-production undertaking for the manufacture, processing, preservation or marketing of products or substances intended for human consumption unless the competent national authorities are satisfied that the quality of the water cannot affect the wholesomeness of the foodstuff in its finished form: EC Council Directive 98/83, art 2(1).

201. Monitoring of water status.

The Environment Agency must<sup>1</sup>:

- 321 (1) establish programmes for monitoring water status in order to establish a coherent and comprehensive overview of water status within each river basin district<sup>2</sup>; and

202. River basin management plans.

For the purposes of the river basin management plan for a river basin district<sup>1</sup>, the Environment Agency<sup>2</sup> must, by such date as the appropriate authority<sup>3</sup> may direct, prepare and submit to the authority proposals for environmental objectives for the district<sup>4</sup> and a programme of measures<sup>5</sup> to be applied in order to achieve those objectives<sup>6</sup>. In preparing such proposals, the Agency must take account of the characterisation of, and economic analysis of water use<sup>7</sup> in, the relevant river basin district, and any review of the same, carried out<sup>8</sup>; and must take such steps as it thinks fit, or the appropriate authority may direct, to:

- 325 (1) provide opportunities for the general public and those persons<sup>9</sup> likely to be interested in or affected by its proposals to participate in discussion and the exchange of information or views in relation to the preparation of those proposals<sup>10</sup>;
- 326 (2) publicise its draft proposals to those persons<sup>11</sup>; and
- 327 (3) consult those persons in respect of those proposals<sup>12</sup>.

The appropriate authority may, having considered any proposals for environmental objectives or for a programme of measures submitted to it and any representations received by the authority in relation to those proposals: (a) approve them, or any of them, in the form submitted<sup>13</sup>; (b) approve them, or any of them, either with modifications or subject to such modifications as the authority may direct the Agency to make<sup>14</sup>; or (c) reject them, or any of them<sup>15</sup>. Where the appropriate authority rejects any proposals, it must direct the Agency to resubmit proposals, by such time, if any, as the direction may specify with modifications of such nature as the direction may specify<sup>16</sup> and any further modifications which the Agency considers appropriate<sup>17</sup>.

The appropriate authority must ensure that for each river basin district a programme of measures is established by 22 December 2009<sup>18</sup>, made operational by 22 December 2012<sup>19</sup> and periodically reviewed and where appropriate updated<sup>20</sup>, initially by 22 December 2015 and thereafter by each sixth anniversary of that date<sup>21</sup>.

The Agency must, by such date as the appropriate authority may direct, prepare and submit to the appropriate authority a river basin management plan for each river basin district<sup>22</sup>. A river basin management plan must relate to such period as the appropriate authority directs<sup>23</sup> and include the information specified in the relevant provisions of the Water Framework Directive<sup>24</sup>. The appropriate authority must ensure that each river basin management plan is published by 22 December 2009<sup>25</sup>, and periodically reviewed and where appropriate updated, initially by 22 December 2015 and thereafter by each sixth anniversary of that date<sup>26</sup>.

204. Approval of river basin management plans.

As soon as a river basin management plan<sup>1</sup> is submitted to the appropriate authority<sup>2</sup>, the Environment Agency must: (1) make copies of the plan accessible to the public free of charge through its website and at its principal office and each of its principal regional offices<sup>3</sup>; and (2) publish a notice stating the fact of submission<sup>4</sup> and specifying the arrangements made for making copies of the plan accessible to the public<sup>5</sup>.

If the appropriate authority considers in relation to a plan that further action should be taken by the Agency<sup>6</sup> in respect of public participation, the appropriate authority may direct the Agency: (a) to take such further steps in that respect as the appropriate authority may specify in the direction<sup>7</sup>; and (b) to resubmit the plan within such period, if any, as the appropriate authority may specify in the direction<sup>8</sup>. Where the appropriate authority gives a direction to the Agency under head (a) or (b) above, it must state its reasons for doing so<sup>9</sup>.

The appropriate authority may, having considered a river basin management plan submitted to it and any representations received by the authority in relation to that plan:

- 331 (i) approve it, in whole or in part, in the form submitted<sup>10</sup>;
- 332 (ii) approve it, in whole or in part, either with modifications or subject to such modifications as the appropriate authority may direct the Agency to make<sup>11</sup>; or
- 333 (iii) reject it<sup>12</sup>;

and, in any case falling within head (ii) or (iii) above, must state its reasons for doing so<sup>13</sup>.

Where the appropriate authority rejects a plan, it must direct the Agency to resubmit the plan, by such time, if any, as the direction may specify, with modifications of such nature as the direction may specify<sup>14</sup> and any further modifications which the Agency considers appropriate<sup>15</sup>. Where the appropriate authority approves a plan, the Agency must publish the approved plan in such manner as the Agency thinks fit for the purpose of bringing the plan to the attention of the general public and of those persons<sup>16</sup> likely to be interested in or affected by it and, in particular, must: (A) make copies of the approved plan accessible to the public free of charge through its website and at its principal office and each of its principal regional offices<sup>17</sup>; and (B) publish a notice stating that the plan has been approved<sup>18</sup> and specifying the arrangements made for making copies of the plan accessible to the general public<sup>19</sup>.

1 As to river basin management plans see PARA 202.

2 The Environment Agency must ensure that a plan submitted to the appropriate authority is accompanied by: (1) a statement of the steps taken by the Agency to comply with the Water Environment (Water Framework Directive) (England and Wales) Regulations 2003, SI 2003/3242, reg 12(1) and (so far as relating to the draft plan) reg 12(2)-(4) (see PARA 203) (reg 13(2)(a)); and (2) a summary of the representations referred to in reg 12(6) (see PARA 203) and of any changes made to the plan in light of those representations (reg 13(2)(b)). ### (iii) Determining Minimum Acceptable Flows

209. Minimum acceptable flows; in general.

The Environment Agency<sup>1</sup> may, if it thinks it appropriate to do so, submit a draft statement<sup>2</sup> to the Secretary of State<sup>3</sup> or, in relation to Wales, to the Welsh Ministers<sup>4</sup> containing, in relation to any inland waters<sup>5</sup> that are not discrete waters<sup>6</sup>:

- 340 (1) provision for determining the minimum acceptable flow for those waters<sup>7</sup>; or
- 341 (2) where any provision for determining such a flow is for the time being in force in relation to those waters, provision for amending that provision or for replacing it with different provision for determining the minimum acceptable flow for those waters<sup>8</sup>.

The provision contained in any statement for determining the minimum acceptable flow for any inland waters must, in relation to the inland waters to which it relates, set out: (a) the control points at which the flow is to be measured<sup>9</sup>; (b) the method of measurement which is to be used at each control point<sup>10</sup>; and (c) the flow which is to be the minimum acceptable flow at each control point or, where appropriate, the flows which are to be the minimum acceptable flows at each such point for the different times or periods specified in the statement<sup>11</sup>.

In determining the flow to be specified in relation to any inland waters under head (c) above, the Agency must have regard<sup>12</sup>: (i) to the flow of water in the inland waters from time to time<sup>13</sup>; (ii) in the light of its duties under the Environment Act 1995<sup>14</sup>, to the character of the inland waters and their surroundings<sup>15</sup>; (iii) to any water quality objectives established<sup>16</sup> in relation to the inland waters or any other inland waters which may be affected by the flow in the inland waters in question<sup>17</sup>. The flow specified in relation to any inland waters under that head must be not less than the minimum which, in the opinion of the Agency, is needed for safeguarding the public health and for meeting (in respect of both quantity and quality of water)<sup>18</sup>: (A) the requirements of existing lawful uses<sup>19</sup> of the inland waters, whether for agriculture<sup>20</sup>, industry, water supply or other purposes<sup>21</sup>; and (B) the requirements, in relation to both those waters and other inland waters whose flow may be affected by changes in the flow of those waters, of navigation, fisheries or land drainage<sup>22</sup>.

210. Preparation and submission of draft statement.

Before preparing so much of any draft statement containing provision for determining the minimum acceptable flow of inland waters<sup>1</sup> as relates to any particular inland waters, the Environment Agency<sup>2</sup> must consult<sup>3</sup>:

- 342 (1) any water undertaker<sup>4</sup> having the right to abstract<sup>5</sup> water from those waters<sup>6</sup>;
- 343 (2) any other water undertaker having the right to abstract water from any related underground strata<sup>7</sup>;
- 344 (3) the drainage board for any internal drainage district<sup>8</sup> from which water is discharged into those waters or in which any part of those waters is situated<sup>9</sup>;
- 345 (4) any navigation, harbour or conservancy authority<sup>10</sup> having functions in relation to those waters or any related inland waters<sup>11</sup>;
- 346 (5) if those waters are wholly or partly situated in Wales<sup>12</sup> (or in an area of the sea adjoining either the coast of Wales or an area of sea forming part of Wales) and they or any related inland waters are tidal waters in relation to which there is no such navigation, harbour or conservancy authority, the Secretary of State for Transport<sup>13</sup>; and
- 347 (6) any person<sup>14</sup> authorised by a licence under the Electricity Act 1989<sup>15</sup> to generate electricity who has a right to abstract water from those waters<sup>16</sup>.

Before submitting a draft statement to the Secretary of State<sup>17</sup> or, in relation to Wales, to the Welsh Ministers<sup>18</sup>, the Agency must publish a notice<sup>19</sup>: (a) stating the general effect of the draft statement<sup>20</sup>; (b) specifying the place where a copy of the draft statement, and of any relevant map or plan, may be inspected by any person free of charge at all reasonable times during the period of 28 days beginning with the date of first publication of the notice<sup>21</sup>; and (c) stating that any person may within that period, by notice in writing<sup>22</sup> to the Secretary of State or where appropriate, the Welsh Ministers object to the approval of the statement<sup>23</sup>.

Not later than the date on which that notice is first published, the Agency must serve<sup>24</sup> a copy of the notice on the specified bodies and persons<sup>25</sup> and must also publish a notice in the London Gazette<sup>26</sup>. The Agency must, at the request of any person, furnish him with a copy of the draft statement on payment of such charge as the Agency thinks reasonable<sup>27</sup>.

211. Approval of the draft statement.

The Secretary of State<sup>1</sup> or, in relation to Wales, the Welsh Ministers<sup>2</sup> may approve the statement relating to the minimum acceptable flow of inland waters<sup>3</sup> either in the form of the draft or in that form as altered in such manner as he or they think fit<sup>4</sup>. Where the Secretary of State or, as the case may be, the Welsh Ministers propose to make any alteration of a statement before approving it<sup>5</sup> and consider that any persons<sup>6</sup> are likely to be adversely affected by it<sup>7</sup>, the Environment Agency<sup>8</sup> must give and publish such additional notices, in such manner, as the Secretary of State or the Welsh Ministers may require<sup>9</sup>.

If, before the end of:

- 348 (1) a period of 28 days<sup>10</sup> beginning with the date of first publication of the notice of the draft statement<sup>11</sup>;
- 349 (2) a period of 25 days from the publication of a notice<sup>12</sup> in the London Gazette<sup>13</sup>;
- or
- 350 (3) any period specified in such additional notices published by the Agency<sup>14</sup>, notice of an objection is received by the Secretary of State or, where appropriate, the Welsh Ministers from any person on whom a notice is required to be served, or from any other person appearing to the Secretary of State or the Welsh Ministers to be affected by the draft statement (either as prepared in draft or as proposed to be altered)<sup>15</sup>, and the objection is not withdrawn, the Secretary of State or the Welsh Ministers, before approving the statement, must either cause a local inquiry to be held<sup>16</sup>, or afford to the objector and to the Agency an opportunity of appearing before, and being heard by, a person appointed by the Secretary of State or the Welsh Ministers for the purpose<sup>17</sup>.

The approval under these provisions of a draft statement brings into force, on the date specified in that approval, so much of that statement, as approved, as contains provision for determining, amending or replacing the minimum acceptable flow<sup>18</sup> for any inland waters<sup>19</sup>.

Where a statement is approved, whether in the form of the draft proposed by the Agency or with alterations, the Secretary of State or, where appropriate, the Welsh Ministers must give notice to the Agency stating that the statement has been approved, either without alteration or with alterations specified in the notice<sup>20</sup>, and specifying the date (not being earlier than 28 days after the date of that notice) on which the statement is to have effect<sup>21</sup>; and the Agency must forthwith publish the notice<sup>22</sup>. The Agency must keep a copy of every approved statement available at its offices for inspection by the public, free of charge, at all reasonable times<sup>23</sup>.

WATER RESOURCES/(2) ASSESSMENT OF WATER RESOURCES/(iii) Determining Minimum Acceptable Flows/212. Directions to the Environment Agency to consider minimum acceptable flow.

212. Directions to the Environment Agency to consider minimum acceptable flow.

If the Environment Agency<sup>1</sup> is directed by the Secretary of State<sup>2</sup> or, in relation to Wales, by the Welsh Ministers<sup>3</sup>, to consider whether the minimum acceptable flow for any particular inland waters<sup>4</sup> ought to be determined or reviewed<sup>5</sup>, the Agency must consider that matter as soon as reasonably practicable after being directed to do so<sup>6</sup>.

After considering any such matter, the Agency must submit to the Secretary of State or, where appropriate, the Welsh Ministers with respect to the inland waters in question either<sup>7</sup>:

- 351 (1) a draft statement<sup>8</sup> containing provision for determining, or for amending an existing provision determining, the minimum acceptable flow for those waters<sup>9</sup>; or
- 352 (2) a draft statement that no minimum acceptable flow ought to be determined for those waters or, as the case may require, that the minimum acceptable flow for those waters does not need to be changed<sup>10</sup>.

The provisions with respect to the submission and approval of draft statements containing provision for determining, or for amending an existing provision determining, the minimum acceptable flow for inland waters apply to a draft statement under the above provisions<sup>11</sup>.

1 As to the Environment Agency see PARA 17.

2 As to the Secretary of State see PARA 15 note 1.

3 The functions of the Secretary of State under the Water Resources Act 1991 s 22, so far as exercisable in relation to Wales, were transferred to the National Assembly for Wales: see the National Assembly for Wales (Transfer of Functions) Order 1999, SI 1999/672, art 2, Sch 1. These functions are now vested in the Welsh Ministers: see the Government of Wales Act 2006 s 162(1), Sch 11 para 30. As to the meaning of 'Wales' see PARA 16 note 2. As to the Welsh Ministers see PARA 16 note 5. As to the power of the Secretary of State to intervene in relation to functions exercisable by the Welsh Ministers where any particular case might have a serious adverse impact on water resources, water supply, or the quality of water in England see PARA 16.

Schedule 5 applies in the case of any draft statement prepared under s 21 or s 22: Sch 5 para 1(1). Without prejudice to the generality of Sch 5 para 4 (see PARA 211), the power of the Secretary of State or, where appropriate, the Welsh Ministers under that paragraph to alter a draft statement before approving it includes power to substitute a statement containing or amending any such provision as is mentioned in s 21(2) (see PARA 209) for such a draft statement as is mentioned in s 22(2)(b) (see the text to note 10): s 22(3).

213. Minimum acceptable level or volume of inland waters.

Where it appears to the Environment Agency<sup>1</sup>, in the case of any particular inland waters<sup>2</sup>, that it would be appropriate to measure the level or the volume (either instead of or in addition to the flow), the Agency may determine that the provisions of the Water Resources Act 1991 concerning minimum acceptable flows<sup>3</sup> are to apply in relation to those inland waters as if any reference to the flow were, or as the case may be, included a reference to the level or to the volume<sup>4</sup>. Where the Agency makes such a determination with respect to any inland waters, any draft statement prepared<sup>5</sup>, in so far as it relates to those waters, must state<sup>6</sup>: (1) whether the level or the volume is to be measured<sup>7</sup>; and (2) whether it is to be measured instead of, or in addition to, the flow<sup>8</sup>.

(3) CONTROL OF ABSTRACTION AND IMPOUNDING

(i) Restrictions on Abstraction and Impounding

214. Restrictions on abstraction.

Subject to certain statutory provisions<sup>1</sup>, and to any drought order or drought permit<sup>2</sup>, no person<sup>3</sup> must:

- 353 (1) abstract<sup>4</sup> water from any source of supply<sup>5</sup>; or
- 354 (2) cause or permit any other person so to abstract any water<sup>6</sup>, except in pursuance of a licence<sup>7</sup> granted by the Environment Agency<sup>8</sup> and in accordance with the provisions of that licence<sup>9</sup>. The restriction on abstraction does not apply to any transfer of water from one area of inland waters<sup>10</sup> to another in the course of, or resulting from, any operations carried out by a navigation authority, harbour authority or conservancy authority<sup>11</sup> in the carrying out of their functions as such an authority<sup>12</sup>.

Where by virtue of the above provisions the abstraction of water contained in any underground strata<sup>13</sup> is prohibited except in pursuance of a licence, no person may begin, or cause or permit any other person to begin: (a) to construct any well, borehole or other work by which water may be abstracted from those strata<sup>14</sup>; (b) to extend any such well, borehole or other work<sup>15</sup>; or (c) to install or modify any machinery or apparatus by which additional quantities of water may be abstracted from those strata by means of a well, borehole or other work<sup>16</sup>, unless the following conditions are satisfied<sup>17</sup>:

- 355 (i) the abstraction of the water or, as the case may be, of the additional quantities of water, is authorised by a licence<sup>18</sup>; and
- 356 (ii) either the well, borehole or work as constructed or extended<sup>19</sup>, or the machinery or apparatus as installed or modified<sup>20</sup>, fulfils the requirements of that licence as to the means by which water is authorised to be abstracted<sup>21</sup>.

A person is guilty of an offence<sup>22</sup>: (A) if he contravenes the provisions above<sup>23</sup>; or (B) if he is the holder of a licence for these purposes and, in circumstances not constituting such a contravention, he does not comply with a condition or requirement imposed by the provisions of that licence as for the time being in force<sup>24</sup>.

Except in so far as otherwise expressly provided<sup>25</sup>, the restrictions imposed by the above provisions<sup>26</sup> are not to be construed as:

- 357 (aa) conferring a right of action in any civil proceedings (other than proceedings for the recovery of a fine) in respect of any contravention of those restrictions<sup>27</sup>;
- 358 (bb) affecting any restriction imposed by or under any other enactment<sup>28</sup>, whether contained in a public general Act or in a local or private Act<sup>29</sup>; or
- 359 (cc) derogating from any right of action or other remedy (whether civil or criminal) in proceedings instituted otherwise than under the relevant provisions<sup>30</sup> of the Water Resources Act 1991<sup>31</sup>.

1 le subject to the provisions of the Water Resources Act 1991 Pt II Ch II (ss 24-72). See in particular s 26(1) (text to notes 10-12), ss 27-29 (PARAS 221-223) and s 32 (PARA 224).

2 le a drought order or drought permit under the Water Resources Act 1991 Pt II Ch III (ss 73-81): see PARA 305 et seq.

4 As to the meaning of 'abstract' see PARA 192 note 2.

5 Water Resources Act 1991 s 24(1)(a). As to the meaning of 'source of supply' see PARA 187.

6 Water Resources Act 1991 s 24(1)(b).

7 le a licence under the Water Resources Act 1991 Pt II Ch II (ss 24-72): see PARA 214 et seq. Any reference in Pt II Ch II (ss 24-72) to the doing of anything in pursuance of a licence under those provisions is a reference to its being done:

33 (1) by the holder of such a licence; or

34 (2) by a person acting as a servant or agent of, or otherwise under the authority of, the holder of such a licence, at a time when the licence is in force and in circumstances such that, if no such licence were in force, the doing of that thing would contravene a restriction imposed by Pt II Ch II (ss 24-72): s 72(3). As to the meaning of 'contravene' see PARA 20 note 5. As to who is the holder of a licence see s 47; and PARA 250.

The Conservation (Natural Habitats etc) Regulations 1994, SI 1994/2716, regs 48, 49 (requirement to consider effect on European sites in Great Britain and European offshore marine sites) apply in relation to the granting of an authorisation by virtue of the granting of a licence under the Water Resources Act 1991 Pt II Ch II (ss 24-72): see the Conservation (Natural Habitats etc) Regulations 1994, SI 1994/2716, reg 84B (added by SI 2007/1843); and PARA 11; and OPEN SPACES AND COUNTRYSIDE vol 78 (2010) PARA 748.

8 As to the Environment Agency see PARA 17.

9 Water Resources Act 1991 s 24(1) (amended by the Environment Act 1995 s 120, Sch 22 para 128; SI 1996/593). The restrictions imposed by the Water Resources Act 1991 s 24 have effect notwithstanding anything in any enactment contained in any Act passed before the passing of the Water Resources Act 1963 on 31 July 1963 or in any statutory provision made or issued, whether before or after the passing of that Act, by virtue of such an enactment: s 24(6). 'Statutory provision' means a provision (whether of a general or special nature) which is contained in, or in any document made or issued under, any Act (whether of a general or special nature): s 72(1). An easement at common law is not automatically extinguished by the provisions of s 24: see Cargill v Gotts [1981] 1 All ER 682, [1981] 1 WLR 441, CA. As to common law rights of abstraction see PARA 93 et seq.

The restriction on abstraction has effect in relation to abstraction by the Environment Agency as if the references in the Water Resources Act 1991 s 24(1) to a licence were references to a licence granted, or, by virtue of the Water Resources (Abstraction and Impounding) Regulations 2006, SI 2006/641, Sch 2 para 6(2) (see PARA 237), deemed to have been granted, to the Agency under the Water Resources Act 1991 s 42 (consideration of called-in applications: see PARA 243): Water Resources (Abstraction and Impounding) Regulations 2006, SI 2006/641, reg 14(1). 'Restriction on abstraction' means the restriction imposed by the Water Resources Act 1991 s 24(1): s 72(1).

10 As to the meaning of 'inland waters' see PARA 187 note 2.

11 As to the meaning of 'navigation authority' see PARA 189 note 1. As to the meaning of 'harbour authority' see PARA 189 note 2. As to the meaning of 'conservancy authority' see PARA 189 note 3.

12 Water Resources Act 1991 s 26(1). As from a day to be appointed there is substituted for this provision the following: Subject to s 26(2) (see below), the restriction on abstraction does not apply to any transfer, without intervening use, of water from inland waters described in the Table below to inland waters so described, if the transfer is in the course of, or results from, any operations carried out by a navigation authority, harbour authority or conservancy authority in the carrying out of their functions as such an authority: s 26(1) (s 26(1), (2) prospectively substituted, (4), (5) prospectively added, by the Water Act 2003 s 5). The transfers in question are: (1) the transfer from a water system of the authority's to the same water system; (2) the transfer from a water system of the authority's to inland waters not forming part of that water system; (3) the transfer from a supply reservoir of the authority's to a water system of the authority's with which that reservoir is connected:

Water Resources Act 1991 s 26(1) Table (as so substituted). Section 26(1) does not apply to a transfer of water from a water system to any inland waters outside that water system in order to: (a) empty a dry dock; or (b) introduce into those inland waters all or part of a quantity of water to be abstracted from any connected inland waters in pursuance of a licence to do so granted under Pt II Ch II (ss 24-72): s 26(2) (as so prospectively substituted). References to an authority's water system are to a water system in relation to which the authority has functions; and to an authority's supply reservoir are to a reservoir belonging to a navigation authority, used for the purposes of supplying that navigation authority's water system, and which does not discharge to any inland waters other than that water system: s 26(4) (as so prospectively added). For these purposes, 'water system' means the canals, the harbours, or the canals and harbours constituting the system in question together with the locks, docks, balancing reservoirs, weirs and other works associated with the system (other than any supply reservoir as described in s 26(4) above), but excluding any part of the system which consists of a navigable river or part of one: s 26(5) (as so prospectively added). At the date at which this volume states the law no such day had been appointed.

215. Restrictions on impounding.

Subject to certain statutory provisions<sup>1</sup> and to any drought order or drought permit<sup>2</sup>, no person<sup>3</sup> must:

- 360 (1) begin, or cause or permit any other person to begin, to construct or alter any impounding works<sup>4</sup> at any point in any inland waters which are not discrete waters<sup>5</sup>; or unless, in either case, the following conditions are satisfied<sup>7</sup>. The conditions are that: (a) a licence<sup>8</sup> granted by the Environment Agency<sup>9</sup> to obstruct or impede the flow of those inland waters at that point by means of impounding works is in force<sup>10</sup>; (b) the impounding works will not, or, as the case may be, do not, obstruct or impede the flow of the inland waters except to the extent, and in the manner, authorised by the licence<sup>11</sup>; and (c) any other conditions or requirements imposed by the provisions, as for the time being in force, of the licence, whether as to the provision of compensation water or otherwise, are complied with<sup>12</sup>.
- 361 (2) cause or permit the flow of any inland waters which are not discrete waters to be obstructed or impeded at any point by means of impounding works<sup>6</sup>,

A person is guilty of an offence<sup>13</sup> if: (i) he contravenes the provisions above<sup>14</sup>; or (ii) he is the holder of a licence<sup>15</sup> for these purposes and he does not comply with a condition or requirement imposed by the provisions, as for the time being in force, of that licence<sup>16</sup>.

Except in so far as otherwise expressly provided<sup>17</sup>, the restrictions imposed by the above provisions<sup>18</sup> are not to be construed as:

- 362 (A) conferring a right of action in any civil proceedings (other than proceedings for the recovery of a fine) in respect of any contravention of those restrictions<sup>19</sup>;
- 363 (B) affecting any restriction imposed by or under any other enactment<sup>20</sup>, whether contained in a public general Act or in a local or private Act<sup>21</sup>; or
- 364 (C) derogating from any right of action or other remedy (whether civil or criminal) in proceedings instituted otherwise than under the relevant provisions<sup>22</sup> of the Water Resources Act 1991<sup>23</sup>.

Subject as provided<sup>24</sup>, the restriction on impounding works<sup>25</sup> does not apply in respect of any impounding works if either the construction or alteration of those works<sup>26</sup>, or the obstruction or impeding of the flow of the inland waters resulting from the construction or alteration of the works<sup>27</sup>, is authorised (in whatsoever terms, and whether expressly or by implication) by virtue of any specified statutory provision<sup>28</sup>. Nor does the restriction on impounding works apply to the construction or alteration of impounding works in the course of the performance by a navigation authority, harbour authority or conservancy authority<sup>29</sup> of their functions as such an authority<sup>30</sup>.

4 'Impounding works' means either: (1) any dam, weir or other works in any inland waters by which water may be impounded; or (2) any works for diverting the flow of any inland waters in connection with the construction or alteration of any dam, weir, or other works falling within head (1): Water Resources Act 1991 ss 25(8), 72(1). In relation to impounding works, references to alteration include the removal or partial removal of those works, and cognate expressions must be construed accordingly: s 25(9) (added by the Water Act 2003 ss 2(1), (5)). Subject to the Water Act 2003 s 3 (see PARA 216), the amendments made by that Act to the Water Resources Act 1991 s 25 apply, as regards any act or omission after 1 April 2006 (ie the day on which they came into force), with respect to impounding works whenever constructed: Water Act 2003 s 2(10); Water Act 2003 (Commencement No 6, Transitional Provisions and Savings) Order 2006, SI 2006/984, art 2(b), (c), (s). 22 Ie otherwise than under the Water Resources Act 1991 Pt II Ch II (ss 24-72).

23 Water Resources Act 1991 s 70(c).

24 The provisions of the Water Resources Act 1991 Pt II Ch II (ss 24-72) have effect in accordance with s 25(7) below where by virtue of any such provision as is mentioned in s 25(5) and is for the time being in force: (1) any water undertaker or sewerage undertaker to which rights under that provision have been transferred in accordance with a scheme under the Water Act 1989 Sch 2 (see PARA 108) or the Water Industry Act 1991 Sch 2 (see PARA 141); or (2) any other person, is authorised (in whatsoever terms, and whether expressly or by implication) to obstruct or impede the flow of any inland waters by means of impounding works (whether those works have already been constructed or not): Water Resources Act 1991 s 25(6). Where s 25(6) applies, the provisions of Pt II Ch II have effect (with the necessary modifications), where the reference is to the revocation or variation of a licence under that Chapter, as if any reference in those provisions to a licence under that Chapter included a reference to the authorisation mentioned in that subsection, and any reference to the holder of such a licence included a reference to the undertaker or other person so mentioned: s 25(7). As to the meanings of 'water undertaker' and 'sewerage undertakers' see PARA 137 note 4.

25 The 'restriction on impounding works' means the restriction imposed by the Water Resources Act 1991 s 25(1)(a) and (b) (see heads (1) and (2) in the text): s 72(1) (definition amended by the Water Act 2003 s 2(9)).

28 Water Resources Act 1991 s 25(5) (amended by the Water Act 2003 s 2(1), (4)). The statutory provision referred to is such statutory provision as at 1 December 1991 (ie the coming into force of the Water Resources Act 1991) was an alternative statutory provision for the purposes of the Water Resources Act 1963 s 36(2) (repealed): Water Resources Act 1991 ss 25(5), 225(2). 'Alternative statutory provision' was defined in the Water Resources Act 1963 as a statutory provision which was not contained in, or made or issued under the Water Resources Act 1963 or the Water Act 1958 (repealed), and was passed, made or issued either: (1) before the end of the initial period (see the Water Resources Act 1963 s 23(1) (repealed)), whether before or after the passing of the Water Resources Act 1963 (repealed) (on 31 July 1963); or (2) after the end of that period, but in pursuance of an application made to the former Minister of Housing and Local Government or the Secretary of State before the end of that period, whether before or after the passing of the Water Resources Act 1963 (repealed): s 36(3) (repealed).

Subject to the Water Resources Act 1991 s 25(5), the restrictions imposed by s 25 have effect notwithstanding anything in any enactment contained in any Act passed before the passing of the Water Resources Act 1963 on 31 July 1963 or in any statutory provision made or issued, whether before or after the passing of that Act, by virtue of such an enactment: Water Resources Act 1991 s 25(4).

30 Water Resources Act 1991 s 26(2). As from a day to be appointed there is substituted for this provision the following: the restriction on impounding works does not apply to: (1) the construction or alteration of impounding works; or (2) the obstruction or impeding of inland waters by means of impounding works, in the course of the performance by a navigation authority, harbour authority or conservancy authority of their functions as such an authority, unless the construction, alteration, obstruction or impeding affects any inland waters in relation to which the authority does not have functions: s 26(3) (prospectively added by the Water Act 2003 s 5). At the date at which this volume states the law no such day had been appointed.

Halsbury's Laws of England/WATER AND WATERWAYS (VOLUME 100 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-452; VOLUME 101 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 453-851)/5. WATER RESOURCES/(3) CONTROL OF ABSTRACTION AND IMPOUNDING/(i) Restrictions on Abstraction and Impounding/216. Effect of restriction on impounding on existing impounding works.

216. Effect of restriction on impounding on existing impounding works.

Except as provided below<sup>1</sup>, the restriction on causing or permitting the flow of any inland waters<sup>2</sup> which are not discrete waters to be obstructed or impeded at any point by means of impounding works<sup>3</sup> does not apply in respect of any existing unlicensed impounding works<sup>4</sup>. With respect to any existing unlicensed impounding works to which that restriction would otherwise apply, the Environment Agency<sup>5</sup> may serve a notice<sup>6</sup> on any relevant person<sup>7</sup> requiring him to apply for a licence<sup>8</sup>. If that person fails to apply for such a licence within:

365 (1) the period of 28 days beginning with the date of service of the notice, or, if an appeal is brought<sup>9</sup> and the appeal is dismissed, the date when the decision of the appropriate authority<sup>10</sup> is notified to that person<sup>11</sup>; or that restriction applies in respect of the impounding works from the expiry of that period<sup>14</sup>.

If the relevant person on whom a notice is served is aggrieved by the service of that notice, he may by notice appeal to the appropriate authority<sup>15</sup>. Where such an appeal is brought, the appropriate authority may allow or dismiss the appeal or reverse or vary any part of the decision of the Agency, whether the appeal relates to that part of the decision or not<sup>16</sup>; and the decision of the appropriate authority is final<sup>17</sup>.

Without prejudice to the Agency's power to serve a notice requiring a relevant person to apply for a licence<sup>18</sup>, where it appears to the Agency to be necessary for the protection of the environment<sup>19</sup> or the performance of its functions in connection with the management of water resources<sup>20</sup>, the Agency may serve a works notice<sup>21</sup> on any relevant person with respect to any existing unlicensed impounding works<sup>22</sup>.

If a person on whom the Agency serves such a works notice fails to comply with any of its requirements, he is guilty of an offence<sup>23</sup>. If the Agency is of the opinion that proceedings for such an offence would afford an ineffectual remedy against a person who has failed to comply with the requirements of a works notice, the Agency may take proceedings in the High Court for the purpose of securing compliance with the notice<sup>24</sup>. If a person on whom a works notice has been served fails to comply with any of its requirements, the Agency may do what that person was required to do and may recover from him any costs or expenses reasonably incurred by the Agency in doing it<sup>25</sup>.

1 le except as provided in the Water Act 2003 s 3(3): see the text to notes 9-14.

2 The Water Act 2003 ss 3, 4 do not apply to certain inland waters unless they are in England: see the Environment Act 1995 s 6(3), (3A); and PARA 188 note 16.

3 le the restriction in the Water Resources Act 1991 s 25(1)(b): see PARA 215. Nothing in the Water Act 2003 s 3(1)-(10) affects the application of the Water Resources Act 1991 s 25(1)(a) (see PARA 215) to the alteration, after the effective date, of any existing unlicensed impounding works: Water Act 2003 s 3(11). 'Existing unlicensed impounding works' means unlicensed impounding works, the construction of which was begun before the effective date; 'unlicensed impounding works' means impounding works (as defined in the Water Resources Act 1991 s 25(8): see PARA 215 note 4) in respect of which (1) no licence or authorisation of the kind referred to in s 25 (see PARA 215) was in force immediately before the effective date; and (2) no such licence has been granted since that date; and 'effective date' means 1 April 2006 (ie the date when the Water Act 2003 s 2 came into force): ss 3(12), 4(8); Water Act 2003 (Commencement No 6, Transitional Provisions and Savings) Order 2006, SI 2006/984, art 2(b).

4 Water Act 2003 s 3(1).

5 As to the Environment Agency see PARA 17.

6 The Water Resources Act 1991 s 220 applies to the service of documents: see the Water Act 2003 s 33(4); and PARA 22.

7 'Relevant person' means any person who appears to the Environment Agency to have responsibility in respect of the impounding works in question: Water Act 2003 ss 3(12), 4(8). As to the meaning of 'person' see PARA 13 note 29.

8 Water Act 2003 s 3(2). 'Licence' means a licence of the kind referred to in the Water Resources Act 1991 s 25 (see PARA 215): Water Act 2003 s 3(12). On an application for a licence in respect of any existing unlicensed impounding works, the Water Resources Act 1991 s 39(1) (see PARA 240) applies only to the extent that the obstruction or impeding of the flow of inland waters which would, if the licence were granted, be authorised by that licence is to differ in any material respect from that which was taking place at the time the application was made: Water Act 2003 s 3(8). If a licence granted in respect of existing unlicensed impounding works is revoked or varied in the circumstances mentioned in the Water Resources Act 1991 s 61 (compensation where licence modified on direction of the Secretary of State: see PARA 263), s 61(3) applies as if that licence had been granted when construction of the impounding works began and had remained in force since then: Water Act 2003 s 3(9). Section 3(9) does not, however, apply to a licence granted in respect of existing unlicensed impounding works if, before the effective date, there had occurred any contravention of the Water Resources Act 1991 s 25(1) (see PARA 215) in respect of those impounding works: Water Act 2003 s 3(10).

9 ie under the Water Act 2003 s 3(4): see the text to note 15.

10 'Appropriate authority' means: (1) in relation to Wales, the Welsh Ministers; and (2) in relation to England, the Secretary of State: Water Act 2003 ss 3(12), 4(8); Government of Wales Act 2006 Sch 11 para 32. Functions under the Water Act 2003 s 3 were originally vested in the National Assembly for Wales but are now exercisable by the Welsh Ministers by virtue of the Government of Wales Act 2006 s 162(1), Sch 11 para 30. As to the Welsh Ministers see PARA 16 note 5. As to the meaning of 'Wales' see PARA 16 note 2. As to the meaning of 'England' see PARA 19 note 8. As to the Secretary of State see PARA 15 note 1.

11 Water Act 2003 s 3(3)(a).

12 As to the meaning of 'writing' see PARA 22 note 1.

13 Water Act 2003 s 3(3)(b).

14 Water Act 2003 s 3(3).

15 Water Act 2003 s 3(4). The appropriate authority may by regulations make provision with respect to the manner in which notices of appeal must be served, the period within which such notices must be served, and the procedure on any such appeal: s 3(5). Section 3(4)-(6) are subject to the Environment Act 1995 s 114 (power of Secretary of State to delegate or refer in connection with appeals: see ENVIRONMENTAL QUALITY AND PUBLIC HEALTH vol 45 (2010) PARA 65): Water Act 2003 s 3(7). As to the making of regulations see PARA 21.

Any notice of appeal must be served within 21 days beginning on the date of service of the notice served under s 3(2) (see the text to notes 5-8): Water Resources (Abstraction and Impounding) Regulations 2006, SI 2006/641, reg 33(1). The Anti-Pollution Works Regulations 1999, SI 1999/1006, regs 3-6 (see ENVIRONMENTAL QUALITY AND PUBLIC HEALTH vol 45 (2010) PARA 327) apply in relation to an appeal as if in those regulations, references to the Secretary of State were references to the appropriate authority; and in reg 3, references to a notice of appeal were references to a notice of appeal under the Water Act 2003 s 3(4): Water Resources (Abstraction and Impounding) Regulations 2006, SI 2006/641, reg 33(2).

16 Water Act 2003 s 3(6)(a).

17 Water Act 2003 s 3(6)(b). As to judicial review of decisions expressed to be final see JUDICIAL REVIEW vol 61 (2010) PARA 655.

19 Water Act 2003 s 4(1)(a).

20 Water Act 2003 s 4(1)(b). As to the general duty of the Agency in relation to the conservation and use of water resources see PARA 188.

21 A 'works notice' is a notice requiring the person on whom it is served to carry out such works or operations in relation to the impounding works as: (1) appear to the Agency to be required for the purposes mentioned in the Water Act 2003 s 4(1)(a) or (b) (see the text to notes 19-20) (s 4(2)(a)); and (2) are specified in the notice (s 4(2)(b)).

22 Water Act 2003 s 4(1). The existing unlicensed impounding works referred to are those of the kind mentioned in s 3(2) (see the text to notes 5-8): s 4(1). The following provisions of the Water Resources Act 1991 apply in relation to works notices under the Water Act 2003 s 4 as they apply in relation to notices referred to in those provisions: (1) the Water Resources Act 1991 s 25A(5)-(9) (see PARA 217); and (2) ss 161B, 161C (see PARAS 218, 219), including any power to make regulations or give directions, but references in those provisions to the Secretary of State must be treated as references to the appropriate authority: Water Act 2003 s 4(3).

A works notice must: (1) state the name and address of the person on whom the notice is served; (2) specify the impounding works to which the notice relates; (3) specify the works or operations required to be carried out and give the Agency's reasons for requiring those works or operations to be carried out; (4) state why it appears to the Agency to be necessary to serve the notice; (5) inform the person on whom the notice is served of (a) his right to appeal under the Water Resources Act 1991 s 161C (appeals against works notices: see PARA 219), as applied by the Water Act 2003 s 4(3), and of the time for appealing; and (b) the requirements imposed by the Anti-Pollution Works Regulations 1999, SI 1999/1006, reg 3 (see ENVIRONMENTAL QUALITY AND PUBLIC HEALTH vol 45 (2010) PARA 327), as applied by the Water Resources (Abstraction and Impounding) Regulations 2006, SI 2006/641, reg 28, in relation to the exercise of that right; and (6) set out the provisions of the Water Act 2003 s 4(4)-(7): Water Resources (Abstraction and Impounding) Regulations 2006, SI 2006/641, reg 27. The Anti-Pollution Works Regulations 1999, SI 1999/1006, regs 3-7 (see ENVIRONMENTAL QUALITY AND PUBLIC HEALTH vol 45 (2010) PARAS 326, 327) apply in relation to a works notice under the Water Act 2003 s 4, as they apply to a works notice under the Water Resources Act 1991 s 161A (see ENVIRONMENTAL QUALITY AND PUBLIC HEALTH vol 45 (2010) PARA 326): Water Resources (Abstraction and Impounding) Regulations 2006, SI 2006/641, reg 28.

23 Water Act 2003 s 4(4). The penalty for such an offence is, on summary conviction, a fine not exceeding £20,000 (s 4(5)(a)), or on conviction on indictment, a fine (s 4(5)(b)).

25 Water Act 2003 s 4(6).

26 The Water Resources Act 1991 s 120 (contributions between the Agency and certain other authorities: see PARA 189); s 158 (works agreements for water resources purposes: see PARA 461); s 201 (power to require information in respect of water resources functions), as substituted by the Water Act 2003 s 70 (see PARA 195); the Water Resources Act 1991 s 216 (enforcement; powers and duties: see PARA 188); s 222 (Crown application: see PARA 20), as in force immediately before the substitution made by the Environment Act 1995 Sch 21 para 2(4) and for so long as the substituted Water Resources Act 1991 s 222 does not apply to Pt II; apply to (or in relation to) the Water Act 2003 ss 3 and 4 (the applicable sections) as they apply to (or in relation to) the Water Resources Act 1991 Pt II (ss 20-81) or, as the case may be, Pt II Ch II (ss 24-72): see the Water Act 2003 s 33(1) (a), (b), (3). Accordingly, in those provisions of the Water Resources Act 1991: (1) references to Pt II of, or to Pt II Ch II of, the Water Resources Act 1991 are to be read as if the applicable sections were included in that Part or that Chapter; (2) references to the related water resources provisions are to be read as if those provisions meant, in relation to the applicable sections, those provisions of the Water Resources Act 1991 other than s 222, and (3) references to the Secretary of State are to be read as references to the appropriate authority (as defined, in each case, in the applicable section in question): Water Act 2003 s 33(2). References in the Water Resources Act 1991 to the functions (generally) of the Environment Agency are to be read as including the Agency's functions under the applicable sections: Water Act 2003 s 33(5). As to the meaning of 'related water resources provisions' see PARA 188 note 15.

217. Enforcement notices.

Where it appears to the Environment Agency<sup>1</sup> that a person<sup>2</sup> is:

- 367 (1) in breach of the restrictions<sup>3</sup> on abstracting or on impounding<sup>4</sup>; or
- 368 (2) is the holder of a licence<sup>5</sup> and has not complied with a condition or requirement imposed by the provisions, as for the time being in force, of that licence<sup>6</sup>, the Agency is entitled to serve<sup>7</sup> an enforcement notice on him<sup>8</sup> if it appears to the Agency that the breach or failure to comply is causing or is likely to cause significant damage to the environment<sup>9</sup>.

An enforcement notice is a notice requiring the person on whom it is served: (a) to cease his breach of the restrictions on abstracting or on impounding, or to comply with the condition or requirement in question<sup>10</sup>; and (b) to carry out any works or operations specified in the notice<sup>11</sup>. The works or operations which may be specified are works or operations which it appears to the Agency will be appropriate for the purpose of remedying or mitigating the effects of the breach or failure to comply, and may include: (i) works or operations for the purpose, so far as it is reasonably practicable to do so, of restoring any affected waters, including any flora and fauna dependent on them, to their state immediately before the breach or failure to comply<sup>12</sup>; and (ii) in the case of a breach of the restriction on impounding<sup>13</sup>, the removal of any unauthorised impounding works<sup>14</sup> or the reversal of any unauthorised alteration to impounding works<sup>15</sup>. An enforcement notice must specify the periods within which the person on whom it is served must do each of the things specified in the notice<sup>16</sup>.

The Secretary of State or, where appropriate, the Welsh Ministers may, if he or they think fit in relation to any person, give directions to the Agency as to whether or how it should exercise its powers under the above provisions<sup>17</sup>.

In proceedings for any offence in relation to the restrictions on abstraction or on impounding<sup>18</sup> against a person upon whom an enforcement notice has been served, the following are not to be taken as evidence that he has committed the offence: (A) the fact that an enforcement notice has been served on him<sup>19</sup>; (B) the fact that he does not appeal against it<sup>20</sup>; (C) the fact that on an appeal against it the notice is confirmed, whether with or without modifications<sup>21</sup>.

If a person on whom the Agency serves an enforcement notice fails to comply with any of its requirements, he is guilty of an offence<sup>22</sup>. If the Agency is of the opinion that proceedings for such an offence would afford an ineffectual remedy against a person who has failed to comply with the requirements of an enforcement notice, the Agency may take proceedings in the High Court for the purpose of securing compliance with the notice<sup>23</sup>. If a person on whom an enforcement notice has been served fails to comply with any of its requirements, the Agency may do what that person was required to do and may recover from him any costs or expenses reasonably incurred by the Agency in doing it<sup>24</sup>.

2 As to the meaning of 'person' see PARA 13 note 29.

3 le in breach of the Water Resources Act 1991 s 24(1) or (2) (see PARA 214) or s 25(1) (see PARA 215).

5 le for the purposes of the Water Resources Act 1991 s 24 (see PARA 214) or s 25 (see PARA 215) a holder of a licence under Pt II Ch II (ss 24-72).

6 Water Resources Act 1991 s 25A(1)(b) (as added: see note 4).

7 Before serving an enforcement notice on any person, the Agency must take reasonable steps to consult that person about the works or operations which are to be specified in the notice: Water Resources Act 1991 s 25A(6) (as added: see note 4). An enforcement notice is not invalid, or invalidly served, merely because of a failure to comply with s 25A(6) or with regulations made by virtue of s 25A(7)(b) (see note 8): s 25A(8) (as so added). As to the service of documents see PARA 22. As to the exercise of the duty to consult see JUDICIAL REVIEW vol 61 (2010) PARA 627.

8 See the Water Resources Act 1991 s 25A(1) (as added: see note 4). The Secretary of State or, in relation to Wales, the Welsh Ministers, may by regulations make provision for or in connection with: (1) the form or content of enforcement notices (s 25A(7)(a) (as so added)); (2) requirements for consultation, before the service of an enforcement notice, with persons other than the person upon whom the notice is to be served (s 25A(7)(b) (as so added)); (3) steps to be taken for the purposes of any consultation required under s 25A(6) (see note 7) or regulations made by virtue of head (2) above (s 25A(7)(c) (as so added)); (4) any other steps of a procedural nature which are to be taken in connection with, or in consequence of, the service of an enforcement notice (s 25A(7)(d) (as so added)). The functions of the Secretary of State under the Water Resources Act 1991 s 25A, so far as exercisable in relation to Wales, were transferred to the National Assembly for Wales: see the National Assembly for Wales (Transfer of Functions) Order 1999, SI 1999/672, art 2, Sch 1. These functions are now vested in the Welsh Ministers: see the Government of Wales Act 2006 s 162(1), Sch 11 para 30. As to the meaning of 'Wales' see PARA 16 note 2. As to the Welsh Ministers see PARA 16 note 5. As to the power of the Secretary of State to intervene in relation to functions exercisable by the Welsh Ministers where any particular case might have a serious adverse impact on water resources, water supply, or the quality of water in England see PARA 16.

An enforcement notice must: (a) state the name and address of the person on whom the notice is served; (b) describe the breach or failure to comply to which the notice relates; (c) describe the significant damage to the environment which is being, or is likely to be, caused by that breach or failure; (d) identify the source of supply or inland waters that are subject, or likely to be subject, to that damage; (e) specify the works or operations (if any) required to be carried out and give the Agency's reasons for requiring those works or operations to be carried out; (f) inform the person on whom the notice is served of his right to appeal under s 161C as applied by s 25B (see PARA 219), including the time for appealing, and the requirements imposed by Anti-Pollution Works Regulations 1999, SI 1999/1006, reg 3 (see ENVIRONMENTAL QUALITY AND PUBLIC HEALTH vol 45 (2010) PARA 327) as applied by the Water Resources (Abstraction and Impounding) Regulations 2006, SI 2006/641, reg 28 (see PARA 219), in relation to the exercise of that right; and (g) set out the provisions of the Water Resources Act 1991 s 25C (see the text to notes 22-24): Water Resources (Abstraction and Impounding) Regulations 2006, SI 2006/641, reg 25.

9 See the Water Resources Act 1991 s 25A(2) (as added: see note 4). Sections 25A, 25C do not apply in relation to any breach or failure to comply by the Agency, being a breach of the kind referred to in s 25A(1)(a) or (b) (see the text to notes 1-6): Water Resources (Abstraction and Impounding) Regulations 2006, SI 2006/641, reg 26.

218. Rights of entry.

An enforcement notice<sup>1</sup> may require a person<sup>2</sup> to carry out works or operations in relation to any land<sup>3</sup> or waters notwithstanding that he is not entitled to carry out those works or operations<sup>4</sup>. Any person whose consent is required before any works or operations required by an enforcement notice may be carried out must grant, or join in granting, such rights in relation to any land or waters as will enable the person on whom the enforcement notice is served to comply with any requirements imposed by the notice<sup>5</sup>.

Before serving an enforcement notice, the Agency must reasonably endeavour to consult<sup>6</sup> every person who appears to it: (1) to be the owner<sup>7</sup> or occupier of any relevant land<sup>8</sup>; and (2) to be a person who might be required<sup>9</sup> to grant, or join in granting, any rights<sup>10</sup> concerning the rights which that person may be so required to grant<sup>11</sup>.

A person who grants, or joins in granting, any rights<sup>12</sup> is entitled, on making an application within such period as may be prescribed by regulations<sup>13</sup> and in such manner as may be prescribed to such person as may be prescribed, to be paid by the person on whom the enforcement notice in question is served compensation of such amount as may be determined in such manner as may be prescribed<sup>14</sup>. Compensation is payable for loss and damage of the following descriptions<sup>15</sup>:

- 369 (a) any depreciation in the value of any relevant interest<sup>16</sup> to which the grantor<sup>17</sup> is entitled which results from the grant of the right<sup>18</sup>;
- 370 (b) loss or damage, in relation to any relevant interest to which he is entitled, which is attributable to the grant of the right or the exercise of it, does not consist of depreciation in the value of that interest, and is loss or damage for which he would have been entitled to compensation by way of compensation for disturbance, if that interest had been acquired compulsorily under the Acquisition of Land Act 1981, in pursuance of a notice to treat served on the date on which the grant of the right was made<sup>19</sup>;
- 371 (c) damage to, or injurious affection of, any interest in land to which the grantor is entitled which is not a relevant interest and which results from the grant of the right or from the exercise of it<sup>20</sup>;
- 372 (d) any loss or damage sustained by the grantor, other than in relation to any interest in land to which he is entitled, which is attributable to the grant of the right or the exercise of it<sup>21</sup>; and
- 373 (e) the amount of any valuation and legal expenses reasonably incurred by the grantor in granting the right and in the preparation of the application for and the negotiation of the amount of compensation<sup>22</sup>.

An application for compensation must be made within the period beginning with the date of the grant of the rights in respect of which compensation is claimed and ending on whichever is the latest of the following dates: (a) 12 months after the date of the grant of those rights; (b) where there is an appeal against the enforcement notice which imposed the requirements in relation to which those rights were granted, 12 months after the date on which the appeal is determined or withdrawn; or (c) six months after the date on which the rights were first exercised: Anti-Pollution Works Regulations 1999, SI 1999/1006, Schedule para 2. An application for compensation must be made in writing and delivered at or sent by pre-paid post to the last known address for correspondence of the person to whom the right was granted and must contain: (i) a copy of the grant of rights in respect of which the grantor is applying for compensation and of any plans attached to such grant; (ii) a description of the exact nature of any interest in land in respect of which compensation is applied for; and (iii) a statement of the amount of compensation applied for, distinguishing the amounts applied for under each of heads (a)-(e) in the text and showing how the amount applied for under each head has been calculated: Anti-Pollution Works Regulations 1999, SI 1999/1006,

219. Appeals against enforcement notices.

A person<sup>1</sup> on whom an enforcement notice<sup>2</sup> is served may, within the period of 21 days beginning with the day on which the notice is served, appeal against the notice to the Secretary of State<sup>3</sup> or, in relation to Wales<sup>4</sup>, the Welsh Ministers<sup>5</sup>. On any such appeal the Secretary of State or, where appropriate, the Welsh Ministers:

- 374 (1) must quash the notice, if they are satisfied that there is a material defect in the notice<sup>6</sup>; but
- 375 (2) subject to that, may confirm the notice, with or without modification, or quash it<sup>7</sup>.

The Secretary of State or, where appropriate, the Welsh Ministers may by regulations<sup>8</sup> make provision with respect to the grounds on which appeals may be made<sup>9</sup>, or the procedure on any such appeal<sup>10</sup>. The regulations may (among other things): (a) include provisions comparable to those in the Public Health Act 1936<sup>11</sup> relating to appeals against notices requiring the execution of works<sup>12</sup>; (b) prescribe the cases in which an enforcement notice is, or is not, to be suspended until the appeal is decided, or until some other stage in the proceedings<sup>13</sup>; (c) prescribe the cases in which the decision on an appeal may in some respects be less favourable to the appellant than the enforcement notice against which he is appealing<sup>14</sup>; (d) prescribe the cases in which the appellant may claim that an enforcement notice should have been served on some other person and prescribe the procedure to be followed in those cases<sup>15</sup>; (e) make provision as respects the particulars to be included in the notice of appeal<sup>16</sup>, the persons on whom notice of appeal is to be served and the particulars, if any, which are to accompany the notice<sup>17</sup>, or the abandonment of an appeal<sup>18</sup>.

WATER RESOURCES/(3) CONTROL OF ABSTRACTION AND IMPOUNDING/(i) Restrictions on Abstraction and Impounding/220. Civil remedies for loss or damage due to water abstraction.

220. Civil remedies for loss or damage due to water abstraction.

Subject to certain exceptions<sup>1</sup>, a person who abstracts<sup>2</sup> water from any inland waters<sup>3</sup> or underground strata<sup>4</sup> (an 'abstractor') must not by that abstraction cause loss or damage<sup>5</sup> to another person<sup>6</sup>. A person who suffers such loss or damage (a 'relevant person') may bring a claim against the abstractor<sup>7</sup>, and such a claim will be treated as one in tort for breach of statutory duty<sup>8</sup>. In proceedings in respect of a claim under these provisions, the court may not, however, grant an injunction against the abstractor if that would risk interrupting the supply of water to the public, or would put public health or safety at risk<sup>9</sup>.

Except as provided above, no claim may be made in civil proceedings by a person, whether or not a relevant person, against an abstractor in respect of loss or damage caused by his abstraction of water<sup>10</sup>; but nothing in these provisions prevents or affects a claim for negligence or breach of contract<sup>11</sup>.

The above provisions do not apply in relation to any loss or damage suffered before 1 April 2005<sup>12</sup>.

1 The subject to the Water Resources Act 1991 s 48A(7) and to s 79 (including s 79 as applied by s 79A(9)) (see PARA 314): s 48A(1) (s 48A added by the Water Act 2003 s 24(1)). The Water Resources Act 1991 s 48A does not apply, and no claim may be brought thereunder, where the loss or damage is caused by an abstractor acting in pursuance of a licence under Pt II Ch II (ss 24-72) (see PARA 227 et seq) and is loss or damage: (1) in respect of which a person is entitled to bring a claim under s 60 (see PARA 267) (or would be so entitled if there were a breach of the duty referred to in s 60); (2) in respect of which a person would have been entitled to bring a claim under s 60 but for an express provision (including, eg, s 39(1A) (see PARA 240) and s 59C(6) (see PARA 254)) disapplying that duty; or (3) constituting grounds on which a person is entitled to apply to the Secretary of State or the Welsh Ministers under s 55 (see PARA 261) (or would be so entitled but for s 55(2)) for the revocation or variation of that licence, but without prejudice to the application of s 48 (see PARA 251): s 48A(7) (as so added). As to the meaning of 'person' see PARA 13 note 29.

Halsbury's Laws of England/WATER AND WATERWAYS (VOLUME 100 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-452; VOLUME 101 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 453-851)/5. WATER RESOURCES/(3) CONTROL OF ABSTRACTION AND IMPOUNDING/(ii) Rights to Abstract or Impound/221. Rights to abstract small quantities of water.

(ii) Rights to Abstract or Impound

221. Rights to abstract small quantities of water.

The restriction on abstraction<sup>1</sup> does not apply to any abstraction of a quantity of water not exceeding 20 cubic metres<sup>2</sup> in any period of 24 hours, if the abstraction does not form part of a continuous operation<sup>3</sup>, or of a series of operations, by which a quantity of water which, in aggregate, is more than 20 cubic metres is abstracted during the period<sup>4</sup>. In the case of any abstraction of water from underground strata which falls within the above provision, the restriction on the construction or extension of any well, borehole or other work and on the installation or modification of machinery or other apparatus<sup>5</sup> does not apply:

- 376 (1) to the construction or extension of any well, borehole or other work<sup>6</sup>; or
- 377 (2) to the installation or modification of machinery or other apparatus<sup>7</sup>, if the well, borehole or other work is constructed or extended, or the machinery or apparatus is installed or modified, for the purpose of abstracting the water<sup>8</sup>.

Where a person is authorised by a licence<sup>9</sup> to carry on a particular abstraction operation, or series of operations, the above provisions do not, however, permit him to carry it on beyond the authorisation conferred by the licence<sup>10</sup>.

1 As to the meaning of 'restriction on abstraction' see PARA 214 note 9. As to the meaning of 'abstraction' see PARA 192 note 2.

2 The Secretary of State or, in relation to Wales, the Welsh Ministers may by order made by statutory instrument provide that the Water Resources Act 1991 s 27(1) is to have effect in relation to: (1) a geographical area; or (2) a class of inland waters; or (3) a class of underground strata; or (4) a class of inland waters or of underground strata within a geographical area (in each case as specified in the order) as if for '20 cubic metres' there were substituted another quantity specified in the order: s 27A(1) (ss 27 substituted, 27A added by the Water Act 2003 s 6(1)). The Secretary of State or the Welsh Ministers may not make such an order except upon the application of the Environment Agency; but they may direct the Agency to make such an application: Water Resources Act 1991 s 27A(2) (as so added). Such an order may (a) make different provision in relation to the different heads in s 27A(1); and (b) make different provision for different areas, waters or underground strata: s 27A(3) (as so added). Schedule 6 (see PARA 222) has effect with respect to applications for orders under s 27A(1) and with respect to the making of such orders: s 27A(4) (as so added). An order under s 27A(1) which specifies a greater quantity than the one which previously had effect in relation to the area, waters or strata in question may make provision for a licence to abstract water granted under Pt II Ch II (ss 24-72) (see PARA 227 et seq) which is for the time being in force but which by virtue of the order has become wholly or partly unnecessary, to cease to have effect, or to cease to have effect to the extent specified in the order: s 27A(5) (as so added). An order under s 27A(1) may also include provision for or in relation to the payment by the Agency of compensation, in cases specified in the order, to a person who: (i) immediately before the making of such an order, had been in a position to carry out an abstraction to which, by virtue of s 27(1), the restriction on abstraction did not apply; (ii) following the making of that order, requires a licence under Pt II Ch II in order to carry out that abstraction; and (iii) has suffered loss or damage as a result of his having been refused such a licence in respect of that abstraction or granted such a licence, but in respect of an abstraction of more limited extent than the one he had been in a position to carry out: s 27A(6) (as so added). Section 219(2)(e), (f) (see PARA 21) applies in relation to orders under s 27A(1) as it applies to regulations made under the Water Resources Act 1991: s 27A(7) (as so added). A statutory instrument containing an order under s 27A(1) is subject, in the case of an order made by the Secretary of State, to annulment in pursuance of a resolution of either House of Parliament: see s 27A(8) (as so added). As to the procedure in relation to subordinate legislation made by the Welsh Ministers see the Government of Wales Act 2006 Sch 11 paras 33-35; and CONSTITUTIONAL

Procedure for making orders relating to abstraction of small quantities and compulsory registration of protected rights.

222. Procedure for making orders relating to abstraction of small quantities and compulsory registration of protected rights.

An application to the Secretary of State<sup>1</sup> or, in relation to Wales, to the Welsh Ministers<sup>2</sup> for an order relating to abstraction of small quantities<sup>3</sup> or an order relating to the compulsory registration of protected rights<sup>4</sup> must be accompanied by a draft of the proposed order<sup>5</sup>. Before submitting a draft order to the Secretary of State or, as the case may be, the Welsh Ministers, the Environment Agency<sup>6</sup> must publish a notice<sup>7</sup>:

- 378 (1) stating the general effect of the draft order<sup>8</sup>;
- 379 (2) specifying the place where a copy of the draft order, and of any relevant map or plan, may be inspected by any person<sup>9</sup> free of charge at all reasonable times during the period of 28 days beginning with the date of first publication of the notice<sup>10</sup>; and
- 380 (3) stating that any person may within that period, by notice<sup>11</sup> to the Secretary of State or, where appropriate, the Welsh Ministers object to the making of the order<sup>12</sup>.

Not later than the date on which the notice is first published in pursuance of the above provisions, the Agency must serve<sup>13</sup> a copy of the notice on the specified persons<sup>14</sup>. Where an application for an order is made, the Agency must also publish a notice in the London Gazette<sup>15</sup>; and must, at the request of any person, furnish him with a copy of the draft order on payment of such charge as it thinks reasonable<sup>16</sup>.

Where an application for an order is made, the Secretary of State or, where appropriate, the Welsh Ministers may, make the order either in the form of the draft or in that form as altered in such manner as he or they think fit<sup>17</sup>. Where the Secretary of State or the Welsh Ministers propose to make any alteration of an order before making it<sup>18</sup> and consider that any persons are likely to be adversely affected by it<sup>19</sup>, the Agency must give and publish such additional notices, in such manner, as the Secretary of State or, as the case may be, the Welsh Ministers may require<sup>20</sup>. If, before the end of any of the specified periods<sup>21</sup>, notice of an objection is received by the Secretary of State or, where appropriate, the Welsh Ministers from any person<sup>22</sup> then, where the objection in question is not withdrawn, the Secretary of State or, as the case may be, the Welsh Ministers, before making the order, may take such steps as he or they see fit and, in particular, may: (a) cause a local inquiry to be held<sup>23</sup>; or (b) afford to the objector and to the Agency an opportunity of appearing before, and being heard by, a person appointed by the Secretary of State or, as the case may be, the Welsh Ministers for the purpose<sup>24</sup>.

Where an order is made<sup>25</sup>, whether in the form of the draft proposed by the Agency or with alterations, the Secretary of State or the Welsh Ministers must give notice to the Agency stating that the order has been made (either without alteration or with alterations specified in the notice)<sup>26</sup>, and specifying the date, not being earlier than 28 days after the date of such notice, on which the order is to have effect<sup>27</sup>; and the Agency must forthwith publish the notice<sup>28</sup>. The Agency must keep a copy of every order so made available at its offices for inspection by the public, free of charge, at all reasonable times<sup>29</sup>.

1 As to the Secretary of State see PARA 15 note 1.

2 The functions of the Secretary of State under the Water Resources Act 1991 Sch 6, so far as exercisable in relation to Wales, were transferred to the National Assembly for Wales: see the National Assembly for Wales (Transfer of Functions) Order 1999, SI 1999/672, art 2, Sch 1. These functions are now vested in the Welsh Ministers: see the Government of Wales Act 2006 s 162(1), Sch 11 para 30. As to the meaning of 'Wales' see PARA 16 note 2. As to the Welsh Ministers see PARA 16 note 5. As to the power of the Secretary of State to intervene in relation to functions exercisable by the Welsh Ministers where any particular case might have a serious adverse impact on water resources, water supply, or the quality of water in England see PARA 16.

6 As to the Environment Agency see PARA 17.

7 The notice must be published either: (1) at least once in each of two successive weeks, in one or more newspapers circulating in the area to which the draft order relates (Water Resources Act 1991 Sch 6 para 1(3) (a) (as substituted: see note 5)); or (2) in any other manner which, in any particular case, may be certified by the Secretary of State or, where appropriate, the Welsh Ministers to be expedient in that case (Sch 6 para 1(3) (b) (as so substituted)). Where a draft order makes provision generally (rather than for a specified geographical area), references to the area to which the order relates are to the whole area (whether England, Wales or both of them) in relation to which the order is applied: Sch 6 para 1(6)(a) (as so substituted). 14 Water Resources Act 1991 Sch 6 para 1(4) (as substituted: see note 5). A copy of the notice must be served on: (1) every local authority, in its capacity as the local planning authority, joint planning board or National Park authority whose area consists of, includes or is included in the area to which the draft order relates; (2) any relevant water undertaker; (3) any internal drainage board (a) whose district consists of, includes or is included in the area to which the draft order relates; (b) from whose district water is discharged into any relevant source of supply; or (c) into whose district water is discharged from any relevant source of supply; (4) any navigation authority, harbour authority or conservancy authority having functions in relation to any relevant source of supply or any related inland waters; (5) if a relevant source of supply or related inland waters are tidal waters in relation to which there is no such navigation authority, harbour authority or conservancy authority, the Secretary of State for Transport; (6) any person authorised by a licence under the Electricity Act 1989 Pt I (ss 3A-64) (see FUEL AND ENERGY vol 19(2) (2007 Reissue) PARA 1041 et seq) to generate electricity who is (in that capacity) the holder of a licence to abstract water under the Water Resources Act 1991 Pt II Ch II (ss 24-72) (see PARA 227 et seq) from any relevant source of supply or any related inland waters; (7) Natural England, if the area to which the order relates is or includes England, or part of it; (8) the Countryside Council for Wales, if the area to which the order relates is or includes Wales, or part of it; and (9) the Broads Authority (established under the Norfolk and Suffolk Broads Act 1988: see PARA 734), if the area to which the order relates is or includes the Broads (as defined in that Act: see PARA 735 note 2), or part of it: Water Resources Act 1991 Sch 6 para 1(4)(a)-(i) (as so substituted; Sch 6 para 1(4)(f) amended by the Natural Environment and Rural Communities Act 2006 s 105(1), Sch 11 Pt 1 para 133). For these purposes: (i) references to a National Park authority are to a National Park authority established under the Environment Act 1995 Pt III (ss 61-79) (see OPEN SPACES AND COUNTRYSIDE vol 78 (2010) PARA 526 et seq); (ii) a 'relevant source of supply', in relation to a draft order, means (A) if the draft order relates only to particular sources of supply (or a class of them) in an area, any of those sources of supply (or any source of supply in that class) in that area; (B) otherwise, any source of supply in the area to which the draft order relates; (iii) a 'relevant water undertaker', in relation to a draft order, means a water undertaker which is the holder of a licence to abstract water under the Water Resources Act 1991 Pt II Ch II from a relevant source of supply or a source of supply which is related to a relevant source of supply; (iv) for the purposes of head (iii), a source of supply (the 'related source') is related to a relevant source of supply if it appears to the Agency that, having regard to the extent to which the level or flow of water in the related source depends on the level or flow of the waters in the relevant source of supply, the ability of the water undertaker to abstract water from the related source in accordance with its licence may be substantially affected as a result of the draft order; and (v) 'related inland waters' are inland waters the level or flow of which may, in the Agency's opinion, be affected by changes in the level or flow of the waters in a relevant source of supply: Sch 6 para 1(6)(b)-(f) (as so substituted). ## 223. Rights to abstract for drainage etc purposes.

- 381 (1) any abstraction of water from a source of supply<sup>2</sup> in the course of, or resulting from, any operations for purposes of land drainage<sup>3</sup>;
- 382 (2) until a day to be appointed, any abstraction of water from a source of supply in so far as the abstraction, where it does not fall within head (1) above, is necessary to prevent interference with any mining, quarrying, engineering, building or other operations<sup>4</sup> (whether underground or on the surface)<sup>5</sup>, or to prevent damage to works resulting from any such operations<sup>6</sup>;
- 383 (3) as from a day to be appointed, any abstraction of water from inland waters within the district of an internal drainage board<sup>7</sup> if the abstraction is carried out by or on behalf of that board in connection with its functions<sup>8</sup>, the water abstracted is transferred to another area of inland waters within the board's district without intervening use<sup>9</sup>, and the sole or main purpose of the transfer is to augment that other area of inland waters<sup>10</sup>;
- 384 (4) as from a day to be appointed, any abstraction of water from a source of supply in so far as the abstraction (where it does not fall within head (1) or (3) above) is an emergency abstraction<sup>11</sup> and the person<sup>12</sup> abstracting the water complies with the requirement as to the giving of notice in respect of the abstraction<sup>13</sup>.

In the case of any abstraction of water from underground strata which falls within head (1) or (2) or (4)<sup>14</sup> above, the restriction on constructing or extending any well, borehole or other work or installing or modifying machinery<sup>15</sup> does not apply to the construction or extension of any well, borehole or other work<sup>16</sup>, or to the installation or modification of machinery or other apparatus<sup>17</sup>, if the well, borehole or other work is constructed or extended, or the machinery or apparatus is installed or modified, for the purpose of abstracting the water<sup>18</sup>.

1 As to the meaning of 'restriction on abstraction' see PARA 214 note 9. As to the meaning of 'abstraction' see PARA 192 note 2.

2 As to the meaning of 'source of supply' see PARA 187.

3 Water Resources Act 1991 s 29(1). 'Land drainage' includes the protection of land against erosion or encroachment by water, whether from inland waters or from the sea, and also includes warping and irrigation other than spray irrigation: s 29(5). As from a day to be appointed this definition is substituted as follows: 'land drainage' (1) includes the protection of land against erosion or encroachment by water, whether from inland waters or from the sea; but (2) does not include warping, irrigation (including spray irrigation), or transferring water from one source of supply to another (whether with or without intervening use) solely or mainly in order to augment the latter: s 29(5) (prospectively substituted by the Water Act 2003 s 7(1), (5)). At the date at which this volume states the law no such day had been appointed. As to the meaning of 'land' see PARA 14 note 21. As to the meaning of 'inland waters' see PARA 187 note 2. As to the meaning of 'warping' see PARA 573 note 9. As to the meaning of 'spray irrigation' see PARA 262. As to land drainage generally see PARA 573 et seq.

4 'Engineering or building operations', without prejudice to the generality of that expression, includes: (1) the construction, alteration, improvement, maintenance or demolition of any building or structure or of any reservoir, watercourse, dam, weir, well, borehole or other works; and (2) the installation, modification or removal of any machinery or apparatus: Water Resources Act 1991 s 221(1); Water Industry Act 1991 s 219(1). As to the meaning of 'watercourse' see PARA 187 note 2.

5 Water Resources Act 1991 s 29(2)(a) (s 29(2), (3) prospectively repealed by the Water Act 2003 s 7(1), (3), (4) as from a day to be appointed; at the date at which this volume states the law no such day had been appointed).

6 Water Resources Act 1991 s 29(2)(b) (as prospectively repealed: see note 5). Where: (1) water is abstracted, in the course of any such operations as are mentioned in s 29(2), from any excavation into underground strata in a case in which the level of water in the underground strata depends wholly or mainly on water entering it from those strata; and (2) the abstraction is necessary as mentioned in that subsection, the exemption conferred by s 29(2) applies notwithstanding that the water is used for the purposes of the operations: s 29(3) (as so prospectively repealed). As to the meanings of 'underground strata' and 'water contained in underground strata' see PARA 187 note 5.

7 As to internal drainage boards see PARA 569 et seq.

8 Water Resources Act 1991 s 29(1A)(a) (s 29(1A) prospectively added by the Water Act 2003 s 7(1), (2) as from a day to be appointed; at the date at which this volume states the law no such day had been appointed).

9 Water Resources Act 1991 s 29(1A)(b) (as prospectively added: see note 8).

10 Water Resources Act 1991 s 29(1A)(c) (as prospectively added: see note 8).

11 An abstraction of water is an emergency abstraction if, in the opinion of the abstractor, an emergency has arisen which makes the abstraction necessary to prevent immediate danger of interference with any mining, quarrying, engineering, building or other operations (whether underground or on the surface) or, in relation to such operations, to prevent an immediate risk (1) to a human being of death, personal injury or harm to health; (2) of serious damage to works resulting from any such operations; or (3) of serious damage to the environment: Water Resources Act 1991 s 29(2A) (s 29(2) prospectively substituted, (2A)-(2C) prospectively added, by the Water Act 2003 s 7(1), (3) as from a day to be appointed). At the date at which this volume states the law no such day had been appointed.

12 As to the meaning of 'person' see PARA 13 note 29.

13 Water Resources Act 1991 s 29(2) (as prospectively substituted: see note 11). In the case of any emergency abstraction, the person abstracting the water must before the end of the period of five days beginning with the date on which the abstraction started give notice to the Environment Agency of the abstraction and of the source of supply in question, and the reasons for the abstractor's opinion that an emergency had arisen and that the abstraction was necessary: s 29(2B) (as prospectively added: see note 11). The Agency may give notice to the person referred to in s 29(2B) above that in the Agency's opinion an emergency had not arisen, or that the abstraction is not, or is no longer, necessary for any of the reasons set out in s 29(2A) (see note 11); and, if the Agency does so, the restriction on abstraction will apply to the abstraction from the time when the notice is served (and, if applicable, the restriction imposed by s 24(2) (see PARA 214) will apply accordingly): s 29(2C) (as so prospectively added). Section 29 has effect in relation to abstraction of water by the Agency from sources of supply as if s 29(2B) and (2C) were omitted: Water Resources (Abstraction and Impounding) Regulations 2006, SI 2006/641, reg 15. As to the Environment Agency see PARA 17. As to abstracting and impounding by the Agency see PARA 237.

14 Ie head (2) until such time as the Water Resources Act 1991 s 29(2) is substituted and thereafter head (4).

15 Ie the restriction imposed by the Water Resources Act 1991 s 24(2): see PARA 214.

WATER RESOURCES/(3) CONTROL OF ABSTRACTION AND IMPOUNDING/(ii) Rights to Abstract or Impound/224. Test pumping consent and other miscellaneous rights to abstract.

224. Test pumping consent and other miscellaneous rights to abstract.

The restriction on abstraction<sup>1</sup> does not apply to any abstraction by machinery or apparatus installed on a vessel<sup>2</sup>, where the water is abstracted for use on that, or any other, vessel<sup>3</sup>.

The restriction on abstraction and related restrictions<sup>4</sup> do not apply to the doing of anything for extinguishing fires or protecting life and property in the event of fire<sup>5</sup>, or for the purpose of testing apparatus used for either of those purposes or of training or practice in the use of such apparatus<sup>6</sup>. Further, those restrictions do not apply to any abstraction of water<sup>7</sup>, to the construction or extension of any well, borehole or other work<sup>8</sup>, or to the installation or modification of machinery or other apparatus<sup>9</sup>, if the abstraction, construction, extension, installation or modification is for any of the purposes specified below and takes place with the consent of the Environment Agency<sup>10</sup> and in compliance with any conditions imposed by the Agency<sup>11</sup>. The purposes specified are: (1) the purpose of ascertaining the presence of water in any underground strata<sup>12</sup> or the quality or quantity of any such water<sup>13</sup>; and (2) the purpose of ascertaining the effect of abstracting water from the well, borehole or other work in question on the abstraction of water from, or the level of water in, any other well, borehole or other work or any inland waters<sup>14</sup>.

1 As to the meaning of 'restriction on abstraction' see PARA 214 note 9. As to the meaning of 'abstraction' see PARA 192 note 2.

2 'Vessel' includes a hovercraft: Water Resources Act 1991 s 221(1); Water Industry Act 1991 s 219(1). 'Hovercraft' means a vehicle which is designed to be supported when in motion wholly or partly by air expelled from the vehicle to form a cushion of which the boundaries include the ground, water or other surface beneath the vehicle: Hovercraft Act 1968 s 4(1); definition applied by the Water Resources Act 1991 s 221(1); Water Industry Act 1991 s 219(1). 'Vessel' is a wider term than 'ship', and includes anything beyond a mere boat: see Gapp v Bond (1887) 19 QBD 200 at 202, CA, per Lord Esher MR.

The Water Resources Act 1991 s 32(3) has effect in relation to: (1) the restriction on abstraction as it has effect, as modified by the Water Resources (Abstraction and Impounding) Regulations 2006, SI 2006/641, reg 14(1) (see PARA 214), in relation to abstraction by the Agency; and (2) the other restrictions imposed by the Water Resources Act 1991 s 24 (see PARA 214) as they apply to the Agency, as if all the words after 'purposes specified' were omitted: Water Resources (Abstraction and Impounding) Regulations 2006, SI 2006/641, reg 14(2).

225. Power to provide for further exemptions.

- 385 (1) the restriction on abstraction<sup>5</sup> and, in the case of abstractions from underground strata<sup>6</sup>, the other restrictions<sup>7</sup> imposed<sup>8</sup>; or
- 386 (2) the restriction on impounding works<sup>9</sup>, do not apply<sup>10</sup>. The regulations may, in particular, make provision, in relation to an exemption:

- 387 (a) for the exemption to apply only for a prescribed period<sup>11</sup>;
  - 388 (b) for the exemption not to apply unless prescribed conditions are satisfied, or continue to be satisfied<sup>12</sup>;
  - 389 (c) for the Environment Agency<sup>13</sup> to be notified, or its consent obtained:
- 39
- 45. (i) before any particular abstraction operation or series of such operations begins<sup>14</sup>; or
  - 46. (ii) in connection with such an operation or series of operations relating to the abstraction of water in underground strata, before any other thing which is mentioned in the relevant statutory provision<sup>15</sup> is done<sup>16</sup>; or
  - 47. (iii) before any impounding works are constructed or altered<sup>17</sup>, in reliance on the exemption<sup>18</sup>.

The regulations may provide for an exemption to apply generally or to relate to: (A) a prescribed geographical area<sup>19</sup>; (B) in the case of an exemption from the restriction on abstraction or the other restrictions imposed<sup>20</sup>, a prescribed source of supply<sup>21</sup>; or (C) in the case of an exemption from the restriction on impounding works, prescribed inland waters<sup>22</sup>.

If the regulations provide for an exemption falling within head (1) above, the regulations must, if appropriate, make provision for the exemption not to permit a person<sup>23</sup> who is authorised by a licence<sup>24</sup> to carry on an abstraction operation, or series of operations, to carry it on beyond the authorisation conferred by the licence<sup>25</sup>; and must also make provision as to whether or not, in relation to any abstraction, the exemption provided for by the regulations is to be counted cumulatively with any other exemption<sup>26</sup> which a person has<sup>27</sup>. The regulations may, however, make provision for a licence which is for the time being in force to cease to have effect, or to cease to have effect to the extent specified in the regulations, if it authorises an activity which falls to any extent within the exemption provided for by the regulations<sup>28</sup>.

1 As to the Secretary of State see PARA 15 note 1.

2 The functions of the Secretary of State under the Water Resources Act 1991 s 33A, so far as exercisable in relation to Wales, were transferred to the National Assembly for Wales: see the National Assembly for Wales (Transfer of Functions) Order 1999, SI 1999/672, art 2, Sch 1. These functions are now vested in the Welsh Ministers: see the Government of Wales Act 2006 s 162(1), Sch 11 para 30. As to the meaning of 'Wales' see PARA 16 note 2. As to the Welsh Ministers see PARA 16 note 5. As to the power of the Secretary of State to intervene in relation to functions exercisable by the Welsh Ministers where any particular case might have a serious adverse impact on water resources, water supply, or the quality of water in England see PARA 16.

3 As to the making of regulations see PARA 21. At the date at which this volume states the law no such regulations had been made. The Conservation (Natural Habitats etc) Regulations 1994, SI 1994/2716, regs 48, 49 (requirement to consider effect on European sites in Great Britain and European offshore marine sites) apply in relation to the granting of an authorisation by virtue of the making of regulations under the Water Resources Act 1991 s 33A, where those regulations relate to (1) a prescribed geographical area; (2) a prescribed source of supply (in the case of an exemption from the restriction on abstraction or the other restrictions imposed by s 24 (see PARA 214); or (3) prescribed inland waters (in the case of an exemption from the restriction on impounding works): see the Conservation (Natural Habitats etc) Regulations 1994, SI 1994/2716, reg 84B (added by SI 2007/1843). An exemption conferred by regulations under the Water Resources Act 1991 s 33A, other than regulations referred to in heads (1)-(3) above, does not apply in relation to any particular abstraction or impounding works unless the Environment Agency has given consent in writing to the abstraction or impounding works being carried out, and any such consent is similarly subject to the Conservation (Natural Habitats etc) Regulations 1994, SI 1994/2716, regs 48, 49: see reg 84B(1), (2) (as so added). See further PARA 11; and OPEN SPACES AND COUNTRYSIDE vol 78 (2010) PARA 748.

226. Exception orders and their revocation.

Until 1 April 2004, the Water Resources Act 1991 made provision for any of the relevant authorities<sup>1</sup> to apply to the Secretary of State<sup>2</sup> or, in certain cases, to the National Assembly for Wales<sup>3</sup> for an order excepting one or more sources of supply from the restriction on abstraction<sup>4</sup>, on the grounds that that restriction was not needed in relation to that source, or those sources of supply<sup>5</sup>; and an order might be made accordingly<sup>6</sup>. The relevant provisions have now been repealed<sup>7</sup>; but, subject to the powers to revoke such orders which are set out below<sup>8</sup>, any order made under them which was in force immediately before that repeal continues in force despite that repeal<sup>9</sup>.

The appropriate authority<sup>10</sup> may by order<sup>11</sup> revoke any exception order<sup>12</sup>, that is, any order:

- 390 (1) made under the provisions of the Water Resources Act 1991<sup>13</sup> which gave powers to provide for further rights to abstract<sup>14</sup>;
- 391 (2) any order made under any local or private Act which provides for any exception from:
- 41
- 48. (a) the restriction on abstraction<sup>15</sup>; or
- 49. (b) that restriction and the one imposed<sup>16</sup> in relation to the construction of wells, boreholes etc<sup>17</sup>,
- 42
- 392 or for an exception which has the effect of such an exception<sup>18</sup>;

and if an order made under head (2) above revokes the exception order wholly, or wholly so far as it is not already revoked, that order may also repeal so much of the local or private Act as constitutes the power to make the exception order<sup>19</sup>.

An order may<sup>20</sup> revoke the exception order either wholly, or only in relation to:

- 393 (i) any one or more areas of inland waters specified in the order under these powers or any class of inland waters so specified<sup>21</sup>; or
- 394 (ii) any underground strata described in the order in any specified way<sup>22</sup> or any other way<sup>23</sup>.

An order may make provision, subject to any conditions or limitations specified in the order:

- 395 (A) for the restriction on abstraction and, in the case of abstractions from underground strata, the other restrictions imposed<sup>24</sup>, to continue not to apply to an abstraction despite the revocation of the exception order<sup>25</sup>;
- 396 (B) for a person<sup>26</sup> to continue to be taken to have a right to abstract water<sup>27</sup> to the same extent he was taken to do so under the exception order<sup>28</sup>;
- 397 (C) for the payment by the Environment Agency of compensation, in cases specified in the order, to any person who suffers loss or damage as a result of the revocation of the exception order<sup>29</sup>; and if an order provides as mentioned in head (A) above, the order must also say whether or not the exemption so provided for is to be counted cumulatively with any other exemption<sup>30</sup> which a person has<sup>31</sup>.

1 For these purposes, the Environment Agency was a relevant authority in relation to every source of supply; and a navigation authority, harbour authority or conservancy authority having functions in relation to any inland waters was a relevant authority in relation to those inland waters: see the Water Resources Act 1991 s 33(3) (repealed). As to the Environment Agency see PARA 17. As to the meaning of 'navigation authority' see PARA 189 note 1. As to the meaning of 'harbour authority' see PARA 189 note 2. 9 Water Act 2003 s 10(11). Orders made under the Water Resources Act 1991 s 33 (repealed), being local in their effect, are not recorded in this work.

10 For these purposes, 'appropriate authority' means: (1) in relation to the revocation of an exception order which relates to inland waters or underground strata which are wholly in England, the Secretary of State; (2) in relation to the revocation of an exception order which relates to inland waters or underground strata which are wholly in Wales, the Welsh Ministers; (3) in relation to the revocation of an exception order which relates to inland waters or underground strata which are partly in England and partly in Wales, (a) the Secretary of State, in relation to the English part; and (b) the Welsh Ministers, in relation to the Welsh part; and references (however expressed) to the revocation of an exception order are to be construed accordingly: Water Act 2003 s 10(3); Government of Wales Act 2006 Sch 11 para 32. Functions under the Water Act 2003 s 10 were originally vested in the National Assembly for Wales but are now exercisable by the Welsh Ministers by virtue of the Government of Wales Act 2006 s 162(1), Sch 11 para 30. 11 The procedure provided for by the Water Resources Act 1991 s 33 (repealed), Sch 6, or (as the case may be) any corresponding procedure provided for by the local or private Act in question, does not apply in relation to an order under the Water Act 2003 s 10: s 10(8). No order may be made under s 10 before 1 April 2005 (ie the coming into force of s 6: right to abstract small quantities and variation of the small quantity threshold (see PARA 221)): s 10(10). Orders made under the Water Act 2003 s 10, being local in their effect, are not recorded in this work.

227. Types of abstraction licences.

Each licence to abstract<sup>1</sup> water must be of one of the following three types:

- 398 (1) a licence to abstract water from one source of supply<sup>2</sup> over a period of 28 days or more for any purpose (a 'full licence')<sup>3</sup>;
- 399 (2) a licence to abstract water from one source of supply over a period of 28 days or more for the purpose of:
  - 43 50. (a) transferring water to another source of supply<sup>4</sup>; or
  - 51. (b) transferring water to the same source of supply, but at another point, in the course of dewatering activities in connection with mining, quarrying, engineering, building or other operations<sup>5</sup>, whether underground or on the surface<sup>6</sup>,
  - 44 400 in either case without intervening use (a 'transfer licence')<sup>7</sup>;
  - 401 (3) a licence to abstract water from one source of supply over a period of less than 28 days (a 'temporary licence')<sup>8</sup>.

In the Water Resources Act 1991, a reference, however expressed, to a licence to abstract water must be taken as a reference to all types of licence, unless it is clear that a different meaning is intended<sup>9</sup>.

WATER RESOURCES/(3) CONTROL OF ABSTRACTION AND IMPOUNDING/(iii) Licences and Consents/A. INTRODUCTION/228. Transitional provisions following the coming into force of the Water Act 2003.

228. Transitional provisions following the coming into force of the Water Act 2003.

Subject to the following provisions, each licence to abstract water<sup>1</sup> which was in force immediately before 1 April 2006<sup>2</sup> must, after that date, be treated as a full licence<sup>3</sup>.

If, immediately before 1 April 2005<sup>4</sup>, a person<sup>5</sup> was the holder of a licence<sup>6</sup> to abstract water, and, on that date an abstraction authorised by the licence became an abstraction to which the restriction on abstraction<sup>7</sup> does not apply, the licence ceased to have effect, so far as it applied to that abstraction, on that date<sup>8</sup>. The person who was the holder of a full licence which so ceased, or ceased in part, to have effect, and who had been taken in consequence of that licence, or that part of the licence, to have a right to abstract water<sup>9</sup>, continues to be taken to have that right for the statutory purposes<sup>10</sup>. However, a person ceases to continue to be taken to have that right for those purposes if, during a period of:

- 402 (1) four years<sup>11</sup>; or
- 403 (2) if the abstractions authorised under the licence, or relevant part of the licence, were abstractions planned to be carried out at intervals of more than four years, or abstractions for emergency purposes only, such longer period as the Environment Agency<sup>12</sup> may determine on the application of the person<sup>13</sup>, he does not carry out any such abstraction as would have been authorised by the licence, or relevant part of the licence, if it had still been in force<sup>14</sup>.

Where, immediately after the coming into force of any provision of the Water Act 2003, an abstraction of water to which the restriction on abstraction did not apply becomes one to which the restriction on abstraction does apply, nothing in the specified provisions of the Water Resources Act 1991<sup>15</sup> which relate to protected rights<sup>16</sup>, or any other enactment specified in regulations made by the Secretary of State<sup>17</sup>, prevents the Agency from granting a licence<sup>18</sup> in respect of that abstraction, or the Secretary of State from giving the Agency a direction to do so<sup>19</sup>.

229. Entitlement to apply for an abstraction licence.

No application for a licence<sup>1</sup> to abstract water<sup>2</sup> may be entertained unless it is made by a person<sup>3</sup> entitled to make the application in accordance with the following provisions<sup>4</sup>.

In relation to abstractions from any inland waters, a person is entitled to make the application if, as respects the place, or, if more than one, as respects each of the places, at which the proposed abstractions are to be effected, he satisfies the Environment Agency that:

- 404 (1) he has, or at the time when the proposed licence is to take effect will have, a right of access<sup>5</sup> to land contiguous to the inland waters<sup>6</sup> at that place, or those places<sup>7</sup>; and
- 405 (2) he will continue to have such a right for the period of at least one year beginning with the date on which the proposed licence is to take effect, or until it is to expire if sooner<sup>8</sup>.

In relation to abstractions from underground strata<sup>9</sup>, a person is entitled to make the application if he satisfies the Agency that:

- 406 (a) he has, or at the time when the proposed licence is to take effect will have, a right of access to land consisting of or comprising those underground strata<sup>10</sup>; and
- 407 (b) he will continue to have such a right for the period of at least one year beginning with the date on which the proposed licence is to take effect, or until it is to expire, if sooner<sup>11</sup>.

2 As to the meaning of 'licence to abstract water' see PARA 227. As to the meaning of 'abstract' see PARA 192 note 2.

3 As to the meaning of 'person' see PARA 13 note 29. In respect of abstraction from all inland waters owned or managed by the British Waterways Board (the 'Board') (except any such inland waters to which the Secretary of State or, in relation to Wales, the Welsh Ministers may by order made by statutory instrument direct that the Water Resources Act 1991 s 66 does not apply), no person other than the Board is entitled to apply for a licence and s 35 does not apply in relation to any such application by the Board for a licence: see s 66(1), (2)(b), (c)(i). Before making an order the Secretary of State or, where appropriate, the Welsh Ministers must consult the Board and the Environment Agency: s 66(3) (amended by the Environment Act 1995 s 120, Sch 22 para 128). At the date at which this volume states the law no such orders had been made. As to the British Waterways Board see PARA 725 et seq. As to the meaning of 'inland waters' see PARA 187 note 2. As to the Environment Agency see PARA 17. As to the Secretary of State see PARA 15 note 1. The functions of the Secretary of State under the Water Resources Act 1991 s 66, so far as exercisable in relation to Wales, were transferred to the National Assembly for Wales: see the National Assembly for Wales (Transfer of Functions) Order 1999, SI 1999/672, art 2, Sch 1. These functions are now vested in the Welsh Ministers: see the Government of Wales Act 2006 s 162(1), Sch 11 para 30. As to the meaning of 'Wales' see PARA 16 note 2. As to the Welsh Ministers see PARA 16 note 5. As to the power of the Secretary of State to intervene in relation to functions exercisable by the Welsh Ministers where any particular case might have a serious adverse impact on water resources, water supply, or the quality of water in England see PARA 16. As to the exercise of the duty to consult see JUDICIAL REVIEW vol 61 (2010) PARA 627.

Where the relevant land is vested in the incumbent of an ecclesiastical benefice of the Church of England or (in the case of a licence under the Water Resources Act 1991 Pt II Ch II (ss 24-72) to abstract water: see PARA 227) where it is such a benefice which has a right of access to the relevant land: (1) an application for a licence under that Chapter may be made by the Diocesan Board of Finance for the diocese in which the land is situated if the benefice is for the time being vacant; and (2) any reference in that Chapter to the applicant for a licence must be construed (a) in relation to any time when the benefice in question is vacant, as a reference to the Diocesan Board of Finance for the diocese in which the land is situated; and (b) in relation to any time when there is an incumbent of the benefice, as a reference to that incumbent: s 67(1), (8) (s 67(1) amended by the Water Act 2003 s 101(1), Sch 7 Pt 1 paras 1, 8(1), (2); the Church of England (Miscellaneous Provisions) Measure 2006 s 14, Sch 5 para 30). 'Relevant land', in relation to a licence under the Water Resources Act 1991 Pt II Ch II or an application for such a licence, means: (i) the land to which an applicant for a licence to abstract water is required by s 35 to have a right of access; or (ii) in the case of a licence for the purposes of s 25 (see PARA 215) or an application for such a licence (A) the land on which any part of the impounding works is, or is to be, or is proposed to be, constructed; or (B) in relation to an alteration of impounding works, the land on which any part of those works is situated or is to be, or is proposed to be, situated: s 67(8) (definition amended by the Water Act 2003 ss 2(8), 101(1), Sch 7 Pt 1 paras 1, 8(1), (3)). As to the meaning of 'land' see PARA 14 note 21. As to the meaning of 'impounding works' see PARA 215 note 4. As to the Church of England see ECCLESIASTICAL LAW vol 14 PARA 345 et seq.

5 The Environment Agency may, in particular, take evidence of a person's occupation of land to be evidence of his right of access to it: Water Resources Act 1991 s 35(3A) (s 35(2), (3) substituted, (3A) added, by the Water Act 2003 s 11(1), (2)). For these purposes, any reference to a person who will have a right of access to land of any description: (1) includes a reference to a person who satisfies the Environment Agency that he has entered into negotiations for the acquisition of an interest in land of that description such that, if the interest is acquired by him, he will be entitled to a right of access to that land (Water Resources Act 1991 s 35(4)(a) (s 35(4) amended by the Environment Act 1995 s 120(1), Sch 22 para 128; Water Act 2003 s 11(1), (3))); and (2) without prejudice to the application of head (1) to a person who is or can be authorised to acquire land compulsorily, also includes any person who satisfies the Agency that by virtue of any enactment, the compulsory acquisition by that person of land of that description either has been authorised or can be authorised and has been initiated (Water Resources Act 1991 s 35(4)(b) (as so amended)). The reference above to initiating the compulsory acquisition of land by a person is a reference to: (a) the submission to the relevant minister of a draft of an order which, if made by that minister in the form of the draft, will authorise that person to acquire that land compulsorily, with or without other land (s 35(5)(a)); or (b) the submission to the relevant minister of an order which, if confirmed by that minister as submitted, will authorise that person to acquire that land compulsorily, with or without other land (s 35(5)(b)). 'Relevant minister', in relation to the compulsory acquisition of land by any person, means the minister who, in accordance with the enactment mentioned in s 35(4)(b) above, is empowered to authorise that person to acquire land compulsorily: s 35(6). As to the meaning of 'enactment' see PARA 14 note 31.

6 For the purposes of the Water Resources Act 1991 Pt II Ch II (ss 24-72) land must be taken to be contiguous to any inland waters notwithstanding that it is separated from those waters by a towpath or by any other land used, or acquired for use, in connection with the navigation of the inland waters, unless that other land comprises any building or works other than a lock, pier, wharf, landing-stage or similar works: s 72(4).

230. Regulations with respect to applications for licences.

Any application for a licence<sup>1</sup> must be made in such manner as may be prescribed<sup>2</sup>, and must include such particulars, be accompanied by such reports, and be verified by such evidence, as may be prescribed<sup>3</sup>.

The Secretary of State<sup>4</sup> or, in relation to Wales, the Welsh Ministers<sup>5</sup> may by regulations make provision as to the manner in which applications for the grant of licences are to be dealt with, including provision requiring the giving of notices of, and information relating to, the making of such applications or decisions on such applications, and provision for making such applications available for public inspection<sup>6</sup>. Without prejudice to the generality of this provision, provision must be made by regulations for securing that, in such circumstances as may be prescribed, being circumstances in which it appears to the Secretary of State or, where appropriate, the Welsh Ministers that applications for licences would be of special concern to National Park authorities<sup>7</sup>: (1) notice of any such application will be given to such one or more National Park authorities as may be determined in accordance with the regulations<sup>8</sup>; and (2) the matters to which the Environment Agency<sup>9</sup> or, as the case may be, the Secretary of State or the Welsh Ministers are to have regard in dealing with the application will include any representations made by any such National Park authority within such period and in such manner as may be prescribed<sup>10</sup>.

The preceding provisions have effect subject to any express provision contained in, or having effect by virtue of, any other enactment<sup>11</sup> contained in the Water Resources Act 1991<sup>12</sup>; and any regulations made under the preceding provisions have effect subject to any such express provision<sup>13</sup>.

231. Applications for licences.

An application for an abstraction licence<sup>1</sup> or an impounding licence<sup>2</sup> must be made to the Environment Agency<sup>3</sup> on a form issued by the Agency for the purpose of the application being made<sup>4</sup>, must be accompanied by any fee payable<sup>5</sup> in relation to making the application<sup>6</sup>, and may be made electronically in a form accessible by the Agency<sup>7</sup>. An application for an abstraction licence or an impounding licence must include such information, including maps<sup>8</sup>, and must be accompanied by such reports<sup>9</sup>, as the Agency reasonably requires in order to determine it<sup>10</sup>.

Where an application relates to abstraction<sup>11</sup> or impounding<sup>12</sup> in the area of a National Park<sup>13</sup> or the Norfolk or Suffolk Broads, the Environment Agency must serve notice in writing<sup>14</sup> of the application on the National Park authority<sup>15</sup> for that National Park or the Broads Authority<sup>16</sup> (as the case may be) within 14 days beginning on the relevant date<sup>17</sup>. The notice must include a copy of the application<sup>18</sup>, and a statement that the authority may make representations in writing to the Agency in relation to the application within 28 days beginning on the date on which the notice is served<sup>19</sup>. However, the notice must not include any information which appears to the Agency to be information that is commercially confidential<sup>20</sup>. The Agency or, in the case of a called-in application<sup>21</sup>, the Secretary of State or the Welsh Ministers (as the case may be) must not determine the application until after the end of the 28 day period within which the authority may make representations<sup>22</sup>, and in determining the application, must have regard to any representations duly made by the authority in relation to the application<sup>23</sup>.

The Agency must serve on the applicant an acknowledgement in writing:

- 408 (1) in a case of an application for a full licence, a transfer licence or an impounding licence, other than a case falling within head (3) below, by the date 28 days after the relevant date<sup>24</sup>;
  - 409 (2) in a case of an application for variation of a licence<sup>25</sup>, by the date 28 days after the relevant date<sup>26</sup>; and
  - 410 (3) in a case of an application for a full licence or transfer licence where, after the relevant date but on or before the date referred to in head (1) above, the Agency serves notice on the applicant of a decision<sup>27</sup>:
- 45
52. (a) if no notice of appeal is served, by the date 28 days after the end of the period within which notice of appeal against that decision may be served<sup>28</sup>; or
  53. (b) if notice of appeal is so served, by the date 28 days after the day on which the Agency receives notice of the determination or withdrawal of that appeal<sup>29</sup>.
- 46

The acknowledgement must state: (i) the relevant date<sup>30</sup>; (ii) whether a notice of the application has been, or is to be<sup>31</sup>, published<sup>32</sup>; (iii) the date, if known, by which the application is required to be determined<sup>33</sup>; and (iv) the applicant's entitlement to appeal should the Agency fail<sup>34</sup> to serve on the applicant notice of the Agency's decision on the application or its reference to the Secretary of State or the Welsh Ministers<sup>35</sup>.

WATER RESOURCES/(3) CONTROL OF ABSTRACTION AND IMPOUNDING/(iii) Licences and Consents/B. APPLICATIONS FOR A LICENCE/232. Applications; types of abstraction licence.

232. Applications; types of abstraction licence.

The Environment Agency<sup>1</sup> may decide that:

- 411 (1) an application for a full licence, a transfer licence or a temporary licence<sup>2</sup> ought to be for one of the other types of licence<sup>3</sup>;
- 412 (2) a number of applications for licences, of any type or types, to abstract water<sup>4</sup> from a particular source of supply<sup>5</sup> ought to be treated as an application for a single such licence (of any type)<sup>6</sup>;
- 413 (3) an application for a single licence (of any type) to abstract water from a particular source of supply ought to be treated as a number of applications for such licences (of any type or types)<sup>7</sup>; or
- 414 (4) any such application as is referred to above ought to be accompanied by an application for revocation of an existing licence to abstract water<sup>8</sup>.

The Agency may arrive at the decision referred to in heads (1) to (4) above on the basis of its assessment of any one or more of the following:

- 415 (a) the likely effect of the abstraction or abstractions for which the applicant has applied for a licence or licences<sup>9</sup>;
- 416 (b) the likely effect of that abstraction, or those abstractions, taken together with abstractions under any other licence held by the applicant, or abstractions which would be authorised under any other licence for which the applicant has applied<sup>10</sup>;
- 417 (c) any other prescribed<sup>11</sup> matter<sup>12</sup>.

If the Agency does so decide, it must serve a notice<sup>13</sup> of its decision on the applicant; and, subject to the following provisions, must deal with the application or applications accordingly<sup>14</sup>. If the Agency serves such a notice, it may not publish any notice of the application or applications<sup>15</sup>, or take any further step in connection with it or them, before the end of the period within which notice of an appeal may be served on the Secretary of State<sup>16</sup> or, in relation to Wales, on the Welsh Ministers<sup>17</sup> or, if notice of an appeal is so served, before the appeal has been determined<sup>18</sup>.

The applicant may by notice appeal to the Secretary of State or, where appropriate, the Welsh Ministers against the decision, and must serve a copy of any such notice on the Agency<sup>19</sup>. The Secretary of State or, as the case may be, the Welsh Ministers may allow or dismiss the appeal, or vary any part of the decision of the Agency, whether the appeal relates to that part of the decision or not<sup>20</sup>; and must direct the Agency to deal with the application or applications accordingly<sup>21</sup>.

The period within which any such notice of appeal must be served is 28 days beginning on the date on which notice of the decision to which the appeal relates is served on the applicant: Water Resources (Abstraction and Impounding) Regulations 2006, SI 2006/641, reg 12(1). A notice of appeal must state the grounds on which the appeal is being made (reg 13(1)(a)); and be accompanied by a copy of the application to which the appeal relates, any information or report submitted to the Environment Agency with the application, the notice of the decision on the application, if any, and all other relevant correspondence with the Agency (reg 13(1)(b)). ### 233. Publication of an application for a licence.

Subject to the power to dispense with publication requirements<sup>1</sup>, the Environment Agency must publish a notice<sup>2</sup> of an application for:

- 418 (1) a full licence or a transfer licence<sup>3</sup>; or
- 419 (2) a licence<sup>4</sup> to obstruct or impede the flow<sup>5</sup> of any inland waters<sup>6</sup> by means of impounding works<sup>7</sup>, in the prescribed<sup>8</sup> way or, if no way is prescribed, in a way calculated to bring the application to the attention of persons<sup>9</sup> who in the Agency's view are likely to be affected by the licence<sup>10</sup>. Not later than the date on which that notice is first published, the Agency must also serve<sup>11</sup> a copy of it on the following persons<sup>12</sup>:

but heads (b) and (c) above do not apply if the licence applied for is exclusively for the abstraction of water from a source of supply<sup>20</sup> that does not form part of any inland waters<sup>21</sup>.

A notice for these purposes must be in the prescribed form and must include any prescribed matters<sup>22</sup>; and must state that any person may make representations in writing<sup>23</sup> to the Agency with respect to the application at any time before the end of a period specified in the notice<sup>24</sup>.

Where the requirements as to publication<sup>1</sup> apply in relation to an application<sup>2</sup>, and those requirements have not been dispensed with<sup>3</sup>, notice of that application must be published in at least one newspaper circulating in the locality of the proposed point of abstraction or impounding<sup>4</sup>, and on the Environment Agency's website<sup>5</sup>. Except in the cases specified below<sup>6</sup>, the notice of application must be published by the date 28 days after the relevant date<sup>7</sup>.

In a case where, after the relevant date but on or before the date referred to above<sup>8</sup>, the Agency serves notice on the applicant of a decision<sup>9</sup>, the notice of the application must be published: (1) if no notice of appeal is served, by the date 28 days after the end of the period within which notice of appeal against that decision may be served<sup>10</sup>; and (2) if notice of appeal is so served, by the date 28 days after the day on which the Agency receives notice of the determination or withdrawal of the appeal<sup>11</sup>.

235. Exemptions from advertising requirements.

The requirements as to the publication of a notice of an application for a licence<sup>1</sup> do not apply:

- 427 (1) to an application for a full licence or transfer licence<sup>2</sup> if:
- 47
- 54. (a) the proposed point of abstraction<sup>3</sup> in relation to the application is the place where an existing licence held by the applicant authorises water to be abstracted<sup>4</sup>; and
- 55. (b) the licence to which the application relates would take effect immediately after the expiry of the existing licence<sup>5</sup>, would not permit a greater quantity of water to be abstracted than may be abstracted under the existing licence<sup>6</sup>, and would otherwise be subject to materially the same terms as the existing licence<sup>7</sup>;
- 48
- 428 (2) to an application to vary a licence<sup>8</sup> in relation to an existing abstraction licence<sup>9</sup> that is to remain in force until revoked if:
- 49
- 56. (a) the application is for the existing licence to be varied so as to specify a date on which that licence will expire<sup>10</sup>;
- 57. (b) the varied licence would not permit the quantity of water that may be abstracted under the existing licence to be increased<sup>11</sup>; and
- 58. (c) the varied licence would otherwise be subject to materially the same terms as the existing licence<sup>12</sup>;
- 50
- 429 (3) to an application for a full licence, a transfer licence or an impounding licence<sup>13</sup>, or the variation of such a licence, if the relevant authority<sup>14</sup> notifies the Environment Agency<sup>15</sup> that complying with those requirements in relation to that application would be contrary to the interests of national security<sup>16</sup>.

Those requirements may be dispensed with if it appears to the Environment Agency or, in the case of a called-in application<sup>17</sup>, the Secretary of State or the Welsh Ministers (as the case may be) that the proposed abstraction or impounding<sup>18</sup> would have no appreciable adverse effect on<sup>19</sup>: (i) the environment<sup>20</sup>; (ii) any licensed abstraction<sup>21</sup>; or (iii) any abstraction to which the restriction on abstraction<sup>22</sup> does not apply<sup>23</sup>.

237. Abstracting and impounding by the Environment Agency.

The provisions generally applicable to the abstraction and impounding of water<sup>1</sup> have effect:

- 435 (1) in relation to the abstraction of water by the Environment Agency<sup>2</sup> from sources of supply<sup>3</sup>; and
- 436 (2) in relation to the construction or alteration by the Agency of impounding works<sup>4</sup>, and the obstruction or impeding by the Agency of the flow<sup>5</sup> of inland waters<sup>6</sup> by means of impounding works<sup>7</sup>, subject to such exceptions and modifications as may be prescribed<sup>8</sup>. In particular, regulations under this provision may provide for securing:

- 437 (a) that any licence required by the Agency in relation to such matters is granted (or is deemed to be granted) by the Secretary of State or, in relation to Wales, by the Welsh Ministers, and not granted by the Agency<sup>9</sup>;
- 438 (b) that, in such cases and subject to such conditions as may be prescribed, any licence so required by the Agency is deemed to be granted by the Secretary of State or the Welsh Ministers unless he or they require an application for the licence to be made to him or to them by the Agency<sup>10</sup>; and
- 439 (c) that where a licence is so deemed to be granted, the Agency must give such notice of that fact as may be prescribed<sup>11</sup>.

238. Licences of right.

Where a person had<sup>1</sup> abstracted water from a source of supply at any time within the period of five years ending with 1 September 1989, and could establish to the reasonable satisfaction of the former National Rivers Authority<sup>2</sup> that his abstractions would require licensing only by reason of legislative amendments made by the Water Act 1989<sup>3</sup>, he was entitled to the grant of such a licence as would authorise those abstractions<sup>4</sup>. Similar transitional provision was made in order to authorise abstractions required or authorised by a contract for the sale of water made by the British Waterways Board and which would also be affected by those legislative amendments<sup>5</sup>. Those transitional provisions continue to apply in relation to any application made under them which was outstanding immediately before the coming into force of the Water Resources Act 1991 on 1 December 1991, and to any appeal against a determination made on such an application<sup>6</sup> and any licence granted by virtue of this provision has effect as a licence under the Water Resources Act 1991<sup>7</sup>. Such licences are known as 'licences of right'<sup>8</sup>.

7    See the Water Resources Act 1991 Sch 7 para 1(4). For most practical purposes, such a licence is the same as any other abstraction licence.

8    See the Water Resources Act 1991 Sch 7 para 6. References to 'licences of right' are references to: (1) any Water Act 1989 licence of right, ie a licence granted, whether or not by virtue of the Water Resources Act 1991 Sch 7 para 1 (see the text to note 6), under the Water Act 1989 Sch 26 para 30 or Sch 26 para 31 (both repealed); or (2) any licence which, having been granted in pursuance of an application under the Water Resources Act 1963 s 33 (repealed), or in pursuance of an appeal consequential on such an application, has effect after 1 December 1991 by virtue of the Water Resources Act 1991 Sch 7 para 6(2): Sch 7 para 6(1). The repeal by the Water Consolidation (Consequential Provisions) Act 1991 of the Water Act 1989 Sch 26 para 29(4) does not prevent any licence granted on an appeal against a determination made on an application under Sch 26 para 30 or 31 (repealed with savings) from continuing, in accordance with the Water Consolidation (Consequential Provisions) Act 1991 Sch 2 para 1 and subject to the Water Resources Act 1991 Sch 7 paras 1-5 to have effect after 1 December 1991 as a licence under Pt II Ch II (ss 24-72): Sch 7 para 6(2).

WATER RESOURCES/(3) CONTROL OF ABSTRACTION AND IMPOUNDING/(iii) Licences and Consents/C. CONSIDERATION OF LICENCE APPLICATIONS/239. General consideration of applications.

C. CONSIDERATION OF LICENCE APPLICATIONS

239. General consideration of applications.

The Environment Agency<sup>1</sup> must not determine any application for a licence<sup>2</sup> before the end of the period specified in the notice<sup>3</sup> for the making of representations with respect to the application<sup>4</sup>.

An application must be determined in two stages<sup>5</sup> if it is an application for a full licence or a transfer licence<sup>6</sup> which, if granted: (1) would take effect immediately after the expiry of an existing licence of the same type (the 'existing licence') and be held by the same person<sup>7</sup> as the holder of that licence<sup>8</sup>; but (2) would in any other respect be different from the existing licence in a way which, if the existing licence were to continue without expiring, would require an application to be made<sup>9</sup> for a variation of the licence<sup>10</sup>.

Subject as provided<sup>11</sup>, on any application to the Agency for a licence, the Agency: (a) may grant a licence containing such provisions as it considers appropriate<sup>12</sup>; or (b) if, having regard to the statutory provisions<sup>13</sup>, the Agency considers it necessary or expedient to do so, may refuse to grant a licence<sup>14</sup>. In dealing with any application for a licence, the Agency must<sup>15</sup> have regard to all the relevant circumstances, including any duty imposed by or under any enactment<sup>16</sup> on bodies having functions in relation to inland waters<sup>17</sup> (for example, navigation authorities<sup>18</sup> and internal drainage boards<sup>19</sup>), and must have regard in particular to<sup>20</sup>:

- 440 (i) any representations in writing<sup>21</sup> relating to the application which are received by the Agency before the end of the period<sup>22</sup> specified for the making of representations with respect to the application<sup>23</sup>; and
- 441 (ii) the requirements of the applicant, in so far as they appear to the Agency to be reasonable requirements<sup>24</sup>, and may have regard to any failure on the part of the applicant to make an application<sup>25</sup> for a bulk supply of water pursuant to a proposal made<sup>26</sup> by the Agency<sup>27</sup>.

Section 38(1) and (3)(a) (see the text to notes 21-23), do not apply if in relation to the application in question the requirements of s 37(1) (see PARA 233) do not apply by virtue of s 37(6)(a) (see PARA 233) or have been dispensed with by virtue of s 37A (see PARA 233): s 38(4) (added by the Water Act 2003 s 14(3)(a)(ii)).

So far as the application relates to any such difference as is mentioned in the Water Resources Act 1991 s 38(1A)(b) (see the text to notes 9-10), it must first be treated for determination purposes as if it were an application for a variation under s 51(2) (see PARA 257) (but as if the existing licence were to continue without expiring): s 38(1B) (as so added). If the result of that would have been the grant of the application for variation of the licence, the application referred to in s 38(1) (see the text to notes 1-4) must be treated as one for a licence with that variation, and its determination concluded accordingly; and otherwise its determination must be concluded as if it were an application for a licence with no such variation: s 38(1C) (as so added).

240. Obligation to have regard to existing rights and privileges.

In a case where an application for a licence<sup>12</sup> relates to abstraction from underground strata<sup>13</sup>, the Agency, in dealing with the application, must have regard to the requirements of existing lawful uses of water<sup>14</sup> abstracted from those strata, whether for agriculture<sup>15</sup>, industry, water supply or other purposes<sup>16</sup>.

1 As to the meaning of 'person' see PARA 13 note 29.

2 Ie subject to the Water Resources Act 1991 s 39(1A): s 39(1) (amended by the Water Act 2003 s 16(1), (2)). The Water Resources Act 1991 s 39(1) does not apply when: (1) the application to be determined is one which does not fall within s 38(1A) (see PARA 239) only because s 38(1A)(b) is not satisfied; or (2) the determination of an application is being concluded in accordance with s 38(1C) (see PARA 239): s 39(1A) (added by the Water Act 2003 s 16(1), (3)).

13 As to the meaning of 'underground strata' see PARA 187 note 5.

241. Protected rights.

A right is a protected right for the purposes of the provisions relating to abstraction and impounding<sup>1</sup> if:

- 442 (1) it is such a right as a person<sup>2</sup> who is the holder of a full licence<sup>3</sup> is taken to have<sup>4</sup> by virtue of that licence and to the extent authorised by it<sup>5</sup>;
- 443 (2) it is such a right as a person is taken to have by virtue of the statutory provision<sup>6</sup> allowing him to abstract water in respect of a maximum quantity per day<sup>7</sup>;
- 444 (3) it is such a right as a person continues to be taken to have<sup>8</sup> where he was the holder of a full licence which has ceased to have effect by virtue of certain statutory provisions or orders<sup>9</sup>;
- 445 (4) it is such a right as a person is taken to have<sup>10</sup> where he proposes to carry on part of an abstraction in the specified circumstances<sup>11</sup>;
- 446 (5) it is such a right as a person continues to be taken to have by virtue of a provision made<sup>12</sup> in an order<sup>13</sup> revoking an exception order<sup>14</sup>; or
- 447 (6) it is such a right as a person continues to be taken to have<sup>15</sup> by virtue of certain transitional provisions<sup>16</sup>.

A person who was the holder of a full licence which has ceased to have effect, or has ceased in part to have effect, by virtue of any provision made<sup>17</sup> in an order varying the small quantity threshold<sup>18</sup>, or any provision made<sup>19</sup> in regulations providing for further exemptions<sup>20</sup>, and who was taken in consequence of that licence, or that part of the licence, to have a right to abstract water<sup>21</sup> continues to be taken to have that right for the statutory purposes<sup>22</sup>; but the person who was the holder of the licence in question (the 'old licence')<sup>23</sup> ceases to continue to be taken to have such a right to abstract water if:

- 448 (a) during a specified period<sup>24</sup> he does not carry out any such abstraction as would have been authorised by the old licence if it had still been in force<sup>25</sup>; or
- 449 (b) following a further order<sup>26</sup> or further regulations<sup>27</sup>, he is granted another full licence in respect of abstraction from the same point as that authorised by the old licence<sup>28</sup>.

Any reference in the relevant statutory provisions<sup>29</sup> to the person entitled to a protected right must be construed in accordance with the above provisions<sup>30</sup>.

The Secretary of State<sup>31</sup> or, in relation to Wales, the Welsh Ministers<sup>32</sup>, may by regulations<sup>33</sup> make provision for and in connection with the establishment, and for the keeping and maintenance by the Environment Agency, of one or more registers of protected rights which arise otherwise than by virtue of a licence<sup>34</sup> to abstract water<sup>35</sup>. The regulations may, in particular, provide for:

- 450 (i) a register to relate to a prescribed<sup>36</sup> geographical area, or for different sections of a register to relate to different geographical areas, whether prescribed or not<sup>37</sup>;

- 451 (ii) the inclusion of protected rights which arise other than by virtue of any provision of the Water Resources Act 1991<sup>38</sup>;
- 452 (iii) the form and contents of the register, and its inspection by members of the public<sup>39</sup>;
- 453 (iv) the procedure for applying for a protected right to be included in the register, including any information<sup>40</sup> which is to accompany the application<sup>41</sup>;
- 454 (v) cases in which it is the duty of the Agency to include a protected right in the register without an application for inclusion having been made<sup>42</sup>.

The Secretary of State or, where appropriate, the Welsh Ministers may by order designate any geographical area in respect of which a register, or a section of a register, relates as an area of compulsory registration<sup>43</sup>. If the Secretary of State or the Welsh Ministers make such an order, a protected right in that area which is not registered does not have effect<sup>44</sup> as a protected right for any purpose of the Water Resources Act 1991, other than that of registering it, for so long as it is not registered<sup>45</sup>.

The maximum quantity is the lower of the following: (a) 20 cubic metres; (b) if, by virtue of an order under s 27A(1) (see PARA 221), s 27(1) (see PARA 221) has, or has ever had, effect in relation to the source of supply and point of abstraction in question as if it referred to a quantity lower than 20 cubic metres, that lower quantity (or, if more than one, the lowest of them): s 39A(3) (as so added). An abstraction falls within s 39A(4) if it is an abstraction from inland waters carried out by or on behalf of an occupier of land contiguous to those waters at the place where the abstraction is effected ('contiguous land'), and (i) the water is abstracted for use on a holding consisting of the contiguous land with or without other land held with that land; and (ii) it is abstracted for use on that holding for either or both of the following purposes, ie the domestic purposes of the occupier's household and/or agricultural purposes other than spray irrigation: s 39A(4) (as so added). An abstraction falls within s 39A(5) if it is an abstraction from underground strata and the water is abstracted by or on behalf of an individual as a supply of water for the domestic purposes of his household: s 39A(5) (as so added). Section 39A(2) does not apply to a person in respect of an abstraction which that person is, or was at any time, taken to have a right to carry out by virtue of any provision mentioned in s 39A(1)(a), (c), (d), (e) or (f) (see heads (1), (3)-(6) in the text): s 39A(6) (as so added). ## 242. Obligations to take river flow etc into account.

If such an application is made at a time after a minimum acceptable flow for the inland waters in question has been determined<sup>12</sup>, the Agency, in dealing with the application, must have regard to the need to secure or, as the case may be, secure in relation to the different times or periods for which the flow is determined<sup>13</sup>: (1) that the flow at any control point<sup>14</sup> will not be reduced below the minimum acceptable flow at that point<sup>15</sup>; or (2) if it is already less than that minimum acceptable flow, that the flow at any control point will not be further reduced below the minimum acceptable flow at that point<sup>16</sup>.

Where<sup>17</sup>: (a) an application for a licence relates to abstraction from underground strata<sup>18</sup>; and (b) it appears to the Agency that the proposed abstraction is likely to affect the flow, level or volume of any inland waters which are neither discrete waters<sup>19</sup> nor waters comprised in an order<sup>20</sup>, the above provisions apply as if the application related to abstraction from those waters<sup>21</sup>.

WATER RESOURCES/(3) CONTROL OF ABSTRACTION AND IMPOUNDING/(iii) Licences and Consents/D. CALLING IN OF APPLICATIONS; APPEALS/243. Powers of the Secretary of State or Welsh Ministers to call in applications.

D. CALLING IN OF APPLICATIONS; APPEALS

243. Powers of the Secretary of State or Welsh Ministers to call in applications.

The Secretary of State<sup>1</sup> or, in relation to Wales, the Welsh Ministers<sup>2</sup> may give directions to the Environment Agency<sup>3</sup> requiring applications for licences<sup>4</sup> to be referred to him or them instead of being dealt with by the Agency<sup>5</sup>. Such a direction may relate either to a particular application or to applications of a class specified in the direction<sup>6</sup>, and may except from the operation of the direction such classes of applications as may be specified in the direction in such circumstances as may be so specified<sup>7</sup>.

However, an application may not be referred under these provisions:

- 455 (1) if in relation to the application the Agency is still considering whether to make any decision as to the type of abstraction licence to which the application ought to relate<sup>8</sup>, or if it has made such a decision but has not yet served notice<sup>9</sup> of that decision on the applicant<sup>10</sup>; or
- 456 (2) where the Agency has served such a notice on the applicant, until the period for appealing<sup>11</sup> has expired or, if the applicant appeals, the appeal has been determined<sup>12</sup>.

Subject as provided<sup>13</sup>, on considering a called-in application<sup>14</sup>, the Secretary of State or, where appropriate, the Welsh Ministers: (a) may determine that a licence should be granted containing such provisions as he or they consider appropriate<sup>15</sup>; or (b) if, having regard to the provisions of the Water Resources Act 1991, he or they consider it necessary or expedient to do so, may determine that no licence is to be granted<sup>16</sup>. Before determining a called-in application, the Secretary of State or the Welsh Ministers may, if he or they think fit, and must, if a request is made by the applicant or the Agency to be heard with respect to the application<sup>17</sup>: (i) cause a local inquiry to be held<sup>18</sup>; or (ii) afford to the applicant and the Agency an opportunity of appearing before, and being heard by, a person appointed by the Secretary of State or, as the case may be, the Welsh Ministers for the purpose<sup>19</sup>.

In determining any called-in application and, in particular, in determining what (if any) direction to give<sup>20</sup>, the Secretary of State or the Welsh Ministers must consider whether any such direction would require the grant of a licence which would so authorise the abstraction<sup>21</sup> of water<sup>22</sup>, or the flow<sup>23</sup> of any inland waters<sup>24</sup> to be obstructed or impeded by means of impounding works<sup>25</sup>, so as to derogate<sup>26</sup> from rights which, at the time when the direction in question is given, are protected rights<sup>27</sup>.

Where the decision of the Secretary of State or the Welsh Ministers on a called-in application is that a licence is to be granted, the decision must include a direction to the Agency to grant a licence containing such provisions as may be specified in the direction<sup>28</sup>. The decision of the Secretary of State or the Welsh Ministers on any called-in application is final<sup>29</sup>.

244. Appeals to the Secretary of State or the Welsh Ministers.

Where an application has been made to the Environment Agency<sup>1</sup> for a licence<sup>2</sup>, the applicant may by notice<sup>3</sup> appeal to the Secretary of State<sup>4</sup> or, in relation to Wales, the Welsh Ministers<sup>5</sup> if:

- 457 (1) the applicant is dissatisfied with the decision of the Agency on the application<sup>6</sup>; or
- 458 (2) the Agency fails within the specified period<sup>7</sup>, or within such extended period as may be agreed in writing between the applicant and the Agency at any time, to give to the applicant either notice of its decision on the application<sup>8</sup>, or notice that the application has been referred<sup>9</sup> to the Secretary of State or the Welsh Ministers<sup>10</sup>.

A notice of appeal must be served<sup>11</sup> in such manner as may be prescribed<sup>12</sup>, and within such period as may be prescribed<sup>13</sup>. Within that prescribed period, the applicant must also serve a copy of the notice of appeal on the Agency<sup>14</sup>.

Where any representations in writing with respect to an application were made within the period specified in any notice of the application<sup>15</sup>, the Secretary of State or, where appropriate, the Welsh Ministers must, before determining an appeal in respect of the application, require the Agency to serve a copy of the notice of appeal on each of the persons who made those representations<sup>16</sup>.

245. Regulations with respect to appeals.

The Secretary of State<sup>1</sup> or, in relation to Wales, the Welsh Ministers<sup>2</sup> may by regulations<sup>3</sup> make provision as to the manner in which appeals against decisions of the Environment Agency<sup>4</sup> as to the type of licence to which an application relates<sup>5</sup>, or on applications for the grant, revocation or variation of licences<sup>6</sup> are to be dealt with, including provision requiring the giving of notices of, and information relating to, the making of such appeals or decisions on any such appeals<sup>7</sup>.

Without prejudice to the generality of this power, provision must be made by regulations for securing that, in prescribed<sup>8</sup> circumstances, being circumstances in which it appears to the Secretary of State or, where appropriate, the Welsh Ministers that applications for such licences would be of special concern to National Park authorities<sup>9</sup>: (1) notice of any appeal against the decision on such an application must be served on any National Park authority which duly made representations<sup>10</sup> on receipt of notice of the original application<sup>11</sup>; and (2) the Secretary of State or the Welsh Ministers, in determining the appeal, must take account of any further representations made by such an authority within such period and in such manner as may be prescribed<sup>12</sup>.

These provisions have effect subject to any express provision contained in, or having effect by virtue of, any other enactment<sup>13</sup> contained in the relevant provisions of the Water Resources Act 1991<sup>14</sup>; and any regulations made under these provisions have effect subject to any such express provision<sup>15</sup>.

246. Determination of appeals.

Subject as provided<sup>1</sup>, where an appeal is brought<sup>2</sup>, the Secretary of State<sup>3</sup> or, in relation to Wales, the Welsh Ministers<sup>4</sup>:

- 459 (1) may allow or dismiss the appeal or reverse or vary any part of the decision of the Environment Agency<sup>5</sup>, whether the appeal relates to that part of the decision or not<sup>6</sup>; and
- 460 (2) may deal with the application as if it had been made to the Secretary of State or the Welsh Ministers in the first instance<sup>7</sup>.

Before determining an appeal, the Secretary of State or, where appropriate, the Welsh Ministers may, if he or they think fit, and must if a request is made by the applicant or the Agency to be heard with respect to the appeal<sup>8</sup>, cause a local inquiry to be held<sup>9</sup>, or afford to the applicant and the Agency an opportunity to appear before, and be heard by, a person appointed by the Secretary of State or, as the case may be, the Welsh Ministers for the purpose<sup>10</sup>.

In determining an appeal the Secretary of State or the Welsh Ministers must take into account: (a) any further representations in writing received by him or them within the prescribed period<sup>11</sup> from the persons<sup>12</sup> who made representations in respect of the application<sup>13</sup>; and (b) the requirements of the applicant, in so far as they appear to the Secretary of State or, as the case may be, the Welsh Ministers to be reasonable requirements<sup>14</sup>. In determining an appeal and, in particular, in determining what, if any, direction to give as to whether a licence is to be granted, varied or revoked<sup>15</sup>, the Secretary of State or the Welsh Ministers must<sup>16</sup> consider whether any such direction would require such a grant or variation of a licence as would authorise the abstraction<sup>17</sup> of water<sup>18</sup>, or authorise the flow<sup>19</sup> of any inland waters<sup>20</sup> to be obstructed or impeded by means of impounding works<sup>21</sup>, so as to derogate<sup>22</sup> from rights which, at the time when the direction in question is given, are protected rights<sup>23</sup>.

Where the decision on an appeal is that a licence is to be granted or to be varied or revoked, that decision must include a direction to the Agency, as the case may be<sup>24</sup>:

- 461 (i) to grant a licence containing such provisions as may be specified in the direction<sup>25</sup>;
- 462 (ii) to vary the licence so as to contain such provisions as may be so specified<sup>26</sup>;
- or
- 463 (iii) to revoke the licence<sup>27</sup>.

The decision of the Secretary of State or the Welsh Ministers on any appeal is final<sup>28</sup>; but its validity may be questioned in certain circumstances on an application to the High Court<sup>29</sup>.

Except as provided by the following provisions, the validity of a decision<sup>1</sup> of the Secretary of State<sup>2</sup> or, in relation to Wales, of the Welsh Ministers<sup>3</sup> on any appeal<sup>4</sup> or any reference<sup>5</sup> to him or them<sup>6</sup>, may not be questioned in any legal proceedings whatsoever<sup>7</sup>.

If, in the case of any such appeal or reference, the Environment Agency<sup>8</sup> or the other party<sup>9</sup> desires to question the validity of the decision of the Secretary of State or the Welsh Ministers on the grounds:

464 (1) that the decision is not within the statutory powers<sup>10</sup>; or

248. Form and contents of licences.

The Secretary of State<sup>1</sup> or, in relation to Wales, the Welsh Ministers<sup>2</sup>, may by regulations<sup>3</sup> make provision as to the form of licences<sup>4</sup> or of any class of such licences; but any regulations so made have effect subject to the following provisions and to any other express provision contained in, or having effect by virtue of, any other relevant enactment<sup>5</sup>.

Every full licence<sup>6</sup> must, and any other licence to abstract water<sup>7</sup> may, make provision<sup>8</sup>:

- 468 (1) as to the quantity of water authorised to be abstracted in pursuance of the licence from the source of supply<sup>9</sup> to which the licence relates during a period or periods specified in the licence, including provision as to the way in which that quantity is to be measured or assessed for the statutory purposes<sup>10</sup>; and
- 469 (2) for determining, by measurement or assessment, what quantity of water is to be taken to have been abstracted during any such period by the holder of the licence<sup>11</sup> from the source of supply to which the licence relates<sup>12</sup>.

Every licence to abstract water must:

- 470 (a) indicate the means by which water is authorised to be abstracted in pursuance of the licence, by reference either to specified works, machinery or apparatus or to works, machinery or apparatus fulfilling specified requirements<sup>13</sup>;
- 471 (b) also specify the purposes for which water abstracted in pursuance of the licence is to be used<sup>14</sup>;
- 472 (c) state the date on which it takes effect<sup>15</sup> and the date on which it expires<sup>16</sup>.

Different provision may be made by the same licence with respect to any one or more of the following matters:

- 473 (i) the abstraction of water during different periods<sup>17</sup>;
- 474 (ii) the abstraction of water from the same source of supply but at different points or by different means<sup>18</sup>;
- 475 (iii) the abstraction of water for use for different purposes<sup>19</sup>, and any such provision as is mentioned in heads (1) and (2) above may be made separately in relation to each of the matters for which different provision is so made in the licence<sup>20</sup>.

<sup>2</sup> The functions of the Secretary of State under the Water Resources Act 1991 s 46, so far as exercisable in relation to Wales, were transferred to the National Assembly for Wales: see the National Assembly for Wales (Transfer of Functions) Order 1999, SI 1999/672, art 2, Sch 1. These functions are now vested in the Welsh Ministers: see the Government of Wales Act 2006 s 162(1), Sch 11 para 30. As to the meaning of 'Wales' see PARA 16 note 2. 10 Water Resources Act 1991 s 46(2)(a). The statutory purposes are those of the Water Resources Act 1991 Pt II Ch II (ss 24-72): s 46(2)(a). For the purposes of 61(4A) (see PARA 263) every full licence under Pt II Ch II which is for a term exceeding 12 years must, and any transfer licence under Pt II Ch II which is for a term exceeding 12 years may, specify a minimum value for the quantity referred to in s 46(2)(a): s 46(2A) (added, by the Water Act 2003 s 19(1), (3)). As to the meaning of 'transfer licence' see PARA 227.

11 As to who is the holder of a licence see the Water Resources Act 1991 s 47; and PARA 250.

A person who is guilty of such an offence is liable: (1) on summary conviction, to a fine not exceeding the statutory maximum; (2) on conviction on indictment, to a fine or to imprisonment for a term not exceeding two years, or to both: s 206(5) (substituted by the Environment Act 1995 s 112, Sch 19 para 5(5)). Where, in accordance with the provisions contained in a licence in pursuance of the Water Resources Act 1991 s 46(2)(b), or in pursuance of s 46(2)(b) as read with s 46(6), it has been determined what quantity of water is to be taken (a) to have been abstracted during any period from a source of supply by the holder of the licence; or (b) to have been so abstracted at a particular point or by particular means, or for use for particular purposes, that determination is, for the purposes of any proceedings under Pt II Ch II or any of the related water resources provisions, to be conclusive evidence of the matters to which it relates: s 209(3). #### 249. Limited extension of abstraction licence validity.

A full licence or a transfer licence<sup>1</sup> whose term exceeded 12 months<sup>2</sup> but whose expiry date (the 'expiry date') has passed is to be treated for all the purposes of the Water Resources Act 1991 as not expiring until the specified date<sup>3</sup>, provided that the following condition is met<sup>4</sup>. That condition is that the Environment Agency receives, not later than the beginning of the period of three months ending on the expiry date, or such later date before the expiry date as the Agency agrees, a valid application<sup>5</sup> for a new licence:

- 476 (1) for abstraction<sup>6</sup> from the same point as the abstraction licensed by the expiring licence<sup>7</sup>;
- 477 (2) whose holder would be the same as the holder of the expiring licence<sup>8</sup>; and
- 478 (3) which would take effect immediately after the expiry date<sup>9</sup>.

1 As to the meanings of 'full licence' and 'transfer licence' see PARA 227.

2 As to the meaning of 'month' see PARA 23 note 10.

3 The specified date is whichever is the later of: (1) if a new licence is granted (whether or not on the terms applied for), the date on which it takes effect (Water Resources Act 1991 s 46A(4)(a) (s 46A added by the Water Act 2003 s 20)); (2) otherwise (a) except where the Secretary of State or the Welsh Ministers call in an application under the Water Resources Act 1991 s 41 (see PARA 243), the expiry of the period for appealing under s 43 (see PARA 244), or if an appeal is brought, the date of its withdrawal; or (b) where the Secretary of State or the Welsh Ministers decide (under s 42 (see PARA 243) or s 44 (see PARA 246)) that no licence is to be granted, the date on which that decision is notified to the applicant (s 46A(4)(b) (as so added)). As to the Secretary of State see PARA 15 note 1. As to the Welsh Ministers see PARA 16.

4 Water Resources Act 1991 s 46A(1) (as added: see note 3). Section 46A has effect in relation to a full licence or transfer licence held by the Environment Agency with modifications: see the Water Resources (Abstraction and Impounding) Regulations 2006, SI 2006/641, reg 17. As to the Environment Agency see PARA 17. As to abstracting and impounding by the Agency see PARA 237.

5 For these purposes, a 'valid' application is one which complies with all the requirements of the Water Resources Act 1991 in relation to the making of applications for licences of the type in question: s 46A(3) (as added: see note 3). As to applications see PARAS 229-231.

250. Holders of licences.

Every licence<sup>1</sup> must specify the person<sup>2</sup> to whom the licence is granted<sup>3</sup>. The person to whom a licence is granted to abstract water<sup>4</sup> or to obstruct or impede any inland waters<sup>5</sup> is the holder of the licence for the statutory purposes<sup>6</sup>.

Where the relevant land<sup>7</sup> is vested in the incumbent of an ecclesiastical benefice of the Church of England<sup>8</sup> or, in the case of a licence to abstract water, where it is a benefice which has a right of access to the relevant land, any licence must provide that<sup>9</sup> whoever is for the time being the incumbent of the benefice is the holder of the licence<sup>10</sup>. Where a licence so provides, that licence is not required to specify the person to whom it is granted<sup>11</sup>, and the licence is deemed to be held by the Diocesan Board of Finance for the diocese in which the land is situated at any time when the benefice in question is vacant<sup>12</sup>.

In any action brought against a person in respect of the abstraction of water from a source of supply<sup>7</sup> (other than an abstraction in respect of which an action which could be brought under the statutory provisions giving civil remedies for loss or damage due to water abstraction<sup>8</sup>) it is a defence for him to prove that the water was abstracted in pursuance of a licence<sup>9</sup>, and that the provisions of the licence were complied with<sup>10</sup>.

In any action brought against a person in respect of any obstruction or impeding of the flow<sup>11</sup> of any inland waters<sup>12</sup> at any point by means of impounding works<sup>13</sup>, it is a defence for him to prove:

- 479 (1) that the flow was so obstructed or impeded in pursuance of a licence<sup>14</sup>;
- 480 (2) that the obstructing or impeding was in the manner specified in that licence and to an extent not exceeding the extent so specified<sup>15</sup>; and
- 481 (3) that the other requirements of the licence (if any) were complied with<sup>16</sup>.

Nothing in the above provisions exonerates a person from any claim for negligence or breach of contract<sup>17</sup>.

F. TRANSFER AND APPORTIONMENT OF LICENCES

A full licence<sup>1</sup>, a transfer licence<sup>2</sup>, or a licence to obstruct or impede the flow<sup>3</sup> of inland waters<sup>4</sup> by means of impounding works<sup>5</sup>, may be transferred by the holder of the licence<sup>6</sup> to another person<sup>7</sup> (the 'transferee') in accordance with the following provisions<sup>8</sup>.

The holder and the proposed transferee must give notice<sup>9</sup> (a 'transfer notice') to the Environment Agency<sup>10</sup> of their agreement that the licence should be transferred<sup>11</sup>. The transfer notice must include such information as the Agency reasonably requires<sup>12</sup>; and, in the case of the transfer of a full licence or of a transfer licence, a declaration by the proposed transferee that:

- 482 (1) he has, or at the time when the proposed transfer is to take effect will have, a right of access<sup>13</sup> in relation to each point of abstraction<sup>14</sup>; and
- 483 (2) he will continue to have such a right for the period of at least one year beginning with the date on which the proposed transfer is to take effect, or until the licence is to expire (if sooner)<sup>15</sup>.

The transfer notice may specify the date on which the holder and the transferee wish the transfer to take effect<sup>16</sup>.

If the holder is a person in whom the licence has vested on the death or bankruptcy of the prior holder<sup>17</sup>, a transfer notice is of no effect unless the required notice of vesting<sup>18</sup> has been given to the Agency<sup>19</sup>. Subject to that, if the Agency receives a transfer notice which complies with the requirements set out above, it must amend the licence by substituting the name of the transferee as holder of the licence<sup>20</sup>. The transfer takes effect from the date on which the Agency amends the licence<sup>21</sup> or from the date specified in the transfer notice, if later<sup>22</sup>.

Nothing in the above provisions affects the liability of the holder of the licence for any failure by him, before the transfer took effect, to comply with any condition or requirement of that licence<sup>23</sup>.

14 Water Resources Act 1991 s 59A(3)(b)(i) (as added: see note 1). 'Point of abstraction' means a place where the licence authorises water to be abstracted from inland waters or (as the case may be) a place consisting of or comprising underground strata from which the licence authorises water to be abstracted: s 59A(8) (as so added). ### 253. Vesting of licence on death or bankruptcy of holder.

On the death of the holder of a licence<sup>1</sup>, the licence is to be regarded as property forming part of the deceased's personal estate, whether or not it would otherwise be so regarded, and accordingly vests in his personal representatives<sup>2</sup>. If a bankruptcy order is made against the holder of a licence, the licence is to be regarded for the statutory purposes<sup>3</sup> as property forming part of the bankrupt's estate, whether or not it would otherwise be so regarded, and accordingly vests as such in the trustee in bankruptcy<sup>4</sup>. A person<sup>5</sup> in whom a licence vests under these provisions becomes the holder of the licence, in place of the prior holder, from the date of the vesting<sup>6</sup>.

Where a licence other than a temporary licence<sup>7</sup> vests in any person under the above provisions, that person must give notice of that fact to the Environment Agency<sup>8</sup> not later than the end of the period of 15 months<sup>9</sup> beginning with the date of the vesting<sup>10</sup>. If a licence vests in any person under these provisions<sup>11</sup>, but that person fails to give the notice so required within that period<sup>12</sup>, the licence will cease to have effect<sup>13</sup>.

WATER RESOURCES/(3) CONTROL OF ABSTRACTION AND IMPOUNDING/(iii) Licences and Consents/F. TRANSFER AND APPORTIONMENT OF LICENCES/254. Apportionment of licence to abstract.

254. Apportionment of licence to abstract.

The holder of a full licence or of a transfer licence<sup>1</sup> (the 'old licence') may apply to the Environment Agency<sup>2</sup> for the division of the holder's right to abstract<sup>3</sup> water in accordance with the old licence and for the transfer:

- 484 (1) to another person<sup>4</sup> of part, or to a number of other persons of parts not amounting to the whole, of that right<sup>5</sup>; or
- 485 (2) to a number of other persons of parts amounting in all to the whole of that right<sup>6</sup>.

The holder of the old licence and any person proposing to carry on a part of the abstraction authorised by the old licence in place of the holder (a 'successor') must give notice<sup>7</sup> to the Agency of their agreement to the division and transfer (an 'apportionment notice')<sup>8</sup>. The apportionment notice must, in relation to the abstraction authorised by the old licence:

- 486 (a) specify, for each proposed successor, what quantity of water he proposes to abstract, and, if the holder of the old licence is to continue the abstraction in part, what quantity of water that holder proposes to abstract<sup>9</sup>;
- 487 (b) specify the purpose or purposes for which those persons referred to in head (a) above who would require a new licence<sup>10</sup> would abstract water (being one or more of the purposes for which abstraction is authorised under the old licence)<sup>11</sup>;
- 488 (c) specify the point (or points) of abstraction<sup>12</sup> from which it is proposed that the persons referred to in head (a) above would abstract water (being one or more of the points from which abstraction is authorised under the old licence)<sup>13</sup>;
- 489 (d) include a declaration by each of those persons who requires a licence<sup>14</sup> in order to carry on the abstraction that:

- 61. (i) he has, or at the time when the proposed grant to him of a new licence<sup>15</sup> is to take effect will have, a right of access<sup>16</sup> in relation to each such point of abstraction<sup>17</sup>; and
- 62. (ii) he will continue to have such a right for the period of at least one year beginning with the date on which the new licence is to take effect, or until it is to expire (if sooner)<sup>18</sup>; and

- 490 (e) include such other information<sup>19</sup> as the Agency reasonably requires<sup>20</sup>, and may specify the date on which the holder and the successor (or successors) wish the division and transfer (or transfers) to take effect<sup>21</sup>. The apportionment notice must be accompanied by an application on the part of the holder of the old licence for its revocation<sup>22</sup>. If the holder of the old licence is a person in whom the old licence has vested on the death or bankruptcy of the prior holder<sup>23</sup>, an apportionment notice is of no effect unless the required notice of vesting<sup>24</sup> has been given to the Agency<sup>25</sup>.

- 491 (A) revoke the old licence<sup>27</sup>;
- 492 (B) if the holder is to continue the abstraction in part and a licence is required<sup>28</sup> for that purpose, grant to the holder of the old licence a licence relating to that part of the abstraction<sup>29</sup>; and
- 493 (C) grant to each successor who requires a licence<sup>30</sup> in order to carry on his part of the abstraction a licence relating to that part of the abstraction<sup>31</sup>.

Each new licence to be so granted must be granted<sup>32</sup> subject to provisions which correspond as nearly as practicable to those of the old licence in relation to the part of the abstraction to be authorised by the new licence<sup>33</sup>. The revocation of the old licence and the grant of the new licences takes effect from the date on which the Agency revokes the old licence and grants the new ones<sup>34</sup>, or from the date specified in the apportionment notice, if later<sup>35</sup>. Nothing in these provisions affects the liability of the holder of the old licence for any failure by him, before the revocation of that licence took effect, to comply with any condition or requirement of that licence<sup>36</sup>.

The Agency must not grant a new licence to the holder of the old licence or to a successor if, by virtue of an exemption<sup>37</sup>, the restriction on abstraction would not apply to that part of the abstraction proposed in relation to him in the apportionment notice<sup>38</sup>. A person (whether the holder of the old licence or a successor) who proposes to carry on a part of the abstraction in such circumstances is, if the old licence was a full licence, to be taken to have the right to do so in relation to that part<sup>39</sup>. However, a person ceases to be so taken to have a right to carry on an abstraction if: (aa) during a specified period<sup>40</sup>, he does not carry out any such abstraction<sup>41</sup>; or (bb) following an order varying the small quantity threshold<sup>42</sup> or regulations providing for further exemptions<sup>43</sup>, he is granted a full licence in respect of abstraction from the same point<sup>44</sup>.

255. Power to make regulations.

The Secretary of State<sup>1</sup> or, in relation to Wales, the Welsh Ministers<sup>2</sup>, may by regulations<sup>3</sup> make provision as to the manner in which applications for the revocation or variation of licences<sup>4</sup> are to be dealt with, including provision requiring the giving of notices of, and information relating to, the making of such applications or decisions on any such applications<sup>5</sup>. This power has effect subject to any express provision contained in, or having effect by virtue of, any other relevant enactment<sup>6</sup>; and any regulations so made have effect subject to any such express provision<sup>7</sup>.

1 As to the Secretary of State see PARA 15 note 1.

2 The functions of the Secretary of State under the Water Resources Act 1991 s 59, so far as exercisable in relation to Wales, were transferred to the National Assembly for Wales: see the National Assembly for Wales (Transfer of Functions) Order 1999, SI 1999/672, art 2, Sch 1. These functions are now vested in the Welsh Ministers: see the Government of Wales Act 2006 s 162(1), Sch 11 para 30. As to the meaning of 'Wales' see PARA 16 note 2. As to the Welsh Ministers see PARA 16 note 5. As to the power of the Secretary of State to intervene in relation to functions exercisable by the Welsh Ministers where any particular case might have a serious adverse impact on water resources, water supply, or the quality of water in England see PARA 16.

WATER RESOURCES/(3) CONTROL OF ABSTRACTION AND IMPOUNDING/(iii) Licences and Consents/G. MODIFICATION ETC OF LICENCES/256. Revocation of licence on application of holder.

256. Revocation of licence on application of holder.

The holder of a licence<sup>1</sup> to abstract water<sup>2</sup> may apply to the Environment Agency<sup>3</sup> to revoke the licence and, on any such application, the Agency must revoke the licence accordingly<sup>4</sup>.

The holder of a licence<sup>5</sup> to obstruct or impede the flow<sup>6</sup> of inland waters<sup>7</sup> (an 'impounding licence'<sup>8</sup>) may apply to the Agency to revoke the licence and, on any such application, the Agency may revoke the licence accordingly<sup>9</sup>. The Agency may require conditions to be met to its satisfaction before revocation of an impounding licence takes effect, and those conditions may in particular include conditions: (1) requiring the removal of all or part of the impounding works<sup>10</sup>; (2) as to the restoration of the site of the impounding works to a state which is satisfactory to the Agency<sup>11</sup>; (3) relating to the inland waters the flow of which is obstructed or impeded by means of the impounding works<sup>12</sup>. The person<sup>13</sup> making an application for the revocation of an impounding licence (the 'applicant') may by notice<sup>14</sup> appeal to the Secretary of State or, in relation to Wales, to the Welsh Ministers<sup>15</sup> if:

- 494 (a) he is dissatisfied with the decision of the Agency as to whether his licence may be revoked<sup>16</sup> or as to any conditions imposed by virtue of heads (1) to (3) above<sup>17</sup>; or
- 495 (b) the Agency fails to give notice of its decision to the applicant within the prescribed period<sup>18</sup> or within such extended period as may be agreed in writing<sup>19</sup> between the Agency and the applicant<sup>20</sup>.

Where an appeal is so brought, the Secretary of State or, as the case may be, the Welsh Ministers may allow or dismiss the appeal or reverse or vary any part of the decision of the Agency, whether the appeal relates to that part of the decision or not<sup>21</sup>, and may deal with the application as if it had been made to them in the first place<sup>22</sup>. The decision of the Secretary of State or the Welsh Ministers on any such appeal is final<sup>23</sup>, but may be challenged on certain grounds<sup>24</sup>.

257. Variation of licence on application of holder.

The holder of a licence<sup>1</sup> may apply to the Environment Agency<sup>2</sup> to vary that licence<sup>3</sup>. However, such an application may not be made to convert an abstraction<sup>4</sup> licence of one type into an abstraction licence of a different type<sup>5</sup>.

Unless the variation proposed in the application is limited to reducing the quantity of water authorised to be abstracted in pursuance of the licence during one or more periods<sup>6</sup>, the provisions of the Water Resources Act 1991 relating to applications for licences<sup>7</sup> apply (with the necessary modifications<sup>8</sup>) to applications by holders of licences to vary those licences, and to the variation of licences in pursuance of such applications, as they apply to applications for, and the grant of, such licences<sup>9</sup>.

The Water Resources (Abstraction and Impounding) Regulations 2006, SI 2006/641, Sch 2, and the exceptions from, and modifications to, the Water Resources Act 1991 made by it, has effect in relation to proposals under s 51(2) (modified in accordance with the Water Resources (Abstraction and Impounding) Regulations 2006, SI 2006/641, reg 18) in relation to a licence held by the Environment Agency, other than where the Water Resources Act 1991 s 51(4) (see note 6) applies: Water Resources (Abstraction and Impounding) Regulations 2006, SI 2006/641, reg 16(b), Sch 2. The Water Resources Act 1991 s 51(2) has effect in relation to an abstraction licence or an impounding licence held by the Agency subject to modifications: see the Water Resources (Abstraction and Impounding) Regulations 2006, SI 2006/641, reg 18. 6   Where the variation proposed in an application is limited to reducing the quantity of water authorised to be abstracted in pursuance of the licence during one or more periods, the Water Resources Act 1991 ss 37, 38(1) (see PARAS 233, 239) do not apply; and ss 43, 44 (see PARAS 244, 246), as applied by s 51(3), have effect as if s 43(5) and s 44(3)(a) were omitted: s 51(4).

WATER RESOURCES/(3) CONTROL OF ABSTRACTION AND IMPOUNDING/(iii) Licences and Consents/G. MODIFICATION ETC OF LICENCES/258. Proposals for revocation or variation at instance of the Secretary of State, Welsh Ministers or Environment Agency.

258. Proposals for revocation or variation at instance of the Secretary of State, Welsh Ministers or Environment Agency.

Where it appears to the Environment Agency<sup>1</sup> that a licence<sup>2</sup> should be revoked or varied<sup>3</sup>, the Agency may formulate proposals for revoking or varying the licence<sup>4</sup>. Where it appears to the Secretary of State<sup>5</sup> or, in relation to Wales, to the Welsh Ministers<sup>6</sup> (either in consequence of representations made to him or them or otherwise) that a licence ought to be reviewed<sup>7</sup>, but no proposals for revoking or varying the licence have been formulated by the Agency<sup>8</sup>, the Secretary of State or, where appropriate, the Welsh Ministers may, as he or they may consider appropriate in the circumstances, direct the Agency<sup>9</sup> to formulate proposals for revoking the licence in question<sup>10</sup>, or for varying that licence in such manner as may be specified in the direction<sup>11</sup>.

Notice in the prescribed form<sup>12</sup> of any proposals so formulated with respect to any licence must be served on the holder of the licence<sup>13</sup> and be published in the prescribed way<sup>14</sup>. If a licence with respect to which any such proposals are formulated relates to any inland waters<sup>15</sup> and the proposals provide for variation of that licence<sup>16</sup>, a copy of the notice must be served, not later than the date on which it is first published<sup>17</sup>, on any navigation, harbour or conservancy authority<sup>18</sup> having functions in relation to those waters at a place where the licence, if varied in accordance with the proposals, would authorise water to be abstracted or impounded<sup>19</sup>.

Where proposals are formulated under the above provisions for the variation of an abstraction or impounding licence<sup>20</sup>, the Agency must determine whether those proposals would amount to or form part of a relevant project<sup>21</sup>; and in making that determination the Agency must take into account such of the prescribed selection criteria as are relevant<sup>22</sup>. The Agency must give written notice of its determination to the licence holder and to the Secretary of State or, in relation to Wales, to the Welsh Ministers<sup>23</sup>. The Secretary of State, or as the case may be, the Welsh Ministers may review the determination of the Agency, by giving notice to the Agency not later than four weeks after the receipt of such a notice; and where they do so, having taken into account such of the prescribed selection criteria as are relevant, must by notice in writing given to the licence holder and the Agency either uphold the determination of the Agency or substitute their own determination<sup>24</sup>. The required notice of the proposals formulated<sup>25</sup> must not, in the case of such a review, be served before notice is so given to the Agency and must include notice of the determination under these provisions<sup>26</sup>.

The period referred to in head (2) above begins on the date the notice is first published as mentioned in the Water Resources Act 1991 s 52(4), and must not end before the end of the period of 28 days beginning with that date: s 52(7) (substituted by the Water Act 2003 s 22(1), (6)). Where proposals have been formulated under the Water Resources Act 1991 s 52 (including that section as modified by the Water Resources (Abstraction and Impounding) Regulations 2006, SI 2006/641, reg 19: see note 9), the notice must: (a) explain the general effect of the proposals; (b) in the case of proposals for varying the licence, specify the current point of abstraction or impounding and, if different, that which is proposed, in relation to a full licence, the proposed quantity of water to be abstracted, and in relation to an impounding licence, the object and means of impounding; (c) state where and when the register containing brief particulars about the proposals may be inspected and that such inspection is free of charge, and the address to which any representations with respect to the proposals may be sent; and (d) be published in at least one newspaper circulating in the locality of the current (and, if different, proposed) point of abstraction or impounding, and on the Agency's website: reg 31(1). However, the notice must not include any information: (i) that is not to be included in a register by virtue of the Water Resources Act 1991 s 191A (exclusion from registers of information affecting national security: see PARA 269) or s 191B (exclusion from registers of certain confidential information: see PARA 270); or (ii) of which, in the case of proposals in relation to a licence relating to abstraction or impounding, the relevant authority has notified the Agency that publication would be contrary to the interests of national security: Water Resources (Abstraction and Impounding) Regulations 2006, SI 2006/641, reg 31(2). 'Relevant authority' means (A) in the case of an application in relation to abstraction or to impounding works in England, the Secretary of State; and (B) in the case of an application in relation to abstraction or to impounding works in Wales, the Secretary of State or the Welsh Ministers: reg 31(3); Government of Wales Act 2006 Sch 11 para 32. If no way is prescribed, publication must be in a way calculated to bring it to the attention of persons likely to be affected if the licence were revoked or varied as proposed: Water Resources Act 1991 s 52(4)(b) (as so substituted). WATER RESOURCES/(3) CONTROL OF ABSTRACTION AND IMPOUNDING/(iii) Licences and Consents/G. MODIFICATION ETC OF LICENCES/259. Revocation or variation of licence in pursuance of proposals.

259. Revocation or variation of licence in pursuance of proposals.

- 496 (1) if the proposals are for the revocation of the licence, revoke the licence<sup>5</sup>; and
- 497 (2) if the proposals are proposals for varying the licence, vary the licence in accordance with those proposals or, with the consent of the holder<sup>6</sup> of the licence, in any other way<sup>7</sup>.

The Agency must not, however, proceed with any proposals it has formulated before the end of the period specified<sup>8</sup> for the purpose in relation to those proposals<sup>9</sup>.

If the holder of the licence gives notice<sup>10</sup> to the Agency objecting to the proposals before the end of that specified period, the Agency must refer the proposals to the Secretary of State<sup>11</sup> or, in relation to Wales, to the Welsh Ministers<sup>12</sup>, with a copy of the notice of objection<sup>13</sup>; but if no such notice is given to the Agency before the end of that period, the Agency may proceed with the proposals<sup>14</sup>.

Where, however, it is determined<sup>15</sup> that the proposals would amount to or form part of a relevant project<sup>16</sup>, the Agency must prepare<sup>17</sup> an environmental statement<sup>18</sup>; and the relevant statutory provisions<sup>19</sup> apply as if the environmental statement were part of the proposals formulated by the Agency<sup>20</sup>. The Agency must, not later than the date of publication of the required notice of the proposals formulated<sup>21</sup> send to the Secretary of State or, in relation to Wales, the Welsh Ministers, and the consultation bodies<sup>22</sup> a copy of the proposals and the environmental statement under cover of a letter stating that any representations on the proposals should be made in writing<sup>23</sup> to the Agency within a period of 28 days beginning on the date of that notice<sup>24</sup>. The Agency or, as the case may be, the Secretary of State or the Welsh Ministers may not determine an application for, or for the variation of, an authorisation relating to a relevant project before the latest date allowed<sup>25</sup> for making representations or concluding any consultation<sup>26</sup>. In determining whether a licence should be varied, the Agency or, as the case may be, the Secretary of State or the Welsh Ministers must have regard to the environmental statement and any representations relating to the environmental effects of the project made within the prescribed period<sup>27</sup>. Where a licence is varied in pursuance of proposals to which these provisions apply, the Agency must within 28 days of the variation, publish in those newspapers in which a notice of the proposals formulated was published<sup>28</sup> a notice stating that the Agency has varied the licence, and stating a place where any person<sup>29</sup> may inspect:

- 498 (a) the document by which the determination was made<sup>30</sup>;
- 499 (b) written notice of the main reasons and considerations on which the determination is based, and information about the public participation process that has taken place<sup>31</sup>;
- 500 (c) where necessary, a description of the main measures to avoid, reduce and if possible offset the major adverse effects of the project<sup>32</sup>; and
- 501 (d) information regarding any right to challenge the validity of the decision and the procedures for doing so<sup>33</sup>.

WATER RESOURCES/(3) CONTROL OF ABSTRACTION AND IMPOUNDING/(iii) Licences and Consents/G. MODIFICATION ETC OF LICENCES/260. Reference of Environment Agency's proposals to the Secretary of State or Welsh Ministers.

260. Reference of Environment Agency's proposals to the Secretary of State or Welsh Ministers.

Where any proposals of the Environment Agency<sup>1</sup> with respect to a licence are referred<sup>2</sup> to the Secretary of State<sup>3</sup> or, in relation to Wales, to the Welsh Ministers<sup>4</sup>, he or they must consider the proposals<sup>5</sup> together with the objection of the holder of the licence<sup>6</sup> and any representations in writing<sup>7</sup> relating to the proposals which were received by the Agency before the end of the appropriate period<sup>8</sup>, and must determine, according to whether the proposals are for the revocation or variation of the licence, the question whether the licence should be revoked or the question whether it should be varied<sup>9</sup>. Before determining whether a licence should be revoked or varied in a case in which proposals have been formulated by the Agency<sup>10</sup>, the Secretary of State or, where appropriate, the Welsh Ministers may, if he or they think fit, and must if a request is made by the holder of the licence or the Agency to be heard with respect to the proposals, either cause a local inquiry to be held<sup>11</sup>, or afford to the holder of the licence and the Agency an opportunity of appearing before, and being heard by, a person appointed by the Secretary of State or, as the case may be, the Welsh Ministers for the purpose<sup>12</sup>.

In determining whether a licence should be varied and, if so, what directions to the Agency should be included in the decision<sup>13</sup>, the Secretary of State or the Welsh Ministers must consider whether any such direction would require such a variation of the licence as would authorise the abstraction of water<sup>14</sup>, or authorise the flow<sup>15</sup> of any inland waters<sup>16</sup> to be obstructed or impeded by means of impounding works<sup>17</sup>, so as to derogate<sup>18</sup> from rights which, at the time when the direction is given, are protected rights<sup>19</sup>. Where the decision of the Secretary of State or the Welsh Ministers on such a reference is that the licence in question should be revoked or varied, the decision must include a direction to the Agency to revoke the licence or, as the case may be, to vary it so as to contain such provisions as may be specified in the direction<sup>20</sup>. Compensation may be payable by the Agency<sup>21</sup>.

A decision of the Secretary of State or the Welsh Ministers with respect to any modification proposals is final<sup>22</sup>; but may be challenged on certain grounds<sup>23</sup>.

WATER RESOURCES/(3) CONTROL OF ABSTRACTION AND IMPOUNDING/(iii) Licences and Consents/G. MODIFICATION ETC OF LICENCES/261. Application by owner of fishing rights for revocation or variation of abstraction licence.

Any application made by a person as owner of fishing rights in respect of any inland waters must be made on the grounds that, in his capacity as owner of those rights, he has sustained loss or damage which is directly attributable to the abstraction of water in pursuance of the licence in question and either: (1) he is not entitled to a protected right<sup>13</sup> in respect of those inland waters<sup>14</sup>; or (2) the loss or damage which he has sustained in his capacity as owner of those rights is not attributable to any relevant breach of statutory duty<sup>15</sup> or is in addition to any loss or damage attributable to any such breach<sup>16</sup>. Where such an application is made in respect of any licence, the applicant must serve<sup>17</sup> notice in the prescribed form<sup>18</sup> on the Environment Agency and on the holder of the licence<sup>19</sup>, stating that each of them is entitled, at any time before the end of the period of 28 days beginning with the date of service of the notice, to make representations in writing<sup>20</sup> to the Secretary of State or, as appropriate, the Welsh Ministers with respect to the application<sup>21</sup>. In determining any application, the Secretary of State or, as the case may be, the Welsh Ministers must take into account any representations in writing received by him or them, within that period, from the Agency or from the holder of the licence<sup>22</sup>.

Before determining on an application whether a licence should be revoked or varied, the Secretary of State or the Welsh Ministers may, if he or they think fit, and must if a request is made by the applicant, the holder of the licence or the Agency to be heard with respect to the proposals, cause a local inquiry to be held<sup>23</sup>, or afford to the applicant, the holder of the licence and the Agency an opportunity of appearing before, and being heard by, a person appointed by the Secretary of State or the Welsh Ministers for the purpose<sup>24</sup>.

On an application in respect of any licence, the Secretary of State or the Welsh Ministers may not determine that the licence is to be revoked or varied:

- 502 (a) unless the grounds of the application<sup>25</sup> are established to his or their satisfaction<sup>26</sup> and he or they are satisfied that the extent of loss or damage which the applicant has sustained is such as to justify the revocation or variation of the licence<sup>27</sup>;
- 503 (b) unless he or they are satisfied that the fact that the abstraction of water in pursuance of the licence caused the loss or damage which the applicant has sustained was wholly or mainly attributable to exceptional shortage of rain or to an accident or other unforeseen act or event not caused by, and outside the control of, the Agency<sup>28</sup>.

Where the Secretary of State or the Welsh Ministers determine, on an application, that a licence is to be varied, the variation must be limited to that which, in his or their opinion, is requisite having regard to the loss or damage which the applicant has sustained<sup>29</sup>. Where the decision of the Secretary of State or the Welsh Ministers on an application in respect of any licence is that the licence should be revoked or varied, the decision must include a direction to the Agency to revoke the licence or, as the case may be, to vary it so as to contain such provisions as may be specified in the direction<sup>30</sup>. A decision of the Secretary of State or the Welsh Ministers on an application is final<sup>31</sup>.

Compensation may be payable by the Agency where a licence is revoked or varied under these provisions<sup>32</sup>.

1     I.e. the provisions of the Water Resources Act 1991 Sch 7: s 55(1). No application may be made under s 55 in respect of any licence of right granted under the Water Act 1989: Water Resources Act 1991 Sch 7 para 3. As to licences of right see PARA 238.

7     As to the meaning of 'person' see PARA 13 note 29.

8     'Fishing rights', in relation to any inland waters, means any right (whether it is an exclusive right or a right in common with one or more other persons) to fish in those waters, where the right in question: (1) constitutes or is included in an interest in land; or (2) is exercisable by virtue of an exclusive licence granted for valuable consideration; and any reference to an owner of fishing rights is a reference to the person for the time being entitled to those rights: Water Resources Act 1991 s 55(5). Any reference to a right included in an interest in land is a reference to a right which is exercisable only by virtue of, and as a right incidental to, the ownership of that interest: s 55(6). As to the meaning of 'land' see PARA 14 note 21.

WATER RESOURCES/(3) CONTROL OF ABSTRACTION AND IMPOUNDING/(iii) Licences and Consents/G. MODIFICATION ETC OF LICENCES/262. Emergency variation of licences for spray irrigation purposes.

262. Emergency variation of licences for spray irrigation purposes.

Where at any time one or more licences<sup>1</sup> is or are in force in relation to a source of supply<sup>2</sup> authorising water abstracted<sup>3</sup> in pursuance of the licences to be used for the purpose of spray irrigation<sup>4</sup>, or for that purpose together with other purposes<sup>5</sup>, and by reason of exceptional shortage of rain or other emergency it appears to the Environment Agency<sup>6</sup> that it is necessary to impose a temporary restriction on the abstraction of water for use for that purpose<sup>7</sup>, the Agency may serve a notice<sup>8</sup> on the holder of any of the licences<sup>9</sup> reducing, during a specified period, the quantity of water authorised to be abstracted in pursuance of the licence from the source of supply for use for the purpose of spray irrigation<sup>10</sup>. The Agency may not, however, serve such a notice in respect of abstraction from underground strata<sup>11</sup> unless it appears to the Agency that such abstraction is likely to affect the flow<sup>12</sup>, level or volume of any inland waters<sup>13</sup> which are neither discrete waters<sup>14</sup> nor inland waters comprised in an order<sup>15</sup>.

In the exercise of this power in a case where there are two or more licences in force authorising abstraction from the same source of supply either at the same point or at points which, in the Agency's opinion, are not far distant from each other, the Agency may not serve such a notice on the holder of one of the licences unless a like notice is served on the holders of the other licences in respect of the same period<sup>16</sup>. The reductions imposed by the notices on the holders of the licences must be so calculated as to represent, as nearly as appears to the Agency to be practicable, the same proportion of the quantity of water authorised by the licences (apart from the notices) to be abstracted for use for the purpose of spray irrigation<sup>17</sup>.

'Spray irrigation' means<sup>18</sup> the irrigation of land or plants (including seeds) by means of water or other liquid emerging, in whatever form, from apparatus designed or adapted to eject liquid into the air in the form of jets or spray<sup>19</sup>. The Secretary of State<sup>20</sup> or, in relation to Wales, the Welsh Ministers<sup>21</sup> may, however, by order<sup>22</sup> direct that references to 'spray irrigation'<sup>23</sup>: (1) are to be construed as not including spray irrigation if carried out by such methods or in such circumstances or for such purposes as may be specified in the order<sup>24</sup>; and (2) without prejudice to the exercise of the power so conferred, are to be construed as including references to the carrying out, by such methods or in such circumstances or for such purposes as may be specified in the order, of irrigation of any such description, other than spray irrigation, as may be so specified<sup>25</sup>.

References to 'spray irrigation' in the relevant provisions of the Water Resources Act 1991<sup>26</sup> are to be construed as not including spray irrigation if carried out:

- 504 (a) by means of a combination of water and substances used for protecting plants against pests or disease or for exterminating or restricting the growth of weeds or grass and emerging from apparatus that is movable<sup>27</sup>;
- 505 (b) by means of a combination of water and growth regulators<sup>28</sup> or nutrients<sup>29</sup> emerging from apparatus that is movable<sup>30</sup>;
- 506 (c) by means of a combination of water and manure or dung emerging from apparatus that is movable, or emerging from spray guns in so far as the water used by such guns in any period of 14 days does not exceed the aggregate capacity of the effluent<sup>31</sup> pits or tanks situated on the holding from which the manure or dung is derived<sup>32</sup>; or 507 (d) by means of a combination of water and quality additives<sup>33</sup> emerging from apparatus that is movable<sup>34</sup>.

4 As to the meaning of 'spray irrigation' generally see the text to notes 18-34. For these purposes, references to spray irrigation are to be construed as excluding, additionally, spray irrigation if carried out: (1) within a building or other structure, whether fixed or mobile, used for the production of agricultural produce, being a building or structure which excludes from the plants growing in or under it water falling as rain; (2) on land in the immediate vicinity of cloches, in or under which plants are growing, for the purpose of securing a supply of moisture to those plants; (3) on containers or pots in the open in which plants intended for sale are grown in such a way as to be unable to take moisture from the soil: Spray Irrigation (Definition) Order 1992, SI 1992/1096, art 4.

WATER RESOURCES/(3) CONTROL OF ABSTRACTION AND IMPOUNDING/(iii) Licences and Consents/H. COMPENSATION/263. Compensation where licence revoked or varied on direction of the Secretary of State or Welsh Ministers.

H. COMPENSATION

263. Compensation where licence revoked or varied on direction of the Secretary of State or Welsh Ministers.

Where a licence is revoked or varied in pursuance of a direction<sup>1</sup> given by the Secretary of State<sup>2</sup> or, in relation to Wales, by the Welsh Ministers<sup>3</sup> and it is shown that the holder of the licence<sup>4</sup>: (1) has incurred expenditure in carrying out work<sup>5</sup> which is rendered abortive by the revocation or variation<sup>6</sup>; or (2) has otherwise sustained loss or damage which is directly attributable to the revocation or variation<sup>7</sup>, the Environment Agency<sup>8</sup> must pay him compensation in respect of that expenditure, loss or damage<sup>9</sup>.

No compensation may<sup>10</sup>, however, be paid under this provision in respect of any work carried out before the grant of the licence which is revoked or varied<sup>11</sup>, or in respect of any other loss or damage arising out of anything done or omitted to be done before the grant of that licence<sup>12</sup>; and no such compensation is payable in respect of a licence to abstract water<sup>13</sup>, if it shown that no water was abstracted in pursuance of the licence during the period of four years ending with the date on which notice of the proposals for revoking or varying the licence was served on the holder of the licence<sup>14</sup>. Further, no compensation is payable in respect of the variation of a full licence, or of a transfer licence<sup>15</sup> which specifies a minimum value<sup>16</sup>, so as to reduce the quantity of water which the holder of the licence is authorised by the licence to abstract from the source of supply<sup>17</sup> to which the licence relates if:

- 508 (a) the ground for varying the licence is that the Secretary of State or, as the case may be, the Welsh Ministers are satisfied that the variation is necessary in order to protect the availability of water in the source of supply to which the licence relates<sup>18</sup>;
- 509 (b) the variation does not reduce the quantity of water which the holder of the licence is authorised by the licence to abstract to less than the minimum value specified in the licence<sup>19</sup> for these purposes<sup>20</sup>; and
- 510 (c) the statutory conditions are satisfied<sup>21</sup>.

Any question of disputed compensation must be referred to and determined by the Lands Tribunal<sup>22</sup>. For the purpose of assessing any such compensation, in so far as it is in respect of loss or damage consisting of depreciation of the value of an interest in land, the normal rules for assessing compensation<sup>23</sup> have effect so far as applicable and subject to any necessary modifications, as they have effect for the purpose of assessing compensation for the compulsory acquisition of an interest in land<sup>24</sup>. Where, however, the interest in land in respect of which any compensation falls to be assessed is subject to a mortgage<sup>25</sup>:

- 511 (i) the compensation must be assessed as if the interest were not subject to the mortgage<sup>26</sup>;
- 512 (ii) a claim for the compensation may be made by any mortgagee of the interest, but without prejudice to the making of a claim by the person<sup>27</sup> entitled to the interest<sup>28</sup>;

- 513 (iii) no such compensation is payable in respect of the interest of the mortgagee, as distinct from the interest which is subject to the mortgage<sup>29</sup>; and
- 514 (iv) any such compensation which is payable in respect of the interest which is subject to the mortgage is to be paid to the mortgagee or, if there is more than one mortgagee, to the first mortgagee, and must in either case be applied by him as if it were proceeds of sale<sup>30</sup>.

These provisions do not apply in relation to the revocation or variation of a licence held by the Agency<sup>31</sup>; and the right to compensation is withdrawn in certain circumstances where a licence to abstract water is revoked or varied on or after 15 July 2012<sup>32</sup>.

Where compensation has been paid under the above provisions to the holder of a licence ('licence A') following its revocation, and the conditions set out below are satisfied, the Agency may, if the licence referred to in head (B) below is granted, recover from the qualifying person<sup>33</sup> the amount of that compensation, or such lesser amount as the Agency determines<sup>34</sup>. Those conditions are that:

- 515 (A) the holder of licence A was a water undertaker<sup>35</sup>;
- 516 (B) at the time of the revocation an application from a qualifying person for a licence to abstract water ('licence B') was outstanding<sup>36</sup>;
- 517 (C) if the Agency had granted licence B while licence A still had effect, the Agency would have been in breach of the duty imposed on it not to derogate from protected rights<sup>37</sup> which was owed to the holder of licence A<sup>38</sup>;
- 518 (D) the ground for revoking licence A was that the Agency was of the view that in the interests of greater efficiency in the use of water resources it would be better for licence B to be granted and licence A revoked<sup>39</sup>; and
- 519 (E) the Agency proposes to grant licence B<sup>40</sup>.

264. Compensation for owner of fishing rights applying for revocation or variation of abstraction licence.

Where a licence is revoked or varied on an application from the owner of fishing rights<sup>1</sup>, the applicant is entitled to compensation from the Environment Agency<sup>2</sup> in respect of the loss or damage<sup>3</sup> which he has sustained<sup>4</sup>. Where, on such an application for the revocation or variation of a licence, the Secretary of State<sup>5</sup> or, in relation to Wales, the Welsh Ministers<sup>6</sup>, determine that the grounds of the application<sup>7</sup> have been established to his or their satisfaction<sup>8</sup>, but that the licence is not to be revoked or varied in pursuance of that application<sup>9</sup>, he or they must certify accordingly for the purposes of the following provisions<sup>10</sup>.

Unless within the period of six months<sup>11</sup> from the date on which such a certificate is granted either:

- 520 (1) notice to treat for the acquisition of the fishing rights of the applicant, or of an interest in land which includes those rights<sup>12</sup> has been served by the Agency<sup>13</sup>; or
- 521 (2) an offer has been made by the Agency to the owner of those rights to acquire them on compulsory purchase terms<sup>14</sup> or, where the rights subsist only as rights included in an interest in land, to acquire that interest on such terms<sup>15</sup>, the owner of the fishing rights is entitled to compensation from the Agency<sup>16</sup>, and the amount of the compensation so payable in respect of any fishing rights is the amount by which the value of those rights<sup>17</sup> or, where they subsist only as rights included in an interest in land, the value of that interest<sup>18</sup>, is depreciated<sup>19</sup> in relation to the licence to which the application related<sup>20</sup>.

Any question of disputed compensation must be referred to and determined by the Lands Tribunal<sup>21</sup>. Where the Secretary of State or the Welsh Ministers determine, on an application by the owner of fishing rights<sup>22</sup>, that the licence to which the application relates is not to be revoked or varied and grant a certificate accordingly<sup>23</sup>, and notice to treat for the acquisition of the fishing rights to which the application related, or of an interest in land in which those rights are included, has been served by the Agency within the period of six months from the date on which that certificate is granted<sup>24</sup>, then, for the purpose of assessing compensation in respect of any compulsory acquisition in pursuance of that notice to treat, no account is to be taken of any depreciation of the value of the fishing rights, or of the interest in question, which is applicable to the statutory effect<sup>25</sup> of that licence<sup>26</sup>.

UPDATE

265 Power to indemnify the Environment Agency for compensation payable

NOTE 11--Reference to the Lands Tribunal is now to the Upper Tribunal: Water Resources Act 1991 s 63(4)(b) (amended by SI 2009/1307).

Halsbury's Laws of England/WATER AND WATERWAYS (VOLUME 100 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-452; VOLUME 101 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 453-851)/5. WATER RESOURCES/(3) CONTROL OF ABSTRACTION AND IMPOUNDING/(iii) Licences and Consents/H. COMPENSATION/266. Compensation in respect of ecclesiastical property.

266. Compensation in respect of ecclesiastical property.

So much of any compensation falling to be paid under the provisions relating to the abstraction and impounding of water<sup>1</sup> as is payable in respect of damage to land<sup>2</sup> which is ecclesiastical property<sup>3</sup> and to the owner of the fee simple in the land<sup>4</sup>, or in respect of depreciation of the value of the fee simple in land which is ecclesiastical property<sup>5</sup>, must be paid (where the fee simple is vested in any person<sup>6</sup> other than the Diocesan Board of Finance for the diocese in which the land is situated) to it, instead of to the person in whom the fee simple is vested<sup>7</sup>. Any sums so paid to the Diocesan Board of Finance with reference to any land must, if the land is not consecrated<sup>8</sup>, be applied by it for the purposes for which the proceeds of sale by agreement of the fee simple in the land would be applicable under any enactment<sup>9</sup> or Measure<sup>10</sup> authorising such a sale or disposing of the proceeds of such a sale<sup>11</sup>. If the land is consecrated, those sums must be applied by the Board in such manner as it may determine<sup>12</sup>.

12   Water Resources Act 1991 s 67(5)(b) (as amended: see note 11).

Halsbury's Laws of England/WATER AND WATERWAYS (VOLUME 100 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-452; VOLUME 101 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 453-851)/5. WATER RESOURCES/(3) CONTROL OF ABSTRACTION AND IMPOUNDING/(iii) Licences and Consents/H. COMPENSATION/267. Liability of the Environment Agency for derogation from protected right.

267. Liability of the Environment Agency for derogation from protected right.

A breach of the duty not to derogate from protected rights<sup>1</sup> does not invalidate the grant or variation of a licence and is not enforceable by any criminal proceedings, by prohibition or injunction or by action against any person<sup>2</sup> other than the Environment Agency<sup>3</sup>. Instead, this duty is enforceable, at the suit of any person entitled to a protected right, by an action against the Agency for damages for breach of statutory duty<sup>4</sup>.

Where<sup>5</sup> the Agency is directed by the Secretary of State<sup>6</sup> or, in relation to Wales, by the Welsh Ministers<sup>7</sup>, to grant or vary a licence, and the licence, as granted or varied in compliance with the direction, authorises derogation from protected rights<sup>8</sup>, then the grant or variation of the licence has effect, as between the Agency and the person entitled to those rights, as a breach on the part of the Agency of a statutory duty not to authorise derogation from those rights<sup>9</sup> and that duty is enforceable<sup>10</sup> as described above<sup>11</sup>.

In any claim brought against the Agency in pursuance of these provisions, it is a defence for the Agency to show that the fact, as the case may be:

- 524 (1) that the abstraction of water authorised by the licence, as granted or varied by the Agency, derogated from the claimant's protected right<sup>12</sup>; or

was wholly or mainly attributable to exceptional shortage of rain or to an accident or other unforeseen act or event not caused by, and outside the control of, the Agency<sup>14</sup>.

Where the claimant in any claim brought against the Agency in pursuance of these provisions is entitled to a protected right by reason only that he is the holder of, or has applied for, a licence of right<sup>15</sup>, it is a defence for the Agency to prove: (a) that the claimant could have carried out permissible alterations<sup>16</sup> in the means whereby he abstracted water from the source of supply in question; and (b) that, if he had carried out such alterations, the abstraction or, as the case may be, the obstruction or impeding of the flow of the inland waters authorised by the licence to which the claim relates would not have derogated from his protected right<sup>17</sup>.

Where the Agency is liable under these provisions to pay damages to any person in consequence of the grant or variation of a licence in compliance with a direction given by the Secretary of State or the Welsh Ministers<sup>18</sup>, and the Agency pays any sum to that person in satisfaction of that liability<sup>19</sup>, then, whether a claim for recovery of those damages has been brought or not, the Secretary of State or, in relation to Wales, the Welsh Ministers may, if they think fit, pay to the Agency the whole or such part as they consider appropriate of the relevant amount<sup>20</sup>.

1    le the duty imposed by the Water Resources Act 1991 s 39(1) (see PARA 240), including that duty as applied by s 51(3) (see PARA 257) or s 53(5) (see PARA 259). As to the meaning of 'derogate' see PARA 240 note 9. As to the meaning of 'protected right' see PARA 241.

2    As to the meaning of 'person' see PARA 13 note 29.

3 Water Resources Act 1991 s 60(1) (ss 60(1)-(5), 63, Sch 7 amended by the Environment Act 1995 s 120(1), Sch 22 para 128). The Water Resources Act 1991 s 60 has effect, with modifications, in relation to the grant to the Agency of an abstraction licence or an impounding licence, or any grant which is deemed to have been made on the Agency's approval of an Agency application, or the variation of any such licence: see the Water Resources (Abstraction and Impounding) Regulations 2006, SI 2006/641, reg 23. As to the Environment Agency see PARA 17. As to the meaning of 'abstraction licence' see PARA 231 note 1. As to the meaning of 'impounding licence' see PARA 231 note 2.

4 Water Resources Act 1991 s 60(2) (as amended: see note 3). As to applications for revocation or variation of a licence by the owner of fishing rights who has sustained loss or damage not attributable to breach of statutory duty as mentioned in s 60(2) or (3) (see the text to notes 5-11), or in addition to loss or damage attributable to such breach, see s 55(3); and PARA 261. As to breach of statutory duty see TORT vol 97 (2010) PARA 495 et seq.

5 Ie under any provision of the Water Resources Act 1991 Pt II Ch II (ss 24-72).

6 As to the Secretary of State see PARA 15 note 1.

7 The functions of the Secretary of State under the Water Resources Act 1991 ss 60, 63, so far as exercisable in relation to Wales, were transferred to the National Assembly for Wales: see the National Assembly for Wales (Transfer of Functions) Order 1999, SI 1999/672, art 2, Sch 1. These functions are now vested in the Welsh Ministers: see the Government of Wales Act 2006 s 162(1), Sch 11 para 30. As to the meaning of 'Wales' see PARA 16 note 2. As to the Welsh Ministers see PARA 16 note 5. As to the power of the Secretary of State to intervene in relation to functions exercisable by the Welsh Ministers where any particular case might have a serious adverse impact on water resources, water supply, or the quality of water in England see PARA 16.

8 For these purposes, any reference to authorising a derogation from protected rights is a reference to authorising the abstraction of water, or authorising the flow of any inland waters to be obstructed or impeded by means of impounding works, so as to derogate from rights which, at the time of the authorisation, are protected rights for the purposes of the Water Resources Act 1991 Pt II Ch II (ss 24-72): s 60(7). As to the meaning of 'abstraction' see PARA 192 note 2. As to the meaning of 'flow' see PARA 215 note 4. As to the meaning of 'inland waters' see PARA 187 note 2. As to the meaning of 'impounding works' see PARA 215 note 4.

10 Ie the Water Resources Act 1991 s 60(2) (see the text to note 4) applies in relation to that statutory duty as it applies in relation to the duty imposed by s 39(1) (see PARA 240): s 60(3)(b).

11 See the Water Resources Act 1991 s 60(3)(b). Section 60(3) is without prejudice to the duty of the Agency to comply with the direction in question, but that duty does not afford any defence in a claim brought by virtue of the application of s 60(2): s 60(4) (as so amended).

12 Water Resources Act 1991 s 60(5)(a) (as amended: see note 3).

13 Water Resources Act 1991 s 60(5)(b).

15 As to licences of right see PARA 238.

16 'Permissible alterations' means: (1) in relation to a person who is the holder of a licence of right, any alteration of works, or modification of machinery or apparatus, which would fulfil the requirements of the licence as to the means whereby water is authorised to be abstracted; (2) in relation to a person who is not the holder of a licence of right, but to whose application for such a licence the Water Resources Act 1991 Sch 7 para 1 (see PARA 238) applies, any alteration of works, or modification of machinery or apparatus, by means of which he abstracted water from the source of supply in question during the period of five years ending with 1 September 1989, being an alteration or modification which would be within the scope of the licence if granted in accordance with the application: s 60(6), Sch 7 para 4(2). As to the meaning of 'source of supply' see PARA 187.

17 Water Resources Act 1991 Sch 7 para 4(1) (as amended: see note 3). Section 60(3) (see the text to notes 5-11) does not apply to a direction given in consequence of an appeal against the decision of the Agency on an application for the grant of a Water Act 1989 licence of right: Sch 7 para 4(2) (as so amended).

19 Water Resources Act 1991 s 63(1)(b) (as amended: see note 3).

20 Water Resources Act 1991 s 63(1) (as amended: see note 3). 'Relevant amount' means the amount of the sum paid by the Agency and, if a claim has been brought against the Agency in respect of the liability mentioned in s 63(1), the amount of any costs reasonably incurred by the Agency in connection with the claim (including any costs of the claimant which the Agency was required to pay): s 63(4)(a) (as so amended).

I. REGISTER OF APPLICATIONS AND LICENCES

268. Register of abstraction and impounding licences.

The Environment Agency<sup>1</sup> must keep, in such manner as may be prescribed<sup>2</sup>, registers containing such information as may be prescribed with respect to<sup>3</sup>: (1) applications made for the grant, revocation or variation of abstraction and impounding licences<sup>4</sup>, including information as to the way in which such applications have been dealt with<sup>5</sup>; and (2) persons<sup>6</sup> becoming the holders<sup>7</sup> of such licences<sup>8</sup>. Every such register kept by the Agency must also contain such information as may be prescribed with respect to applications made in accordance with regulations relating to applications made by the Agency<sup>9</sup>, and licences granted or deemed to be granted, and licences revoked or varied, in accordance with those regulations<sup>10</sup>. The contents of every register kept under these provisions must be available, at such place as may be prescribed, for inspection by the public at all reasonable hours<sup>13</sup>. The Agency may keep the register, or any part of it, electronically<sup>14</sup>.

Except in relation to any information required to be excluded from the register<sup>15</sup>, the register must contain:

- 526 (a) in the case of every application made to the Agency for an abstraction licence or an impounding licence<sup>16</sup>, or the revocation or variation of such a licence, and every Agency application<sup>17</sup>:

- 65. (iii) any notice of appeal served in relation to the application<sup>21</sup>; and
- 66. (iv) particulars of any licence granted or deemed to be granted, or revocation or variation effected, by virtue of a decision on the application and any appeal, including the date (if any) on which a licence expires<sup>22</sup>;
- 56 527 (b) in the case of a transferred licence<sup>23</sup>: the name and address of the transferee<sup>24</sup>, the date on which the Agency received (or, in the case of the transfer of a licence held by the Agency, served) the transfer notice<sup>25</sup>, particulars of the transfer notice<sup>26</sup>, and the date on which the transfer took effect<sup>27</sup>;
- 528 (c) in the case of a licence vesting on the death or bankruptcy of the holder<sup>28</sup> in relation to which notice has been given to the Agency<sup>29</sup>: the name and address of the person in whom the licence has vested<sup>30</sup> and the date of the vesting<sup>31</sup>; and
- 529 (d) in the case of a licence granted on the apportionment of a licence to abstract<sup>32</sup>: the name and address of the holder<sup>33</sup>, particulars of the licence granted<sup>34</sup>, the date on which it was granted<sup>35</sup>, the date from which it has effect<sup>36</sup>, and the date on which it expires<sup>37</sup>.

The Agency must also keep in the register: (A) any determination under the Water Resources (Environmental Impact Assessment) (England and Wales) Regulations 2003<sup>38</sup>; (B) any environmental statement or further information<sup>39</sup> furnished in relation to it<sup>40</sup>; (C) any documents, other than the environmental statement<sup>41</sup>, which have been provided to the Agency and are relevant to the determination<sup>42</sup> relating to a variation of a licence<sup>43</sup>; and (D) any further information which is relevant to such a determination and which becomes available to the Agency after the time that the public was given notice<sup>44</sup> of the proposals<sup>45</sup>.

1 As to the Environment Agency see PARA 17.

2 'Prescribed' means prescribed by regulations made by the Secretary of State or, in relation to Wales, the Welsh Ministers: see the Water Resources Act 1991 s 221(1). As to the making of regulations see PARA 21. As to the provision made see the text to notes 14-45. The functions of the Secretary of State under the Water Resources Act 1991 s 189, so far as exercisable in relation to Wales, were transferred to the National Assembly for Wales: see the National Assembly for Wales (Transfer of Functions) Order 1999, SI 1999/672, art 2, Sch 1. Exclusion from registers of information affecting national security.

269. Exclusion from registers of information affecting national security.

No information<sup>1</sup> must be included in a register kept or maintained by the Environment Agency<sup>2</sup> under any provision of the Water Resources Act 1991<sup>3</sup> if and so long as, in the opinion of the Secretary of State<sup>4</sup> or, in relation to Wales, the Welsh Ministers<sup>5</sup> the inclusion in such a register of that information, or information of that description, would be contrary to the interests of national security<sup>6</sup>. The Secretary of State or the Welsh Ministers may, for the purpose of securing the exclusion from registers of such information, give to the Agency directions: (1) specifying information, or descriptions of information, to be excluded from the registers<sup>7</sup>; or (2) specifying descriptions of information to be referred to the Secretary of State or, as the case may be, the Welsh Ministers for determination<sup>8</sup>. The Agency must notify the Secretary of State or, where appropriate, the Welsh Ministers of any information it excludes from a register in pursuance of such directions<sup>9</sup>.

A person<sup>10</sup> may, as respects any information which appears to him to be information to which these provisions may apply, give a notice<sup>11</sup> to the Secretary of State or, as appropriate, the Welsh Ministers specifying the information and indicating its apparent nature<sup>12</sup>; and, if he does so he must notify the Agency that he has done so<sup>13</sup>, and no information so notified to the Secretary of State or the Welsh Ministers must be included in any such register until the Secretary of State or the Welsh Ministers has determined that it should be so included<sup>14</sup>.

WATER RESOURCES/(3) CONTROL OF ABSTRACTION AND IMPOUNDING/(iii) Licences and Consents/I. REGISTER OF APPLICATIONS AND LICENCES/270. Exclusion from registers of certain confidential information.

270. Exclusion from registers of certain confidential information.

No information<sup>1</sup> relating to the affairs of any individual or business must, without the consent of that individual or the person<sup>2</sup> for the time being carrying on that business, be included in a register kept or maintained by the Environment Agency<sup>3</sup> under any provision of the Water Resources Act 1991<sup>4</sup>, if and so long as the information is, in relation to him, commercially confidential<sup>5</sup> and is not required to be included in the register in pursuance of directions given<sup>6</sup> by the Secretary of State or the Welsh Ministers<sup>7</sup>.

Where it appears to the Agency that any information which has been obtained by it under or by virtue of any provision of any enactment<sup>8</sup> might be commercially confidential, the Agency must: (1) give to the person to whom or whose business it relates notice<sup>9</sup> that that information is required to be included in a register kept or maintained by the Agency<sup>10</sup>, unless excluded under these provisions<sup>11</sup>; and (2) give him a reasonable opportunity of objecting to the inclusion of the information on the ground that it is commercially confidential<sup>12</sup> and of making representations to the Agency for the purpose of justifying any such objection<sup>13</sup>. If any representations are made, the Agency must, having taken the representations into account, determine whether the information is or is not commercially confidential<sup>14</sup>. Where the Agency determines that information is not commercially confidential the information must not be entered on the register until the end of the period of 21 days beginning with the date on which the determination is notified to the person concerned<sup>15</sup>, and that person may appeal to the Secretary of State or, where appropriate, the Welsh Ministers against the decision<sup>16</sup>.

The Secretary of State or the Welsh Ministers may give to the Agency directions as to specified information, or descriptions of information, which the public interest requires to be included in registers kept or maintained by the Agency notwithstanding that the information may be commercially confidential<sup>17</sup>.

Information excluded from a register must be treated as ceasing to be commercially confidential for the purposes of these provisions at the expiry of the period of four years beginning with the date of the determination by virtue of which it was excluded; but the person who furnished it may apply to the Agency for the information to remain excluded from the register on the ground that it is still commercially confidential and the Agency must determine whether or not that is the case<sup>18</sup>.

1 As to the meaning of 'information' see PARA 117 note 13.

2 As to the meaning of 'person' see PARA 13 note 29.

3 As to the Environment Agency see PARA 17.

4 As to registers of abstraction and impounding licences see PARA 268.

5 Water Resources Act 1991 s 191B(1)(a) (s 191B added by the Environment Act 1995 s 120, Sch 22 para 170). Information is not commercially confidential for these purposes unless it is determined under the Water Resources Act 1991 s 191B to be so by the Agency or, on appeal, by the Secretary of State or the Welsh Ministers: s 191B(1) (as so added). Information is, for the purposes of any such determination, commercially confidential, in relation to any individual or person, if its being contained in the register would prejudice to an unreasonable degree the commercial interests of that individual or person: s 191B(11) (as so added).

The functions of the Secretary of State under the Water Resources Act 1991 s 191B, so far as exercisable in relation to Wales, were transferred to the National Assembly for Wales: see the National Assembly for Wales (Transfer of Functions) Order 1999, SI 1999/672, art 2, Sch 1. Where an appeal is brought in respect of any information, the information must not be entered on the register until the end of the period of seven days following the day on which the appeal is finally determined or withdrawn: s 191B(5) (as so added). Section 91(2A), (2C) and (2K) (see ENVIRONMENTAL QUALITY AND PUBLIC HEALTH vol 45 (2010) PARA 312) apply in relation to such appeals but s 91(2C) has effect for these purposes with the substitution for the words from '(which may' onwards of the words '(which must be held in private)': s 191B(6)(a) (as so added). Relevant projects which require consent under the Environmental Impact Assessment Regulations.

J. CONSENTS FOR CERTAIN WATER MANAGEMENT PROJECTS FOR AGRICULTURE

271. Relevant projects which require consent under the Environmental Impact Assessment Regulations.

For the purposes of the Water Resources (Environmental Impact Assessment) (England and Wales) Regulations 2003<sup>1</sup>, a project<sup>2</sup> is a 'relevant project' if:

- 530 (1) it is a water management project for agriculture, including an irrigation project<sup>3</sup>;
- 531 (2) in the case of a project involving water abstraction, the abstraction is one which does not fall within the exception regarding the abstraction of small quantities<sup>4</sup> in relation to the restriction on abstraction<sup>5</sup>; and
- 532 (3) it would be likely to have significant effects on the environment by virtue inter alia of its nature, size or location<sup>6</sup>;

but is not a relevant project if it involves certain development<sup>7</sup> or improvement works<sup>8</sup>.

No person<sup>9</sup> must begin a relevant project except in pursuance of a consent granted<sup>10</sup> by the Environment Agency<sup>11</sup>, or carry it out except in accordance with the provisions of that consent<sup>12</sup>. However, such consent is not needed in relation to a project if an abstraction or impounding licence is required<sup>13</sup>; and a person may rely on a consent even though he is not the person to whom the consent was granted<sup>14</sup>. A person who contravenes this prohibition is guilty of an offence<sup>15</sup>.

On an application made in writing<sup>16</sup> to the Agency for a consent for these purposes, the Agency may, subject to the requirements for an environmental impact assessment<sup>17</sup>, either grant a consent containing such provisions as it considers appropriate<sup>18</sup> or refuse consent<sup>19</sup>, taking into account any significant effects the relevant project is likely to have on the environment<sup>20</sup>. Where an application has been made to the Agency for such a consent, the applicant may by notice in writing<sup>21</sup> appeal to the Secretary of State or, in relation to Wales, the Welsh Ministers (the 'appropriate minister')<sup>22</sup> if: (a) the applicant is dissatisfied with the decision of the Agency on the application<sup>23</sup>; or (b) the Agency fails to give notice to the applicant of the Agency's decision within a period of three months<sup>24</sup> from the date of receipt of the application or within such extended period as may be agreed in writing between the applicant and the Agency<sup>25</sup>.

The appropriate minister may allow or dismiss the appeal or reverse or vary any part of the decision of the Agency, whether the appeal relates to that part of the decision or not<sup>26</sup>; and may deal with the application as if it had been made to the appropriate minister in the first instance<sup>27</sup>. Before determining the appeal, the appropriate minister may, and must do so if so requested by the applicant or the Agency, cause a local inquiry to be held<sup>28</sup>, or afford to the applicant and the Agency an opportunity of appearing before, and being heard by, a person appointed by the appropriate minister for the purpose<sup>29</sup>. The appropriate minister, in determining the appeal, must take into account: (i) any further representations in writing received by the appropriate minister from the specified persons and within the period allowed<sup>30</sup>; (ii) the requirements of the applicant, in so far as they appear to the appropriate minister to be reasonable requirements<sup>31</sup>. Where the decision on the appeal is that a consent is to be granted, the decision must include a direction to the Agency to grant a consent containing such provisions as may be specified in the direction<sup>32</sup>.

Except as provided below, the validity of a decision of the appropriate minister on any such appeal may not be questioned in any legal proceedings whatsoever<sup>33</sup>. If the Agency or the applicant desires to question the validity of the decision of the appropriate minister on the grounds that the decision is not within the statutory powers<sup>34</sup>, or that any of the prescribed requirements which are applicable to the appeal have not been complied with<sup>35</sup>, the Agency or, as the case may be, the applicant may, at any time within the period of six weeks beginning with the date on which the decision is made, make an application to the High Court<sup>36</sup>. On any such application, the High Court may by interim order suspend the operation of the decision to which the application relates until the final determination of the proceedings<sup>37</sup>. If the High Court is satisfied, on such an application, that the decision to which the application relates is not within the statutory powers<sup>38</sup>, or that the interests of the person making the application have been substantially prejudiced by a failure to comply with any of the prescribed requirements<sup>39</sup>, the High Court may quash the decision<sup>40</sup>.

WATER RESOURCES/(3) CONTROL OF ABSTRACTION AND IMPOUNDING/(iii) Licences and Consents/J. CONSENTS FOR CERTAIN WATER MANAGEMENT PROJECTS FOR AGRICULTURE/272. Assessment of relevant projects.

272. Assessment of relevant projects.

An environmental impact assessment must be carried out<sup>1</sup> in relation to a relevant project<sup>2</sup>. Any person<sup>3</sup> (the 'applicant') who proposes to apply for, or for the variation of, an authorisation<sup>4</sup> in relation to a project<sup>5</sup> which may be a relevant project, may in writing<sup>6</sup> request the Environment Agency<sup>7</sup> to make a determination whether the project is a relevant project<sup>8</sup>. Where the Agency considers that it has insufficient information to determine the request, it must by notice in writing inform the applicant and specify what further information it requires<sup>9</sup>. In determining whether a project is a relevant project the Agency must take into account such of the prescribed selection criteria as are relevant<sup>10</sup>. The Agency must give the applicant written notice of its determination before the expiry of the prescribed period<sup>11</sup>.

Where either the Agency fails to make a determination before the expiry of that period<sup>12</sup>, or the applicant is dissatisfied with the Agency's determination that the proposed abstraction or impounding would amount to or form part of a relevant project<sup>13</sup>, the applicant may apply to the appropriate minister<sup>14</sup> for a determination on the matter<sup>15</sup>. The appropriate minister must, by notice in writing given to the applicant and the Agency, either uphold the determination of the Agency<sup>16</sup>, or substitute his own determination<sup>17</sup>. The Agency or, as the case may be, the appropriate minister must take such steps as are considered appropriate to make a determination under these provisions available to the public<sup>18</sup>. The applicant must include a copy of any such determination when he subsequently applies for, or for a variation of, an authorisation in relation to the project in question<sup>19</sup>.

An environmental statement which complies with the prescribed requirements<sup>20</sup> must be provided in relation to an application for, or for the variation of, an authorisation in connection with a relevant project<sup>21</sup>. If a person so requests before making an application for, or for the variation of, an authorisation, the Agency must, having consulted the person making the request and the consultation bodies<sup>22</sup>, give an opinion on the information which should be contained in an environmental statement accompanying such an application<sup>23</sup>; but the fact that the Agency has given such an opinion does not preclude it from subsequently requiring the person making the request to provide further information<sup>24</sup>. The Agency and the consultation bodies must, if requested by a person proposing to make an application for which an environmental statement is required, enter into consultation with him to determine whether they have in their possession any information which may be relevant to the preparation of an environmental statement and, if they have, they must make it available to him<sup>25</sup>.

Where an environmental statement, including where any further information is provided, is provided under the above provisions, the Agency must publish a notice on its website and in at least one newspaper circulating in the locality of the relevant project<sup>26</sup>. The Agency must make available to the public<sup>27</sup> the application and the environmental statement<sup>28</sup>, and any information provided to the Agency<sup>29</sup> which was in the possession of the Agency on the date on which the notice was published<sup>30</sup>. Not later than the date on which the notice is published, the Agency must send a copy of it and the environmental statement and any further information<sup>31</sup>, to the consultation bodies, the appropriate minister, and such other persons as the appropriate minister may direct, under cover of a letter stating that any representations in relation to the application should be made in writing to the Agency within a period of 28 days beginning on the date of the letter<sup>32</sup>.

The Agency must not determine an application for, or for the variation of, an authorisation relating to a relevant project before the latest date allowed<sup>33</sup> for making representations or concluding any consultation<sup>34</sup>. In determining the application the Agency must take into consideration the environmental statement, any further information provided, and any representations relating to the environmental effects of the project made<sup>35</sup> to the Agency<sup>36</sup>. Within 28 days of the decision on the application, the Agency must publish on its website and in the newspaper or newspapers in which the notice of the application was published<sup>37</sup> a notice stating that the Agency has granted or refused the application<sup>38</sup>.

No appeal may be brought<sup>39</sup> on the grounds that the Agency has failed to give the requisite notice<sup>40</sup> before the expiry of a period of four months<sup>41</sup> commencing with the date on which an environmental statement is furnished<sup>42</sup>, or the date on which any further information requested by the Agency is provided<sup>43</sup>, whichever is the later<sup>44</sup>.

(4) WATER RESOURCES CHARGES ETC

273. Power of Environment Agency to impose charges for licences.

In the case of any particular licence relating to the abstraction and impounding of water<sup>1</sup>, the Environment Agency<sup>2</sup> may require the payment to it of such charges as may from time to time be prescribed<sup>3</sup>. These powers, and the Agency's powers to charge for, and make charging schemes in relation to, other environmental licences, are discussed elsewhere in this work<sup>4</sup>. The Agency also has a general power to fix and recover charges for services and facilities provided in the course of carrying out its functions<sup>5</sup>.

Where there is an interruption or diminution of the supply of water during a drought, nothing in any drought order or drought permit affects the Agency's right to recover any fixed or minimum charge which might have been recovered from any person if there had been no such interruption or diminution<sup>6</sup>.

274. Exemptions from water resources charges.

No charges, other than those for the purpose of recovering administrative expenses attributable to the exercise by the Environment Agency<sup>1</sup> of its functions in relation to the application for the licence, may be levied in respect of water authorised by a licence to be abstracted<sup>2</sup> for use in the production of electricity or any other form of power by any generating station or apparatus of a capacity of not more than five megawatts<sup>3</sup>.

On the application of any person<sup>4</sup> who is liable to pay charges to the Agency for the abstraction of water under a licence<sup>5</sup>, the Agency may make an agreement with him either exempting him from the payment of charges or providing for charges to be levied on him at reduced rates specified in the agreement<sup>6</sup>. In the exercise of these powers in relation to any person, the Agency must have regard to:

- 533 (1) the extent to which any works constructed at any time by that person, or any works to be constructed by him, have made (or will make) a beneficial contribution towards the fulfilment of the purposes of the Agency's functions under any enactment<sup>7</sup>;
- 534 (2) any financial assistance which that person has rendered, or has agreed to render, towards the carrying out of works by the Agency in the performance of those functions<sup>8</sup>; and
- 535 (3) any other material considerations<sup>9</sup>.

The Secretary of State<sup>10</sup> or, in relation to Wales, the Welsh Ministers<sup>11</sup> may give directions as to the exercise by the Agency of these powers<sup>12</sup>.

Without prejudice to the exercise of such power to give directions, if on any application for such an agreement, the Agency refuses to make such an agreement with the applicant<sup>13</sup>, or the applicant objects to the terms of such an agreement as proposed by the Agency and that objection is not withdrawn<sup>14</sup>, either the applicant or the Agency may refer the question in dispute to the Secretary of State or, where appropriate, the Welsh Ministers<sup>15</sup>. On such a reference the Secretary of State or, as the case may be, the Welsh Ministers must determine the question in dispute, having regard to the matters to which the Agency was required to have regard in relation to the applicant in accordance with heads (1) to (3) above<sup>16</sup>, and may give directions to the Agency requiring it to make an agreement with the applicant in accordance with the decision<sup>17</sup>. Any decision of the Secretary of State or the Welsh Ministers on such a reference is final<sup>18</sup>.

275. Special charges in respect of spray irrigation.

Where a person<sup>1</sup> (the 'applicant') is for the time being the holder of a licence to abstract water<sup>2</sup> (the 'applicant's licence') and in accordance with the provisions of that licence: (1) the water is to be used on land<sup>3</sup> of which the applicant is the occupier<sup>4</sup>; and (2) the purposes for which water abstracted in pursuance of the licence is to be used consist of or include spray irrigation<sup>5</sup>, the applicant may apply to the Environment Agency<sup>6</sup> to make an agreement with him under the following provisions, and the Agency may make such an agreement accordingly<sup>7</sup>. During any period for which such an agreement is in force, the following charges are payable by the applicant to the Agency in respect of the applicant's licence, in so far as it relates to water authorised to be abstracted and used on the relevant land<sup>8</sup>:

- 536 (a) basic charges calculated, in accordance with the agreement, by reference to the quantity of water authorised to be so abstracted and used from time to time in pursuance of the licence<sup>9</sup>; and
- 537 (b) supplementary charges calculated, in accordance with the agreement, by reference to the quantity of water which is measured or assessed as being abstracted from time to time by or on behalf of the applicant from the source of supply<sup>10</sup> to which the applicant's licence relates for use on the relevant land<sup>11</sup>.

In determining whether to make such an agreement, and the charges to be leviable under it, the Agency must have regard to the extent to which, in any year<sup>12</sup> within the period proposed to be specified in the agreement as the period for which it is made<sup>13</sup>, the quantity of water referred to in head (a) above is likely to exceed the quantity referred to in head (b) above<sup>14</sup>. Where the applicant's licence authorises water abstracted in pursuance of the licence to be used on the relevant land for purposes which include spray irrigation and other purposes, any such agreement must provide for apportioning, as between those purposes respectively, the quantities of water mentioned above<sup>15</sup>.

An application for such an agreement may also be made by a person who has applied for, but is not yet the holder of, a licence to abstract water<sup>16</sup>.

An agreement made under these provisions remains in force until the occurrence of whichever of the following events first occurs:

- 538 (i) the period specified in the agreement comes to an end<sup>17</sup>;
- 539 (ii) the applicant's licence expires or is revoked<sup>18</sup>;
- 540 (iii) the applicant ceases to be the occupier of the relevant land or, if he has previously ceased to be the occupier of a part or parts of that land, ceases to be the occupier of the remainder of it<sup>19</sup>;
- 541 (iv) the agreement is terminated by the Agency on an application made to it by the other party to do so<sup>20</sup>.

The Secretary of State<sup>21</sup> or, in relation to Wales, the Welsh Ministers<sup>22</sup> may give directions as to the exercise by the Agency of its powers under the above provisions<sup>23</sup>. Without prejudice to the exercise of this power to give directions, if on any application to make or terminate an agreement the Agency refuses to make or terminate it<sup>24</sup>, or the applicant objects to the Agency's proposals as to the terms of such an agreement or as to the conditions subject to which such an agreement is to be terminated, and that objection is not withdrawn<sup>25</sup>, either the applicant or the Agency may refer the question in dispute to the Secretary of State or, where appropriate, the Welsh Ministers<sup>26</sup>. On such a reference, the Secretary of State or, as the case may be, the Welsh Ministers must determine the question in dispute, having regard to the matters to which the Agency would be required to have regard<sup>27</sup> in relation to the application<sup>28</sup>, and may give directions to the Agency requiring it to make an agreement with the applicant in accordance with the decision<sup>29</sup>. Any decision of the Secretary of State or the Welsh Ministers on such a reference is final<sup>30</sup>.

8 Water Resources Act 1991 s 127(2) (as amended: see note 7). 'Relevant land' means the land on which the applicant's licence, as for the time being in force, authorises water abstracted in pursuance of the licence to be used for purposes which consist of or include spray irrigation: s 127(6).

15 See the Water Resources Act 1991 s 127(4)(a). In relation to an application so made or to an agreement made on such an application, the reference in s 127(1) (see the text to notes 1-7) to the provisions of the applicant's licence is to be construed as a reference to the proposals contained in the application for a licence (s 127(5)(a)), and any other reference in ss 127-129 to the applicant's licence is to be construed as a reference to any licence granted to the applicant in pursuance of the application for a licence or in pursuance of an appeal consequential on that application (s 127(5)(b)).

If on such an application the Agency is satisfied that, by reason of any change of circumstances since the agreement was made, it ought to be terminated, it may terminate the agreement either unconditionally or subject to such conditions, whether as to any payment to be made by the applicant or otherwise, as the Agency and the applicant may agree: s 128(4) (as so amended).

Where the British Waterways Board<sup>1</sup> is the holder of a licence<sup>2</sup> authorising abstraction<sup>3</sup> from any inland waters owned or managed by the board<sup>4</sup>, then the charges which would otherwise be payable in respect of that licence must either be reduced to such extent, and as so reduced be payable subject to such conditions<sup>5</sup>, or are not to be payable<sup>6</sup>, as the Board and the Environment Agency<sup>7</sup> may agree or as, in default of such agreement, the Secretary of State<sup>8</sup> or, in relation to Wales, the Welsh Ministers<sup>9</sup> may determine<sup>10</sup>. ## (5) RESERVOIRS

277. Introduction.

The construction and operation of reservoirs involve many different considerations, including planning and development control, water resources management, recreation and navigation, and safety. This section of this title deals exclusively with statutory controls relating to the safety of so-called 'large raised reservoirs'<sup>1</sup> under the Reservoirs Act 1975<sup>2</sup>. Water resources management<sup>3</sup>, recreation and amenity<sup>4</sup>, and navigation<sup>5</sup> are dealt with elsewhere in this title, and pollution controls<sup>6</sup>, planning and development control<sup>7</sup> and general issues regarding safety<sup>8</sup> are discussed elsewhere in this work.

The Reservoirs Act 1975 requires the registration of large raised reservoirs<sup>9</sup>, the appointment of construction engineers to supervise their construction, enlargement or restoration<sup>10</sup>, the periodic inspection of such reservoirs by inspecting engineers<sup>11</sup>, the monitoring and supervision of such reservoirs<sup>12</sup>, and the preparation of flood plans<sup>13</sup>. The Act also regulates the discontinuance or abandonment of reservoirs<sup>14</sup>. There are extensive powers of enforcement<sup>15</sup>. The Environment Agency is the body with the principal responsibilities under the Act<sup>16</sup>. The Act was brought into force piecemeal, the last commencement order not being made until 1986<sup>17</sup>, and transitional provision is made with regard to reservoirs wholly or partly constructed before its coming into force<sup>18</sup>.

18 Where a large raised reservoir was wholly or partly constructed before the commencement of the Reservoirs Act 1975, any certificate given, report made, or other thing done in relation to the reservoir under or for the purposes of the Reservoirs (Safety Provisions) Act 1930 (repealed) has the same effect for the purposes of the Reservoirs Act 1975 as if given, made or done thereunder or for the purposes thereof: s 23(1). Other transitional provision is made in relation to notification of existing reservoirs (see s 24 (now spent in practice) (ss 24, 25, 27 amended by the Water Act 2003 s 74(1))); reservoirs which at the commencement of the Reservoirs Act 1975 were in the course of construction or alteration, or newly constructed or altered (see s 25 (as so amended)); the first inspection of reservoirs constructed before 1931 (ie before the commencement of the Reservoirs (Safety Provisions) Act 1930 (repealed) on 1 January 1931) (see the Reservoirs Act 1975 s 26 (now spent in practice)); and large raised reservoirs which did not fall within the provisions of the 1930 Act (see the Reservoirs Act 1975 s 27 (as so amended)).

278. Meaning of 'reservoir' and related terms.

For the purposes of the Reservoirs Act 1975, 'reservoir' means a reservoir for water as such, and accordingly does not include a mine or quarry lagoon which is a tip<sup>1</sup>; nor does it include a canal or inland navigation, although the Act applies to a reservoir notwithstanding that it may form part of a watercourse or be used for navigation<sup>2</sup>.

A reservoir is a 'raised reservoir' if it is designed to hold, or is capable of holding, water above the natural level of the land<sup>3</sup> adjoining the reservoir<sup>4</sup>.

A reservoir is a 'large raised reservoir' if it is designed to hold, or is capable of holding, more than 25,000 cubic metres of water above that level<sup>5</sup>.

The provision made by the Reservoirs Act 1975 in relation to reservoirs extends, unless otherwise stated, to any place where water is artificially retained to form or enlarge a lake or loch, whether or not use is intended to be made of the water<sup>6</sup>; and the provision made in relation to large raised reservoirs extends both to those constructed under statutory powers and those not so constructed<sup>7</sup>.

1 Reservoirs Act 1975 s 1(1), (6), Sch 1. 'Tip' means a tip within the meaning of the Mines and Quarries (Tips) Act 1969 (see MINES, MINERALS AND QUARRIES vol 31 (2003 Reissue) PARA 541): see the Reservoirs Act 1975 s 1(1).

279. Registration of large raised reservoirs.

It is the duty of the Environment Agency, in its capacity as the relevant authority for England and Wales<sup>1</sup>, to establish and maintain for its area<sup>2</sup> a register showing the large raised reservoirs<sup>3</sup> situated wholly or partly in the area and giving prescribed<sup>4</sup> information about each of them<sup>5</sup>. The register and copies of it or a prescribed part of it must be kept at such place or places as may be prescribed<sup>6</sup>, and must be available for inspection at all reasonable times by any person<sup>7</sup>. Where a large raised reservoir is discontinued it must be removed from the register<sup>8</sup>.

1 The relevant authority for purposes of the Reservoirs Act 1975, in England and Wales, is the Environment Agency: see the Reservoirs Act 1975 s 2(1) (amended by the Water Act 2003 s 74(1)(a), (e)). As to the Environment Agency see PARA 17. As to the meaning of 'England' see PARA 19 note 8. As to the meaning of 'Wales' see PARA 16 note 2. In Scotland, the relevant authority is those councils constituted under the Local Government etc (Scotland) Act 1994 s 2: see the Reservoirs Act 1975 s 2(1) (amended by the Local Government etc (Scotland) Act 1994 s 180(1), Sch 13 para 98).

2 The 'area' of the Environment Agency, in its capacity as a relevant authority for purposes of the Reservoirs Act 1975, is the whole of England and Wales: s 1(4A) (added by the Water Act 2003 s 74(1)(c)).

3 As to the meaning of 'large raised reservoir' see PARA 278.

4 The Secretary of State or, in relation to Wales, the Welsh Ministers, may by statutory instrument make regulations for prescribing anything which is to be prescribed under the Reservoirs Act 1975; and 'prescribed' means prescribed by regulations so made: s 5, Sch 1. As to the Secretary of State see PARA 15 note 1. The functions of the Secretary of State under the Reservoirs Act 1975 s 5, so far as exercisable in relation to Wales, were transferred to the National Assembly for Wales: see the National Assembly for Wales (Transfer of Functions) Order 1999, SI 1999/672, art 2, Sch 1. These functions are now vested in the Welsh Ministers: see the Government of Wales Act 2006 s 162(1), Sch 11 para 30. As to the Welsh Ministers see PARA 16 note 5. As to the power of the Secretary of State to intervene in relation to functions exercisable by the Welsh Ministers where any particular case might have a serious adverse impact on water resources, water supply, or the quality of water in England see PARA 16.

The prescribed information to be given about large raised reservoirs in any register so kept by a relevant authority is the information set out in the Reservoirs Act 1975 (Registers, Reports and Records) Regulations 1985, SI 1985/177, reg 3(1), Sch 1, ie: (1) the name and situation of the reservoir; (2) its national grid reference; (3) the name and address of the undertakers; (4) the name and address of the enforcement authority, if any; (5) a summary of the contents of all certificates or reports under the Reservoirs Act 1975, or the Reservoirs (Safety Provisions) Act 1930 (repealed), including (a) the name and address of the engineer giving the certificate or making the report; (b) the section of whichever Act the certificate is given under or report made; (c) the date of the latest inspection made under the 1930 Act; (d) where no final certificate was given under that Act because the construction or alteration of the reservoir was completed before the commencement of the 1930 Act, a statement of that fact; and (6) the following information, if it is revealed by any certificate or report or is otherwise known to the authority: (a) the category of the reservoir (ie whether impounding or non-impounding); (b) the year(s) in which the dam(s) was or were completed; (c) the construction of the dam(s) ie whether constructed of earth, rockfill, gravity, buttress or by other means; (d) the maximum height of the dam(s) in metres measured from the lowest adjacent natural ground level to the top, excluding the height of the wave wall; (e) the capacity of the reservoir above the lowest natural ground level adjacent to it (in cubic metres) to top water level; (f) the water surface area of the reservoir at top water level, in square metres or square kilometres: Reservoirs Act 1975 (Registers, Reports and Records) Regulations 1985, SI 1985/177, Sch 1 items 1-6. The following additional information is prescribed only in the case of a reservoir for which the relevant authority is the enforcement authority or undertaker: (i) the name and business address of the supervising engineer or, if the reservoir is under the supervision of a construction engineer, of that engineer; (ii) the date when the next inspection is due under the Reservoirs Act 1975 or any date recommended for the next inspection thereunder by the supervising or inspecting engineer; (iii) particulars of any appointment made by the enforcement authority under s 15 (see PARA 293); and (iv) particulars of any measures taken by the enforcement authority under s 16 (see PARA 292), including the date on which they were taken: Reservoirs Act 1975 (Registers, Reports and Records) Regulations 1985, SI 1985/177, reg 3(1) proviso, Sch 1 items 7-10. As to the meaning of 'enforcement authority' see PARA 280 note 6.

5 Reservoirs Act 1975 s 2(2) (s 2(2) amended by the Water Act 2003 s 74(1)(b)). If it appears to the Secretary of State or, in relation to Wales, to the Welsh Ministers, that the inclusion of any information in the register maintained under the Reservoirs Act 1975 s 2(2) by the Agency would be contrary to the interests of national security, he or they may direct the Agency not to include that information in the register: s 2(2A) (added by the Water Act 2003 s 78(1)). Information as to the register is available on the Environment Agency website at www.environment-agency.gov.uk.

6 Reservoirs Act 1975 s 2(2)(a) (as amended: see note 5). The register must be kept at the principal office of the Agency: see the Reservoirs Act 1975 (Registers, Reports and Records) Regulations 1985, SI 1985/177, reg 3(2).

7 Reservoirs Act 1975 s 2(2)(b). As to the meaning of 'person' see PARA 13 note 29. As to the availability of environmental information see also PARAS 680-681.

8 See the Reservoirs Act 1975 s 13(3); and PARA 290.

Halsbury's Laws of England/WATER AND WATERWAYS (VOLUME 100 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-452; VOLUME 101 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 453-851)/5. WATER RESOURCES/(5) RESERVOIRS/(i) In general/280. Enforcement.

280. Enforcement.

It is for the Environment Agency, in its capacity as the relevant authority<sup>1</sup> in whose area<sup>2</sup> a reservoir<sup>3</sup> is situated, if not itself the undertaker<sup>4</sup> to secure that the undertakers observe and comply with the requirements of the Reservoirs Act 1975<sup>5</sup>. In this context, the Environment Agency is known as the 'enforcement authority'<sup>6</sup>.

The Agency must, at such intervals as may be prescribed<sup>7</sup>, make a report to the Secretary of State or, in relation to Wales, to the Welsh Ministers<sup>8</sup>, giving the prescribed information as to the steps taken by it as enforcement authority, or as undertaker, to secure that the requirements of the Act are observed and complied with<sup>9</sup>. If it appears to the Secretary of State or, where appropriate, the Welsh Ministers that he or they should do so, he or they may cause an inquiry to be held into the question whether the Agency has failed to perform any of its statutory functions relating to reservoirs in a case where it ought to have performed them<sup>10</sup>. If the Secretary of State or, as the case may be, the Welsh Ministers are satisfied after such an inquiry, or without such an inquiry, that the Agency has failed to perform those functions in such a case, he or they may make an order declaring the Agency to be in default and directing it to perform specified functions in a specified manner and within a specified time<sup>11</sup>. The order may be varied or revoked by a further order<sup>12</sup>.

1 As to the relevant authority see PARA 279 note 1. As to the Environment Agency see PARA 17. Information as to the Agency as enforcement authority is available on its website at www.environment-agency.gov.uk.

2 As to the meaning of 'area' see PARA 279 note 2.

3 As to the meaning of 'reservoir' see PARA 278.

4 In relation to any reservoir, 'undertakers' means: (1) in the case of a reservoir that is or, when constructed is to be, managed and operated by the Environment Agency or a water undertaker, that Agency or undertaker; and (2) in any other case (a) if the reservoir is used or intended to be used for the purposes of any undertaking, the persons for the time being carrying on that undertaking; and (b) if it is not so used or intended to be used, the owners or lessees of the reservoir: Reservoirs Act 1975 s 1(4), (6), Sch 1 (s 1(4) amended by the Water Act 1989 s 190(1), Sch 25 para 49; SI 1996/593). In relation to an abandoned reservoir, references to the undertakers have effect as at the time of abandonment: see the Reservoirs Act 1975 ss 14(4), 16(7), 17(3); and PARAS 291, 292, 294. As to the meaning of 'water undertaker' see PARA 137 note 4. As to the meaning of 'person' see PARA 13 note 29.

5 Reservoirs Act 1975 s 2(3) (ss 2, 3 amended by the Water Act 2003 s 74(1)(b)).

6 'Enforcement authority' means, in relation to a reservoir, the Environment Agency as the relevant authority charged under the Reservoirs Act 1975 s 2(3) (see the text to notes 1-5) with securing that the undertakers observe and comply with the requirements of the Act (and, where the context so requires, includes the Agency if it would be so charged if the reservoir were a large raised reservoir); and accordingly the provisions of the Act relating to the enforcement authority for a reservoir do not apply in the case of a reservoir if the Agency is the undertaker and the reservoir is situated wholly in the area of the Agency: see s 2(6) (as amended: see note 5). In relation to an abandoned reservoir, references to the enforcement authority have effect as at the time of abandonment: see ss 14(4), 16(7), 17(3). As to the meaning of 'large raised reservoir' see PARA 278.

Where a reservoir extends into the areas of more than one relevant authority, then unless one of those authorities is the undertaker, the enforcement authority is to be such one of them as is agreed between them or, in default of agreement, determined by the Secretary of State: s 2(4) (as so amended). Where one of those authorities is the undertaker, then the provisions relating to the enforcement authority apply as if the reservoir did not extend into the area of that one of the authorities: s 2(5) (as so amended). Such overlap of areas is now only possible where the whole or part of a reservoir is in Scotland: see PARA 279 note 1. As to the Secretary of State see PARA 15 note 1.

7 As to the meaning of 'prescribed' see PARA 279 note 4. Reports must be made at intervals of two years (the first such report having to be made on 1 April 1987): see the Reservoirs Act 1975 (Registers, Reports and Records) Regulations 1985, SI 1985/177, reg 4(1).

8 The functions of the Secretary of State under the Reservoirs Act 1975 s 3, so far as exercisable in relation to Wales, were transferred to the National Assembly for Wales: see the National Assembly for Wales (Transfer of Functions) Order 1999, SI 1999/672, art 2, Sch 1. These functions are now vested in the Welsh Ministers: see the Government of Wales Act 2006 s 162(1), Sch 11 para 30. As to the meaning of 'Wales' see PARA 16 note 2. As to the Welsh Ministers see PARA 16 note 5. As to the power of the Secretary of State to intervene in relation to functions exercisable by the Welsh Ministers where any particular case might have a serious adverse impact on water resources, water supply, or the quality of water in England see PARA 16.

9 Reservoirs Act 1975 s 3(1) (as amended: see note 5). The prescribed information which must be given in such reports is: (1) information as to the steps (if any) that the Agency as an enforcement authority has taken in respect of any reservoir to secure that undertakers observe and comply with the requirements of the Reservoirs Act 1975; and (2) a statement whether as undertaker for any reservoir situated wholly in its area, it has been required by any section of that Act to take steps to observe and comply therewith and a statement as to any steps that have been taken: Reservoirs Act 1975 (Registers, Reports and Records) Regulations 1985, SI 1985/177, reg 4(2)(a), (b). The information must be accompanied by a statement of the number of reservoirs for which the Agency is enforcement authority and the number of reservoirs wholly in its area for which it is the undertaker: reg 4(2).

Halsbury's Laws of England/WATER AND WATERWAYS (VOLUME 100 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 1-452; VOLUME 101 (2009) 5TH EDITION, PARAS 453-851)/5. WATER RESOURCES/(5) RESERVOIRS/(i) In general/281. Qualification of civil engineers.

281. Qualification of civil engineers.

There must be a panel of civil engineers for the purposes of the Reservoirs Act 1975, or such number of different panels for different purposes of that Act or for different classes of reservoirs<sup>1</sup> as, after consultation<sup>2</sup>, the Secretary of State or, in relation to Wales, the Welsh Ministers may from time to time determine<sup>3</sup>. Any reference in the Reservoirs Act 1975 to a 'qualified civil engineer' is a reference to a civil engineer who is a member of a panel so constituted or, if there is more than one such panel, a member of the appropriate panel<sup>4</sup>.

Any civil engineer may apply in the prescribed manner to be placed on a panel; and if the application is accompanied by the prescribed fee (if any) and the Secretary of State or, where appropriate, the Welsh Ministers are satisfied after consultation that the applicant is qualified and fit to be placed on that panel, the Secretary of State or, as the case may be, the Welsh Ministers must appoint him to be a member of the panel<sup>5</sup>. The appointment is for a term of five years but an engineer whose appointment expires may be reappointed for a further term<sup>6</sup>. Any appointment to a panel lapses on the abolition or alteration of that panel, but:

- 542 (1) before abolishing or altering any panel, the Secretary of State or, as the case may be, the Welsh Ministers must give to the engineers for the time being on the panel such notice as the Secretary of State or Welsh Ministers consider reasonable to allow them to apply for appointment to any other panel constituted or to be constituted wholly or partly for the same purposes<sup>7</sup>; and
- 543 (2) a person who is appointed to act for any purpose of the Reservoirs Act 1975 (otherwise than as a supervising engineer<sup>8</sup>) at a time when he is a qualified civil engineer for that purpose may, on so ceasing to be a member of the appropriate panel, continue to act for not more than four years by virtue of that appointment and is a qualified engineer for the purpose<sup>9</sup>.

The Secretary of State or, where appropriate, the Welsh Ministers may remove an engineer from any panel, or direct that he is no longer qualified to act by virtue of head (2) above, if the Secretary of State or the Welsh Ministers are satisfied after consultation that the engineer is not fit to remain on the panel or not fit so to act<sup>10</sup>.

1 As to the meaning of 'reservoir' see PARA 278.

2 References in the Reservoirs Act 1975 s 4 to 'consultation' by the Secretary of State or, as the case may be, the Welsh Ministers are references to consultation with the President of the Institution of Civil Engineers or, if that institution appoints a committee for the relevant purpose, with that committee: s 4(6). The Secretary of State or, as appropriate, the Welsh Ministers, may reimburse to the institution any expenses it incurs for these purposes: s 4(7). If at any time the Institution of Civil Engineers ceases to exist, references to that institution or its President are to have effect as references to the prescribed institution or head of the prescribed institution: s 4(9). As to the meaning of 'prescribed' see PARA 279 note 4. At the date at which this volume states the law no such provision had been made. As to the exercise of the duty to consult see JUDICIAL REVIEW vol 61 (2010) PARA 627.

The functions of the Secretary of State under the Reservoirs Act 1975 s 4, so far as exercisable in relation to Wales, were transferred to the National Assembly for Wales: see the National Assembly for Wales (Transfer of Functions) Order 1999, SI 1999/672, art 2, Sch 1. These functions are now vested in the Welsh Ministers: see the Government of Wales Act 2006 s 162(1), Sch 11 para 30. As to the Secretary of State see PARA 15 note 1. As to the meaning of 'Wales' see PARA 16 note 2. As to the Welsh Ministers see PARA 16 note 5. As to the power of the Secretary of State to intervene in relation to functions exercisable by the Welsh Ministers where any particular case might have a serious adverse impact on water resources, water supply, or the quality of water in England see PARA 16.

3 Reservoirs Act 1975 s 4(1). Four panels ('existing panels') have been established as a result of a determination of the Secretary of State under s 4(1), ie the Supervising Engineers Panel, the All Reservoirs Panel, the Non-impounding Reservoirs Panel, and the Service Reservoirs Panel: see the Reservoirs (Panels of Civil Engineers) (Applications and Fees) Regulations 1992, SI 1992/1527, reg 1(2). Information as to panel engineers is available on the Environment Agency website at www.environment-agency.gov.uk.

4 Reservoirs Act 1975 ss 1(6), 4(1), Sch 1.

5 Reservoirs Act 1975 s 4(2). An application by a civil engineer to be appointed or reappointed to an existing panel must be made to the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs or, as the case may be, the Welsh Ministers in writing, with the prescribed information, the prescribed fee, and, in the case of a first appointment, a reference from a civil engineer as to the suitability of the applicant for appointment: Reservoirs (Panels of Civil Engineers) (Applications and Fees) Regulations 1992, SI 1992/1527, reg 2(1) (reg 2 amended by SI 2005/143); National Assembly for Wales (Transfer of Functions) Order 1999, SI 1999/672, art 3, Sch 1; Government of Wales Act 2006 Sch 11 para 32. The prescribed fee is £385: Reservoirs (Panels of Civil Engineers) (Applications and Fees) Regulations 1992, SI 1992/1527, reg 2(2) (as so amended). The prescribed information is: (1) the applicant's full name, address and date of birth; (2) where the application is for reappointment, the panel to which his appointment relates and the date on which it took effect; (3) the relevant qualifications of the applicant; (4) his membership of professional institutions; (5) particulars of his present employment; and (6) particulars of all work carried out by him in relation to reservoirs, with details of the reservoirs in connection with whose design, construction, maintenance or repair the applicant has been employed, including their type, capacity and main dimensions or, where the application is for reappointment, particulars of all such work carried out since his appointment to the panel: reg 2(1), Schedule.

(ii) New, Enlarged and Restored Reservoirs

282. Construction or enlargement of reservoirs.

No large raised reservoir<sup>1</sup> may be constructed (whether as a new reservoir or by the alteration of an existing reservoir that is not a large raised reservoir), or may be altered so as to increase its capacity, unless a qualified civil engineer<sup>2</sup> (the 'construction engineer') is employed to design and supervise the construction<sup>3</sup> or alteration<sup>4</sup>.

Where a large raised reservoir is constructed as a new reservoir, it may not be used for the storage of water, or be filled wholly or partially with water, otherwise than in accordance with the certificate<sup>5</sup> of the construction engineer<sup>6</sup>. Where such a reservoir is constructed by the alteration of an existing reservoir that is not a large raised reservoir, the addition to the reservoir<sup>7</sup> may not be used for the storage of water, or be filled wholly or partially with water, otherwise than in accordance with the certificate of the construction engineer responsible for the construction of the reservoir<sup>8</sup>. Where a large raised reservoir is altered so as to increase its capacity, then from the time when the construction engineer responsible for the alteration gives any certificate for the reservoir, it may not be used for the storage of water, or be filled wholly or partially with water, otherwise than in accordance with the certificate of that construction engineer<sup>9</sup>.

Where the construction or alteration of a reservoir is so required to be supervised by a construction engineer, the reservoir must be under his supervision until he gives his final certificate for it<sup>10</sup>.

Failure to comply with these provisions is an offence<sup>11</sup>.

1 As to the meanings of 'reservoir' and 'large raised reservoir' see PARA 278.

2 As to the meaning of 'qualified civil engineer' see PARA 281.

3 Where the use of a reservoir as a reservoir has been abandoned and the reservoir is to be brought back into use after being altered so as to increase its capacity, that is treated for the purposes of the Reservoirs Act 1975 as the construction of a new reservoir: s 6(1). As to the re-use of abandoned reservoirs see PARA 285.

4 Reservoirs Act 1975 s 6(1). As to the necessary notice to the relevant authority see s 21(1); and PARA 299. As to the enforcement see s 8; and PARA 284. The construction or alteration of a reservoir may require an environmental impact assessment (see PARA 10) and/or an appropriate assessment pursuant to the Habitats Directive (see PARA 11).

5 As to certificates see PARAS 283, 298.

6 Reservoirs Act 1975 s 6(2). In the event of any alteration to the reservoir it may not be so used except in accordance with s 6(4) (see the text to note 9): see s 6(2).

7 References to an addition to a reservoir refer to that part of the reservoir which, as a result of alterations to it, provides or will provide additional capacity: Reservoirs Act 1975 s 6(6), Sch 1.

8 Reservoirs Act 1975 s 6(3). In the event of any alteration to the reservoir it may not be so used except in accordance with s 6(4) (see the text to note 9): see s 6(3).

9 Reservoirs Act 1975 s 6(4). In the event of any further alteration to the reservoir it may not be so used except in accordance with s 6(4) as it applies on that alteration: see s 6(4).

283. Preliminary, interim and final certificates of construction engineers.

As soon as the construction engineer<sup>1</sup> responsible for any reservoir<sup>2</sup> or addition to a reservoir<sup>3</sup> considers that the construction<sup>4</sup> or addition has reached a stage at which the reservoir or addition can properly be filled wholly or partially with water, he must give a certificate (the 'preliminary certificate') specifying the level up to which, and the conditions (if any) subject to which, it may be so filled<sup>5</sup>. Where the construction engineer responsible for an addition to a large raised reservoir<sup>6</sup> considers at any time during the carrying out of the alteration to the reservoir that the reservoir ought not to be filled with water up to the level, or subject to the conditions, that would otherwise be lawful, he may give a certificate (an 'interim certificate') specifying the level up to which it may be filled until the issue of a preliminary certificate and the conditions (if any) subject to which it may be so filled<sup>7</sup>.

If, at the end of three years after a preliminary certificate is first issued for a reservoir or addition to a reservoir, or at any time thereafter, the construction engineer is satisfied that the reservoir or, as the case may be, the reservoir with the addition is sound and satisfactory and may safely be used for the storage of water, he must give a certificate (the 'final certificate')<sup>8</sup> to that effect, specifying the level up to which, and the conditions (if any) subject to which, water may be so stored<sup>9</sup>. The construction engineer giving a final certificate for a reservoir must consider the matters (if any) that need to be watched by a supervising engineer<sup>10</sup> during the period before there is a statutory inspection<sup>11</sup> of the reservoir, and must include in an annex to the certificate a note of any such matters<sup>12</sup>. As soon as practicable after the completion of the works and in any event not later than the giving of the final certificate, the construction engineer for any reservoir or addition to a reservoir must also give a certificate that the works have been efficiently executed in accordance with the drawings and descriptions annexed to the certificate and must annex to the certificate detailed drawings and descriptions giving full information of the works actually constructed<sup>13</sup>.

If at the end of five years after a preliminary certificate is first issued for a reservoir or addition to a reservoir the construction engineer has not issued his final certificate, he must give the undertakers<sup>14</sup> a written<sup>15</sup> explanation of his reasons for deferring its issue<sup>16</sup>.

The construction engineer may from time to time supersede a preliminary certificate by the issue of a further preliminary certificate varying the previous certificate, whether as to water level or as to conditions: s 7(1). or as to conditions: s 7(2). For the prescribed form of certificate see the Reservoirs Act 1975 (Certificates, Reports and Prescribed Information) Regulations 1986, SI 1986/468, reg 3(1), (2)(b), Sch 1.

WATER RESOURCES/(5) RESERVOIRS/(ii) New, Enlarged and Restored Reservoirs/284. Powers of enforcement authority in event of non-compliance with statutory requirements.

Where it appears to the Environment Agency, in its capacity as the enforcement authority<sup>1</sup>, either:

- 544 (1) that a large raised reservoir<sup>2</sup> is being constructed<sup>3</sup>, whether as a new reservoir or by the alteration of an existing reservoir that is not a large raised reservoir, or is being altered so as to increase its capacity<sup>4</sup>; or
- 545 (2) that a large raised reservoir has been so constructed or altered and no final certificate<sup>5</sup> has yet been given for the reservoir on the construction or alteration<sup>6</sup>, but that no qualified civil engineer<sup>7</sup> is responsible for the reservoir or addition<sup>8</sup> as construction engineer<sup>9</sup>, the Agency may by written notice served<sup>10</sup> on the undertakers<sup>11</sup> require them, within 28 days after the date when the notice is served, to appoint a qualified civil engineer, unless an appointment has already been made, and in either case to notify the Agency of the appointment<sup>12</sup>.

An engineer appointed for these purposes must be appointed to inspect the reservoir and make a report<sup>13</sup> on the construction or alteration, and to supervise the reservoir until he gives a final certificate for it<sup>14</sup>. Where it appears to the Agency that the report of an engineer so acting includes a recommendation as to measures to be taken in the interests of safety that has not been carried into effect as required by these provisions, the Agency may by written notice served on the undertakers require them to carry the recommendation into effect within a time specified<sup>15</sup> in the notice<sup>16</sup>.

An engineer appointed for these purposes has the same powers and duties in relation to the giving of preliminary certificates, interim certificates<sup>17</sup> and final certificates as if he were the construction engineer responsible for the reservoir or the addition to it<sup>18</sup>; but a final certificate so given:

- 546 (a) may be given less than three years after the first issue of a preliminary certificate, or without the previous issue of a preliminary certificate, if the engineer is satisfied that the reservoir or addition has for a period of three years or more been filled with water up to the level that is specified in the preliminary certificate or, if no preliminary certificate has been issued, up to the level that is specified in the final certificate, and that the reservoir or, as the case may be, the reservoir with the addition is sound and satisfactory and may safely be used for the storage of water<sup>19</sup>;
- 547 (b) is not required, unless it is given by virtue of head (a) above, to state that the engineer is satisfied that the reservoir or the reservoir with the addition is sound and satisfactory; but if it does not do so and the engineer's report includes any recommendations as to measures to be taken in the interests of safety, the certificate must instead state that those recommendations have been carried into effect<sup>20</sup>.

An engineer acting under these provisions must, as soon as practicable after the completion of the works and in any event not later than the giving of the final certificate, give an additional certificate that, so far as he has been able to ascertain, the works have been efficiently executed in accordance with the drawings and descriptions annexed to that additional certificate, and must annex to that additional certificate detailed drawings and descriptions giving such information as he can of the works actually constructed<sup>21</sup>.

285. Re-use of abandoned reservoirs.

Where the use of a large raised reservoir<sup>1</sup> as a reservoir has been abandoned<sup>2</sup>, the reservoir may not again be used as a reservoir unless a qualified civil engineer<sup>3</sup> has been employed to inspect the reservoir and make a report<sup>4</sup> on it, and to supervise it until he gives a final certificate<sup>5</sup> for it<sup>6</sup>. Where a large raised reservoir is brought back into use as a reservoir after that use has been abandoned, it may not be used for the storage of water, or be filled wholly or partially with water, otherwise than in accordance with the engineer's certificate<sup>7</sup>.

An engineer acting under these provisions has the same powers and duties in relation to the giving of preliminary certificates<sup>8</sup> and final certificates as if he were the construction engineer<sup>9</sup> responsible on the construction<sup>10</sup> of the reservoir<sup>11</sup>. A final certificate so given is not, however, required to state that the engineer is satisfied that the reservoir is sound and satisfactory; but if it does not do so and the engineer's report includes any recommendations as to measures to be taken in the interests of safety, the certificate must instead state that those recommendations have been carried into effect<sup>12</sup>.

Nothing in these provisions applies to a reservoir if, before it is brought back into use, either it is altered in such a manner as is to be treated for the purposes of the Reservoirs Act 1975 as the construction of a new reservoir<sup>13</sup>, or is altered under the supervision of a qualified civil engineer so as not to be a large raised reservoir when brought back into use<sup>14</sup>.

Where it appears to the Environment Agency in its capacity as the enforcement authority<sup>15</sup>:

548 (1) that a large raised reservoir has been brought back into use as a reservoir after that use had been abandoned but that the required report has not been obtained<sup>16</sup>; or

549 (2) that such a report includes a recommendation as to measures to be taken in the interests of safety that has not been carried into effect as required<sup>17</sup>, the Agency may by written notice served<sup>18</sup> on the undertakers<sup>19</sup> require them, within 28 days after the date when the notice is served, to appoint a qualified civil engineer for these purposes, unless an appointment has already been made, and in either case to notify the Agency of the appointment; or, as the case may be, require them to carry the recommendation into effect within a specified time<sup>20</sup>.

Failure to comply with these provisions is an offence<sup>21</sup>.

(iii) Inspection, Monitoring and Supervision

286. Periodical inspection of large raised reservoirs.

The undertakers<sup>1</sup> must have any large raised reservoir<sup>2</sup> inspected from time to time by an independent<sup>3</sup> qualified civil engineer<sup>4</sup> (the 'inspecting engineer'), and obtain from him a report of the result of his inspection<sup>5</sup>. Unless it is at the time under the supervision of a construction engineer<sup>6</sup> or of an engineer acting as such<sup>7</sup>, a large raised reservoir must be so inspected:

- 550 (1) within two years at most from the date of any final certificate<sup>8</sup> for the reservoir given by the construction engineer responsible for the construction<sup>9</sup> of the reservoir or for any alteration to it<sup>10</sup>;
- 551 (2) as soon as practicable after the carrying out of any alterations to the reservoir which do not increase its capacity but are such as might affect its safety and which have not been designed and supervised by a qualified civil engineer<sup>11</sup>;
- 552 (3) at any time when the supervising engineer so recommends<sup>12</sup>;
- 553 (4) within ten years at most from the last inspection or within any lesser interval that may have been recommended in the report of the inspecting engineer on the last inspection<sup>13</sup>.

As soon as practicable after such an inspection, the inspecting engineer must make a report of the result of the inspection, including in it any recommendations he sees fit to make as to the time of the next inspection, or as to measures that should be taken in the interests of safety<sup>14</sup>. He must consider the matters, if any, that need to be watched by the supervising engineer during the period before the next inspection of the reservoir and must include in his report a note of any such matters<sup>15</sup>. He must also give a certificate stating that the report does, or does not, include recommendations as to measures to be taken in the interests of safety and, if it includes a recommendation as to the time of the next inspection, stating also the period within which he recommends the inspection should be made<sup>16</sup>.

Where an inspecting engineer includes in his report any recommendation as to measures to be taken in the interests of safety, then subject to any reference of the matter to a referee<sup>17</sup>, the undertakers must as soon as practicable carry the recommendation into effect under the supervision of a qualified civil engineer<sup>18</sup>; and that engineer must give a certificate, as soon as he is satisfied that it is so, that the recommendation has been carried into effect<sup>19</sup>.

Where it appears to the Environment Agency in its capacity as the enforcement authority<sup>20</sup>, in the case of any large raised reservoir:

- 554 (a) that an inspection and a report on it have not been made as so required<sup>21</sup>; or
- 555 (b) that the latest report of the inspecting engineer includes a recommendation as to measures to be taken in the interests of safety that has not been carried into effect as so required<sup>22</sup>, the Agency may by written notice served<sup>23</sup> on the undertakers require them, within 28 days after the date when the notice is served, to appoint a qualified civil engineer to carry out an inspection, unless an appointment has already been made, and in either case to notify the Agency of the appointment; or, as the case may be, require them to carry the recommendation into effect within a specified time<sup>24</sup>.

Failure to comply with these provisions is an offence<sup>25</sup>.

2 As to the meanings of 'reservoir' and 'large raised reservoir' see PARA 278.

3 'Independent', when used of a civil engineer in relation to a reservoir, means: (1) that he is not in the employment of the undertakers otherwise than in a consultant capacity (Reservoirs Act 1975 s 10(9)(a)); and (2) that he was not the engineer responsible for the reservoir or any addition to it as construction engineer, nor is he connected with any such engineer as his partner, employer, employee or fellow employee in a civil engineering business (s 10(9)(b)). This reference to a construction engineer includes an engineer acting under s 8 (see PARA 284) or s 9 (see PARA 285): s 10(9). As to the construction engineer see PARA 282.

287. Supervision of large raised reservoirs.

At all times when a large raised reservoir<sup>1</sup> is not under the supervision of a construction engineer<sup>2</sup>, a qualified civil engineer<sup>3</sup> (the 'supervising engineer') must be employed to supervise the reservoir and keep the undertakers<sup>4</sup> advised of its behaviour in any respect that might affect safety, to watch the observance of and compliance with certain statutory provisions<sup>5</sup> and to draw the undertakers' attention to any breach of those provisions<sup>6</sup>. It is the supervising engineer's duty, so long as any matters are noted as matters that need to be watched by him in any annex to the final certificate<sup>7</sup> for the reservoir or in the latest report of an inspecting engineer<sup>8</sup>, to pay attention in particular to those matters and to give the undertakers, at least once a year, a written<sup>9</sup> statement of the action he has taken to do so<sup>10</sup>. He must also recommend to the undertakers that the reservoir be inspected<sup>11</sup> if at any time he thinks that such an inspection is called for<sup>12</sup>.

Where it appears to the Environment Agency, in its capacity as the enforcement authority<sup>13</sup>, that a large raised reservoir is not for the time being under the supervision either of a construction engineer or of a supervising engineer, the Agency may by written notice served<sup>14</sup> on the undertakers require them, within 28 days after the date the notice is served, to appoint a supervising engineer and to notify the Agency of the appointment or, if the reservoir is at that date under the supervision of a construction engineer or of a supervising engineer, to notify the Agency of that fact<sup>15</sup>.

288. Flood plans in relation to reservoirs.

- 556 (1) specify the matters to be included in the flood plan<sup>7</sup>;
- 557 (2) require the flood plan to be prepared in accordance with such methods of technical or other analysis as may be specified by the Environment Agency<sup>8</sup>;
- 558 (3) require the flood plan, or any information about the matters contained in it, to be given to the Environment Agency at such time or times as may be directed by that Agency or by the Secretary of State or, as the case may be, the Welsh Ministers<sup>9</sup>;
- 559 (4) require a copy of the flood plan to be sent to such persons<sup>10</sup> as may be specified in the direction<sup>11</sup>;
- 560 (5) require publication of the flood plan, in such manner as may be specified in the direction, for the purpose of bringing the matters contained in the flood plan to the attention of persons likely to be interested<sup>12</sup>.

Before giving such a direction the Secretary of State or the Welsh Ministers must consult<sup>13</sup>: (a) the undertakers concerned<sup>14</sup>; (b) the Environment Agency<sup>15</sup>; (c) if the reservoir concerned is in England, the county council, metropolitan district council or London borough council in whose area the reservoir is situated<sup>16</sup>; (d) if the reservoir concerned is in Wales, the county council or county borough council in whose area the reservoir is situated<sup>17</sup>; (e) such persons appearing to the Secretary of State or the Welsh Ministers to represent the emergency services in the area where the reservoir is situated<sup>18</sup>; and (f) such other persons (if any) as the Secretary of State or, as the case may be, the Welsh Ministers consider appropriate<sup>19</sup>.

In relation to any reservoir (whether a large raised reservoir or not, as the case may be) the Secretary of State or, where appropriate, the Welsh Ministers may, by written notice served on the undertakers, require them not to publish, or not to publish except as specified in the notice a flood plan prepared by them pursuant to a notice given under the above provisions<sup>20</sup>, or any corresponding plan prepared by them other than pursuant to such a notice<sup>21</sup>. Such a notice may also require the undertakers to withhold access to any such plan from any person except as specified in the notice<sup>22</sup>.

1 As to the Secretary of State see PARA 15 note 1.

2 The functions of the Secretary of State under the Reservoirs Act 1975 s 12A (except s 12A(4): see note 6) and s 12B, so far as exercisable in relation to Wales, were transferred to the National Assembly for Wales: see the National Assembly for Wales (Transfer of Functions) Order 1999, SI 1999/672, art 2, Sch 1 (amended by the Water Act 2003 s 100(1)). If no direction has been given by the Welsh Ministers under s 12A(1) in relation to a reservoir in Wales and it appears to the Secretary of State that it is necessary or expedient in the interests of public safety in England that such a direction be given, he may give such a direction in relation to that reservoir: s 12A(4) (as so added). A flood plan may require strategic environmental assessment (see PARA 9) and/or an appropriate assessment pursuant to the Habitats Directive (see PARA 11). ## 289. Monitoring of reservoirs.

For every large raised reservoir<sup>1</sup> the undertakers<sup>2</sup> must keep a record in the prescribed form<sup>3</sup> of:

- 561 (1) water levels and depth of water, including the flow of water over the waste weir or overflow<sup>4</sup>;
- 562 (2) leakages, settlements of walls or other works, and repairs<sup>5</sup>; and
- 563 (3) such other matters as may be prescribed<sup>6</sup>, and must install and maintain the instruments needed to provide the information to be recorded<sup>7</sup>. The record to be kept for a reservoir under these provisions must give such information as may be prescribed of any of the matters to be included in the record<sup>8</sup> and must give it at such intervals and in such manner as may from time to time be required by any directions of the construction engineer<sup>9</sup> or inspecting engineer<sup>10</sup>.
